The mission of Trinity Western University,

as an arm of the Church, is to develop godly Christian leaders: positive, goal-oriented university graduates with thoroughly Christian minds; growing disciples of Christ who glorify God through fulfilling the Great Commission, serving God and people in the various marketplaces of life.

What Trinity Western is All About

The Trinity Western Community

Trinity Western University is much more than an institution with classrooms, books, and exams; it is a passionate, intentional, disciple-making academic community.

The faculty and staff are committed to helping students make a positive contribution to their world, and to serve God, and others, over the course of their life. At TWU, staff and faculty take an interest in helping students develop their full potential. The University provides many opportunities where students can hone their gifts and skills as they prepare to make a difference.

Accepting the Invitation

Since TWU is a learning community with a unique mission, it is important for students to consider what it means to be a member of our community. First, students come into the TWU community with an exciting history and share—with fellow students, professors, and staff—our mission to have a positive impact on society. We count it a privilege to be members together in this enterprise.

Becoming a co-owner in any community brings with it certain expectations, responsibilities, and subsequent accountability. Accepting an invitation to become a member of the Trinity Western community entails agreeing to live in accordance with the Responsibilities of Membership and abide by the policies and guidelines of the University. These seek to foster a positive educational environment that reflects the values cherished by our community.

Students are called to maintain TWU's positive environment by being accountable to the community and its members for their own actions. The actions of each member have a direct effect on other co-owners of the community. Students are encouraged to take initiative to see where they can contribute to campus life and have a positive influence on others.

Rewards of Community

As students become active, responsible members in the TWU community, they find that the campus offers many privileges for them to enjoy. Through classes, community life, collegium membership, and living in residence, students have the unique opportunity to develop meaningful friendships with people from Canada and around the world. Through quality friendships, students come to better understand themselves and others, explore what is important to them, and discover what they have to offer.

Partnering in Service

As students become involved in student leadership and other campus activities, they discover opportunities to partner with others to serve the campus and the surrounding communities. In doing so, they earn the respect and trust of people and gain the right to have an even greater influence in their community and its development.

As students become shareholders in this community, engage others in active friendship, and work together to serve others, they will find that TWU is a learning community second to none.

Trinity Western's Basis and Purpose

Trinity Western is a unique Canadian university. It cultivates total student development through increased knowledge and discernment, sharpened critical thinking, communication and leadership skills, and a deepened commitment to Jesus Christ and a Christian way of life. The focus of all learning is to enable members of the Trinity Western community to glorify God and serve people wherever God places them in society. Trinity Western's education provides a God-honouring perspective as well as academic excellence. It helps students analyze and apply a Christian worldview, developing thoroughly Christian minds in the process. At the same time, employers and other universities respect the high academic quality of our programs. Both of these components are essential if TWU graduates are to become leaders who have a positive impact on society.

Trinity Western challenges its students to serve in a Christ-like manner where people live and work: homes, churches, schools, communities, the arts, sciences, human services, education at all levels, health care, recreation, and business. By recognizing their responsibilities and their vocations as a ministry, students can bring a refreshing quality to work, encouraging others through their leadership and modeling to consider the person and the message of Jesus Christ. During its history, Trinity Western has been a unique and attractive educational alternative. Its graduates have had a steadily growing and significant impact on our world.

Trinity Western University, as an arm of the Church, is first and foremost an academic community of people passionately committed to Jesus Christ and to God's purposes. Three biblical themes relate directly to its educational programs. In the Creation Mandate, God gives His human family the directive to develop the potential of the various aspects of life. In the Great Commandment, God enjoins his people to love and serve Him and their neighbours. In the Great Commission, Christ gives God's people the responsibility to function as ambassadors of God's salvation to make disciples who also know God's will for their lives. Trinity Western's programs are based on these three mandates so that all members of its community may be and become knowledgeable, perceptive, principled, just, disciplined, and compassionate disciples of Jesus Christ who will penetrate every walk of life in Canada and around the world.

To accomplish its mission, Trinity Western's programs are established and implemented according to six core values:

- Obedying the authority of Scripture: All teaching, learning, thinking, and scholarship take place under the direction of the Bible, the wholly authoritative and truthful Word of God. Scripture is the ultimate standard of truth and the lens by which we evaluate our lives and the world. Both individually and corporately, Trinity Western wholeheartedly embraces all that the Bible teaches in regard to faith, ethical commitments, and way of life.
- Striving for excellence in university education: Trinity Western promotes not only academic and intellectual excellence, but integrates these with high standards of personal, moral, and spiritual integrity. We believe that God is pleased and honoured when His followers stretch their intellectual capacities and broaden the bounds of their understanding—and do so within a context of excellence in whole-person development.
- Pursuing faith-based and faith-affirming learning: Trinity Western's starting point for learning is that God calls humans to be stewards of His creation, doers of good toward all people, and agents of His reconciliation. To nurture such growth, Trinity Western encourages students to consider carefully the basic worldview tenets of biblical Christian faith. At the same time, we have a high regard for honest investigation and expose students to diverse viewpoints.

- Having a transformational impact on culture: God calls His followers to influence both individuals and the culture in which they live. Our greatest hope is that the TWU community influences people to forsake an unbelieving way of life and embrace the Christian faith. Furthermore, Trinity Western's programs encourage thought, word, and deed that affect the dynamics and institutions of our society on the basis of biblical principles, such as justice and mercy.
- Servant leadership as a way of life: Trinity Western strives to teach and to embody the pattern of servant leadership exemplified by Jesus Christ. Professors, administrators, staff, and students all have important roles in supporting and encouraging others in their tasks. We want to motivate and mobilize each other to think and act with creativity, integrity, and skill for the benefit of all concerned.
- Discipling through community: At Trinity Western, students, staff, faculty, and administrators are all invited and encouraged to deepen their understanding of what it means to be disciples of Jesus Christ, to practice such discipleship, and to help others be disciples. They respond to God's calling with wisdom and knowledge, with discernment and creativity, with playfulness and perseverance, and above all, with love and compassion. They promote biblical peace and justice that heals brokenness and restores relationships (Luke 1:51-53). They endeavour to act justly, love mercy, and walk humbly with their God (Micah 6:8).

At Trinity Western, students faculty, and staff are on a journey that takes seriously God's injunction to work out our salvation with fear and trembling. We believe it is God who works in us to will and to act according to His good purpose as we hold out the Word of Life in and through all our campus activities (Phil. 2:12-15).

In this way, a Trinity Western education can be the capstone to a Christian upbringing or an excellent means for new Christians to further their total growth. However, the University also welcomes and provides effective educational programs for others who are eager to learn, have an open mind, and are willing, for the duration of their time at Trinity Western, to live in accordance with the Responsibilities of Membership and to abide by the policies and guidelines of the University.

History of TWU

Trinity Western University began as the dream of a number of Canadian evangelical leaders who felt deeply that all people deserve, and many prefer, the option of university education in a Christian context. It seemed an impossible endeavour to launch a Christian liberal arts college in Western Canada, but in 1962 Trinity Junior College opened with 17 students. Dr. Calvin B. Hanson was the founding president who served until 1974. Since then, the hopes and prayers of hundreds of men and women who have supported and shaped the institution through the years have been realized many times over.

The University operated for its first decade as Trinity Junior College, with a two-year university transfer program. In 1972, the name was formally changed to Trinity Western College through a revision to the governing legislation. Following the 1974 appointment of Trinity Western's second president, Dr. R. Neil Snider, the Trinity Western College Act was amended in 1977 to allow for a four-year university program. Finally in 1979, the Act was amended again to allow the new university to grant baccalaureate degrees. The first students to receive such degrees graduated in April 1980.

In 1984, Trinity Western was recognized by the Association of Universities and Colleges of Canada, the congress of Canada's internationally-recognized degree-granting universities, when it was admitted to full membership. In 1985, the Province of British Columbia authorized the change of name to Trinity Western University. From 2006 to 2014, Jonathan S. Raymond, Ph.D., served as the University's third president. When he stepped down due to health reasons, Bob Kuhn, JD, was appointed as the University's fourth President and Vice Chancellor.

Since 1962, Trinity Western has continued to build a reputation for quality university education. Programs have been continually improved and developed in accordance with Trinity Western's concept of Christian university education and in consultation with representatives for BC's other universities.

Governance

Trinity Western University maintains strong ties for governance as well as faith and lifestyle commitments with its founding denomination, the Evangelical Free Church, and other denominations with which it has formal partnerships. In addition, warm, functional relationships exist with a number of other denominations sharing similar evangelical convictions. The University's Board of Governors is composed of up to 25 members selected for Christian commitment, geographic representation, and specific expertise in the areas of finance, student life, development, and university education. Because of the members' varied backgrounds, the Board operates effectively and efficiently through a committee system, providing governance for all areas of Trinity Western University's operation. The University is supported, in part, by individuals and churches within the broad partnership of denominations but serves the needs of the whole evangelical community, regardless of the denomination.

Recognition

Trinity Western University is chartered by the government of the Province of British Columbia to grant degrees. Graduates are accepted at virtually all colleges, universities, and professional schools around the world. TWU is a full-member of Universities Canada (formerly the Association of Universities and Colleges of Canada), the national congress of degree-granting institutions.

In 2002, the Government of British Columbia passed legislation establishing the Ministry of Advanced Education Degree Quality Assessment Board (DQAB).

All institutions of higher education desiring to use the word "university" in their name or to offer a new degree program must make application to the Board. The Board considers their application and makes a recommendation to the Ministry.

Institutions may apply for exempt status from full review by the Board of if their organization, institutional governance, academic standards are sound and if they have been approved to grant degrees for at least 10 years. Trinity Western University received exempt status in 2004. Programs approved under the Ministry's degree assessment process refer to DQAB in their descriptions.

Trinity Western University is authorized by the Washington Student Achievement Council and meets the requirements and minimum educational standards established for degree-granting institutions under the Degree-Granting Institutions Act. This authorization is subject to periodic review and authorizes Trinity Western University to offer specific degree programs. The council may be contacted for a list of currently authorized programs. Authorization by the Council does not carry with an endorsement by the Council of the institution or its programs. Any person desiring information about the requirements of the act or the applicability of those requirements to the institution may contact the council at P.O. Box 43430, Olympia, WA 98504-3430.

Faculty

Trinity Western faculty members are selected on the basis of academic preparation, teaching ability, and commitment to the Christian faith. They have graduate degrees from numerous institutions, with most full-time professors holding doctorates. As a community of scholars, researchers, teachers, and Christian leaders, they bring to Trinity Western unique talents and gifts, which help to form and guide students toward achieving their utmost potential. In support of this, faculty are encouraged to develop professionally and to integrate biblical truth in their studies and research.

Staff

Staff members serving in all capacities seek to exemplify the mission statement and serve the students in a myriad of ways. They come from various fields such as business, government, education and Christian service, contributing their unique talents, thereby enabling Trinity Western to operate as an efficient, caring community.

Leadership

University education can play a significant role in the development of leaders. Studies in the arts and sciences cultivate key ingredients of effective leadership such as knowledge that can earn respect, balanced judgment, breadth of perspective, precise and creative thinking, and communication skills. Because of its Christian philosophy, Trinity Western also seeks to develop in its students an ever-deepening appreciation for God's creation; mental, spiritual, and emotional capacity for effective living; and an attitude of service. In this endeavour, Trinity Western seeks to follow in the tradition of other Christian universities with long and respected records of rich, beneficial contributions to society.

Whole-Person Approach

Just as Christianity addresses the whole person—body, mind, and spirit—so a Christian university education must speak to the whole person—developing students intellectually, socially, emotionally, physically, and spiritually within all these dimensions of life. Trinity Western terms this approach “total personal development.” Together, the dual emphasis of Christian integration in the classroom and total personal development provides an excellent atmosphere for nurturing qualities of Christian character, of a biblical attitude of service, of uplifting and encouraging others, of using one's abilities to further God's plan and purposes for humankind, and of thinking creatively and biblically about the world.

As a Christian university, Trinity Western University openly espouses a unifying philosophical framework to which all faculty and staff are committed without reservation. The University identifies with and is committed to historic orthodox Christianity as expressed by the official Statement of Faith.

We believe:

1. The Scriptures, both Old and New Testaments, to be the inspired Word of God, without error, in the original writings, the complete revelation of His will for the salvation of men and women and the divine and final authority for all Christian faith and life.
2. In one God, creator of all things, infinitely perfect and eternally existing in three persons, Father, Son, and Holy Spirit.

3. That Jesus Christ is true God and true man, having been conceived of the Holy Spirit and born of the Virgin Mary. He died on the cross, a sacrifice for our sins according to the Scriptures. Further, He arose bodily from the dead, ascended into Heaven, where, at the right hand of the Majesty on High, He is now our High Priest and Advocate.
4. That the ministry of the Holy Spirit is to glorify the Lord Jesus Christ and during this age to convict men and women; regenerate the believing sinner; indwell, guide, instruct, and empower the believer for godly living and service.
5. That humankind was created in the image of God but fell into sin and is therefore lost, and only through regeneration by the Holy Spirit can salvation and spiritual life be obtained.
6. That the shed blood of Jesus Christ and His resurrection provide the only ground for justification and salvation for all who believe, and only such as receive Jesus Christ are born of the Holy Spirit and thus become children of God.
7. That water baptism and the Lord's Supper are ordinances to be observed by the Church during the present age. They are, however, not to be regarded as means of salvation.
8. That the true Church is composed of all persons who, through saving faith in Jesus Christ, have been regenerated by the Holy Spirit and are united together in the body of Christ, of which He is the head.
9. That only those who are thus members of the true Church shall be eligible for membership in the local church.
10. That Jesus Christ is the Lord and Head of the Church, and that every local church has the right under Christ to decide and govern its own affairs.
11. In the personal, premillennial, and imminent coming of our Lord Jesus Christ and that this Blessed Hope has a vital bearing on the personal life and service of the believer.

12. In the bodily resurrection of the dead; of the believer to everlasting blessedness and joy with the Lord, of the unbeliever to judgment and everlasting conscious punishment.

Admissions and Registration

Trinity Western University desires to provide, for people of any race, colour, or creed, a university education in the arts and sciences with an integrated Christian world view.

Each applicant should respect these aims and objectives and to adhere to these regulations and standards of conduct.

The University reserves the right to grant, deny, or revoke the admission of any applicant or student on the basis of his or her inability to fully commit to and comply with the University's Community Covenant and/or policies and guidelines of the University. Further, the University reserves the right to grant or deny admission to any applicant on the basis of criteria outlined below. Limitation of facilities, personnel, or other considerations may also place restrictions on admission to the University and/or specific programs.

Academic Success

For academic success at Trinity Western University, students should consider taking the appropriate background courses for their intended major or admission to the program may be deferred. Contact the Admissions Office for more information: 604.513.2019, toll free at 1.888.GO.TO.TWU (468.6898), admissions@twu.ca, or twu.ca/undergraduate

C+ average (67 per cent) or higher in high school course work is required for admission to TWU (except for the School of Nursing). Consideration is also given to the student's character and career goals. Applicants who fail to meet normal academic requirements are assessed individually on their potential for success in university studies.

Additional conditions may be prescribed which must be fulfilled if admission is granted.

The University offers two Writing courses, WRTG 100 and WRTG 101, to develop students' foundational research, writing, and analytical skills in order to facilitate success in all university courses. Writing 100 is designed for students whose native language is English; Writing 101 is designed for students who are speakers of other languages or whose English education has been international. All students must take a Writing course in their first semester of full-time study at TWU or upon completing 26 sem. hrs. of part-time study unless they have demonstrated proficiency in these areas according to the criteria listed below. Students who do not pass the WRTG course in their first semester must register for the course in the following semester. A third attempt at passing a Writing course can be made only with written permission from the Office of the Registrar. Students must pass a Writing course before proceeding to the appropriate English course in the following semester.

Students who pass WRTG 100 should register in ENGL 103 the following semester, followed by ENGL 104. Students who pass WRTG 101 should register in ENGL 101 the following semester, ideally followed by ENGL 102, a literature course with a global focus. However, after passing WRTG 101, students may choose to follow the same path as students who have passed WRTG 100: ENGL 103, followed by ENGL 104.

If students entering TWU directly from high school meet at least one of the following criteria before beginning classes in their first semester at TWU, they will be exempted from the required Writing course and may choose to enroll in English 103:

- a final grade of 73% (B) in BC English 12 or the equivalent of BC English 12

- a score of 570 or higher on the writing portion of the SAT
- a score of 23 or higher on the English portion of the ACT
- score of 5 on the essay component of the LPI (Language Proficiency Index) test (www.lpitest.ca)

If students transferring to TWU from another post-secondary institution meet at least one of the following criteria before beginning classes in their first semester at TWU, they will be exempted from the required Writing course and may enroll directly in English*:

- 67% (C+) in a post-secondary English course from a recognized English-speaking post-secondary institution
- score of 5 on the essay component of the LPI (Language Proficiency Index) test (www.lpitest.ca)
- a completed Bachelor's degree from a recognized English-speaking post-secondary institution
- If transfer students do not have any post-secondary English credit, they will be assessed the same as a student entering from high school.

*if the Core English requirements have not already been satisfied by transfer credits

Students must submit a completed application including all official transcripts and related documents before an admissions decision is made. Students from outside North America must submit an application fee of $150 before an admissions decision can be made.

