

FACULTY OF HUMANITIES AND SOCIAL SCIENCES

Dr. Bob Burkinshaw, Dean

Purpose

The purpose of the Faculty of Humanities and Social Sciences is to produce compassionate and competent servant leaders through the development of cultural awareness, analytic powers, precise thought, research and communication skills, and religious knowledge, all embedded in the unique perspective on life and learning offered by a Christian worldview. While graduates from this Faculty are expected to enter many kinds of professions and assume various positions of leadership within society, they are also expected to cherish the abilities which make humans unique in God's creation, such as the capacities for speech, creativity, rationality, and knowledge of God. Faculty members desire that students become committed to fostering constructive relationships among people, regardless of religious, cultural, ethnic, geographic, physical, or other individual differences. They support students in their calling to assist others to live more meaningful, responsive, and responsible lives.

Perspective

This Faculty is committed to the view that a prerequisite to giving Christian leadership is a clear understanding of the biblical meaning of personhood, knowledge of the cultural, historical, and intellectual bases of society, and an ability to offer a Christian critique of same. Students are therefore presented with and exposed to influential literature, historical texts and interpretations thereof, leading religious ideas and methodologies, differing geographical regions, and competing philosophical, psychological, and political systems, all in an effort to educate them about culture. They are also taught to think biblically and Christianly in the discipline areas which examine these topics. The professors who teach in this Faculty are thoroughly Christian, well-educated, scholarly, committed to the value of knowledge, and dedicated to fostering the skills of analysis, research, and clear communication.

Programs

The Faculty offers Bachelor of Arts (Honours) degrees in Biblical Studies, English, History, International Studies, Political Studies, and Psychology; Bachelor of Arts degrees majoring in Biblical Studies, Christianity and Culture, English, Geography, History, Inter-Cultural Religious Studies, Philosophy, Political Studies, Psychology, Religious Studies, and the multidisciplinary areas of Environmental Studies, European Studies, Humanities, International Studies, Modern Languages, and Social Sciences; concentrations in Canadian Studies and Social Studies; concentrations and minors in any of the non-multidisciplinary subjects above plus French and Sociology; and minors in Missions and Spanish. The Human Services Program incorporates specializations in Psychology and Sociology as well as relevant practical experiences. A modest number of courses are also available in German, Greek, Hebrew, Latin, and Russian, and when student demand and instructor availability permit, Chinese and Japanese. Finally, the Faculty offers a Master of Arts degree in Humanities, with streams in English, Philosophy, and History; the Psychology Department offers a Master of Arts degree in Counselling Psychology; and the Religious Studies Department offers a Master of Arts degree in Biblical Studies. (See Faculty of Graduate Studies).

The programs offered include the following emphases:

Theoretical Foundations

Students are introduced to the basic assumptions underlying the discipline areas of this Faculty and are taught to evaluate these critically, from a Christian perspective.

Leadership

Students will develop their leadership abilities by increasing their understanding of how people function both individually and in groups and by applying leadership skills in relevant settings. They will be encouraged to develop confidence in articulating viewpoints with clarity and defending them with precision and rigour. An historical perspective is conveyed so that beliefs and values can be understood in their cultural context. Because Christians have a responsibility to serve and help their fellow humans, the content of the disciplines is integrated with Christian concern for one's neighbours and the attendant joy found in serving God and society. Students' study should equip them to channel the love of Christ in caring, people-helping service.

Career Preparation

Students are encouraged to combine their theoretical knowledge with practical and creative applications in life and society. The majors earned in this Faculty can lead directly to various careers, or they can prepare students for graduate or professional studies. Careers that graduates may pursue include business and industry, church or missions-related ministries, government service, law, the media, social service agencies, teaching, and writing or publishing.

Biblical Studies

Department of Religious Studies

Dr. Craig D. Allert, Chair

The Department of Religious Studies offers:

- Major in Religious Studies leading to a B.A. degree
- Major in Biblical Studies leading to a B.A. degree
- Honours program in Biblical Studies, leading to a B.A. (Honours) degree
- A concentration
- A minor.

Students in Biblical Studies will be challenged to obey the Bible's life-changing precepts—both personally and as part of the community of Christ—through application of biblical knowledge to culture and contemporary society. Students will be taught by a faculty of committed, well-educated, and responsible evangelical scholars who seek to model the essentials of a biblical worldview and lifestyle. As students mature in their studies, they will gain a deep understanding of the biblical text and/or the historic Christian faith. Biblical study should never be approached purely objectively. God is to be encountered, not just discussed; and the Scriptures are to be obeyed, not just read. As students grow in their ability to apply scholarly tools to the text, faculty will encourage them to ask, “How does the passage I’m studying apply to my own life?” The students’ maturing biblical comprehension will contribute to a deeper Christian understanding of their studies.

Note: All Religious Studies courses with a second digit of 0 to 5 may be regarded as biblical content courses.

Departmental Major in Religious Studies, B.A. Degree

This major provides a broad exposure to the various disciplines of religious studies: Biblical Studies, Christianity and Culture, and Inter-Cultural Religious Studies. This major offers excellent preparation for Christian ministry or further graduate studies.

