CO-OPERATIVE EDUCATION

PUTTING EDUCATION TO WORK

Trinity Western offers, through the Career Development Office, a Co-operative Education program. The Co-op program enables students to gain career-related work experience in a real work environment. Students participate in a minimum of three work terms to a maximum of five work terms that are integrated with their academic program. The Co-op Education program allows students to explore career choices while making valuable contributions to the marketplace. Participating employers include corporations, government, industry, small business, non-profit groups, Christian ministries, and professional service firms.

BENEFITS TO STUDENTS

- Co-op students acquire 12 to 20 months of practical work experience related to their major interests within a field of study;
- During the program, students develop self-confidence, leadership abilities, and interpersonal and communication skills;
- Work terms allow students to realistically evaluate interests, values, skills, educational needs, and future employment opportunities;
- Co-op programs help to build a professional network;
- Competitive wages paid during work terms may assist with financing educational costs.

CO-OP WORK TERM

Each work term represents 400 to 640 hours of discipline-related work that may be fulfilled through one or a combination of the following options:

- Traditional full-time Co-op placement during an academic semester or the summer;
- 12 to 20-month full-time Co-op internship.

Depending on career goals and availability of assignments, students may work for one employer or a number of organizations throughout the duration of their Co-op program.

These options allow students to customize a Co-op program to fit their goals and the needs of interested organizations.

DEFINITION OF WORK TERM

Appropriate work opportunities are identified by either the Co-op program or by students according to the following criteria:

- Each work site is to be approved by the Co-op program coordinator as a suitable learning and working situation;
- The student is to be engaged in productive work rather than merely observing;
- The student is to receive remuneration for the work performed;
- The student's progress on the job is to be monitored by the Co-op program coordinator and evaluated by the employer;
- The student is to complete a work term report at the end of each work term;
- The Associate Director for the Career Development Office must approve all Co-op work terms before they commence. Registration for each work term must be submitted by the add/drop date for each semester.

Students are allowed to complete a maximum of five work terms using the following course numbers which indicate the level of the work term (e.g., COOP 110 for the first work term): COOP 110, 210, 310, 410, 420. Registration forms can be obtained online at www.twu.ca/career.

These courses are listed on a student's transcript with a Pass/Fail notation. Upon successful completion of the Co-op work terms and Career Prep 100, students receive a Co-op Certificate. Failure to successfully complete a Co-op work term terminates participation in the Co-operative Education Program.

INTERNATIONAL STUDENTS

International students must apply for and receive employment authorization before they commence a Co-op work term in Canada. Students must maintain continuous student status to remain in the Co-op program.

PROGRAM OBJECTIVES

Individual assistance is also given through counselling, orientation, and evaluation so that students gain the most benefit from the program. In general, program objectives include:

- Awareness of personal qualifications and their relation to work opportunities;
- Ability to look for work and to succeed on the job;
- Ability to understand employer expectations;
- Development of self-confidence and an adaptable attitude towards a constantly changing work environment;
- Direct application of classroom learning in an employment setting.

ADMISSION TO THE PROGRAM

Interested co-op students, including U.S. and international students, should make early contact with the Co-op program through the Career Development Office. Students must be enrolled in full-time studies in an approved program at Trinity Western to enrol in the Co-operative Education Program and have earned less than 90 sem. hrs. A minimum GPA is required to join the program. For admission requirements, contact the Career Development Office.

A completed application form and an entrance interview are required. College transfer students who have participated in Co-op programs elsewhere may be credited with the semesters already taken. TWU presently offers Co-op programs in Biology, Business Administration (Accounting, Finance, Human Resource Management, Marketing, Small Business Management), Chemistry, Communications, Computing Science, English, Environmental Studies, Geography, Human Kinetics, International Studies, Linguistics, Music, Nursing, Political Studies, Psychology, Religious Studies, and Theatre. It is recommended that students take Career Prep 100.