Visiting Campus

A campus visit program is available throughout the week to provide prospective students with a thorough understanding of what life and learning is like at TWU. Students are encouraged to attend one of the scheduled Preview Weekends, Preview Days, or to arrange an individual campus tour. To learn more about visiting TWU, or to register for a visit, go to twu.ca/undergraduate/visit or email visit@twu.ca. Application Procedure

The application for admission is online at twu.ca/undergraduate.

After the online application is complete, mail all supporting documentation to:

In Canada: Trinity Western University
Admissions, 7600 Glover Road, Langley, BC V2Y
1Y1

In USA: Trinity Western University Admissions,
PO Box 1409, Blaine, WA 98231-1409

Application Fee: Applications for students with current addresses outside of North America must be accompanied by a $150 application fee.

Learning Disabilities

Students with a disability who need assistance are encouraged to contact the Equity of Access Office upon admission to TWU to discuss their specific needs. All disabilities must be recently documented by an appropriately certified professional and include the educational impact of the disability along with recommended accommodations.

Within the first two weeks of the semester, students must meet with their professors to agree on accommodations appropriate to each class. For further information see the Students with Disabilities section in this Calendar.

Orientation Program

An orientation program for all new students occurs at the beginning of each semester for the first several weeks. The purpose of the extended orientation program is to assist students in adjusting to university life. During this program, there are important discussions, instructions, and tests, making it imperative for all new students to be present.

Program Specifics

Aviation

In addition to the general University requirements, applicants to the Aviation program must also have completed the following with a minimum grade of C+ in each: Pre-Calculus 11 or Foundations of Mathematics 11 (preference given to applicants with Pre-Calculus 12 or Foundations of Mathematics 12), Physics 11, and English 12. Physics 12, Computer Science 11, and 1 French, or another language, are strongly recommended.

Trinity Western University has a cooperative agreement with Coastal Pacific Aviation and the University of the Fraser Valley for students who wish to combine quality aviation training with academic studies towards a university degree (baccalaureate) or an Associate of Arts diploma.

Students must make separate applications to Trinity Western University and to Coastal Pacific Aviation. Students can apply to Coastal Pacific after they have begun their studies at Trinity Western University, although they must be accepted by both institutions for admission to the Aviation program.

Applicants to Coastal Pacific must have a current Canadian Private Pilot's Licence or make arrangements for completion prior to enrolment. Summer courses are offered at Coastal Pacific Aviation for students to complete their Private Pilot's Licence before beginning in the fall. Please contact Coastal Pacific Aviation at 604.855.1112 for more information on summer courses. Applicants must hold a Licence Validation Certificate showing Transport Canada Category 1 medical.

Applicants must also satisfy an entrance evaluation that includes one or more interview(s), a qualifying exam, and an assessment of references.

The Aviation program starts in September and the application deadline is February 28. Late applications may be considered if space permits. For an application to TWU, call 604.513.2019, 1.888. GO.TO.TWU (468.6898), or email admissions@twu.ca. For further information regarding the flight training component and for an application packet, call Coastal Pacific Aviation at 604.855.1112, or visitcoastalpacific.com. Students also need to complete a separate application to the University of the Fraser Valley. Contact the Admissions Office for more information.

Nursing

Admission to the TWU School of Nursing is limited to 60 students and students begin in the fall semester only. Students applying to Nursing must complete both an application to the University and one to the School of Nursing (a separate application and reference). Visit twu.ca/undergraduate.

Admission into the School of Nursing is competitive and based upon academic admission requirements, the nursing application, references, and relevant work and volunteer experience. Applications are reviewed for nursing admission after the February 28 deadline for the following fall semester. Applications will not be considered until all required components have been received. Late applications will be considered on a space availability basis.

In addition to meeting TWU entrance requirements, admission to the School of Nursing requires completion of Grade 12 or GED with a minimum cumulative GPA of B- in Biology 12, Chemistry 12, English 12, and Pre-Calculus 11 (Math 11 in old BC curriculum) with a minimum standing of C+ in each course.

Transfer students from colleges and universities, including TWU, must meet the entrance requirements outlined above. University credits must meet the stipulated minimum requirements within the School of Nursing: C in science courses, C average in all other courses, and C+ in any prior nursing credits. Transferring nursing credits into the TWU School of Nursing should not be assumed. Courses are considered on an individual basis. Transfer credits do not usually shorten the four years required to complete the TWU School of Nursing program.

Admitted students will receive notification by letter and/or a telephone call from their admissions counsellor. All admitted students must forward a $500 deposit by May 1 to confirm their admission into the School of Nursing (in addition to the $400 admissions deposit). Those who do not make this payment by May 1 will lose their place in the program. This deposit is non-refundable after May 1. Students who meet the entrance criteria but who are not admitted are placed on a deferred admission list. Students from this list may be admitted after May 1 providing there is a place in the program. Applications received after March 15 will be reviewed space permitting.

Personal interviews with nursing faculty may be required prior to admission to the School of Nursing.

Current TWU students who wish to transfer into the School of Nursing may pick up an application package from the School of Nursing faculty assistant. Completed application forms and supporting documentation must be submitted by February 28.

Students with English as a second language are required to meet the English Proficiency Requirements outlined in this Calendar.

Residence Requirement

Trinity Western University is committed to providing on-campus residence that assists students in personal growth. The University believes that residential living contributes significantly to the development of the total person and his or her persistence in post-secondary studies. To enhance the accomplishment of its mission “to develop godly Christian leaders,” the University requires that all full-time (12 or more sem. hrs.) students live on campus for their first two years or until third year standing of at least 57 sem. hrs. is achieved.

Automatic exceptions to this policy will apply to anyone who is: married, living with parent(s)/ legal guardian, at least 21 years of age, or enrolled in part-time studies (11 sem. hrs. or less). Appeals for circumstances not mentioned in the previous exceptions may be submitted in writing to the Campus Service Centre no later than July 1 (for the fall semester) and November 1 (for the spring semester). Until an appeal is granted, the residence requirement remains in effect. Students living outside Trinity Western’s residence requirement will be seen as not fulfilling the requirements of enrolment and may be required to deregister from the University.

Ontario

Students graduating from the Ontario High School curriculum must successfully complete an Ontario Secondary School Diploma (OSSD) or equivalent, with an overall minimum average of 65 per cent in six Grade 12 U or M courses, one of which must be Grade 12 U English. In addition to English, three courses must be from the following areas:

Geography

- Canadian and World Issues: A Geographic Analysis (CGW4U)
- World Geography: Human Patterns and Interactions (CGU4U)
- The Environment and Resource Management (CGR4M)
- Geomatics: Geotechnologies in Action (CGO4M)

History

- Canada: History, Identity, and Culture (CGI4U)
- World History: The West and the World (CGY4U)

Politics

- Canadian and World Politics (CPW4U)
- Analyzing Current Economic Issues (CIA4U)
- Canadian and International Law (CLN4U)

English

- English (ENG4U)
- Studies in Literature (ETS4U)
- The Writer's Craft (EWC4U)

Languages

- Any foreign language at the U level

Math

- Geometry and Discrete Mathematics (MGA4U)
- Advanced Functions and Introductory Calculus (MCB4U)
- Mathematics and Data Management (MDM4U)

Native Studies

- Issues of Indigenous Peoples in a Global Context (NDW4M)
- Aboriginal Governance: Emerging Directions (NDG4M)

Science

- Science 12 (SNC4M)
- Biology (SBI4U)
- Chemistry (SCH4U)
- Earth and Space Science (SES4U)
- Physics (SPH4U)

Philosophy

- Philosophy: Questions and Theories (HZT4U)

Religion

- Religious Education (HRE4M) (HRE4M or an equivalent may be used as part of the admission decision, but it will not count towards the four required academic subjects.)

*Students who graduated from an Ontario high school prior to June 2004 are evaluated using the old curriculum. Completion of the Ontario Secondary School Diploma (OSSD) including a minimum of six Ontario academic courses (OACs), one of which must be English, with a minimum of 65 per cent overall average in OACs. Consideration for admission is given to students who have completed the OSSD with four OACs (including English) where a minimum of 70 per cent overall has been achieved.

Quebec

Successful completion of the first year of a CEGEP program including academic subjects with a 60 per cent average. Students who have completed a two-year CEGEP program may be eligible for transfer credit to a maximum of 30 sem. hrs. A minimum grade of 65 per cent must be achieved for a course to be considered for transfer credit.

New Brunswick

Graduation from an accredited high school with a minimum average of 65 per cent in English 122, plus three academic subjects from the following list:

- Adv. Math 120
- Adv. Math 122
- American History 120
- AP courses (except Art or Music)
- Biology 122
- Calculus 120
- Canadian Geography 120

International Baccalaureate (IB) Diploma

Students who are in the process of completing the IB Diploma will be considered for admission to the University based on their predicted grades. A minimum total score of 24 points, including the Extended Essay and Theory of Knowledge, will be required for general admission to the University. A higher score may be required for admission to the School of Nursing or Aviation program, specifically in program prerequisites. TWU requires that students submit the following items, signed, stamped, and sealed by their high school counsellor:

- the Anticipated IB Grades Form (available at twu.ca/undergraduate);
- an official high school transcript showing courses completed and grades attained for Grades 9 to 11;
- an official interim high school transcript that shows all other courses in progress (including
- IB courses).

In addition, upon completion of the IB Diploma, a final transcript will be required to complete the offer of admission and assessment of university credit for the IB Diploma courses. Students completing the IB Diploma may be considered for financial aid based on their predicted grades. Refer to twu.ca/financial-aid for details.

IB Certificate Courses

Students completing one or more Certificate courses will be evaluated for admission based on their interim high school and IB Certificate grades. Predicted grades must be submitted in the same manner as those students completing the IB Diploma. Students' predicted grades will be converted to a percentage based on the chart below (for Certificate courses only).

IB Certificate Converted to Percentage
7	96 per cent
6	90 per cent
5	86 per cent
4	76 per cent
3	70 per cent
2	64 per cent

University Credit for IB Diploma and Certificate Courses

IB courses will be considered for advanced credit, provided the student has received a minimum grade of 4 for each course submitted. An IB transcript is required to make this assessment. A transfer guide of IB courses to TWU is available at BC Transfer Guide.

Advanced Placement

Trinity Western University will grant high school graduates credit for Advanced Placement courses in which a minimum grade of 4 (on a scale of 1 to 5 with 5 being the highest) has been achieved. Transfer credit will be based on courses approved for first year or equivalent course credit by the faculty concerned. An Advanced Placement grade report is required to make this assessment. All AP courses with pre-approved TWU transfer equivalents are posted in an online transfer guide at BC Transfer Guide.

Homeschool Policy

Students who complete their secondary education through homeschooling must complete the regular application for admission and submit academic records of all high school work completed. Students completing their home studies under the supervision of an accredited school/organization will be assessed using admissions policy for the province in which they are studying (see provincial admission requirements for full details.) Students who do not follow the provincial graduation program, or who are not studying under the supervision of an accredited school/organization may still be eligible for admission, but will be assessed on a case-by-case basis. The University reserves the right to require additional academic course work or to request standardized testing be completed before admission is granted.

Unaccredited High Schools

Students graduating from unaccredited high schools are considered for admission on academic trial and may be required to meet additional conditions before being granted admission to Trinity Western University. Graduates of the Accelerated Christian Education program are considered for regular admission if they graduate from a Model Status school with the college preparation program and submit an acceptable SAT or ACT score (please see SAT and/or ACT details in the US Students section).

General Education Development (GED)

Students who do not complete a regular provincial high school diploma may complete a Test of General Education Development as an alternative to high school graduation. Admission to Trinity Western will be granted providing a standard score average of 500 is achieved with a minimum of 450 in any of the five individual tests. Eligibility to complete the GED may vary from province to province. Students are encouraged to contact their local school board for more information. B.C. Adult Graduation Diploma (BCAGD) Applicants who have completed the Adult Graduation Diploma will be considered for admission provided they are at least 19 years old and have completed the Diploma with four provincial level academic courses, one of which must be English. A minimum average of 67 per cent is required in these courses.

International Students

Requirements for international students include:

- a) English language proficiency;
 - b) Proof of high school graduation; and
 - c) Specific high school course and GPA requirements, which vary by country.
- Contact the Admissions Department for country-specific entrance requirements.

Academic ESL Requirements

Students whose TOEFL, IELTS, or CAEL scores do not meet the minimum requirement but who qualify academically to attend TWU may seek entrance to the University through the English as a Second Language International (ESLI) program at Trinity Western. These students must register with ESLI and will be assessed regarding their English skills during Orientation Week, at which time they will be placed in the appropriate ESL level. Upon completion of level 5, they may enrol in an undergraduate degree program without a TOEFL, IELTS, or CAEL score. For more information, see Affiliate Institutions: ESLI Language Centre section in this Calendar.

CAEL Requirement

Trinity Western University accepts the Canadian Academic English Language score as an alternative to the TOEFL or IELTS. A minimum overall score of 70 is required for admission, with no section score lower than 60 for undergraduate admissions. For more information on the CAEL test, go to cael.ca.

Documents

Official supporting documentation must be submitted. Documents that cannot be replaced should be sent via registered mail.

English Proficiency Requirement

Applicants must possess proficiency in both oral and written academic English. Those applicants whose native language is not English are required to demonstrate this proficiency regardless of their academic qualifications. TWU accepts official original results from TOEFL, IELTS, CAEL, and the ESLI proficiency exams. These results must be submitted at the time of application. Applicants may also complete the academic TWU/ESL program (see Academic ESL Requirements). As well, students must complete WRTG 101 and ENGL 101 in their first year of full-time study at Trinity Western University.

Proof of English language proficiency is required from all international students with the exception of natives of the following countries (for whom English is their first language):

- Australia
- Ireland
- New Zealand
- United States
- United Kingdom
- Countries of the West Indies except Cuba, Dominican Republic, Haiti, Martinique, Netherlands Antilles, Puerto Rico, St. Lucia
- South Africa

In the case of those who are not native to these countries but who have studied at a high school or post-secondary level in one of them, proof of English language proficiency is still required if less than four years of study have been completed. In cases of four years or more, the student's completed application will be reviewed and the language requirement may be waived. This will be assessed on a case-by-case basis. Students must submit a letter of appeal requesting this requirement be waived. If it is waived, WRTG 101 must normally be completed in the student's first semester.

ESL Proficiency Exam

Applicants who have not submitted a TOEFL, IELTS, or CAEL report may write an ESL Proficiency Exam through the English as a Second Language International (ESLI) Language Centre at TWU. Students who achieve 70 on the exam will be admitted to a regular undergraduate university program. Students who do not achieve the minimum score required for admission to a University program may study in the ESLI program until they have achieved the recommended standing. This exam is administered on the TWU campus. Students must first make full application to Trinity Western before writing the Proficiency Exam.

IELTS Requirement

Trinity Western University will accept the International English Language Testing System

(IELTS) score report as an alternative to TOEFL. A minimum score of 6.5 (with no part less than 6) is required for admission. For more information on the IELTS test, visit ielts.org.

Immigration Requirements

International students need to apply for an entry visa and a study permit with the Canadian Embassy, High Commission, or Consulate in their own country. No person is permitted to enter Canada as a student without presenting the required documents to immigration officials at the port of entry. Application for a visa and study permit should be made as early as possible to ensure sufficient time for processing. For more information, visit cic.gc.ca/english/study/index.html.

International Transfer Credit Evaluations

Transfer credit from international schools must be assessed by an external international credit evaluation agency. All transcripts sent to an international credit evaluation agency must be official documentation. International evaluation reports that are based on unofficial transcripts will not be accepted for transfer credit. To avoid delays in receiving transfer credit, students should submit an international credit evaluation report during the admission process. The cost is determined by the agency. TWU recommends the International Credential Evaluation Service (ICES) through BCIT, a member of the Alliance of Credential Evaluation Services of Canada. This agency conducts evaluations for several BC universities. They may be contacted at bcit.ca/ices. Students are welcome to use World Education Services (WES), International Qualifications Assessment Services (IQAS), International Credentials Assessment Services, or any evaluation agency that is a member of the Alliance of Credential Services of Canada.

TOEFL Requirements

Regular admission requires a TOEFL score of at least 88 (Internet-based) and a Test of Written English (TWE) score of at least 5.

Students taking the iBT must achieve a minimum score of 21 in each of the four areas with a total overall score of 88.

For more information about TOEFL examinations, please contact:
Educational Testing Service
Box 899 Princeton, New Jersey USA 08541
Tel: 609.771.7100
Website: toefl.org

To send TOEFL results directly to Trinity Western University and to receive them more quickly, students should use code 0876.

US Students

To ensure success at university, applicants should have graduated from an accredited high school and have the following units in their college preparation course work:

English	4
Mathematics	3
Social Sciences	2
Science	2 (with one lab science)
Other college prep	2

It is recommended that a minimum of six solid subjects be completed in the applicant's junior and senior years, including a minimum of three solids in the senior year.

Admission is based upon a combination of the application, the applicant's GPA in the above course work, and satisfactory standardized test scores. A minimum GPA of 2.5 in these courses with a combined SAT score of 1590 (1060 on old

2 section SAT) or an ACT score of 22 meets the minimum admission requirement. Scores should be sent directly to Trinity Western Admissions by using the following code numbers: SAT — 0876; ACT — 5242. For information on the new SAT requirements, contact the Admissions Office. Students studying US curriculum outside the United States are expected to meet the same criteria.