The Honours major gives students the opportunity to expand their breadth and depth in Biblical Studies. This program should be particularly attractive to those considering graduate work in the field. It requires a B average for admission and the sustaining of a B average or 3.0 GPA in the major throughout the program. It also requires the same program as the basic major in Biblical Studies below, plus the following requirements: 12 additional sem. hrs. of upper level Biblical Studies courses (for a total of 54 sem. hrs. in the major and 134 sem. hrs. in total to graduate). The additional 12 sem. hrs. must include 6 sem. hrs. in Biblical Languages (for a total minimum of 12 sem. hrs.), 3 sem. hrs. in either RELS 449 or 456 (with thesis), and the remaining 3 sem. hrs. from upper level electives in Biblical Studies.

plus five electives chosen from the remaining Religious Studies (biblical content) courses.

Minor in Biblical Studies

The following specific requirements apply: Religious Studies (biblical content): 24 sem. hrs., including RELS 101, 102; and 300; plus any five additional biblical content Religious Studies electives, at least three of which must be 300 or 400 level.

Programs, Activities, and Facilities

Dead Sea Scrolls Institute – The Dead Sea Scrolls Institute at Trinity Western University promotes research in the Qumran scrolls, many of which have been made public only recently. Among them are the oldest manuscripts of the Old Testament and many Jewish documents that shed light on the context of Jesus and the early church. The Institute hosts regular symposia that share the fruits of this research with the general public. These proceedings are published in the Department's series, Studies in the Dead Sea Scrolls and Related Literature.

Holy Land Tours – Every other year the Department offers a tour of Israel, possibly including Egypt, Jordan, or Greece. Students can take the tour as part of "Biblical Archaeology" (RELS 350) to receive academic credit. This opportunity gives students a firsthand experience of sites and ancient texts related to the Bible. They will discover that being in the land of the Bible makes the Bible itself much more of a living document.

The Geneva Chair for Reformational Worldview Studies – The Geneva Society for Reformational Worldview Studies has endowed a special chair at Trinity Western University. The current appointee to the chair is Dr. Michael Goheen, Associate Professor of Religious and Worldview Studies. Dr. Goheen is involved in teaching courses in worldview studies as well as in researching how Christian worldview thinking can impact society.

The Geneva Society promotes a biblically inspired perspective on life and a worldview based on the story of God’s redemption of the world in Jesus Christ. The Society’s roots are in the Reformed Protestant tradition. Besides endowing a chair, the Society also organizes popular lectures for both students and the general public. These lectures address basic and contemporary questions that Christians face in today’s world. For more information, visit www.genevasociety.org.

Canadian Studies

Faculty of Humanities and Social Sciences

Dr. Bob Burkinshaw, Coordinator

The Faculty of Humanities and Social Sciences offers a concentration in Canadian Studies allowing students to obtain a broad background in Canadian studies from the perspectives of several academic disciplines.

This concentration requires 30 sem. hrs. of course work chosen from ECON 308; ENGL 217; 318; FREN 420; GEOG 230, 332; GEOG 391 (Canadian topic); HIST 135, 136; 332, 334, 335, 340, 348; 400 (Canadian topic), 435, 436, 440; POLS 234; 332, 334, 335, 340; 436, 440; SOCI 365, 380. At least 18 sem. hrs. of courses, involving a minimum of three disciplines, must be at the 300 or 400 level.

Christianity and Culture

Department of Religious Studies

Dr. Craig D. Allert, Chair (Pre-seminary program)

The Department of Religious Studies offers a major in Christianity and Culture leading to a B.A. degree as well as a concentration and a minor.

Christianity and Culture is a unique program for those preparing for Christian ministries or desiring a broad understanding of our contemporary society. An excellent preparation for seminary studies, the program has a strong interdisciplinary approach which seeks to give the student a broad understanding of the relationship of an evangelical Christian faith to Western culture — its institutions, values, problems, and lifestyles.

RELS 482	Historical Perspectives on Reformation and Post Reformation Thought (not offered every year)
RELS 490	Seminar: Christianity and the Natural Sciences (cf. NATS 490)

Note: Pre-seminary students should also select RELS 235, 236 (Introduction to New Testament Greek) in their program. These will count towards CHRC credit if taken by students in the major, concentration, or minor.

It is recommended that interested students take their electives in accordance with the guidelines of the Association of Theological Schools, which have been widely accepted as a basis for pre-seminary programs. A student considering seminary training should seek to have at least some in-depth understanding in the following areas:

- 1) General understanding of:
 - a) Human selfhood and existence
 - b) Modern social institutions and problems
 - c) Culture and religion
 - d) Science and technology
 - e) The modes and processes of understanding
- 2) Theological understanding of:
 - a) Bible: content and interpretation
 - b) History of religious tradition
 - c) Constructive theological methodology and interpretation
- 3) Linguistic skills:
 - a) Greek and/or Hebrew
 - b) Latin, German, French, or Spanish

Because graduate institutions vary in their entrance requirements and expectations, students are advised to communicate as early as possible in their undergraduate years with the specific institution they plan to attend.