CROW'S NEST ECOLOGICAL RESEARCH AREA

Melissa Oakes, Field Resources Coordinator

The Crow's Nest Ecological Research Area consists of 72.7 acres of ecologically significant land located on Salt Spring Island in the Southern Gulf Islands of B.C. It was donated to Trinity Western University in 2000. Soon after, it was discovered that in addition to breathtaking views, the property contained some of the few remaining Garry oak (Quercus garryana) meadows in British Columbia. These meadows and their associated communities contain more plant species than any other terrestrial ecosystem in coastal B.C., as well as a multitude of other creatures, many found nowhere else in Canada.

The purpose of the TWU Crow's Nest Ecological Research Area is fourfold: 1) to encourage people to reflect on their relationship with nature (community) and God (ethics); 2) to conserve and restore the integrity of the unique ecological regions entrusted to TWU; 3) to research methods of inventorying, studying and interacting with natural systems; and 4) to educate others from a Christian perspective about humanity's responsibility to nature.

The Crow's Nest is not open to the public. Since 2001, TWU professors and students have been involved in research projects on the property. The goal is to continue to contribute to the understanding of this unique ecosystem, enabling TWU to manage the property in such a way as to keep it ecologically healthy for future generations to enjoy. Students enrolled in programs such as Environmental Studies, Biology, Geography, and Chemistry may visit the Crow's Nest on field trips and have the opportunity to gain valuable field experience through student research positions during the summer.

DIRECTED STUDIES

If a course is a required component of a student's program and the student has valid reasons for not being able to take it when offered, students may take the course by directed study but only during a semester when the course is not offered on campus. Students must apply during the first week of the semester to allow sufficient time for the instructor and the Vice Provost to process the application prior to the Add/Drop deadline. (Application forms are available from the Office of the Registrar.) Directed study courses are normally available to third and fourth year students only. Students are allowed a maximum of 12 sem. hrs. of directed study in their degree program and may not normally take more than one directed study course per semester.

ECOSYSTEM STUDY AREA

Christopher Hall, Manager

Encompassing all undeveloped natural areas of the Trinity Western University main campus, as well as 57 acres across Glover Road, the Ecosystem Study Area (ESA) is a beautiful example of God's creation, providing areas for recreation, relaxation, and outdoor education. While specific university course work and research projects make use of virtually all of the 100+ acres, the Salmon River Trail, which runs through woodlands, a pond area, and along the Salmon River, is the primary area open to the campus community and public.

The purpose of the Ecosystem Study Area is threefold: 1) to provide an area open to all for recreation and appreciation of nature; 2) to serve as a living outdoor laboratory for university course work and public education; and 3) to serve as a creation stewardship site for protection of plant and wildlife species.

Hundreds of species, including a number of rare and endangered species, have been catalogued in the ESA, and ongoing research efforts continue to add to this total. The ESA is home to the endangered Oregon Forest snail, supporting the largest known populations of this species in Canada. Trinity Western University has become the lead research institution studying this species, through a World Wildlife Fund grant to the Environmental Studies Program. Splendid examples of mature Pacific Northwest temperate rainforest species exist in some portions of the ESA, with highly productive salmon-bearing streams throughout. While of obvious value to Biology, Environmental Studies, and other science departments, the ESA is also of interest to non-science departments as an historic area, a fitness course, and an inspirational area for literary and fine arts students.

In the interest of serving the multiple uses of the ESA, certain areas have been set aside for general public use, while other areas are left in a natural state, accessed for research of special projects only by permission from the campus Ecological Stewardship Committee. It is intended that this division of public and restricted areas strikes a balance between heavy impact use and conservation/education use. To that end, the following set of rules has been developed for the Ecosystem Study Area:

- Stay on designated trails;
- Leave all vegetation and animals in place;
- No motorized vehicles, bicycles, horseback riding, or pets.

A group of volunteer stewards conducts patrols, research projects, and maintenance projects in the ESA throughout the year. For information about stewarding opportunities, to arrange a group tour, or simply to learn more about the ESA, contact the ESA manager or visit the Ecosystem Study Area website at www.twu.ca/ecosystem.