Advanced Placement and International Baccalaureate

Please see details under Canadian Students section.

General Education Development

Students who do not earn a regular high school diploma may complete a Test of General Education Development as an alternative to high school graduation. Admission to Trinity Western will be granted providing that a standard score average of 500 is achieved with a minimum of 450 in any of the five individual tests. Students who are under 19 years of age must submit an SAT or an ACT score report in addition to the completion of the GED. A minimum of 1590 on the SAT (1060 on old 2 section SAT) and 22 on the ACT is required for admission.

Immigration Requirements

United States citizens and legal residents thereof are allowed to apply for student visas at a Canadian port of entry. A student must be:
in possession of an official letter of acceptance from Trinity Western University have evidence of sufficient funds for all tuition and accommodation expenses be in good health and of good character have either identification establishing his or her US citizenship or a US alien resident card

A processing fee ($125 Cdn. cash) will be collected at the port of entry. Students should contact the nearest Canadian embassy or consulate if they have questions about required documentation.

Mature Students

Applicants who do not fully meet the academic requirements for admission to the University may be admitted if there are indications of compensating strengths or other factors that point to probable success in university studies. Such students must be 21 years of age or older and have been out of school for at least one year.

Applicants in this category must have completed a high school diploma or equivalent. Please refer to the previous Canadian Students and US Students sections for more information about the Test of General Education Development and the BC Adult Graduation Diploma.

Any US student admitted as a mature student must have a high school diploma or its equivalent to be eligible for Title IV funds.

Transfer Students

Transfer students must present the same application forms and high school transcript as those applying for first year standing. In addition, an official transcript from each post-secondary institution attended must be submitted. Additional information such as course descriptions/syllabi may be requested from the Admissions Office to assist with evaluation. Students may find out what courses have been transferred from their college or university by visiting twu.ca/undergraduate to access TWU's transfer credit database. Courses that cannot be found in the database will require an evaluation. Syllabi and/or course descriptions are required for the evaluation process. Please note that all course descriptions/syllabi must be from the year in which the course was taken. An official transfer credit assessment will be completed upon submission of a completed application.

Transfer students may be eligible for admission to the University upon completion of one semester of full-time studies (12 credits/hours or more) in a university transfer program, if they have also met the high school requirements in their home province. Admission will be based upon achievement in this post-secondary course work and previous college or high school work. A minimum cumulative GPA of 2.0 (C) is required on all post-secondary course work. Students who have completed a minimum of 27 credits/hours of course work may be admitted solely on the basis of their performance in post-secondary course work. A high school transcript is still required as part of the application as the Admissions Office requires a complete academic history of all students.

The University reserves the right to accept only courses that comply with the academic standards established by TWU and with the requirements for graduation. See Graduation Requirements section in this Calendar.

The maximum number of semester hours accepted for transfer credit from various post-secondary institutions is 75. Individual maximums are as follows:

Universities and Community Colleges –

A maximum of 75 sem. hrs. of transfer credit will be given for all acceptable courses with a passing grade (D and higher).

Note: Some required courses in Business, Education, and Nursing programs require a minimum letter grade above that of a pass. In cases where a lower grade than the minimum required is achieved, no credit will be granted and the course must be retaken at Trinity Western University to meet graduation requirements.

Bible colleges accredited with the Association for Biblical Higher Education (ABHE) –

A maximum of 60 sem. hrs. of appropriate courses of which a maximum of 24 sem. hrs. may be biblical studies and 36 sem. hrs. may be liberal arts courses. Transfer credit will be given for all acceptable courses completed with a C- grade (60 per cent) or higher.

Bible college courses that have been articulated with a public university may be assigned credit for these courses above the maximum totals indicated. Applicants from Bible colleges with candidate status with the ABHE are eligible for a maximum of 48 sem. hrs. of appropriate courses of which 24 sem. hrs. may be biblical studies and 24 sem. hrs. may be liberal arts courses. Transfer credit will be given for all acceptable courses completed with a C- grade (60 per cent) or higher.

Applicants from Bible colleges not accredited with the Association for Biblical Higher Education (ABHE) should not expect to receive transfer credit for work completed at Bible college except by appeal and careful review by the University. (Such a review would normally include evaluation of course syllabi and instructor credentials.) No credit will be given for work completed in practical discipleship training programs.

Note: Due to teacher certification requirements, TWU's Teacher Education program can accept Bible college transfer credit only if the Bible college is a fully accredited member of the Association for Biblical Higher Education (ABHE) or is a member of a recognized regional college and university accreditation body. Students must still meet the normal Education degree and other TWU degree graduation requirements. Transfer credit from colleges with candidate or unaccredited status will not be accepted.

Institutes of Technology and Colleges of Applied Arts –

Courses will be considered on a course-by-course basis where a minimum grade of B- (73%) has been obtained. A maximum of 45 sem. hrs. of credit will be awarded for such course work. Course outlines/ syllabi are normally required to facilitate this process.

Note: Students transferring from the British Columbia Institute of Technology may transfer up to 75 sem. hrs. of course work to TWU. Courses eligible for transfer must have equivalency and have a passing grade (no less than a D).

Transfer Credit Limits –

Students will be able to transfer upper level courses taken at other institutions subject to the following limits (Note: Any exceptions to the major, concentration, and minor upper level limits stipulated below must be recommended by the relevant faculty or school dean and approved by the Vice Provost. See the department concerned for further details):

- courses in student's major field: 24 to 27 upper level sem. hrs. are required; a maximum of 9 of these can be taken at institutions other than Trinity Western University
- courses in student's field of concentration: 12 upper level sem. hrs. are required; a maximum of 6 of these can be taken at institutions other than Trinity Western University
- courses in student's minor field: 9 to 12 upper level sem. hrs. are required; a maximum of 3 of these can be taken at institutions other than Trinity Western University
- Courses outside of student's major, concentration, or minor:
- no limit to the transferability of appropriate upper level courses for elective credit, subject to the policies on (1) residency and (2) limits in major, concentration, or minor fields
- notwithstanding the above, no Trinity Western University baccalaureate degree can be earned in a major (or general degree in minors) that the University does not offer
- a student may not declare a major, concentration, or minor in any field not offered as such by the University (e.g., engineering)

- students who have transferred to Trinity Western University from other post-secondary institutions with at least 57 sem. hrs. of transfer credit may be eligible for adjustment in the core requirements (see Graduation Requirements section)

Block Transfer for British Columbia Associate of Arts or Science Degrees —

Trinity Western University guarantees 60 sem. hrs. of transfer credit to students who enter TWU with an Associate of Arts or Associate of Science degree that is awarded by a recognized college, university college, or university. Unless an institutional agreement has been established, students must still meet all 100 and 200 level course requirements for specific degree programs and this may require students to take more than 122 sem. hrs. to earn a Trinity Western degree. It is advised that transfer students plan their college course selection well in advance of transfer to TWU to help ensure courses meet graduation requirements. Courses for which no equivalent TWU course exists will be given unassigned credit at the lower level.

International Transfer Credit Evaluations —

Transfer credit from international schools must be assessed by an external international credit evaluation agency. Please note that all transcripts sent to an international credit evaluation agency must be official documentation. International evaluation reports that are based on unofficial transcripts will not be accepted for transfer credit. To avoid delays in receiving transfer credit, students should submit an international credit evaluation report during the admission process. The cost is determined by the agency. TWU recommends the International Credential Evaluation Service (ICES) through BCIT, a member of the Alliance of Credential Evaluation Services of Canada. This agency conducts evaluations for several British Columbia universities. They may be contacted atbcit.ca/ices. Students are welcome to use any evaluation agency that is a member of the Alliance of Credential Services of Canada.

The Undergraduate Admissions Office

Brian Kerr, Executive Director

The Undergraduate Admissions Office provides prospective students and their families with information and resources they need to make an informed post-secondary decision. It also provides prospective students with personalized service in a timely and efficient manner.

The Undergraduate Admissions Office services include high school visits, representation at college and career fairs, on-campus visits, individual appointments with admissions counsellors, and course pre-registration for new students. The Undergraduate Admissions Office is responsible for the distribution of all information related to Trinity Western University and its undergraduate programs including applications and the Academic Calendar. The Office serves as a liaison between new undergraduate students and other University offices such as Financial Aid, the Office of the Registrar, the Advising Office, and the Housing Office.

Student Classifications*Traditional (Degree) Studies Student*

Students are referred to as being either part-time (1 to 11 sem. hrs. per semester) or full-time (12 or more sem. hrs. per semester), and in a particular year of their study based on the following number of semester hours completed: first year (0 to 26 sem. hrs.); second year (27 to 56 sem. hrs.); third year (57 to 89 sem. hrs.); and fourth year (90+ sem. hrs.).

Casual Studies Student

Individuals who wish to register in university courses for up to 9 sem. hrs. in one semester without admission to a degree program or specific program may do so through TWU Extension. Credit courses taken in the casual studies program may count towards a degree program upon application and admission to the traditional (degree) studies program. Students may complete up to a total of 27 sem. hrs. before full application and admission to TWU is required.

Auditor

A limited number of people who wish to enjoy some of the benefits of university study without being required to fulfil the normal requirements of courses taken for credit may enrol as auditors.

In all cases, admission to the University is required, although a simplified admission procedure is used. International students must meet the regular university TOEFL, IELTS, or CAEL requirement. Students may not pre-register to audit a course.

Students wishing to change to audit status in a course must do so within the first two weeks of each semester by contacting the Office of the Registrar. Faithful attendance must be maintained by auditors.

Pre-registration*New Students*

Course selection and scheduling for new students may be completed through the pre-registration program and services provided by the Admissions Office. Details regarding new student pre-registration will be included with the student's letter of admission. Students who do not pre-register may register in person upon arrival at the University.

Current Students

Students currently enrolled at TWU can pre-register for classes in November (for spring) and in March (for fall). Refer to the Calendar of Important Dates for exact dates.

Registration is permitted until the deadline for add/ drop. However, because many courses fill quickly, students are encouraged to register as early as possible to ensure the best course and schedule selections.

Course Load

Normal course load for undergraduate students per semester is 15 to 17 sem. hrs.; students may not enrol in more than 19 semester hours in one term, unless permission is granted by the Dean of the program in which the student is enrolled, or the student's program so specifies.

The Advising Office

Gordon M. Gillion, Ph.D., Director

Academic advising is an integral component of the learning process at Trinity Western University. The Advising Office personnel are available to assist students in developing their program of studies. Services include the selection of a degree program, long-term planning, course selection for each semester, and the adjustment to academic life.

The Advising Office, in consultation with the Office of the Registrar and the deans of the faculties and schools, will assign each student (advisee) to an academic advisor. Each advisor is a faculty member in the advisee's chosen field of study, thus ensuring a perspective from which guidance on discipline-specific issues such as careers and graduate study options can be provided.

As students progress through their educational experience at TWU, they may find that a change of program and/or advisor is necessary. The Advising Office is available to facilitate any changes. The overarching goal of the Advising Office is to ensure that each student progresses through to graduation.

The Advising Office collaborates with the Admissions Office, the Office of the Registrar, Financial Aid, Student Life, and all faculties and schools.

Program of Study

In developing a program of study, consideration should be given to the student's background and special interests as well as to the general course requirements for graduation as outlined in the program checklist for each program. Of necessity, the course selection for a given semester will depend upon the official timetable of course offerings for that semester. (Some courses are offered in alternate years.)

Note: It is the sole responsibility of the student to ensure that the courses required for the granting of a degree have been completed satisfactorily. Students are therefore cautioned to be absolutely certain that the number and combination of their courses meet all University and departmental requirements.

Permission to Study Elsewhere

Trinity Western students who wish to pursue studies at other universities or colleges with the intention of obtaining credit toward a degree at Trinity Western must complete a Letter of Permission worksheet available from the Office of the Registrar prior to their enrolment at another institution. Once the requested courses have been evaluated, a summary of transfer credit equivalents will be available on the student's Transfer Credit summary. Letters are available from the Transfer Credit office if required by the other institution for visiting student status. Students are responsible for ensuring that an official transcript of their grades is sent from the host institution to Trinity Western.

Note: Application for evaluation does not guarantee TWU Transfer Credit. There is a nominal processing fee for a Letter of Permission for institutions outside of BC. Testing

Math Survey Exam — All students entering Natural and Applied Science programs in Biology, Chemistry, Computing Science, Environmental Studies, Mathematics, or Physics must write a Math Survey Exam during orientation week. The exam tests general understanding of math skills, mainly at the grade 9 to 11 levels and provides an indication of the student's overall ability in math.

Music Placement Test — This test is designed by the Department of Music to measure the knowledge of rudimentary music theory of students wishing to take courses in music theory or history (not for MUSI 110 Fundamentals of Music or MUSI 150 Music Appreciation). It is not required for students who wish to participate in applied music courses. This short test covers material equivalent to Grade 2 Rudiments as prescribed by the Royal Conservatory of Music in Toronto.

RELS 101, 102 Challenge Examination —

Please see Graduation Requirements section. See the Religious Studies Department chair for details. Academic Standing

Scholastic Distinction — To encourage high standards of scholarship at Trinity Western University, the following scholastic honours will be recognized:

Full-time students who achieve 3.60 or higher current grade point average are listed on the Dean's List each semester (Pass/Fail courses do not count toward Dean's List status)

Recognition of high levels of scholastic achievement will be made upon graduation, i.e. great distinction for a cumulative GPA of 3.70 or higher and distinction for a cumulative GPA of 3.30 to 3.69

Academic Probation — All Trinity Western University students are expected to maintain a level of academic achievement that will enable them to graduate at the completion of their program. The University minimum cumulative GPA is 2.00; some departments, especially those involved with professional programs, set the minimum GPA at a higher level. In order to continue in their program from semester to semester, students whose cumulative GPA is below 2.0 during first and second year, or below 2.10 during third and fourth year, must achieve academic standards that are monitored by the Academic Standards Committee. Failure to meet these standards will result in restrictions on course registration and may result in required enrolment in the Academic Recovery Program and/ or being required to withdraw from the University. Students below the required GPA (2.0 during first and second year, or 2.10 during third and fourth year) are notified of their status after the completion of each semester and are encouraged to engage a plan to improve their academic standing. Programs available at the University to assist students in this regard include the Study Skills course and the Choosing to Succeed program. If a student continues to report an unacceptably low GPA after several semesters, the University will normally require the student to withdraw.

Academic trial for the first semester of attendance may be required for students with a low standardized test score or who have completed an ACE program, providing these students with an opportunity to achieve success in university studies. Such students should take SKLS 001 (Study Skills) and have a reduced academic course load.

Attendance

It is the responsibility of the student to attend all class sessions of courses for which he or she is registered. Responsibility in this sense is intended to include participation in the class discussion as well as receiving the benefits of class lectures and reports. An instructor may bar a student from writing the final examination of his or her course if the student has been absent without permission or legitimate cause for more than one-quarter of the classes. Specific regulations regarding attendance in individual courses are announced in the course syllabus by the faculty member concerned. An instructor may remove a student from the course if the student misses the first two classes.

Chapel Attendance — Although it is optional, students are strongly encouraged to attend daily chapel services as part of their regular schedule of activities.

Change of Registration (Add/Drop) and Withdrawal

A student who wishes to make a change in the program of courses for which he or she has registered must make such changes by the Add/Drop deadline.

Adding Courses — Students may add courses, subsequent to registration, until the end of the second week of the semester. All changes must be made through the online registration program. Courses normally may not be added after the second full week of lectures.

Dropping Courses — Courses dropped during the first two weeks of classes are not noted on the student's academic record. If a student drops all courses, fees that apply to withdrawing from the University will be assessed.

Waitlists — "W" listed in the status column of the student's schedule indicates that the class is currently full and the student has been added to the waitlist. The University encourages students to remain on waitlists, which allows exploration of various solutions as we observe student course needs. Additionally, a student's course may have a "W*" status to indicate that the registration payment has not yet been received. Any unpaid classes after the first payment date will be waitlisted; after the course add/drop deadline (2 weeks into the semester) they will be deleted from registration. Waitlisted classes are not accessible in MyCourses.

Withdrawing from Courses — Between the end of the second week and the end of the sixth week of classes, a student who withdraws from a course will be assessed a late course withdrawal fee and will receive a grade of 'W' on his or her permanent record. Signatures of the student's instructor(s) as well as the appropriate faculty/ school dean(s) are required. Withdrawal after six weeks is not permitted except in severe extenuating circumstances (as assessed by the University Registrar); documentation of the severe extenuating circumstances is required. In such cases, a WP or WF grade will be assigned by the instructor(s) concerned. There is no tuition refund on withdrawals after week six. Forms for three to six week and seven to 11 week withdrawals must be obtained from the Office of the Registrar. Withdrawal from a course is not permitted after the 11th week of classes in a semester (See section on Other Designated Grades in this Academic Calendar for more information).