Concentration in Christianity and Culture

The following specific requirements apply: 30 sem. hrs. (of which 12 sem. hrs. must be 300 or 400 level) including:

RELS 101, 102	Introduction to Old Testament, New Testament Studies
RELS 224	New Testament Theology
RELS 160	Introduction to Theology
RELS 360	Christian Apologetics
RELS 461	Contemporary Christianity
RELS 475	Christianity and Culture

plus three electives chosen from the remaining electives for the Christianity and Culture major.

Minor in Christianity and Culture

The following specific requirements apply: Religious Studies: 24 sem. hrs., including RELS 101, 102, 160; 461, 475; plus any three additional courses (keeping in mind that a total of 12 of 24 sem. hrs. must be 300 or 400 level) listed among the core and electives for the Christianity and Culture major.

English

Department of English

Prof. Lynn Szabo, Chair

The Department of English offers:

1. An Honours Program in English, leading to a B.A. (Honours) degree
2. A major in English, leading to a B.A. degree
3. A concentration
4. A minor.

The programs are designed to develop the desire and ability to write well, conduct research, and evaluate critically all forms of writing, while introducing students to important bodies of literature in a broad spectrum of time periods and cultures, including authors and texts from Canada, United States, Britain, and the Commonwealth.

Opportunities for graduates are wide and varied and include careers in writing, research, publication, broadcasting, public relations, advertising, teaching, politics, law (with further studies), international work, missions, and many exciting global opportunities.

The goal in first year English is to nurture in students a desire and ability to read and write well, conduct research, and appreciate the gift of literature.

Second year English courses cover such diverse subjects as major authors, backgrounds of English literature, national literatures, creative writing, and the study of genre. At this level, students are encouraged to reflect upon and engage various approaches to literature with a view to preparing them for further study at the upper levels.

Upper level courses numbered 300 and 400 are on the same academic level and qualify as both third and fourth year courses. Most of these courses are offered on an alternate year basis and form the specializations that students follow in their studies in English.

*The following English courses are required: ENGL 103, 104; 12 sem. hrs. of 200 level (should be completed by end of second year); 27 sem. hrs. of 300 and 400 level; 6 additional sem. hrs. of 200, 300, or 400 level; ENGL 450 (Honours Essay); ENGL 490 and 495 (Literary Theory I and II).

The Honours program allows for a high degree of specialization in English literature and language. Admission to the program requires a cumulative GPA of 3.0. Students must maintain grades of 3.0 or higher in all English courses. An overall cumulative GPA of 2.7 is required for graduation in the program.

- 60 sem. hrs. must be taken in English courses, of which at least 36 sem. hrs. must be at the upper level; of these 36 sem. hrs., a minimum of 18 sem. hrs. must be taken at TWU.
- Honours students are required to complete a minimum of 134 sem. hrs. instead of the 122 sem. hrs. required in the regular program at Trinity Western University, 54 sem. hrs. of which must be upper level courses. In their final semester, honours students will write an Honours Essay, which will satisfy 3 sem. hrs. of their English course requirements. Honours students must also take ENGL 490 and 495 (Literary Theory I and II). 12 sem. hrs. of ancillary courses are also required: 6 sem. hrs. of modern language, other than English and 6 sem. hrs. of philosophy (in addition to the 3 sem. hrs. in the core).

- Prospective candidates for the Honours program will normally apply for admission at the end of their second year (at TWU or elsewhere), though admission will be possible during either semester of the third year. All applications should be made by November 30 or March 31 of the semester preceding the one into which admission is desired.

Environmental Studies (B.A.)

Faculty of Humanities and Social Sciences and Faculty of Natural and Applied Sciences

Dr. Paul D. Brown and

Prof. Karen M. M. Steensma, Coordinators

TWU offers a multidisciplinary Environmental Studies Program by combining strengths from three main departments across two faculties: the Geography Department in the Faculty of Humanities and Social Sciences, and the Biology and Chemistry Departments in the Faculty of Natural and Applied Sciences.

Purpose

The purpose of the program is to develop godly leaders with solid scientific and technical skills who are also actively growing in their creative, problem solving, and thinking abilities developed within the context of a liberal arts education. We believe this background combined with a biblical Christian perspective on the environment will help future leaders offer innovative, creative, and effective solutions to the challenging task of creation stewardship.

Perspective

The environmental field requires knowledge of biology, chemistry, geography, and insights from other disciplines within the natural and social sciences. Such knowledge is indispensable when dealing with complex issues such as species habitat, the remediation of a polluted site, renewable and non-renewable resources, ecological conservation and restoration projects, spatial and statistical analysis, air quality, global warming, and environmental toxicology. At the same time, a person working in environmental studies will often face social, political, ethical, and philosophical issues that both affect and go beyond the science. Indeed, significant environmental debates are usually rooted in values and beliefs. Thus, the program strives to prepare the environmental professional by building a solid core of scientific subjects, based on the ethical foundation of Christian thought and practice.