LAURENTIAN LEADERSHIP CENTRE PROGRAM (OTTAWA)

The Laurentian Leadership Centre Program provides a full semester of credits (15 sem. hrs.) every fall and spring. It is designed to give third and fourth year students as well as alumni experience relevant to a wide variety of careers including international relations, business, communications, history, politics, non-governmental organizations, and public service. All students in this program must complete a supervised internship related to their major and up to three courses. The program operates on the semester system although the dates may vary from Trinity Western's regular calendar. The cost of the program is comparable to a full academic program while living on campus.

CURRICULUM

Students take up to three courses in the morning. Each course is designed to introduce students to experts in the field who are not available on the Langley campus. The courses also enable students to see how their Christian faith can and does impact public life. The three courses are:

POLS/HIST/	Canadian
SOCI 391	Governmental Leadership

POLS/SOCI 392	Ethics and Public Affairs
POLS/IDIS 393	Law, Public Policy, and Cultural Change (an IDIS 400 equivalent course).

Students who take the three courses and the accompanying internship are eligible, upon satisfactory completion of the program, for a Certificate in Leadership and Applied Public Affairs or for a Graduate Certificate in Leadership and Applied Public Affairs.

For personal and academic reasons, some students may elect to take only two of the three courses. These students are free to remain at two courses or take an online directed study course, or attend a class at either Carleton University or the University of Ottawa. Students who elect this option are not eligible for the certificates.

While the courses offered at the Laurentian Leadership Centre are in the areas of Political Studies, International Studies, History, Business, and Communications, students not completing a major in one of these areas are encouraged to take these courses as electives. Students should consult their Department chair as to how the internship credits may be counted towards their major. As well, students in Business or Communication programs should inquire about options to fulfil revised program requirements by taking courses at the Laurentian Leadership Centre.

To benefit from this unique learning experience, students need some understanding of Canadian politics and government. For that reason, the course pertaining to this, POLS 234, is offered each semester at TWU and online during the summer and is required for admission to the Centre. Business students may be exempted from this requirement if they have taken BUSI 345/346. Knowledge of Canadian history and the ability to speak French are assets. For admission requirements, see the contact information below.

INTERNSHIP

Students select an internship worth 6 sem. hrs. of credit towards their major. Placements have included working in a Member of Parliament's office, political party office, governmental department or agency, national and local media outlets, a business office (in accordance with a student's special interests), or non-governmental agency. There is a variety of internship sites from which to choose that would help to advance the student's career interests. The internships occur every afternoon and some full days and offer an opportunity to learn from experts and meet leaders in the field. These internships provide a broader learning experience than what students would experience if they were employees of an organization. Internships are designed to show the student the inner workings of the organization and how that organization interfaces with others.

For internship credits, students choose one set (6 sem. hrs.) from:

BUSI 395	Internship (3 sem. hrs.)
BUSI 396	Internship (3 sem. hrs.)
COMM 353	Internship (3 sem. hrs.)
COMM 356	Internship (3 sem. hrs.)
HIST 315	Internship (3 sem. hrs.)
HIST 316	Internship (3 sem. hrs.)
POLS 395	Internship (3 sem. hrs.)
POLS 396	Internship (3 sem. hrs.)

CERTIFICATE IN LEADERSHIP AND APPLIED PUBLIC AFFAIRS

The program and curriculum described above may be ladderred towards a bachelor's degree as a component of a degree, or may be taken as an independent certificate. For students who have already completed a recognized bachelor's degree, this program may be taken as a Graduate Certificate in Leadership and Applied Public Affairs, with advanced study requirements. Visiting and non-degree seeking learners may access these programs through TWU Extension (see TWU Extension section of this Calendar for contact information). Receiving a certificate requires successful completion of the entire program, a minimum GPA of 1.7 in each course, and the recommendation of the director of the Laurentian Leadership Centre.

LOCATION

The program operates from the famous Booth House, later known as the prestigious Laurentian Club, a unique heritage site located in the heart of Ottawa. It is located at 252 Metcalfe Street, which leads directly to Parliament Hill.