Withdrawal from the University — Any student who, after registration, finds it necessary to withdraw from the University should request a withdrawal form at the Student Life Office and obtain signed approvals and releases from various departments as indicated. The date on which the completed form is submitted to the Student Life Office will be used by the Office of the Registrar for calculating refunds of tuition and residence fees. The administration of the University may request a student to withdraw from the University at any time for unsatisfactory conduct, for failure to abide by University regulations, or for exceptionally low academic performance. If a student is re-admitted to the University after being deregistered for one year or more, the graduation requirements at the point of re-admission will apply.

Transferability of TWU Courses to Other Institutions

Trinity Western University is a full member of the British Columbia Council on Admissions and Transfer, the governing body responsible for transfer agreements between post-secondary institutions within the province of BC. As such, Trinity Western University courses are transferable to other post-secondary institutions. Trinity Western University is also a full member of Universities Canada (formerly the Association of Universities and Colleges in Canada), and as such has signed on to the Pan-Canadian Protocol on the Transferability of University Credits. Members who have signed on to this Protocol agree to recognize each other's credits for transferability, and agree to remove barriers to post-secondary student mobility among Canadian provinces and territories, including barriers to the transferability of university credits.

To determine the exact credit that TWU courses will receive at other post-secondary institutions, students should request an official transcript of their TWU academic record to be sent to the receiving institution. Often more detailed course syllabi are required to determine the exact credit to be awarded. Course syllabi are handed out in each class by the instructor but can also be ordered from the Office of the Registrar.

Official Transcripts

Official transcripts of a student's TWU academic record can be ordered online at twu.ca/transcript. All requests will be ready for pick-up or delivery within two business days. Transcripts can be sent by surface mail or held for pick-up in the Office of the Registrar. Students are encouraged to review their unofficial transcript online before ordering. Unofficial transcripts can be viewed online at twu.ca/transcripts.

Transcript fees (see Student Fees section) include regular mail service within North America. Courier service within North America or delivery outside of North America is available for an additional fee.

Office of the Registrar

Grant McMillan, Registrar

The Office of the Registrar is the foremost resource for students' registration and financial account activity. Located in Mattson Centre, the Office of the Registrar serves students in person and online.

Enrolment Deposit

Domestic Students:

An enrolment deposit is applicable for newly admitted and re-enrolling students and will be credited toward the appropriate semester tuition fees. Once the enrolment deposit is received, online registration will be open to the student. It is fully refundable if notice of cancellation of enrolment is received no later than June 1, 2016. After June 1st, the entire deposit will be forfeited if the student does not enroll for the semester.

International Students:

International students (whose citizenship is outside Canada and the US) are encouraged to contact their admissions counsellor for specific information.

Security Deposit

The security deposit is a $100 refundable deposit required of all students. The deposit will be used to cover damage or breakage in a student residence or academic lab and other areas of student indebtedness to the University including outstanding parking and library fees & fines, etc. Should there be any charges against this deposit reinstatement to the full amount of $100.00 will be required by the beginning of the next semester at the University. At the request of the student, the deposit will be refunded less any outstanding charges on their student account at the end of a student's studies at the University. Graduating students will have their security deposit automatically refunded after graduation. Students who are not planning to return to the university should email a Security Deposit Refund request to the Office of the Registrar. The email should include their current permanent home mailing address. The University will attempt to contact students who no longer attend and have not requested their deposit. If no reply is received during the period of one year the deposit will be forfeited to the Student Assistance Fund. Security Deposits of $50 or less will be refunded in cash only. All other refunds will be by cheque or bank wire.

Payment Schedule

Graduate Payment Deadlines

Payment is due two weeks prior to the first day of classes. Please note that you will not be able to access MyCourses until payment is received. You may pay earlier than two weeks prior to class and early payment will ensure you a place in the class and gain access to MyCourses. Once payment is received, your course status will be updated to current if there is still space in the course. Please note that if your payment and/or confirmation of loans are not received by the end of the first day of classes, we will assume that you have had a change in plans and will not be attending the course; and your course selection will be cancelled. Re-enrollment will be subject to $100 re-enrollment fee.

Undergraduate and ACTS Payment Deadlines

Payment for the fall semester is due the first Friday in August and the first Friday in December for spring. To maintain current status in courses, you must pay a minimum of 50% of the balance due as shown on your Student Statement, on or before the due date. If your payment is not received by this date you will maintain your course selection, but you will lose priority in your classes. If the payment and/or confirmation of loans, bursaries, etc. is not received before the add/drop deadline we will assume that you have had a change in plans and will not be attending courses. Your course selection will be cancelled. Any remaining outstanding balance on the student's account must be paid by October 15 for fall and February 15th for spring. If full payment is not received by October 15 by the due date, course registration will be cancelled and final exams cannot be written.

Student Statement

Once a student has enrolled in classes the statement may be viewed on the Student Portal once the semester charges have opened. This is a detailed financial statement for courses currently registered and advance deposits made toward the semester. Please note that the statement is dynamic and will adjust automatically with registrations and payments made by the student.

Payment Options

One Course: If you are enrolled in three semester hours or fewer, your fees are due in full on the first Friday in August for the fall semester, and the first Friday in December for spring.

More Than One Course: For students enrolled in four or more semester hours, Trinity Western University offers three payment options for your convenience.

Option A: One payment per semester: Fees are due in full on the first Friday in August/December.

Option B: Two payments per semester: The first payment (50% of the invoice total) for fall is due on the first Friday in August. The second payment is due on October 15. The first payment for spring is due the first Friday in December and the 15th of February.

Trinity Western University offers options A and B at no additional cost if the payments are received on time. If we do not receive the payment by the above mentioned payment dates, the student will incur interest charges of 18% per annum, calculated back to the first day of classes, and may also incur a $50.00 late payment fee.

Pre Authorized Debit (PAD) Payment Plan of two or four payments per semester.

This is a withdrawal of funds from a person's bank account based on a previously signed authorization. This payment plan is available to all students who have a bank account at any major Canadian bank and/or Canadian credit union. You can access the PAD Payment Plan Online Application on the Student Portal. An administration fee of $25 per semester will be assessed to your student account for this payment option.

Payments in the four-payment plan schedule are due on the first Friday 7th of August, September, October, and November (for the fall semester) or December, January, February, and March (for the spring semester). For the two-payment plan, payments are due on the 7th of August and October, or December and January.

If you apply for this payment option after the first payment date listed above, the payments must be caught up when the first payment is processed. Pre Authorized Debits that are returned by the bank as non-negotiable will incur a transaction fee of $50.00 per missed payment regardless of the reason and will also incur interest charges of 18% per annum. Once you have applied and been approved for this payment plan you can still opt out or cancel but will incur a cancellation fee of $30. Students will need to reapply for the PAD payment plan for each semester.

Financial Aid Program

Tim Shulba, Director

The Financial Aid program at Trinity Western University includes scholarships, need-based awards, campus employment opportunities, and loans (Canadian and United States governments). These may be extended to the student individually or in combination. All students seeking financial assistance should also apply for available assistance from local, regional, and provincial or state sources.

Scholarships

Merit-Based Financial Aid: Merit-scholarships are typically awarded for academic achievements. At Trinity Western University, new students are automatically assessed for scholarships once accepted to the University. Returning students are encouraged to complete the Financial Aid application to be considered for scholarships. The application is available at twu.ca/awards.

Need-Based Awards

Eligibility for need-based awards is determined by the student's and his or her family's financial situation. A standard formula is used nationwide to evaluate the student's and family's ability to pay for post-secondary expenses. This formula takes into account variables such as: family income, assets, taxes paid, family size, the number of dependent children in post-secondary studies, etc. The resulting figure is subtracted from an institution's cost of attendance to determine a student's total need. The amount of aid awarded may or may not meet the student's total eligibility. The application is available at twu.ca/awards.

Campus Employment

Students who wish to apply for campus employment must do so online through the Financial Aid Need- Based Award Application. The application can be found at twu.ca/awards. All students selected for campus employment will be notified by email of their eligibility. This email will also contain information on how to access campus employment opportunities.

Loans

A variety of government and private loan programs are available to university students. TWU urges students to evaluate their personal financial situation carefully with a view to avoiding accumulation of excessive educational debts. However, for many students, responsible borrowing is an important means of meeting educational costs, and the University's Financial Aid Office is prepared to offer students counsel and assistance in applying for aid under applicable government programs. Visit twu.ca/awards for instructions on how to apply for loans.

International Students

Students who are not residents of Canada and who require financial assistance to attend TWU must arrange for such assistance in their country of origin before arrival in Canada. Although TWU permits non-Canadian students to compete for scholarships, it must be stressed that non-Canadian students should not predicate their tuition and living expense estimates upon these sources. Any student may seek employment in Canada but the employer must receive approval from the Canada Employment Centre (CEC) to hire a foreign worker before the student can obtain an Employment Authorization. Only those who have skills that are in demand will be approved by CEC. Such students are expected and required by federal law to have sufficient funds guaranteed for their education prior to arrival in Canada.

Priority Application Dates

Undergraduate students (returning, new, and transfer): February 28 (scholarships, grants, and endowment awards)

Graduate students: May 1 (scholarships, grants, and endowment awards)

Applications submitted after priority application dates will be considered based on availability of funds. Applications submitted before priority application dates will be guaranteed funds (based on eligibility).

General Financial Aid Policies

Factors considered in awarding scholarships and grants include academic achievement, financial need (as defined by StudentAidBC), and evidence of student effort at self-help in terms of summer and part-time employment. Only full-time students (12 sem. hrs. or more for undergraduate students, 9 sem. hrs. for graduate students) are eligible for Trinity Western University financial assistance.

Awards are made on an annual basis, with one-half of the award applied to the fall semester and the balance applied to the spring semester. All scholarships and grants require at least a 2.00 cumulative GPA. Individual awards may have specific cumulative GPA requirements.

Academic Scholarship amounts are based on a 15 sem. hr. course load per semester and will be adjusted according to the student's course load.

For example, if a student is enrolled in 16 sem. hrs., the award will increase by 1/15th. If a student is enrolled in 14 sem. hrs., the award will decrease by 1/15th. All other award categories remain constant, regardless of semester hours (12 sem. hr. minimum). Ongoing academic requirements must be met in order to renew the scholarship each year.

Financial Aid Office

The Financial Aid Office seeks to provide potential and current students with timely financial information, counsel, and funding, thereby ensuring that every reasonable effort has been made to enable students to meet their educational expenses in a fiscally responsible manner.

Graduation Requirements for Undergraduate Degrees

Note: See School of Graduate Studies section for graduate degree requirements. It is the responsibility of the student to ensure that the courses required for the granting of a degree have been satisfactorily completed. Students are therefore cautioned to make absolutely certain that the number and combination of their courses meet all University and departmental requirements.

Core Requirements

All students must complete 44 sem. hrs. of core requirements unless transferring to TWU with a minimum of 57 sem. hrs. of initial transfer credit, in which case core requirements are modified. See details here:

- ENGL 103 and 104 (6 sem. hrs.). ENGL 103 and 104 are compulsory during first year for all new full-time (12 or more sem. hrs.) students for whom English is their native language, or, if WRTG 100 is required at the point of admission to the University, in the next two consecutive semesters following the successful completion of WRTG 100. Students for whom English is a second language may substitute ENGL 101 and 102 for ENGL 103 or 104 following the successful completion of WRTG 101 in their first semester. For more information, please visit the Undergraduate Admissions section of this calendar.

- Arts, Media + Culture (3 sem. hrs.). This may be chosen from Art + Design; Theatre; Arts, Media + Culture; or Music courses. It may include three 1 sem. hr. large theatre or music ensembles but not small ensembles or music lessons.
- History (3 sem. hrs.).
- Human Kinetics (4 sem. hrs.). This must include HKIN 190 plus two activity courses. HKIN 190 should be taken during the first two years of study. Students taking a Human Kinetics major, concentration, or minor take HKIN 191 instead of HKIN 190. Nursing students take NURS 111 plus one HKIN activity course.
- IDIS 400 or an approved equivalent (3 sem. hrs.).
- Natural Sciences (6 sem. hrs.). Students may choose from Biology, Chemistry, Computing Science, Geology, Mathematics, Physics, or certain specified Physical Geography and Environment courses. At least 3 sem. hrs. must be a laboratory science (not including Mathematics or Computing Science).
- Philosophy (3 sem. hrs.).
- Religious Studies (12 sem. hrs.). This must include RELS 101, 102, a biblical content course (RELS course with middle digit 0-5), and a Christianity and Culture or Inter-Cultural Religious Studies course (RELS course with middle digit 6-9, or PHIL 210 or 310). While PHIL 210 and 310 may be counted towards either the Philosophy or the Christianity and Culture/Inter-Cultural Religious Studies core requirement, the courses cannot be counted towards both requirements. Students may challenge the RELS 101 and 102 courses by writing an exam provided by the chair of the Religious Studies Department. If successful, students must substitute RELS 101 and/or 102 with alternative biblical content courses.

- Society and Culture (3 sem. hrs.). This may be chosen from courses in Anthropology, Economics, Geography and Environment (excluding GENV 121, 131, and 230), Media + Communication, Modern Languages, Political Studies, Psychology, or Sociology.
- MYTW 101 (1 sem. hr.). Compulsory during first year for all new full-time (12 or more sem. hrs.) students with fewer than 27 sem. hrs. of transfer credit upon initial admission to TWU.

Students may use one cross-listed core requirement course as a “double function” once. For example, they may use HIST 361/RELS 361 to fulfil both the History and the Religious Studies Christianity & Culture core requirements. Note: While courses may be counted twice to fulfil the core, they do not count twice for the number of credits toward a degree, for upper level requirements, or for a major, concentration, or minor.

When a core requirement is met as part of another program requirement (e.g. when the Natural Sciences core requirement is met as part of a Biology major), the student is deemed to have met that core requirement without having to take additional courses.

Grade Point Average Requirements

In general, the University upholds the following requirements for graduation:

- University minimum cumulative GPA for an undergraduate degree: 2.00

- Minimum GPA for courses across the major: 2.00
- Minimum GPA for courses in minors and concentrations for all students taking an undergraduate degree: 2.0
- Minimum GPA for courses in minors for students taking an undergraduate degree in General Studies: 2.0 in each minor or concentration; 2.00 for the combined total of the two minors or concentrations
- For honours degrees, the minimum cumulative GPA is 3.0, with a minimum cumulative average of 3.00 for all courses in the honours discipline
- The required GPA applies to all courses taken in the subject irrespective of the total of semester hours in the subject.

Some programs have set minimum grade point requirements above these general University requirements. Such requirements are described in the specific program sections of this Calendar.

Graduation Requirements for Transfer Students

Transfer students are classified as first year when they transfer in one to 26 sem. hrs. of university-level credit; as second year for 27 to 56 sem. hrs.; and as third year for 57 sem. hrs. or more. This classification is based on students’ transfer credit status at the time of original admission to TWU, not including Summer Sessions courses or courses completed through TWU Extension, and does not include transfer credit for courses taken subsequent to the commencement of courses at TWU. To fulfil core requirements, students may use transfer courses deemed equivalent to TWU courses that count towards the core.

- First and second year students must meet all normal graduation requirements; however, MYTW 101 is waived for students entering TWU with a minimum of 27 sem. hrs.;

- All transfer students will be allowed to transfer into their TWU program a maximum of 9 sem. hrs. of upper level course credit towards a major, a maximum of 6 sem. hrs. of upper level credit towards a concentration, and a maximum of 3 sem. hrs. of upper level course credit toward a minor;
 - Core requirements (a total of 32 sem. hrs.) for third year transfer students (57 sem. hrs. or more of transfer credit upon entry to TWU): ENGL 103 and 104 (6 sem. hrs.). This is compulsory during first year for full-time (12 or more sem. hrs.) students for whom English is their native language, or, if WRTG 100 is required at the point of admission to the University, in the next two consecutive semesters following the successful completion of WRTG 100. Students for whom English is a second language may substitute ENGL 101 and 102 for ENGL 103 or 104, with ENGL 101 and 102 compulsory in the next two semesters following the successful completion of WRTG 101;
 - Arts, Media + Culture (3 sem. hrs.). This may be chosen from Art + Design, Theatre, Arts, Media + Culture, or Music. It may include three 1 sem. hr. large theatre or music ensembles but not small ensembles or music lessons;
 - Human Kinetics (2 sem. hrs.). Preferably HKIN 190, but it may be two activity courses;
 - IDIS 400 or an approved equivalent (3 sem. hrs.);
 - Natural Sciences (6 sem. hrs.). Students may choose from Biology, Chemistry, Computing Science, Geology, Mathematics, Physics, or specified Physical Geography and Environment courses. A laboratory science (not including Mathematics or Computing Science) is required for Elementary Education majors only;
 - Philosophy (3 sem. hrs.). Students may substitute a course in English (numbered 200 or above), Media + Communication, an ancient or modern language course, or EDUC 203;
 - RELS 01 and RELS 102 (6 sem. hrs.). Students may take an alternative biblical content course, if successfully challenged. Students may challenge these courses by
 - writing an exam provided by the chair of the Religious Studies Department;
 - • Society and Culture (3 sem. hrs.). This may be chosen from courses in Anthropology, Media + Communication, Economics, Geography and Environment (excluding GENV 121, 131, and 230), Modern Languages, Political Studies, Psychology, or Sociology. Third year transfer students may substitute a course in History for this requirement.
- Students may use one cross-listed core requirement course as a double function once. For example, they may use HIST 361/RELS 361 to fulfil both the History and the Religious Studies Christianity & Culture core requirements; Note: While courses can be counted twice to fulfil the core, they do not count twice for the number of credits toward a degree for upper level requirements or for a major, concentration, or minor.