The Christian and the Environment

In our program at TWU this foundation starts with the fact that God is. He is the creator as revealed in Scripture. There may be pragmatic reasons for caring for the environment, but even if no other reason exists, with Francis Schaeffer we believe creation has intrinsic value because God created it. God saw all that He had made, and it was very good. We recognize that aspects of the creation are fallen as a result of sin, but also that God continues to care for and sustain the creation. In Psalm 104 we see God in an intimate relationship with creation—from “mak[ing] the grass grow for the cattle,” to the lions who “seek their food from God.” In Job we see a similar relationship; He even “counts the months” until the “doe bears her fawn” (39:1-2). God has at times not only made covenants with man, but with all of creation (Gen. 9:8-17). If He is concerned about His creation, we should be also.

Our Christian perspective also affirms the value of humanity. “Are not two sparrows sold for a farthing? And not one of them shall fall to the ground apart from the Father. But the very hairs of your head are all numbered. Therefore do not fear, you are more valuable than many sparrows” (Matthew 10:29-31). This tells us that a creature as common as the sparrow is valuable. But people are even more valuable. “For this is what the LORD says—He who created the heavens, He is God; He who fashioned and made the earth, He founded it; He did not create it to be empty, but formed it to be inhabited” (Isaiah 45:18). We don’t view humanity as a blight on the planet. Rather we seek the goal of understanding and living responsibly with and in the environment we are a part of. We are created in the image of God and have, among other things, the responsibility of tending the creation. Thus, in our perspective, environmental paradigms for behaviour, management, and solutions to problems should consider all the creation and its interrelationships, including human relationships and needs.

Taking care of the environment should not be something particularly special; it is a normal Christian duty. There may be debate as to how that may be best accomplished. That debate is part of the exploration and growth at TWU.

Program

There is a core group of courses to be taken by all students in the Environmental Studies Program. Beyond the core are four specialized emphases to choose from, three leading to B.Sc. degrees. A fourth emphasis leads to a B.A. The four emphases are:

- 1) Natural Systems and Resources Emphasis (B.Sc.)
- 2) Biochemical Emphasis (B.Sc.)
- 3) Physical and Analytical Emphasis (B.Sc.)
- 4) Geography Emphasis (B.A.)

Environmental Studies Core

Required Courses in Geography/Geology
 GEOG 101 Physical Geography I
 Choice of one of the following:
 GEOG 102 Physical Geography II
 GEOL 109 Introductory Geology
 plus
 GEOG 280 Cartography

Required Courses in Biology

BIOL 113 General Biology
 BIOL 114 General Biology
 BIOL 381 General Ecology

Required Courses in Chemistry

ENVS/GEOG 452 People and Environment
 ENVS 409 Thesis Preparation
 ENVS 410/411 Senior Thesis

Required Field Courses (Biology, Geography/Geology, etc.)

Choice of at least two field courses:

BIOL 364 Coral Reef Ecology (Hawaii)
 BIOL 382 Marine Ecology (Salt Spring Island)
 BIOL 316 Plant Ecology (Salt Spring Island)
 BIOL 318 Tropical Botany (Hawaii)
 GEOG 384 Field Methods in Geography or Au Sable field courses or other field courses offered through TWU

Note: For more information on Au Sable courses, see Au Sable Institute of Environmental Studies in the Calendar section, Special Programs and Information. Course descriptions are listed under Environmental Studies.

Required Courses in Mathematics

Choice of:

MATH 102 Statistics
 MATH 123 Calculus
 GEOG 383 Quantitative Methods

Note: 42 sem. hrs. within the overall degree must be upper level. At least 30 upper level sem. hrs. must be within the Environmental Studies degree requirements or electives listed. Courses may also include Au Sable courses in addition or as a substitution appropriate for the requirements and with permission of an Environmental Studies coordinator. An overall GPA of 2.00 or higher must be maintained.

Environmental Studies Emphases

Specific details of the Geography emphasis are listed here. For details of emphases regarding B.Sc. degrees, see listings under the Faculty of Natural and Applied Sciences.

Geography Emphasis, B.A. in Environmental Studies

Geography incorporates both the natural sciences and the social sciences in its study of the varying nature of the surface of the earth and is thus uniquely qualified to address the complex issues related to environmental analysis, social impact, and public planning and policy making. The Geography emphasis provides students with the skills required to integrate spatial and physical knowledge of the environment with human concerns.

European Studies

Faculty of Humanities and Social Sciences

Dr. Kelsey Haskett, Coordinator

This major is designed for students who are keenly interested in Europe for various reasons, in particular those drawn by its rich cultural heritage and the major changes occurring on a political, economic, and spiritual level. The bringing together of European language, history, and cultural courses provides a focus for this interest and is intended to prepare students to play significant roles in a number of areas in Europe or in fields relating to Europe. This major would help equip students to confidently fulfil the University's mission and God's calling on their lives in a European setting.

In addition, understanding Europe represents a critical factor in understanding North America, because much of North American culture is rooted and grounded in European civilization, including ideas on government, human dignity, and human rights. Moreover, the presence of the Christian faith, which has permeated European history and culture, as well as reactions against Christianity in more modern times, represent an important area of interest for students desirous of understanding today's world and engaging in it, in the context of their faith.