OMADA TEAMBUILDING

Jamie Barrow, Omada Teambuilding Manager

Omada Teambuilding is part of Trinity Western University, which has a 40-year legacy of leadership development. Omada Teambuilding caters to corporate groups, sports teams, youth groups, students, and more and seeks to bring out the best in each person, while building cohesive and energized teams. Through shared experiences, such as high and low ropes courses, dragon boating, and orienteering, groups must learn to co-operate, trust, problem-solve and communicate in the pursuit of a common goal. A time of reflection following the events revitalizes people's perspectives on team dynamics and individual strengths and weaknesses. Every Omada Teambuilding event is individually tailored to suit the group's specific needs and desires. Each activity is directly relevant to the group, and a group never has the same experience twice.

Students have the opportunity to experience Omada's programs through their student leadership positions, as a group, or by working as facilitators for Omada Teambuilding.

Contact Omada Teambuilding's manager for bookings and further information.

The varsity sport menu includes teams in men's and women's basketball, soccer, and volleyball. Indoor teams compete in the David E. Enarson Gymnasium while Rogers Park is home for the soccer teams.

COMPLETE CHAMPION APPROACH

The Complete Champion Approach focuses on developing student athletes as whole persons (spiritual, physical, intellectual, emotional, and social). The Complete Champion Approach helps student athletes use their God-given talents and intellect to live a life of significance, experiencing true personal success and powerfully influencing their family and their community.

Partnering with other departments of the University, Spartan Athletics intentionally strives to develop the Complete Champion in five areas:

ATHLETIC DEVELOPMENT

Technical skill development, high level competition, strength and conditioning, nutrition, sport psychology, and video analysis.

SPIRITUAL DEVELOPMENT

Discipleship, mentoring, sport ministry, national training camp, Bible studies, Playbook (Sunday Night Alive), prayer teams, winter retreat, and short-term cross-cultural mission trips.

ACADEMIC DEVELOPMENT

Athletes have access to an academic coach, the Learning Resource Centre, study hall/study skills, tutoring, advising, and technical support as well as a Collegium membership.

LEADERSHIP DEVELOPMENT

Student-Athlete Leadership Team (SALT) leadership opportunities, professional development for SALT and team captains, and community service projects.

PERSONAL DEVELOPMENT

Life skills seminars, career planning, time management seminars, counseling service, special speakers bureau, and Toastmasters.

OTHER SERVICES

There are many components to the Spartan Athletics infrastructure. Developing Complete Champions (well-rounded, well-developed graduates) requires the coordinated effort of many athletic services:

SPORT THERAPY

Under the leadership of a certified therapist and in concert with campus health workers, a comprehensive prehabilitative (prevention of injuries), strength and conditioning program, injury assessment, and rehabilitative programs take place year round. More than 15 student therapists receive on-the-job training and certification and assist with the delivery of therapy services to 120 student athletes.

EVENT MANAGEMENT

Under the leadership of the Events Manager, many students gain experience hosting campus and community spectators at 80 sporting events each year. More than 16,000 people watch Trinity Western's home games every year.

ATHLETICS MARKETING, PROMOTIONS, AND ADVERTISING

Athletics marketing, promotions, and advertising is responsible for raising the profile of Spartan Athletics in the business community and supporting the efforts of student-athletes. These business partnerships include sponsoring signage in the gymnasium and on the soccer fields, game-night sponsorships, and program advertising. It also hosts the annual golf tournament that raises funds towards scholarships for student-athletes and the Complete Champion Approach.

SPORTS INFORMATION

The sports information director, student assistants, and head coaches provide coordination, guidance, and direction to the public relations program. Several students are mentored each year in journalism, public announcing, web broadcasting, statistical data entry, and photography. Sports information is disseminated in a variety of methods including highlights, features, game broadcasts, web pages, Spartan Hotline, press releases, and bulletin board displays.

Spartan Athletics is under the administrative leadership of the Director of Athletics and the Dean of the School of Human Kinetics.