- When a core requirement is met as part of another pro-gram requirement (e.g., when the Natural Sciences core requirement is met as part of a Biology major), the student is deemed to have met that core requirement without having to take additional courses.

Limitations

- Students may count a maximum of 9 sem. hrs. of Applied Music (ensembles and/or private music lessons) towards graduation requirements without having to take Music Theory and/ or History courses. An additional 6 sem. hrs. may be taken provided they are balanced by an equivalent number of semester hours in Music Theory and/or History. These restrictions do not apply to students taking a music major, concentration, or minor.
- Students may count a maximum of 6 sem. hrs. of Human Kinetics activity courses towards graduation requirements, unless they are taking a minor, concentration, or major in Human Kinetics.
- Students may count a maximum of 25 sem. hrs. of practicum courses towards graduation requirements, unless students are majoring in professionally oriented disciplines (Art, Arts, Media + Culture, Theatre, Music, Nursing, Human Kinetics, or Education).

- Students may count a maximum of 12 sem. hrs. of directed studies courses towards degree requirements.
- Number of Semester Hours of Credit
- Except where noted in program descriptions in this Calendar, the minimum number of semester hours of university level studies required for undergraduate degrees is:
 - Regular B.A., B.B.A., B.F.A., B.H.K., B.Sc., and B.Sc.N. degrees: 122 sem. hrs.
 - Honours degrees: 134 sem. hrs.
 - Concurrent B.A./B.Ed. or B.Sc./B.Ed. (five-year program): 159 sem. hrs.
 - B.Ed. (post-degree): 69 sem. hrs.
 - B.A. in General Studies: Students may obtain a B.A. in General Studies by completing two minors or concentrations, at least one of which is not a Natural or Applied Science.
 - B.Sc. in General Studies: Students may obtain a B.Sc. in General Studies by completing a minimum of two minors or concentrations, both of which are Natural or Applied Sciences.
 - Students must complete a minimum of 42 sem. hrs. of courses numbered 300 or above for a regular undergraduate degree, or a minimum of 54 sem. hrs. of such courses for an honours degree.

Requirements for a Second Undergraduate Degree

To obtain a second, different undergraduate degree (e.g., a B.A. and a B.Sc.), students must fulfil all requirements for the second degree. Moreover, they must complete an additional 30 sem. hrs. (minimum) of course work for the degree that requires the higher number of semester hours. All such course work must be taken at Trinity Western University.

Specialization Requirements

Students can complete discipline specializations that are described in detail in department program descriptions.

- A major consists of at least 42 sem. hrs. in one discipline, of which 24 sem. hrs. must be numbered 300 or above
- • A concentration consists of at least 30 sem. hrs. in one discipline, usually with at least 12 sem. hrs. of courses numbered 300 or above
- • A minor consists of at least 24 sem. hrs. in one discipline, usually with at least 12 sem. hrs. of courses numbered 300 or above

Except where noted in program descriptions in this Calendar, the minimum number of semester hours required for graduation in discipline specializations is:

- For an honours degree, at least 54 sem. hrs.
- For a major, at least 42 sem. hrs.
- For a degree in General Studies, two minors in two different disciplines of at least 24 sem. hrs. each, subject to department regulations for those minors
- A multidisciplinary major of at least 60 sem. hrs., involving three disciplines, as specified for such majors elsewhere in this Calendar

When a student takes a combination of majors, concentrations, or minors for which the same course is required by, or allowed in, any two of the discipline specializations (excluding ancillary requirements), the student is required to take, in addition, another course from the options allowed to satisfy the semester hour requirements for each specialization.

Undergraduate Graduation

Application Deadlines

1. Students must apply to graduate by completing an application for graduation online at twu.ca/graduation.
2. Students must apply for graduation by April 30 of the year prior to graduation. Students re-enrolling in January for the final semester before graduation must apply for graduation by the day after registration. Late applicants will be assessed a $50 late fee for applications submitted after these deadlines.
3. Students wishing to participate in the April graduation exercises must meet the following criteria: a) achieve overall GPA of 2.0, plus other relevant GPA requirements for specific majors, concentrations, and minors by the December prior to the April graduation; b) demonstrate that they will have completed all required sem. hrs. and course requirements for their respective degree by April 30.

Students applying for April graduation after January 30 of the same calendar year will not be permitted to participate in graduation ceremonies until the following April.

Grading Practices

University Standard Grading System

The University assigns students letter grades at the end of each course. Instructors should follow the standard University percentage equivalent for letter grades (see below). Instructors may use other equivalencies, but in such cases they must show the scale used in the syllabus, and also announce the scale they use, orally, early in the course.

While instructors may choose to supplement or replace the standards below with other criteria more directly relevant to their particular disciplines, the following chart provides sample grade interpretation guidelines:

Letter Grade	Quality Characteristics
A	Outstanding, excellent work; exceptional performance with strong evidence of original thinking, good organization, meticulous concern for documented evidence, and obvious capacity to analyze, synthesize, evaluate, discern, justify, and elaborate; frequent evidence of both verbal eloquence and perceptive insight in written expression; excellent problem-solving ability in scientific or mathematical contexts with virtually no computational errors; demonstrated masterful grasp of subject matter and its implications. Gives evidence of an extensive and detailed knowledge base. Note: The A+ grade is reserved for very rare students of exceptional intellectual prowess and accomplishment, especially in lower level courses.
B	Good, competent work; laudable performance with evidence of some original thinking, careful organization; satisfactory critical and analytical capacity; reasonably error-free expository written expression, with clear, focused thesis and well-supported, documented, relevant arguments; good problem-solving ability, with few computational or conceptual errors in scientific subjects; reasonably good grasp of subject matter but an occasional lack of depth of discernment; evidence of reasonable familiarity with course subject matter, both concepts and key issues. Exhibits a serious, responsible engagement with the course content.

C	satisfactory grasp of basic elements of the course but frequent lapses in detailed understanding. Satisfies the minimum requirements of the course.
D	Minimally acceptable work; relatively weak performance with little evidence of original thinking or ability to analyze or synthesize course material; nominal or weak problem-solving ability in scientific subjects; written expression frequently exhibits difficulty in articulating a central thesis or sustaining a coherent argument; ideas are trite or juvenile, without discernible development. Shows inadequate grasp of some basic elements of the course.
F	Inadequate work; poor performance that indicates a lack of understanding or misunderstanding of essential subject matter; seems easily distracted by the irrelevant; written expression is poorly organized, often incoherent, and rife with mechanical and diction errors. Shows little evidence of even basic competency in the course content or skills.

The University-wide system of percentage equivalents is shown in the table below. Faculty members may deviate from this scale; however, if they do so, they must indicate, in their course syllabus, the percentage equivalency system they use.

Letter Grade	Percentage	Grade Point
A+	90–100	4.3
A	85–89	4.0
A-	80–84	3.7
B+	77–79	3.3

B	73–76	3.0
B-	70–72	2.7
C+	67–69	2.3
C	63–66	2.0
C-	60–62	1.7
D+	57–59	1.3
D	53–56	1.0

Revised August 1992

Examinations

Trinity Western University operates on a semester basis, with final examinations held in December and April. Final examinations in Summer Session courses are normally held on the last day of the course.

- Absence from Final Examinations. A student who is absent from a final examination without an acceptable excuse will be assigned a zero for that examination. Absence due to illness must be supported by a medical certificate indicating the nature of the illness. If an examination is missed for any reason, including illness, the student must notify the faculty member prior to the examination and the Office of the Registrar within 48 hours of the missed examination, giving written documentation explaining the absence.
- Religious Observances during Examination Schedules. The University does not hold examinations on Sundays, Good Friday, or Easter Monday. However, the University recognizes that some students may, on religious grounds, still require alternative times to write examinations. Students should contact the Office of the Registrar regarding alternative arrangements within two weeks of the publication of the final examination schedule.

- Departure during Final Exam Period. Students are cautioned not to finalize plans for departure from campus during exams until they have received the final examination schedule. Exams will not be rescheduled to facilitate early departures unless the student pays a fee of $100 per exam (subject to the concurrence of both the instructor and the Faculty or School Dean concerned). Students are urged to report any exam conflicts (i.e., two exams in the same period or three exams in a row) to the Office of the Registrar.
- Student Access to Final Examinations. Instructors will, on request by a student, informally review the final examination with the student after the semester grade has been released. Final examinations not returned to students will be kept for one year after the examination period, after which they may be shredded or destroyed by other acceptable means.

Grade Appeals

A student's appeal of a final grade should be submitted according to the following procedures:

- Informally, i.e., by the student contacting the instructor directly
- Formally, i.e., in writing, no later than March 1 for grades assigned during the previous fall semester, and no later than November 1 for grades assigned in the previous spring or summer semester, to the department chair or associate dean concerned. The chair and one other appointed member from the department will consider the appeal

- Further appeal may be made to the dean of the faculty or school involved; if dissatisfaction persists, final appeal may be made to the Office of the Provost
- Any formal evaluation may result in upward or downward revision, or no change
- A resulting change of grade will be submitted to the Office of the Registrar accompanied by a rationale for the change, along with the signatures of the instructor and the department chair or the dean of the faculty or school

Grade Point Average

The indication of a student's academic performance, Grade Point Average (GPA), is calculated by changing each letter grade into its numerical equivalent and multiplying this number by the number of semester hours in the course. The grade points are then totaled and divided by the total semester hours.

Course	Sem. hrs.	Letter grade	Numerical Equivalent	Sem. hrs. x grade points
ENGL 101	3	B+	3.3	3 x 3.30 = 9.90
HKIN 131	2	A-	3.7	2 x 3.70 = 7.40
Total	5	17.30
The GPA is (17.30 / 5) or 3.46.

Note: Students have the opportunity to repeat any course to obtain a higher grade, whereupon only the higher grade is applied to their cumulative GPA. Each grade received is documented on the student's transcript.

Other Designated Grades

P = Pass. This is a legitimate grade in a Pass/Fail course (Pass/Fail course grades are not calculated into the GPA).

F = Failure (no grade points; F=0). No credit will be given except by successfully repeating the failed course at the University. If such repetition is successful, the failure remains on the student's permanent record but is not calculated into the GPA.

W = Withdrew. This is registered after the second week of classes and up to the end of the sixth week (Note: Withdrawal during the first two weeks of a fall or spring semester course is not registered on the student's transcript).

WP = Withdrew Passing. After the sixth week of classes and up to the eleventh week, the grade of 'WP' is assigned on the student's permanent record upon withdrawal from a course, provided the student was passing the course at the time of withdrawal.

WF = Withdrew Failing. This grade is assigned when the student is failing the course at the time of withdrawal. (See note under "WP"). WP/WF grades are not computed into the GPA.

Note: A student may withdraw from a course between the seventh and eleventh week with a WP or WF grade only because of severe extenuating circumstances beyond the student's control and if approval is granted by the University Registrar or his/her designate (The required form and procedures are available in the Office of the Registrar). No course withdrawals are permitted after the end of the eleventh week in a semester.

INC = Incomplete. This indicates a temporary delay of the assignment of a grade when failure to complete the course has been caused by extenuating circumstances beyond the student's control. It normally occurs after the end of the eleventh week of the semester, and only when the majority of the course work has been completed (The required form and procedures are available in the Office of the Registrar).

Academic Standing

The levels of academic standing for students at Trinity Western University include First Class, Second Class, Average Class, Below Average Class, and Failure. A student's academic standing is determined by cumulative grade point average:

- First Class standing indicates a cumulative grade point average between 3.70 and 4.30
- Second Class standing indicates a cumulative grade point average between 2.70 and 3.69
- Average Class standing indicates a cumulative grade point average between 1.70 and 2.69
- Below Average Class standing indicates a cumulative grade point average between 0.70 and 1.69
- Failure indicates a cumulative grade point average between 0.00 and 0.69

Grading, Progression, and Academic Standing

The University provides a standardized measurement of students' academic progress, for individual courses and for the entire program of study. The University uses letter grades to measure progress in each course and a numeric grade point average to assess cumulative progress in all courses.

Academic Policies

Academic Freedom

Trinity Western University recognizes that academic freedom, though varyingly defined, is an essential ingredient in an effective university program. Jesus Christ taught the importance of a high regard for integrity, truth, and freedom. He saw His role as, in part, setting people free from bondage to ignorance, fear, evil, and material things while providing the ultimate definition of truth.

Accordingly, Trinity Western University maintains that arbitrary indoctrination and simplistic, prefabricated answers to questions are incompatible with a Christian respect for truth, a Christian understanding of human dignity and freedom, and quality Christian educational techniques and objectives.

On the other hand, Trinity Western University rejects as incompatible with human nature and revelational theism a definition of academic freedom which arbitrarily and exclusively requires pluralism without commitment, denies the existence of any fixed points of reference, maximizes the quest for truth to the extent of assuming it is never knowable, and implies an absolute freedom from moral and religious responsibility to its community.

Rather, for itself, Trinity Western University is committed to academic freedom in teaching and investigation from a stated perspective, i.e., within parameters consistent with the confessional basis of the constituency to which the University is responsible, but practiced in an environment of free inquiry and discussion and of encouragement to integrity in research. Students also have freedom to inquire, right of access to the broad spectrum of representative information in each discipline, and assurance of a reasonable attempt at a fair and balanced presentation and evaluation of all material by their instructors. Truth does not fear honest investigation.

Academic Dishonesty and Plagiarism

One of the core values of Trinity Western University is the integration of high standards of personal, moral, and spiritual integrity with academic excellence. As such, the University considers it a serious offence when an individual knowingly acts, or fails to act, in a manner to gain unearned academic credit. It is the student's responsibility to inform him or herself as to what constitutes academic dishonesty, and to address any questions to the individual professors with whom he or she is dealing. It is the instructor's responsibility to confront any student who, in the instructor's judgment, has committed an act of academic dishonesty. The penalty for an act of academic dishonesty will be assigned according to procedures listed below. The University does not record acts of academic dishonesty on student transcripts, but does keep a permanent record of such acts for internal purposes.

Definition of Terms

Academic Dishonesty: to act in a manner in order to gain unearned academic credit. Examples of academic dishonesty include, but are not limited to:

- Plagiarism (see below)
- Cheating on examinations, tests, etc.
- Falsifying lab results
- Impersonating another student in an examination, test, etc.
- Falsifying or misrepresenting information on academic records or official documents
- Submitting the same or substantially the same work for credit in more than one course, without faculty permission (whether the earlier submission was at TWU or another institution)
- Aiding or abetting another student's academic dishonesty

Plagiarism: "Plagiarism (from a Latin word for 'kidnapper') is the presentation of someone else's ideas or words as your own." (The Little, Brown Handbook, 2nd Can. Ed. p. 555)

Knowingly: if the person ought reasonably to have known

Procedures For Dealing With Acts of Academic Dishonesty:

1. If an instructor suspects that a student has committed an act of academic dishonesty, the instructor shall determine if an offence has been committed by reviewing all relevant information and discussing the situation with the student.
2. If the instructor determines that an offence has been committed, the instructor shall query the Academic Dishonesty database to see if the student in question has committed a prior offence before assigning a penalty.
3. If it is the student's first offence, the instructor will impose an appropriate penalty and note this on the form entitled Record of Academic Dishonesty, copies are then given to the student by the instructor and submitted to the Office of the Provost. For a first offence, the penalty normally ranges from redoing the assignment to receiving a zero for the assignment/examination involved. Students may appeal the faculty member's decision to the faculty or school's dean, whose decision is final.
4. If it is not the student's first offence, the instructor will consult with his/her dean who will recommend an appropriate penalty to the Office of the Provost, who will decide on the penalty. For a second offence, the penalty normally ranges from receiving a zero on the assignment or examination to failing the course. For a third or higher offence, the penalty normally ranges from failing the course to being suspended or expelled from the University. The instructor shall complete the Record of Academic Dishonesty and submit it to the Office of the Provost who will meet with the student. For penalties up to failing the course, students may appeal the decision to the Provost, whose decision is final.

5. In cases involving a recommendation for suspension or expulsion, the Office of the Provost shall forward the recommendation to the chair of the University Accountability Committee to begin stage two of the University's formal Student Accountability Process (as per the Student Handbook). Students are entitled to hearings and appeals set out by that process.
6. In all cases, every effort will be made to process the review/decision in a timely fashion.

appropriate to each class. Students should follow the steps detailed by the Equity of Access Office outlined in the Student Life section of this Calendar.

Attendance

Students are expected to attend all of their classes on a regular basis. Students who are absent for the first two classes of a semester may be removed from the class list. Instructors may establish attendance requirements in their classes and will indicate any penalties for non-attendance in their course syllabus. Instructors have the right to bar students from writing the final examination in a course when students have missed 25 per cent or more of the sessions in the course, provided this potential consequence is indicated in the course syllabus.