The European Studies major is comprised of courses focusing on various areas of European studies, with three streams: the Language stream, the History stream, and the English Literature and Fine Arts stream.

Geography

Department of Geography, History, and Political and International Studies

*Dr. Bruce Shelvey, Chair
Dr. Carl Tracie, Coordinator*

The Department of Geography, History, and Political and International Studies offers:

1. Major in Geography leading to a B.A. degree
2. Minor in Geography
3. Concentration in Geography.

The discipline of Geography offers students the opportunity to engage complex problems with a skill set that emphasizes a combination of critical thinking and technical analyses. With its integrative, holistic approach, evaluating the physical and cultural interactions that infuse places and regions with meaning, Geography instills in students an appreciation for the reciprocal interactions between the natural environment and human activity, providing the student with analytical tools appropriate to understanding challenges posed by regional variation and environmental degradation. The Department offers courses in human, regional, physical, and technical areas of Geography and offers a B.A. in Geography. It also offers a B.Sc. within the Environmental Studies program. It supports both programs with a fully-equipped computer lab with the latest in geomatics software.

Careers for Geography graduates depend on their specialization within the field. Such positions are found widely in government, industry, planning or environmental consulting firms, Third World development agencies, and educational institutions.

Major in Geography, B.A. Degree

Trinity Western is one of the few Christian universities in North America offering a major in Geography. Students are encouraged to reinforce their Geography major with study in related social and natural sciences such as Anthropology, Biology, Economics, Geology, History, Political and International Studies, and Sociology. A secondary specialization in a related field is useful for geographers in business, government, or education.

Minor and Concentration in Geography

Students may obtain a minor in Geography by completing 24 sem. hrs. and a concentration by completing 30 sem. hrs. of Geography courses. Both the minor and the concentration must include GEOG 101 or 102; GEOG 110; one of GEOG 230, 252, or 280; and 12 sem. hrs. of 300 or 400 level courses.

History

Department of Geography, History, and Political and International Studies

Dr. Bruce Shelvey, Chair

The Department of Geography, History, and Political and International Studies offers:

1. Honours in History, leading to a B.A. (Honours) degree

2. Major in History leading to a B.A. degree
3. Concentration in History
4. Minor in History.

History students will become aware of the processes of change and the development of peoples, institutions, environments, and ideas over time. They will investigate how peoples and societies unfolded in response to beliefs, ideas, passions, and material and social conditions. With change continuing today, the study of history will prepare students to make sense of this unfolding process.

Awareness of history is a prerequisite for informed citizenship and for understanding how to live as a person of faith in the world. Furthermore, government and business employers are becoming more concerned about understanding political issues, social problems, and public attitudes. Knowledgeable and thoughtful historians can be effective leaders in gaining and sharing an understanding of culture and thus making informed decisions. TWU's Laurentian Leadership Centre in Ottawa gives students a first hand opportunity to study Canada's political history while also completing an internship that will enable them to apply their historical skills in a government or industry setting.

Graduates with a background in history can look for employment in government-related service, administration, business, archives and museums, and teaching. This program is an excellent pre-professional program for law, librarianship, ministerial training, journalism, broadcasting, and administration. The insight, skills of analysis and communication, and dispositions acquired in this field are increasingly recognized as a key to success in today's world.

Honours Program in History, B.A. (Honours) Degree

The Honours Program in History allows for a greater degree of specialization in History and is especially valuable as a preparation for graduate studies. Also, History students interested in secondary education, who already are required to take a greater number of upper level History courses, may wish to consider the Honours Program.

Admission to the Honours Program in History is by application to the Department chair. Prospective candidates will normally apply at the end of their second year of study, but admission is possible during the third or fourth year. To be admitted, a cumulative GPA of 3.0 is required. A GPA of 3.0 must be maintained in all History courses throughout the duration of the program. An overall GPA of 2.7 is required for graduation.

- HIST 411 (History Seminar), an approved alternative to IDIS 400.

A maximum of 6 sem. hrs. of practicum (HIST 315) may be taken as part of the major, and 3 sem. hrs. for concentrations and minors, but up to 9 sem. hrs. may be taken as part of the overall degree.

Minor and Concentration in History

Students may obtain a concentration by completing 30 sem. hrs. of History courses and a minor in History by completing 24 sem. hrs. In each case, at least 12 sem. hrs. must be at the 300 or 400 level; for a concentration at least 9 sem. hrs. of upper level credits must be taken at TWU; for a minor, at least 6 sem. hrs. of upper level credits must be taken at TWU. Both the minor and the concentration must include at least 3 sem. hrs. in each of North American history, European history, and Global/World history (see specific courses listed above under the History Major description). HIST 411, an IDIS 400 equivalent, may be taken as part of a concentration or minor.