Students with a Disability

Students with a disability who need assistance are encouraged to contact the Equity of Access Office upon admission to TWU to discuss their specific needs. All disabilities must be recently documented by an appropriately certified professional and include the educational impact of the disability along with recommended accommodations. Within the first two weeks of the semester, students must meet with their professors to agree on accommodations

Undergraduate Programs

Faculty of Humanities and Social Sciences

Myron Penner, Ph.D., Dean

Purpose

The purpose of the Faculty of Humanities and Social Sciences is to produce compassionate and competent servant leaders through the development of cultural awareness, analytic powers, precise thought, religious knowledge, and research and communication skills all embedded in the unique perspective on life and learning offered by a Christian worldview. While graduates from this faculty are expected to enter many kinds of professions and assume various positions of leadership within society, they are also expected to cherish the abilities which make humans unique in God's creation, such as the capacities for speech, creativity, rationality, and knowledge of God. Faculty members desire that students become committed to fostering constructive relationships among people, regardless of religious, cultural, ethnic, geographic, physical, or other individual differences. They support students in their calling to assist others to live more meaningful, responsive, and responsible lives.

Perspective

The Faculty is committed to the view that a prerequisite to giving Christian leadership is a clear understanding of the biblical meaning of personhood, knowledge of the cultural, historical, and intellectual bases of society, and an ability to offer a Christian critique of the same. Students are therefore presented with and exposed to influential literature, historical texts and interpretations thereof, leading religious ideas and methodologies, differing geographical regions, and competing philosophical, psychological, and political systems, all in an effort to educate them about culture. They are also taught to think biblically and Christianly in the discipline areas which examine these topics. The professors who teach in this faculty are thoroughly Christian, well-educated, scholarly, committed to the value of knowledge, and dedicated to fostering the skills of analysis, research, and clear communication.

Programs

The Faculty offers Bachelor of Arts (honours) degrees in the following:

- biblical studies
- english
- history
- international studies
- political studies
- psychology

Bachelor of Arts degrees majoring in the following:

- biblical studies
- christianity and culture
- english
- geography
- history
- inter-cultural religious studies
- linguistics
- philosophy
- political studies
- psychology
- religious studies
- environmental studies
- european studies
- humanities
- international studies
- world languages and cultures
- sociology and social sciences

Also offered is a concentration in social studies; concentrations and minors in any of the non-multidisciplinary subjects above plus French, linguistics, sociology, and Spanish; and a minor in inter-cultural religious studies.

A certificate is also offered in Applied Linguistics (Teaching English to Speakers of Other Languages) and in Human Services, which incorporates courses in Psychology and Sociology as well as relevant practical experiences. A modest number of courses are available in Chinese, German, Greek, Hebrew, Japanese, Latin, and Russian. Finally, the Faculty offers a Master of Arts in Interdisciplinary Humanities offers streams in English, history, philosophy and general humanities; the psychology department members participate in a Master of Arts in counselling psychology; and the religious studies department offers a Master of Arts in biblical studies (See Faculty of Graduate Studies).

The programs offered include the following emphases:

Theoretical Foundations

Students are introduced to the basic assumptions underlying the discipline areas of this faculty and are taught to evaluate these critically from a Christian perspective.

Leadership

Students develop their leadership abilities by increasing their understanding of how people function both individually and in groups and by applying leadership skills in relevant settings. They are encouraged to develop skills of research, critical thinking, and communication to assist them in gaining confidence in articulating viewpoints with clarity and defending them with precision and rigour. A historical perspective is conveyed so that beliefs and values can be understood in their cultural context.

Because Christians have a responsibility to serve and help their fellow humans, the content of the disciplines is integrated with Christian concern for one's neighbours and the attendant joy found in serving God and society. Students' study should equip them to channel the love of Christ in caring, people-helping service.

Career Preparation

Students are encouraged to combine their skills and knowledge with practical and creative applications in life and society. The majors earned in this faculty can lead directly to various careers, or they can prepare students for graduate or professional studies. Trinity Western graduates are pursuing careers in a wide variety of areas including business, industry, education, church or missions-related ministries, government service, international service, law, the media, social service agencies, counselling, publishing, and writing.

Biblical Studies

Department of Religious Studies

Kent D. Clarke, Ph.D., Department Chair and Program Coordinator

The Department of Religious Studies offers:

- an honours program in biblical studies, leading to a BA (honours) degree
- a major in biblical studies leading to a BA degree
- a concentration
- a minor

TWU offers the largest and strongest biblical studies program in Canada, with well-known experts teaching in the department. A biblical studies degree offers students the opportunity to explore a variety of critical issues related to the study of the Bible, with a view toward excellence in biblical interpretation and the development of a mature Christian worldview.

In addition to learning to read the Bible in its original languages (Hebrew and Greek), students learn about the ancient world of the Bible and its writers, the scribal transmission of the biblical text in ancient times, various versions of the Bible (such as the Dead Sea Scrolls and Septuagint), the process of canonization, theories of interpretation, and the early Jewish and Christian traditions that gave rise to the Bible.

Professors encourage students to explore how the biblical messages of truth, love, and justice apply to daily life. Biblical studies graduates have entered various fields such as teaching, ministry, and missions. The degree is also excellent preparation for a graduate degree in biblical studies.

Note: All Religious Studies courses with a second digit of 0 to 5 are regarded as biblical content courses. Courses with a second digit of 6 to 9 are regarded as non-biblical content courses.

Program Checklists and Requirements:

- honours program in biblical studies, BA \(honours\) degree
- major in biblical studies, BA degree
- concentration and minor in biblical studies

Admission to the program requires a cumulative GPA of at least 3.0. Students are required to maintain a GPA of 3.0 in the major throughout the program.

Programs, Activities, and Facilities

Dead Sea Scrolls Institute—The Dead Sea Scrolls Institute at Trinity Western University promotes research in the Qumran scrolls, many of which have been made public only recently. Among them are the oldest manuscripts of the Old Testament and many Jewish documents that shed light on the context of Jesus and the early church. The Institute hosts regular symposia that share the fruits of this research with the public. These proceedings are published in the Department's series, Studies in the Dead Sea Scrolls and Related Literature.

Holy Land and Asia Minor Tours—The Religious Studies Department regularly offers travel study tours of Israel (which may include Egypt and Jordan), and Asia Minor (which may include Italy and Greece). Students can take the tour to receive academic credit for numerous course offerings (including RELS 350 Biblical Archaeology). This enables students to see the ancient sites and texts related to the biblical period. And, by being in the land of the Bible, students discover how the Bible itself is a living document.

Christianity and Culture

Department of Religious Studies

Craig D. Allert, Ph.D., program coordinator

The Department of Religious Studies offers:

- a major in Christianity and culture leading to a BA degree
- a concentration
- a minor

The Christianity and culture program provides a strong interdisciplinary understanding of the major issues and movements in Christian history. From the Church Fathers to contemporary Christianity, courses in this major explore the various ways that Christians have viewed themselves and their relationship to society at large. Students also explore the influence of culture upon Christianity. Core requirements include biblical studies classes, and students may choose electives from philosophy, English, or history to complete their major.

Students can also benefit from courses offered at Catholic Pacific College, a Roman Catholic college affiliated with TWU, located next to the main campus. Christianity and culture graduates have entered fields of teaching, ministry, and missions. A Christianity and culture degree is also excellent preparation for graduate studies in theology.

Note: All religious studies courses with a second digit of 0 to 5 are regarded as biblical content courses. Courses with a second digit of 6 to 9 are regarded as non-biblical content courses.

Program Checklists and Requirements:

- minor in Christianity and culture: Catholic studies

Note: This minor is offered by Catholic Pacific College, an approved teaching centre of Trinity Western University. See Catholic Pacific College in the Affiliate Institutions chapter of this Calendar for specific requirements.

English

Department of English and Creative Writing

Holly Faith Nelson, Ph.D., Chair

The Department of English and Creative Writing offers:

- an honours program, leading to a BA (honours) degree
- a major, leading to a BA degree
- a concentration
- a minor
- a creative writing stream

The programs are designed to develop the desire and ability to write well (both analytically and creatively), conduct research, and critically evaluate all forms of writing, while introducing students to important bodies of literature from a broad spectrum of time periods and cultures—including authors and texts from Canada, the United States, Britain, and world literatures written in English.

Opportunities for graduates are wide and varied and include careers in teaching, writing, research, editing, publishing, speech pathology, broadcasting, public relations, advertising, politics, administration, law (with further studies), and international and humanitarian relief.

The goal in first year English is to nurture in students a desire and ability to read and write well, conduct research, and appreciate the gift of literature.

Second year English courses cover such diverse subjects as major authors, backgrounds of English literature, national literatures, creative writing, and the study of genre. At this level, students are encouraged to reflect upon and engage with various approaches to literature with a view to preparing them for further study at the upper levels.

Upper level courses numbered 300 and 400 are on the same academic level and qualify as both third and fourth year courses. Most of these courses are offered on an alternate year basis and form the specializations that students follow in their studies in English.

The honours program allows for a high degree of specialization in English. Admission to the program requires a cumulative GPA of 3.0. Students must maintain grades of 3.5 or higher in all English courses. An overall cumulative GPA of 3.0 is required for graduation in the program. Prospective candidates for the honours program normally apply for admission at the end of their second year, although admission is possible during either semester of the third year. All applications should be made by November 30 or March 31 of the semester preceding the one into which admission is desired.

Environmental Studies

Faculty of Humanities and Social Sciences and Faculty of Natural and Applied Sciences

David R. Clements, Ph.D., Coordinator

TWU offers a multidisciplinary environmental studies program by combining strengths from three departments across two faculties: the geography department in the Faculty of Humanities and Social Sciences, and the biology and chemistry departments in the Faculty of Natural and Applied Sciences. These departments offer:

- a major in environmental studies, leading to a BSc degree
- a major in environmental studies leading to a BA degree
- a minor

Purpose

The purpose of the program is to develop godly leaders with solid scientific and technical skills who are actively growing in their creative, problem solving, and thinking abilities developed within the context of a liberal arts education. This background, combined with a biblical Christian perspective on the environment, helps future leaders offer innovative, creative, and effective solutions to the challenging task of creation stewardship.

Perspective

The environmental field requires knowledge of geography, biology, and chemistry, and insights from other disciplines within the natural and social sciences. Such knowledge is indispensable when dealing with complex issues such as species habitat, the remediation of a polluted site, renewable and non-renewable resources, ecological conservation and restoration projects, spatial and statistical analysis, air quality, global warming, and environmental toxicology. At the same time, a person working in environmental studies often faces social, political, ethical, and philosophical issues that both affect and go beyond the science. Indeed, significant environmental debates are usually rooted in values and beliefs. Thus, the program strives to prepare the environmental professional by building a solid core of scientific subjects, based on the ethical foundation of Christian thought and practice.

The Christian and the Environment

The foundation of the environmental studies program is the fact that God is. He is the creator as revealed in Scripture. There may be pragmatic reasons for caring for the environment, but even if no other reason exists, with Francis Schaeffer we believe creation has intrinsic value because God created it. God saw all that He had made, and it was very good. We recognize that aspects of the creation are fallen as a result of sin, but also that God continues to care for and sustain the creation. In Psalms we see God in an intimate relationship with creation—He “make[s] the grass grow for the cattle” (104:14) and the lions “seek their food from God” (104:21). In Job we see a similar relationship; He even “counts the months” until the “doe bears her fawn” (39:1-2). God has made covenants not only with humanity, but with all of creation (Genesis 9:8-17). If He is concerned about His creation, we should be also.

Our Christian perspective also affirms the value of humanity: “Are not two sparrows sold for a farthing? And not one of them shall fall to the ground apart from the Father. But the very hairs of your head are all numbered. Therefore do not fear, you are more valuable than many sparrows” (Matthew 10:29-31). This tells us that while a creature as common as the sparrow is valuable to God, people are even more valuable. Isaiah 45:18 reminds us of this fact: “For this is what the LORD says—He who created the heavens, He is God; He who fashioned and made the earth, He founded it; He did not create it to be empty, but formed it to be inhabited.” We don’t view humanity as a blight on the planet. Rather we seek the goal of understanding and living responsibly with and in the environment of which we are a part.

We are created in the image of God and have, among other things, the responsibility of tending the creation. Thus, in our perspective, environmental paradigms for behaviour, management, and solutions to problems should consider all the creation and its interrelationships, including human relationships and needs. Taking care of the environment should not be something out of the ordinary; it is a normal Christian duty. There may be debate as to how that may be best accomplished. That debate is part of the exploration and growth at TWU.

Program

Both BA and BSc degree programs in environmental studies are offered at TWU. The BA in environmental studies is designed to equip students to meet the challenges of planning and policy-making that accompany wise environmental management. It uses a broad interdisciplinary base to ground a holistic appraisal of the issues involved in, and the practical application of, environmental management, planning, and policy.

Courses either have content that is directly relevant to these areas, or they employ concepts that have value in dealing with environmental problems.

The broad interdisciplinary range is coupled with enough flexibility to fulfil more specific interests in biology, political studies, business, or geography. In addition, combinations of courses in geography, business, political studies, or biology could lead to an environmental studies focus in the education program. This program serves as excellent preparation for careers in environmental law; environmental journalism; land use planning; government agency, industry or non-government organization (NGO) work; and environmental education. Approved course credits that are part of the TWU Laurentian Leadership Centre count towards the environmental studies, BA degree.

European Studies

Faculty of Humanities and Social Sciences

Kelsey Haskett, Ph.D., Coordinator

The Faculty of Humanities and Social Science offers:

- a major in European studies, leading to a
- BA degree

This major is designed for students who are keenly interested in Europe, in particular those who are drawn by its rich cultural heritage and its changing social, political, and spiritual dynamics. Bringing together European language, history, and culture provides a focus for this interest and is intended to prepare students to play significant roles in Europe or in international settings relating to Europe.

Understanding what Europe represents, moreover, is a critical factor in understanding North America, because much of North American culture is rooted and grounded in European civilization, including ideas on government, human dignity, and human rights. Learning about the historic presence of Christianity in Europe, as well as its rejection in more modern times, is also important for Christians wanting to engage their faith in today's world. Graduates with this major seek careers in government, international organizations, diplomatic work, business, missions, teaching, overseas journalism, research, and other fields pertaining to Europe.

Program Checklists and Requirements:

- multidisciplinary major in European studies, BA degree – language stream
- multidisciplinary major in European studies, BA degree – history stream
- multidisciplinary major in European studies, BA degree – English literature and fine arts stream

General Studies

A student may choose to pursue a BA or a BSc in general studies. These programs incorporate academic study in a combination of disciplines. This is particularly suitable for students whose areas of interest extend beyond the usual disciplinary boundaries.

A BA in general studies is available by combining a minimum of two minors (24 sem. hrs. each), at least one of which is not a natural or applied science.

A BSc in general studies is available by combining a minimum of two minors (24 sem. hrs. each) in the natural sciences. For more depth, students may choose to do a concentration (30 sem. hrs.) in one or both cases.

History

Department of History, Political and International Studies

Darren Provost, Ph.D., Chair and Coordinator of History

The history program within the Department of Geography, History, and Political and International Studies offers:

- an honours major in history, leading to a BA (honours) degree
- a major in history, leading to a BA degree
- a concentration in history
- a minor in history

History students will become aware of the processes of change and the development of peoples, institutions, environments, and ideas over time.

They will investigate how peoples and societies unfolded in response to beliefs, ideas, passions, and material and social conditions. With change continuing today, the study of history prepares students to make sense of this unfolding process. Awareness of history is a prerequisite for informed citizenship and for understanding how to live as a person of faith in the world.

Furthermore, government and business employers are becoming more concerned about understanding political issues, social problems, and public attitudes.

Knowledgeable and thoughtful historians can be effective leaders in gaining and sharing an understanding of culture and thus making informed decisions.

TWU's Laurentian Leadership Centre in Ottawa gives students an opportunity to study Canada's history while also completing an internship that enables them to apply their historical skills in a government or industry setting.

Graduates with a background in history can look for employment in government-related service, administration, business, archives and museums, and teaching. This program is an excellent pre professional program for law, librarianship, ministerial training, journalism, broadcasting, and administration. The insight, skills of analysis and communication, and dispositions acquired in this field are increasingly recognized as a key to success in today's world.

Program Checklists and Requirements:

- Honours program in history, BA \(honours\) degree

The honours program in history allows for a greater degree of specialization in history and is especially valuable as a preparation for graduate studies. Also, history students interested in secondary education, who already are required to take a greater number of upper level history courses, may wish to consider the honours program.

Admission to the honours program in history is by application to the department chair. Prospective candidates normally apply at the end of their second year of study, but admission is possible during the third or fourth year. To be admitted, a cumulative GPA of 3.0 is required. A GPA of 3.0 must be maintained in all history courses throughout the duration of the program.

An overall GPA of 2.7 is required for graduation.

Humanities

Faculty of Humanities and Social Sciences

The Faculty of Humanities and Social Sciences offers:

- a multidisciplinary major in humanities, leading to a BA degree

Jens Zimmermann, Ph.D., Coordinator

Program Description:

The humanities are about people—their ideas, beliefs, values, and self-expression. Humanities students learn to appreciate their cultural heritage and to discern the importance of religion in the shaping of cultures. Increased global awareness of religious and cultural plurality makes imperative the understanding of one's own traditions and the respect for other cultures. For these reasons, this program fosters familiarity with the Judeo-Christian roots and their religious antecedents and rivals, such as Islam, that have shaped the intellectual concepts and moral values of Western cultures, including the Christian humanistic ethos that gave birth to the liberal arts. Studying these influences within a consciously Christian liberal arts university, students will also gain a new perspective on the nature of humanity—the God-given capacity to pursue truth, to create beauty, and to do good, as well as a capacity for evil. The faculty who teach in this area encourage the development of an informed spiritual and intellectual maturity. Foundations in the humanities contribute to the fulfilment and enjoyment of life.

This program is designed for students with general interest in the humanities, rather than for those who wish to specialize in one discipline. The course combination is designed to familiarize students with the role of the humanities and with the abiding questions concerning human society and its purpose within the current Western and global cultural context.

Human Services

Department of Psychology, Sociology, and Anthropology

Chuck Macknee, Ph.D., Chair

Michael Wilkinson, Ph.D., Coordinator

The Department of Psychology, Sociology, and Anthropology offers a certificate in human services (30 sem. hrs.) embedded within the BA psychology, BA sociology, or BA social sciences programs. Human services students must fulfil the requirements for the major in one of these degree programs (see the respective program checklists.) For students who have already fully completed a university degree, a post-degree certificate in human services (30 sem. hrs) is available.

The human services certificate program is a set of courses in psychology and sociology with an applied focus.

The program introduces students to the helping professions and not only equips students to help others, but allows vocational discernment within the helping professions. A human services professional is educated and trained to work with individuals and communities experiencing emotional, cognitive, or social problems. Human services professionals find entry level positions as psychological aides, social work assistants, case workers, youth workers, and community workers; in fields including mental health, wellness, and substance abuse treatment; and in settings such as faith-based social services, group homes, and government agencies.

This program both requires and enhances a student's empathy for people, communication skills, interpersonal skills, insight into personal strengths and weaknesses, commitment to human services as a vocation, and analytical skills. SOCI 201 should be taken prior to the completed practicum.

Practicum settings may include such areas as services to children, to the aged, to people who have challenges (emotionally, physically, academically, etc.), and to individuals in corrective custody.

The human services certificate program at Trinity Western University is recognized by the Council for Standards in human service education (CSHSE). CSHSE is an accrediting body in the USA "committed to improving the quality, consistency, and relevance of human service education programs."

Inter-Cultural Religious Studies

Department of Religious Studies

Joanne Pepper, Ph.D., Coordinator

The Department of Religious Studies offers:

- a major in inter-cultural religious studies leading to a BA degree
- a minor in inter-cultural religious Studies

The inter-cultural religious studies (ICRS) program is designed for those who are interested in any kind of cross-cultural work or ministry.

Interdisciplinary approaches provide students the opportunity to specialize in a stream of their choice, to shape learning outcomes toward individual visions and goals. ICRS explores the richness of various cultures and religions in light of globalization and the meaningful theological and social contextualization of the Gospel.

Additionally, through its inclusion of language learning, the possibility of obtaining a TESL diploma through selected coursework, and a cross-cultural practicum, the program lays academic foundations upon which practical experience is based. Semester study programs overseas or at the TWU Laurentian Centre in Ottawa may also be incorporated in the program. ICRS graduates have entered fields of teaching, political advocacy, community and social services, governmental and non-governmental organizations in Canada and overseas, global missionary service, and ministry roles in local church settings. Many ICRS alumni also enter graduate studies in areas such as social science, religion, missiology, linguistics, and education.

International Studies

Department of History, Political and International Studies

Darren Provost, Ph.D., Chair

Paul Rowe, Ph.D., Coordinator

The Department of History, Political and International Studies offers the following multidisciplinary programs in International Studies:

- an honours program in international studies, leading to a BA (honours) degree

- a major in international studies, leading to a BA degree

The multidisciplinary international studies program provides students with a broad understanding of the changing dynamics of our global society. It equips them with insights and skills for international careers in areas such as teaching, the foreign service, and international business; social service involving immigrants, refugees, resettlement, and overseas development; missionary service; and journalism, research, and advocacy work on global issues.

The program includes a core of courses that gives students a foundation in understanding contemporary global developments, with electives to suit their particular interests. The program provides a cross-cultural dimension for economic, social, and political issues. Approved course credits that are part of one of the Council for Christian Colleges and Universities' International Studies Programs or Trinity Western's Laurentian Leadership Centre count towards the international studies, BA (honours) or BA degree. For details, see 'Additional Curricular Opportunities' or contact the coordinator.

Linguistics

Department of Linguistics

David Jeffery, MA, Chair

The Department of Linguistics offers:

- a major in applied linguistics, leading to a BA degree
- a concentration in applied linguistics
- a minor in applied linguistics
- a minor in applied linguistics with TESOL certificates in Teaching English to Speakers of Other Languages

Linguistics is the study of language and how it is used in any society in our global community. The courses teach the crucial skills needed for learning and describing languages, even those which are unwritten. These skills include the recognition and pronunciation of non-English speech sounds, alphabet formation, and description of grammars and systems of meaning and beliefs. Courses are based on proven techniques drawn from decades of research in hundreds of languages of the world.

Students of linguistics have opportunities in the areas of translation, cross-cultural communication, international development (especially literacy programs), and teaching English as a second language.

The major is good preparation for the Master of applied linguistics and exegesis program, offered through Trinity Western's Graduate School of Theological Studies, and for the Master of Arts in linguistics program, offered through Trinity Western's School of Graduate Studies.

Program Checklists and Requirements:

- major in applied linguistics, BA degree

 - minor in applied linguistics with TESOL
 - certificates in Teaching English for Speakers of Other Languages

Philosophy

Department of Philosophy

Grant Havers, Ph.D., Chair

The Department of Philosophy offers:

- an honours program leading to a BA (honours) degree;
- a major leading to a BA degree
- a concentration
- a minor

Philosophy, which means "the love of wisdom," is the rational quest for the most meaningful and truthful visions of reality involving critical, creative, and sometimes iconoclastic questioning of conventional assumptions about knowledge, human action, religion, and the nature of reality. Students who take degrees in Philosophy have their logical and critical skills both challenged and improved as they explore the writings of past thinkers whose ideas have shaped the tradition of the West.

They also engage in bringing what they learn to bear creatively on some of the most significant problems contemporary cultures around the world face.

Philosophy offers excellent tools for understanding and evaluating ideas, and provides a first-rate background (particularly in Christian apologetics and ethics) for law school and theological training.

Philosophy majors and minors have gone on to succeed in a variety of disciplines and professions, including business, law, politics, and education.

Political Studies

Department of History, Political and International Studies

Darren Provost, Ph.D., Chair

Paul Rowe, Ph.D., Coordinator

The political studies program within the Department of History, Political and International Studies offers:

- an honours program in political studies, leading to a BA (honours) degree

- a major in political studies, leading to a
- BA degree
- a concentration in political studies
- a minor in political studies

In political studies, students explore how governments are organized and how they influence the amount and distribution of social and economic resources. Students develop a fuller understanding of government institutions, legislative processes, foreign policy, international relations, and public law.

Studying political studies helps prepare students to exercise their rights and responsibilities as citizens. TWU's Laurentian Leadership Centre in Ottawa gives students an opportunity to study the political process in the nation's capital while also completing an internship in a government office, non-governmental organization, or on Parliament Hill.

Graduates with a background in political studies can look for employment in government-related service, administration, business, archives and museums, and teaching. This program is an excellent preprofessional program for law, librarianship, ministerial training, journalism, broadcasting, and administration. Psychology

Chuck MacKnee, Ph.D., Chair

The Department of Psychology, Sociology, and Anthropology offers:

- an honours program in psychology, leading to a BA (honours) degree
- a major in psychology, leading to a BA degree
- a concentration
- a minor

The psychology program seeks to give students a thorough grounding in the understanding of human experience and behaviour derived from systematic observation and research. This research is interpreted within the framework of the meaning and nature of persons and society revealed to us in the Bible.

Trinity Western's psychology professors see people both as part of God's created world, wholly dependent on Him, and as unique and responsible persons who bear the image of their Creator. Together with the students, they seek to appreciate the tremendous potential of humans and to understand how this potential can be realized in diverse cultural settings.

Students use a Christian worldview as the basis of interpretation. Psychology students investigate principles derived from research, as well as explore practical, life-oriented application of such principles. Students consider the implications of their faith in such areas as love, work, leisure, family, sexuality, value and meaning, and interpersonal relationships.

Graduates in psychology can have an impact on their world through enabling people to understand themselves and others and by helping them experience the transforming love and power of God. The program provides a good foundation for those considering people-helping or service oriented work such as counselling, therapy, public service, Christian ministry, or social work. Students who want to pursue graduate studies in psychology should consider the honours program in psychology.

The honours program allows for a high degree of specialization in psychology. Admission to the program requires a cumulative GPA of 3.0. Students must maintain grades of 3.0 or higher in all psychology courses. An overall cumulative GPA of 2.7 is required for graduation in the program. Prospective candidates for the honours program normally apply for admission at the end of their second year, although admission is possible during either semester of the third year.

All applications should be made by November 30 or March 31 of the semester preceding the one into which admission is desired.

Religious Studies

Kent D. Clarke, Ph.D., Chair

The Department of Religious Studies offers: a major in religious studies leading to a BA degree. The religious studies program allows students to gain a broad exposure to all the disciplines found within the religious studies department at TWU, including biblical studies, theology, and intercultural religious studies. This major offers excellent preparation for Christian ministry or graduate studies.

Note: All Religious Studies courses with a second digit of 0 to 5 are regarded as biblical content courses. Courses with a second digit of 6 to 9 are regarded as non-biblical content courses.

Social Sciences

Faculty of Humanities and Social Sciences

The Faculty of Humanities and Social Sciences offers:

- a multidisciplinary major in social sciences, leading to a BA degree

The multidisciplinary major in social sciences incorporates academic study in a combination of social science disciplines. This major consists of a very flexible package of courses. Thus, it is particularly suitable for students whose areas of interest extend beyond the normal disciplinary boundaries. It is also attractive to students seeking to design a unique combination of courses that matches these interests. This major provides good preparation for those considering work in the service sector or in various areas of Christian ministry.

Sociology

Department of Psychology, Sociology, and Anthropology

Michael Wilkinson, Ph.D., Coordinator

The Department of Psychology, Sociology, and Anthropology offers:

- a major in Sociology leading to a BA degree
- a concentration in sociology
- a minor in sociology

Sociology is the study of human social interaction and includes a focus on structure, culture, interaction, stratification, institutions, and social change. Students with sociology backgrounds do well in areas such as human services, government, research, education, and other fields that require a good understanding of society and culture. Students may also choose to complete the human services program, a stream of study embedded within the sociology major. Students who complete the human services program receive a certificate in human services. The human services program meets the requirements for membership with the Council for Standards in Human Service Education (cshse.org).

Note: This program is offered under the written consent of the Minister of Advanced Education effective March 5, 2008, having undergone a quality assessment process and been found to meet the criteria established by the minister. Nevertheless, prospective students are responsible for satisfying themselves that the program and the degree will be appropriate to their needs (for example, acceptable to potential employers, professional licensing bodies, or other educational institutions).

World Languages And Cultures

Department of World Languages And Cultures

Kelsey Haskett, Ph.D., Chair

The Department of World Languages and Cultures offers:

- a major in world languages and cultures
- a concentration and minor in French language and literature
- a concentration and minor in French studies

- a concentration and minor in Spanish introductory and intermediate courses in Chinese, German, Japanese, and Russian

Trinity Western University's program in world languages and cultures focuses on a number of extremely significant languages, and is therefore strategic to preparing graduates to impact the world. Courses contribute to a global vision and awareness as well as to an understanding of Canadian culture and identity. They lead to new avenues of crosscultural communication, and open doors around the world. Literature courses provide insight into various cultures, examine ideas that have influenced the world, and help students develop analytical and writing skills. Language studies create a wide spectrum of opportunities for students. These include careers in teaching, missions, government and diplomatic work, international organizations, translation, business, social service, public relations, journalism, and many other exciting global opportunities.

The department's courses focus mainly on language acquisition, literature, and cultural studies. The major in world languages and cultures includes different languages within the Department. The French program covers all levels of language study, as well as literature from France, Quebec and other Francophone areas. Spanish courses focus on language learning as well as Hispanic literature and culture. Chinese, German, Japanese and Russian courses provide introductory and intermediate language study, all of which include significant cultural components.

Program Checklists and Requirements:

Students who complete 15 sem. hrs. or more of French or Spanish but who do not intend to do a concentration or minor in the language may receive a letter of proficiency from the Department.

Students who complete 12 sem. hrs. or more of Chinese, German, Japanese, or Russian may receive a letter of proficiency from the Department.

Multidisciplinary Programs

The multidisciplinary programs in this section represent programs that span disciplines across three or more faculties or schools.

Gender Studies Institute

Purpose

In order to function as godly Christian leaders, students must be prepared to be sensitive to the nuances of gender in both the private and public sectors. The Gender Studies Institute fosters interdisciplinary teaching, intellectual dialogue, research, and collaboration in all areas of gender studies. The interdisciplinary nature of the Institute enables TWU scholars to collaboratively address with students gender issues that come out of every discipline, such as domestic violence, child abuse, and gendered visions of care, exploring how categories such as class, race, and gender intersect, to train leaders who enjoy and foster restorative gendered relationships.

The Gender Studies Institute offers a multidisciplinary minor in gender studies. The multidisciplinary minor in gender studies incorporates academic study in a combination of disciplines across several faculties or schools. This minor consists of a very flexible package of courses. Thus, it is particularly suitable for students whose areas of interest extend beyond the normal disciplinary boundaries.

Note: This program is offered under the written consent of the Minister of Advanced Education effective September 14, 2009, having undergone a quality assessment process and been found to meet the criteria established by the Minister. Nevertheless, prospective students are responsible for satisfying themselves that the program and the degree are appropriate to their needs (for example, acceptable to potential employers, professional licensing

Faculty of Natural and Applied Sciences

Craig D. Montgomery, Ph.D., Dean

Purpose

The mission of the Faculty of Natural and Applied Sciences is to produce godly Christians with expertise in the theoretical and applied sciences, an understanding of and appreciation for the relationship of scientific knowledge to authoritative biblical truth, as well as an awareness of the present and potential impact of science on society. Responsible scientific advancement requires men and women with sound ethical judgment in addition to scientific expertise. Natural sciences students at Trinity Western University acquire the fundamental scientific, general, and biblical knowledge that equips them to make a positive scientific contribution in industry, research, teaching, or the health sciences.

Perspective

Natural sciences students are challenged to live a Christ-centred life while developing a high degree of competence in their specialty. Students learn to apply biblical understanding to scientific issues of today, developing their own answers to many of the ethical issues facing our highly technological society. Students may choose from programs and course work in biology, biotechnology, chemistry, computing science, environmental studies, information systems, physical geography, geology, mathematics (pure and applied), and physics, including well-supervised and up-to-date laboratory experience. The natural sciences faculty are capable and committed professors who teach their discipline with a deep love for Christ and an awareness of His claim on their lives. They keep abreast of new scientific thought and discovery, and as teachers, are expected to continuously advance in their field of expertise as well as in the application of scriptural truth to their discipline. Natural Sciences students learn an appreciation for scriptural truth and its relevance to scientific issues of today. The faculty emphasizes that knowledge of our created world is possible only because all things are held together through Christ.

Program

The Faculty offers a Bachelor of Science degree majoring in biology, chemistry, computing science, mathematics, mathematics with computing science, and biotechnology. An honours degree is available in biology, biotechnology, and chemistry. Jointly with the Faculty of Humanities and Social Sciences, the Faculty offers a major in environmental studies. A major in general studies with a concentration in biology, chemistry, computing science, mathematics, mathematics with computing science, or physics is also available. Minors are offered in each discipline where a major or concentration is offered. A minor is also available in information systems.

Natural sciences students may also complete the requirements of many pre-professional programs such as agriculture, architecture, dentistry, engineering, forestry, medicine, and pharmacy. Emphases of the natural sciences program include:

Scientific awareness — Scientific investigation demands sharp analytical, mathematical, observational, and laboratory skills. Faculty members help students develop an appreciation for the essentials of the scientific method and a disciplined approach to scientific investigation. Students are encouraged to approach science as a study of the intricate details of design and order inherent in creation and the resulting functional processes. The comprehensive nature of the program prepares students for entry into more advanced scientific studies at the graduate level;

The scope and limitations of science — Careful attention is given to developing sound judgment as to the scope and limits of scientific enterprise. Upper level students are encouraged to expand their capacity to address the ethical issues inherent in scientific discovery;

Practical application — Science teaches clear, logical thought and a rigorous, analytical approach to problems—valuable skills in any profession. Professors urge students to apply basic scientific principles to daily life, enabling them to adapt effectively to an increasingly technological world. Each major offers a fully integrated laboratory program. An increasing number of field courses are being offered as part of the science programs, including marine biology and botany courses in Hawaii and Salt Spring Island, B.C.

Au Sable Institute Courses

As a service to biology and chemistry majors with an interest in environmental studies, several 300 or 400 level courses are available for credit to Trinity Western students through the Au Sable Institute for Environmental Studies. Opportunities are available in Washington state, the Great Lakes area, Florida, Africa, and India. These are intensive courses taught primarily during the spring and summer and offer a distinct Christian perspective on the environment. See the Office of the Registrar for tuition rates. Some financial assistance for travel and housing is available from the Au Sable Institute. See course listings under environmental studies. Full details can be obtained from the co-coordinator of the environmental studies program.