Humanities

Faculty of Humanities and Social Sciences

Dr. Norman Klassen and

Dr. Jens Zimmermann, Coordinators

The Faculty of Humanities and Social Sciences offers a multidisciplinary major in Humanities, leading to a B.A. degree. The humanities are about people—their ideas, beliefs, values, and self-expression. Humanities students will learn to appreciate their cultural heritage and to discern what is important when weighed against Christian values. They will gain a new perspective on the nature of humanity—the God-given capacity to pursue truth, to create beauty, and to do good, as well as a capacity for evil. The faculty who teach in this area aim to encourage the development of an informed spiritual and intellectual maturity. Foundations in the humanities will contribute to fulfilment and enjoyment of life.

This program is designed for students with general interest in the humanities, rather than for those who wish to specialize in one discipline.

*may include University core requirements of ENGL 103, 104; and 3 sem. hrs. of Philosophy.

Specific Requirements

60 sem. hrs. consisting of either:

1. Two minors selected from English, French, Linguistics, or Philosophy, plus 12 sem. hrs. selected from any of these disciplines or German (see requirements for minors above); or
2. One concentration and one minor from English, French, Linguistics, or Philosophy, and 6 sem. hrs. selected either from one of the disciplines just listed (but not including the disciplines in which the concentration and minor are being done) or from a modern foreign language (see requirements for concentrations and minors above).

Note: This major is in the process of being broadened to include other disciplines. For information, contact either of the program coordinators.

Human Services

Department of Psychology, Sociology, and Anthropology

Dr. Ron Philipchalk, Chair

Dr. Michael Wilkinson, Coordinator, Human Services

The Department of Psychology, Sociology, and Anthropology offers a program in Human Services leading to a B.A. degree for students with Psychology or Multi-disciplinary Social Science majors. Human Services is not a separate discipline but a multidisciplinary, service-oriented program that utilizes the theory, data, and insights of several of the social sciences. The program requires the completion of a Social Sciences major with an appropriate concentration or a major in Psychology and a minor in Sociology, as well as relevant field placements.

The Human Services Program prepares students to work in a wide range of people-helping occupations. The program provides opportunity for supervised practical experiences in addition to regular classroom requirements. The Human Services Program is appropriate for students seeking a career, for instance, as a social service worker in a government agency, as a corrections officer (probation or parole), or as a youth or adult counsellor in a community agency or church.

Students may apply for formal entrance into the Human Services Program after completing SOCI 201 (A Sociology of Helping Professions: Introduction to Human Services). Applicants will be screened by a committee according to the following criteria: empathy for people, communication skills, interpersonal skills, insight into personal strengths and weaknesses, commitment to Human Services as a vocation, and strong analytical skills. Only those admitted into the Human Services Program may take SOCI 400 (seminar) and SOCI 320; 411, and 420 (field placements). The field placement practicum settings include such areas as services to children, to the aged, to the challenged (emotionally, physically, educationally, etc.), and to individuals in corrective custody.

Maintaining Eligibility for the Program

After admission to the Human Services Program, grades for all course work in the program will be monitored on a semester by semester basis. Students must maintain a minimum GPA of 2.5 in these courses to be eligible for field placements and for graduation from the Human Services Program.

Inter-Cultural Religious Studies

Department of Religious Studies

Dr. Craig D. Allert, Chair

Dr. Joanne Pepper, Coordinator

The Department of Religious Studies offers a major in Inter-Cultural Religious Studies leading to a B.A. degree, as well as a minor in Missions.

The Inter-Cultural Religious Studies program is designed for persons interested in preparation for any kind of cross-cultural work or ministry. The major has a strong interdisciplinary approach which seeks to give students a broad overview of the field of inter-cultural studies. Additionally, students are given opportunity to select options within the program, in order to partially shape the major toward individual visions and goals. Finally, through its inclusion of language learning and a cross-cultural practicum, the major seeks to lay an academic foundation upon which practical experience is based.

This major requires 60 sem. hrs. of study. A minimum of 24 sem. hrs. must be 300 or 400 level. One option of this major is offered in conjunction with Canada Institute of Linguistics, which offers LING 210; 310, 330, and 360 during the summer months. These courses can also be taken during the regular academic year, in which case the student must take LING 361 (fall semester) and LING 362 (spring semester) in place of LING 360.

International Studies

Department of Geography, History, and Political and International Studies

*Dr. Bruce Shelvey, Chair
Dr. Mark Charlton, Coordinator*

The Department of Geography, History, and Political and International Studies offers the following multidisciplinary programs in International Studies:

1. Honours degree in International Studies, leading to a B.A. (Honours) degree
2. Major in International Studies, leading to a B.A. degree.

The multidisciplinary International Studies Program provides students with a broad understanding of the changing dynamics of our global society. It equips them with insights and skills for international careers in areas such as teaching, the foreign service, and international business; social service involving immigrants, refugees, resettlement, and overseas development; missionary service; and journalism, research and advocacy work on global issues.

The program includes a core of courses that gives students a firm foundation in understanding contemporary global developments, with electives to suit their particular interests. The program provides a cross-cultural dimension for economic, social, and political issues. Approved course credits that are part of one of the Council for Christian Colleges and Universities International Studies Programs or Trinity Western's Laurentian Leadership Centre count toward the International Studies, B.A. (Honours) or B.A. degree. For details, see Additional Programs section or contact the coordinator.

Honours Program in International Studies, B.A. (Honours) Degree

The Honours Program in International Studies allows for a greater degree of specialization in International Studies and is especially valuable as a preparation for graduate studies and service in governmental and non-governmental organizations. Admission to the Honours Program in International Studies is by application to the International Studies coordinator. Prospective candidates will normally apply at the end of their second year of study, but admission is possible during the third year. To be admitted, students must have a cumulative GPA of 3.0. A GPA of 3.0 must be maintained in all International Studies courses. An overall average of 2.7 is required for graduation.

Modern Languages

Department of Modern Languages

Dr. Kelsey Haskett, Chair

The Department of Modern Languages offers:

1. Major in Modern Languages
2. Minor and concentration in French Language and Literature
3. Minor and concentration in French Language
4. Minor in Spanish
5. Introductory and intermediate courses in German
6. Introductory courses in Russian and Japanese.

Trinity Western University's Modern Languages program is strategic to preparing graduates to impact the world because it focuses on a number of significant linguistic areas. Courses contribute to a global vision as well as to an understanding of Canadian culture and identity. Literature courses provide insight into various cultures, examine ideas that have influenced the world, and help students develop analytical and writing skills. While leading to new avenues of cross-cultural communication, language studies create a wide spectrum of opportunities for students. These include careers in teaching, missions, writing, research, translation, government and diplomatic work, international organizations, public relations, business, and many other exciting global opportunities.

The program's courses focus mainly on language, literature, and cultural studies. The Departmental Major in Modern Languages includes different languages within the department. In French, the main areas of study are French and French Canadian literature, francophone culture, and all levels of language. Spanish courses focus on language learning, while at the same time introducing Hispanic literature and culture. German courses provide introductory and intermediate language study. Russian and Japanese courses offer an introduction to the language. Cultural components are included in all introductory and intermediate language courses.

Specific Requirements

The major consists of a total of 60 sem. hrs. of Modern Languages, of which a minimum of 24 sem. hrs. must be numbered 300 or above. The student must take the equivalent of a minor in each of two languages, with the remaining sem. hrs. (up to a total of 60) being taken in these or one or two other languages offered by the Department. At present the Department offers minors in both French and Spanish.

Note regarding French:

There are two minors in the French Program: the minor in French Language and Literature and the minor in French Language. These minors have different entry points. Please see below for details. In the Modern Languages Departmental Major, students may do either of these minors.

French

The French Program offers two streams leading to a minor or a concentration. The French Language and Literature stream is for students who have completed Grade 12 French or FREN 111, 112. The French Language stream is for those who have completed Grade 11 French or FREN 101, 102.

Concentration in French Language and Literature

Students may obtain a concentration in French Language and Literature by completing FREN 121, 122; 215, 216; 320; 321, 322; and 9 more sem. hrs. of upper level French courses. Students who enter French at the 200 level (following a successful TWU placement test) must complete 24 sem. hrs. of upper level course work in French. See the Department for more details. (Prerequisites: FREN 111, 112; or Grade 12 French.)

Minor in French Language and Literature

Students may obtain a minor in French Language and Literature (24 sem. hrs.) by completing FREN 121, 122; 215, 216; 320; and 9 more sem. hrs. of upper level courses. Students who obtain permission to enter French at the 200 level must complete 18 sem. hrs. of upper level course work in French. (Prerequisites: FREN 111, 112; or Grade 12 French.)

Minor or Concentration in French Language

Students may obtain a minor in French Language (27 sem. hrs.) by completing FREN 111, 112; 113; 215, 216; 320; and 9 more sem. hrs. of upper level courses. They may add one more upper level course to obtain a concentration in French Language (30 sem. hrs.). (Prerequisites: FREN 101, 102; or Grade 11 French.) Note: Students with Grade 12 French may not enter this stream.

Spanish

Students may obtain a minor in Spanish (24 sem. hrs.) by completing SPAN 101, 102; 201, 202; 301, 302; 401, 402. Students who begin the minor with SPAN 201, 202 may complete it by taking the directed study courses SPAN 497, 498.

German

The Department offers introductory (GERM 101, 102) and intermediate courses (GERM 113, 114; 210, 202), with an emphasis on oral and written work as well as culture.

Russian and Japanese

Introductory language and culture courses are offered in these two languages, which focus on both speaking and writing. Some courses may not be offered every year. Second year work in either language may be done by directed study. See Department chair for details.

Philosophy

Department of Philosophy

Dr. Phillip H. Wiebe, Chair

The Department of Philosophy offers a major in Philosophy leading to a B.A. degree, a concentration, and a minor.

Philosophy, which means literally “the love of wisdom,” investigates and systematizes various views about the principles that underlie thought, conduct, and the nature of reality. In its search for meaning and truth, philosophy explores the foundations upon which belief and behaviour are built. Because philosophy is concerned both with what humans have thought and with how humans think, the student of philosophy attempts to gain some perspective on the history of ideas, as well as being concerned about the need to think consistently and clearly.

Philosophy provides a good background for law school or for entering theological training, particularly that which is concerned with Christian apologetics and ethics. Students participate in debates in class and are invited to the meetings of the philosophy faculty forum, at which papers are presented and discussed.

Political Studies

Department of Geography, History, and Political and International Studies

Dr. Bruce Shelvey, Chair

The Department of Geography, History, and Political and International Studies offers:

1. Honours degree in Political Studies
2. Major in Political Studies, leading to a B.A. degree
3. Concentration in Political Studies
4. Minor in Political Studies.

In Political Studies, students explore how governments are organized and how they influence the amount and distribution of social and economic resources. Students will develop a fuller understanding of government institutions, legislative processes, foreign policy, international relations, and public law. Studying Political Studies will help prepare students to exercise their rights and responsibilities as citizens. TWU's Laurentian Leadership Centre in Ottawa gives students a firsthand opportunity to study the political process in the nation's capital while also completing an internship in a government office, non-governmental organization, or on Parliament Hill.

Graduates with a background in Political Studies can look for employment in government-related service, administration, business, archives and museums, and teaching. This program is an excellent pre-professional program for law, librarianship, ministerial training, journalism, broadcasting, and administration. The insight, skills of analysis and communication, and disposition acquired in this field are increasingly recognized as a key to success in today's world.

Honours Program in Political Studies, B.A. (Honours) Degree

The Honours Program in Political Studies allows for a greater degree of specialization in Political Studies and is especially valuable as a preparation for graduate studies and for those wishing to work in the public sector.

Admission to the Honours Program in Political Studies is by application to the chair of Geography, History, and Political and International Studies. To be admitted, students must have a cumulative GPA of 3.0. A GPA of 3.0 must be maintained in all Political Studies courses. An overall average of 2.7 is required for graduation.

Psychology

Department of Psychology, Sociology, and Anthropology

Dr. Ron Philipchalk, Chair

The Department of Psychology, Sociology, and Anthropology offers:

1. Honours program in Psychology, leading to a B.A. (Honours) degree
2. Major in Psychology, leading to a B.A. degree
3. A concentration
4. A minor
5. At the graduate level, an M.A. degree in Counselling Psychology is also offered.

The Psychology program seeks to give students a thorough grounding in the understanding of human experience and behaviour derived from systematic observation and research. This research is interpreted within the framework of the meaning and nature of persons and society revealed to us in the Bible.

Our professors see people both as part of God's created world, wholly dependent on Him, and as unique and responsible persons who bear the image of their Creator. Together with the students, we seek to appreciate the tremendous potential of humans and to understand how this potential can be realized in diverse cultural settings.

Students will use a Christian worldview as the basis of interpretation. Psychology students will investigate principles derived from research, as well as explore practical, life-oriented application of such principles. Students will consider the implications of their faith in such areas as love, work, leisure, family, sexuality, value and meaning, and interpersonal relationships.

Graduates in Psychology can have an impact on their world through enabling people to understand themselves and others and by helping them experience the transforming love and power of God. The program provides a good foundation for those considering people-helping or service-oriented work such as counselling, therapy, public service, Christian ministry, or social work. Students who want to pursue graduate studies in Psychology should consider the Honours Program in Psychology.

Multidisciplinary Major in Social Sciences

Faculty of Humanities and Social Sciences

Dr. Harold Faw, Coordinator

The Faculty of Humanities and Social Sciences offers a multidisciplinary major in Social Sciences, leading to a B.A. degree. The multidisciplinary major in Social Sciences incorporates academic study in a combination of Social Science disciplines. This major consists of a flexible package of courses leading to a B.A. degree. Thus, it is particularly suitable for students whose areas of interest extend beyond the usual disciplinary boundaries. It is also attractive to students seeking to design a unique combination of courses which matches these interests. This major provides good preparation for those considering work in the service sector of society or in various forms of Christian ministry.

Both the concentration and the minor must include 12 sem. hrs. at the 300 or 400 level. The 6 sem. hrs. of other Social Science electives must be from Social Science areas not chosen as the concentration or minor and may include Anthropology. Together, the concentration, minor, and 6 sem. hrs. of other Social Science electives form the multidisciplinary Social Science major (60 sem. hrs. total). Contact the program coordinator for more information.

Social Studies

Faculty of Humanities and Social Sciences

Dr. Bob Burkinshaw, Coordinator

The Faculty of Humanities and Social Sciences offers a concentration in Social Studies.

This concentration enables students to obtain a broad background in Social Studies from the perspectives of several academic disciplines.

This concentration requires 30 sem. hrs. of course work chosen from three of the following disciplines: Geography, History, Political Studies, and Sociology. A minimum of 18 sem. hrs. must be at the 300 or 400 levels, with no more than 12 sem. hrs. of 300 or 400 level courses in any one subject discipline.

Sociology

Department of Psychology, Sociology, and Anthropology

Dr. Michael Wilkinson, Coordinator

The Department of Psychology, Sociology, and Anthropology offers a concentration and minor in Sociology.

Concentration in Sociology

The following specific requirements apply (15 sem. hrs.):

SOCI 101	Introduction to Sociology
SOCI 207	Data Analysis