Biology

Department of Biology

Anthony Siame, Ph.D., Chair

The Department of Biology offers the following programs:

- an honours program, leading to a BSc (honours) degree
- a major, leading to a BSc degree
- an interdisciplinary major in environmental studies, leading to a BSc degree
- a concentration in biology
- a minor in biology

The Department of Biology provides students with a thorough understanding of the role of biology in modern society. Students are prepared for careers in ecology and environmental science, biotechnology, and medical science. Courses of study meet the requirements for professional schools—education, medicine, dentistry, veterinary medicine, chiropractic, physiotherapy—as well as those for graduate school. The Department provides opportunities for further study in the spring and summer at the Au Sable Institute for Environmental Studies in Washington State, the Great Lakes area, Costa Rica, and India. The Department of Biology offers co-op programs that provide work experience in applied biology. The Department encourages students to participate in faculty research programs in ecology, marine biology, biotechnology, and medical science.

The honours program in biology provides students with sufficient latitude to design an in-depth program of study tailored to a specific emphasis in biology. The biology department currently offers four emphases in the honours program: cell and developmental biology, biochemistry and molecular biology, ecology, and general biology. Admission to the biology honours program requires a cumulative GPA of 3.0 over the first two years of study; a GPA of 3.0 in biology courses; and an overall GPA of 2.7 for graduation.

The Department also contributes to the biotechnology programs.

Biotechnology

Department of Biology

Anthony Siame, Ph.D., Chair

Julia Mills, Ph.D., Coordinator

The biotechnology program offers:

- an honours program, leading to a BSc (honours) degree
- a major, leading to a BSc degree
- a multidisciplinary major in biotechnology and chemistry, leading to a BSc degree
- an interdisciplinary major in biotechnology and business administration, leading to a BSc degree

The TWU biotechnology program is comprised of a basic life sciences core together with biotechnology courses offered within the Departments of Biology and Chemistry. Business courses offered by the School of Business are also available for students intending a management career in biotechnology. Standard entry requirements for medical school and other professional schools are met by the basic life sciences core while biotechnology courses provide an understanding of the component technologies together with applications of biotechnology in health care, agriculture, forestry, food processing, marine sciences, and the environment. The program approaches ethical concerns from both a scientific and Christian perspective enabling students to contribute reasoned, ethical interpretations to the discourse of the biotechnology marketplace. The program includes required intern (for credit) and co-op (paid) placements in biotechnology industries in North America to provide hands-on, supervised work experience.

Note: This program is offered under the written consent of the Minister of Advanced Education effective March 9, 2006 (renewed April 4, 2011), having undergone a quality assessment process and been found to meet the criteria established by the Minister. Nevertheless, prospective students are responsible for satisfying themselves that the program and the degree are appropriate to their needs (for example, acceptable to potential employers, professional licensing bodies, or other educational institutions).

Chemistry

Department of Chemistry

Paul D. Brown, Ph.D., Chair

The Department of Chemistry offers:

- an honours program in chemistry, leading to a BSc (honours) degree
- a major in chemistry, leading to a BSc degree
- a concentration
- a minor.

Chemistry plays an integral role in the professional preparation of the science student. Chemistry plays a crucial role in the professional preparation of the science student. Graduates of our chemistry program have found career opportunities in chemical, medical, environmental, agricultural, educational, management, and technology or biotechnology enterprises. A chemistry degree provides a basic foundation that can be widely applied to careers in many walks of life.

The chemistry student may choose one of a few programs that are tailored toward their interests and goals. The general program provides a versatile and solid chemistry background for many paths a graduate may choose in the future. The honours program and the program for graduate school preparation enable a student to continue to an advanced research degree.

The chemistry – life sciences emphasis provides a strong chemistry-focused context for future paths in the life sciences, medical, or other pre-professional programs. Students may wish to supplement their program with business courses.

Within the individual chemistry courses, there is ample opportunity for breadth of preparation in theory and practice. Following the introduction of general principles and laboratory skills, courses are provided in analytical, organic, physical, and inorganic chemistry as well as biochemistry. Fourth year students may do independent projects in chemical problems encountered in testing, research, and development.

The chemistry department, located in the Neufeld Science Centre, features new and up-to-date laboratories and equipment. Advanced students are given opportunities to develop their teaching and leadership skills by acting as teaching assistants in first-year laboratories under the supervision of a faculty member.

Combined Chemistry and Business majors

This combination is ideal for those seeking managerial positions in a technological industry. As this program is demanding, it may require five years of study. Please consult the deans in both areas for details.

Much of today's world is dependent on computing systems and technology. From small business to multi-national corporations, from home to government, we rely heavily on computing professionals. The field continues to grow and offers exciting opportunities to shape society. With Trinity Western's liberal arts and sciences education, you can approach Computing Science with a larger appreciation for other disciplines and their relation to your field of study. A challenging academic study in Computing Science develops your ability to think clearly and logically. In the course of your Computing Science program, you develop skills needed for a wide range of careers in computing and informational technology.

Previous graduates of our degree programs have gone on to M.Sc. and Ph.D. programs as well. Trinity Western's computing science group has many active research projects. Our research partners come from a wide range of industries and other academic disciplines. Researchers in our program also gain access to the WestGrid (Western Canada Research Grid), the regional high-performance computing consortia. It provides supercomputing resources to our researchers in tackling some of Canada's biggest research challenges.

General Studies

A student may choose to pursue a BA or a BSc in general studies. These programs incorporate academic study in a combination of disciplines. This is particularly suitable for students whose areas of interest extend beyond the usual disciplinary boundaries.

A B.A. in general studies is available by combining a minimum of two minors (24 sem. hrs. each), at least one of which is not a natural or applied science. A BSc in general studies is available by combining a minimum of two minors (24 sem. hrs. each), both of which are in the natural sciences. For more depth, students may choose to do a concentration (30 sem. hrs.) for either degree.

Geography and Environmental Studies

Department of Geography and Environment

David R. Clements, Ph.D., and Maxwell Ofosubene, Co-Chairs

TWU offers a multidisciplinary program by combining strengths chiefly from three disciplines across two faculties: the geography program in the Faculty of Humanities and Social Sciences, and the biology and chemistry programs in the Faculty of Natural and Applied Sciences. The resulting Department of Geography and Environment offers:

- a major in environmental studies leading to a BSc degree
- a major in environmental studies leading to a BA degree

- a major in geography leading to a BA degree
- a minor in environmental studies
- a concentration and a minor in geography

Both BA and BSc degree programs in environmental studies are offered at TWU. The BA in environmental studies is designed to equip students to meet the challenges of planning and policy-making that accompany wise environmental management. It uses a broad interdisciplinary base to ground a holistic appraisal of the issues involved in, and the practical application of, environmental management, planning, and policy. Courses either have content that is directly relevant to these areas, or they employ concepts that have value in dealing with environmental problems. The broad interdisciplinary range is coupled with enough flexibility to fulfil more specific interests in biology, chemistry, geography, political studies, business, or education. In addition, combinations of courses in geography, business, political studies, or biology could lead to an environmental studies focus in the education program. This program serves as excellent preparation for careers in environmental law; environmental journalism; land use planning; government agency, industry or non-government organization (NGO) work; and environmental education. Approved course credits that are part of the TWU Laurentian Leadership Centre count towards the environmental studies, BA degree.

A geography degree offers students the opportunity to tackle complex human and environmental problems with a skill set that emphasizes a combination of knowledge-building, critical thinking, informed problem solving, interdisciplinary learning, geospatial technologies and analysis, and hands-on solutions to positively impact people's quality of life and their environments.

Geographers work in a wide array of fields including community development and missions, urban and regional planning, population and statistical analysis, computerized mapping and remote sensing, business, retail analysis and market research, environmental assessment and resource conservation, geophysical analysis, and natural science research. Graduates with geography degrees are in high demand. Significant employment opportunities exist within government, teaching, business, private sector consulting, and in non-governmental/non-profit organization. The reasons for this wide range of opportunities and the demand for trained geographers in the workplace are the unique spatial perspective, interdisciplinary skills, holistic approach, geospatial technologies, statistical analysis and other skills the geography graduate offers.

Pre-Professional Studies (Sciences)

Faculty of Natural and Applied Sciences

Jack Van Dyke, Ph.D., Coordinator

In addition to the major programs, students may study in various pre-professional programs including:

Pre-Medicine

Students planning to enter the field of medicine may take their full pre-medicine program at Trinity Western. Due to very restricted enrolments in medical schools, students are encouraged to select a course of studies which will lead to a degree in their area of interest. Each medical school has specific requirements for entrance; however, requirements may include the following:

BIOL 113, 114 (or BIOL 103, 104, and 105); 223; 384, 386

CHEM 111, 112 (or 103, 104; or 103, 112); 221, 222 ENGL 103, 104

MATH 123, 124; or 123, 102

PHYS 111, 112

Pre-Dentistry

Normally students are required to complete three academic years towards a baccalaureate degree, including courses in the humanities and social sciences. Specific requirements for many dental schools may include the following:

BIOL 113, 114 (or BIOL 103, 104, and 105); 384, 386

CHEM 111, 112 (or 103, 104; or 103, 112); 221, 222

PHYS 111, 112

Pre-Veterinary Medicine

Normally two years of study are required for admission to a school of veterinary studies and students are able to complete their requirements at Trinity Western. Admission to the Western College of Veterinary Medicine (in Saskatoon, Sask.), for example, requires:

BIOL 113, 114 (or BIOL 103, 104, and 105); 333 or 334, 384 or 386 (384 preferred), 371
ENGL 103, 104

CHEM 111, 112 (or CHEM 103, 104; or CHEM 103, 112); 221

MATH 123, 124; or 123, 102

PHYS 111

Electives: 15 sem. hrs. (i.e. sufficient to complete two full years).

Pre-Pharmacy

Normally two years of study are required for admission to pharmacy. Admission to the Faculty of Pharmaceutical Sciences at the University of British Columbia, for example, requires:

BIOL 113, 114 (or BIOL 103, 104, and 105), 223 or 371, 333, 384

CHEM 111, 112 (or CHEM 103, 104 or 103, 112), 221, 222

MATH 123, 124, 102

HUM or SS 6 sem. hrs.

plus sufficient electives to complete 60 sem. Hrs.

Pre-Engineering

Herbert H. Tsang, P.Eng., Ph.D., Coordinator
Arnold Sikkema, Ph.D., Coordinator

The three universities in British Columbia offering engineering programs, namely the University of British Columbia (UBC), Simon Fraser University, and the University of Victoria, reserve space in their second year for students who have completed the equivalent of first year Engineering at another institution. Requirements vary among these universities; a one or two-year program at Trinity Western University can be crafted in consultation with the engineering transfer program coordinators and the destination university.

Students who have completed the following courses at Trinity Western University can apply for entry into the first year of the Engineering program at UBC:

MATH 123, 124

PHYS 111, 112

Humanities electives (6 sem. hrs.)
Completion of these courses reduces the courses requirements in the four-year engineering program at UBC.

For entry into the second year of Engineering at UBC, one or more of the following additional courses are required:

MATH 250

PHYS 220

CMPT 140

PHYS/CHEM 240

an Engineering Graphics course (available at Kwantlen Polytechnic University in May/June and evenings at University of the Fraser Valley)
Several additional courses may help reduce the course load in the final three years of the UBC Engineering program:

CMPT 480

ECON 201, 102

Additional science courses relevant to the engineering program of interest
Humanities and social sciences electives

Recommended Guidelines for First Year Courses

The Faculty of Natural and Applied Sciences believes that students taking courses in the Faculty should have as many choices for entry points into the program as is consistent with providing a quality university education. Students should take note of the following 100 level courses and their prerequisites to determine which course is appropriate for them.

Labs and Tutorials

Some chemistry, physics, biology, biotechnology, geology, and physical geography courses have required labs that must be included in course registration.

Some biology, chemistry, and physics courses have required tutorials that must be included in course registration.

Computing science courses have required labs that must be added after classes have started.

Biology

First year biology students with no previous biology should take BIOL 103, 104, and 105, as well as CHEM 111 and 112 or CHEM 103, 104, or CHEM 103, 112. Those with Grade 12 biology should take BIOL 113 and 114 as well as CHEM 111 and 112 or CHEM 103, 112. Biology students with a B or better in BIOL 103 can take BIOL114 (instead of BIOL 104 and BIOL 105). Biology students who have Grade 12 Mathematics (Principles or Pre-Calculus) should take MATH

123. Biology students with a limited background in mathematics should take MATH 105 (precalculus).

Chemistry

To complete a chemistry major or minor, the following courses are normally taken in first year: CHEM 111, 112 (or CHEM 103, 104; or CHEM 103, 112); MATH 123, 124; PHYS 111, 112. Physics may be delayed to second year if necessary, although there are advantages to taking it in first year. Students desiring a terminal general chemistry course: take CHEM 101.

Science majors with Chemistry 11: take CHEM 103, 104 or 103, 112. CHEM 103 has four lectures per week.

Science majors with Chemistry 12 or high standing in Chemistry 11: take CHEM 111, 112.

Note: Students with a B or better in CHEM 103 may take CHEM 112. Students with a B or better in CHEM 104 may take second year chemistry courses.

Computing Science

Students with no previous computing experience: consider CMPT 140, or ISYS 113. Science majors:

- with credit for a university level introductory programming course: take CMPT 166 (second semester);
- with some computing experience but little programming: take CMPT 140 and then 166

Students planning to major in computing science are advised to take CMPT 150 in the first semester. No computing science course may be used to satisfy lab science requirements for any TWU program.

Environmental Studies

Students interested in environmental studies should take at least two of the three ENVS core courses in their first year: BIOL 113, 114; CHEM 111, 112; or GENV 121, 131; or GEOL 109. See the guidelines above for the recommended high school biology courses that prepare students for university.

Information Systems

Students should begin with ISYS 113 or 123.

Mathematics

All science majors take a math survey test during registration to determine whether to enroll in MATH 105 or 123. Students with limited knowledge of Principles of Mathematics 12 or pre-calculus 12 take MATH 105. Those demonstrating a B or better in Principles of Mathematics 12 or pre-calculus 12 normally take MATH 123.

Students planning to major in mathematics or computing science are advised to take MATH/CMPT 150 in first year.

Education majors: elementary level pre-service teachers only with weak mathematics background: take MATH 190; secondary level or elementary level with a B or more in Principles of Mathematics 12 or Pre-Calculus 12: take MATH 123.

Business majors (B.B.A. program) take MATH 101; with a very good understanding of math: take MATH 123.

Science majors (except certain ENVS programs): take MATH 123, 124 (subject to math survey results).

Other majors: Math 102 (Statistics) and 150 (discrete mathematics) are good choices for students desiring widely-applicable topics in mathematics.

Note: No student may take both MATH 101 and 190. MATH 101, 102, 105, 190 cannot be taken for credit towards a degree in mathematics.

Physics

Students wishing to complete a concentration or minor in Physics should take CHEM 111, 112; PHYS 111, 112; and MATH 123, 124 in their first year.

Additional Information

All students must register in the tutorials for BIOL 241, 242; CHEM 103, 104; and CHEM 111, 112. Tutorials for MATH 123, 124 are recommended.

School of the Arts, Media and Culture

David Squires, Ph.D., Dean

Purpose

The School of the Arts, Media and Culture is committed to positive mentoring within a community of learning to nurture students to become transformers of culture for Jesus Christ. While graduates from this School are expected to enter many kinds of professions and assume various positions of leadership within society, they are also expected to cherish the abilities which make humans unique in God's creation such as the capacities for speech and written communication, artistic creativity and performance, and the transmission of culture from generation to generation.

Perspective

The School of the Arts, Media and Culture covers a range of disciplines. They are grouped together because all of them have a professional or presentational dimension, which is an integral aspect of the area of specialty. In the courses and programs offered by the School, students develop their understanding of persons as creatures of God who are uniquely endowed to make meaningful contributions both to their immediate families and associates as well as to society as a whole. Students are challenged to use such knowledge to commit themselves in a deeper and fuller way to serving the Lord of Life, Jesus Christ, and to model a life of Christian faith wherever God calls them to serve. Students are encouraged to pursue the goals of intellectual curiosity and creativity; spiritual, emotional, and physical wholeness; moral integrity; compassion and love for others; and a concern for justice within the social, cultural, educational, and recreational structures of a fallen world. They are also helped to develop abilities that enable them to become discriminating and innovative practitioners in their chosen field of endeavour.

Programs

The School of the Arts, Media and Culture offers Bachelor of Arts degrees with majors in art and design, media and communication, music, and theatre, a multidisciplinary major in arts, media and culture, a Bachelor of Fine Arts in acting, and a Bachelor of Arts (honours) in art and design. The School offers concentrations in art and design, media and communication, music, theatre, and minors in those same areas.

Undergraduate Program Emphases

Theoretical Foundations — Throughout their programs, students acquire a broad base of knowledge. Students critically evaluate the strengths and weaknesses of various theoretical approaches, gradually developing and applying their own biblically informed conclusions to their intended field(s) of study and practice.

Artistic Expression — Students are encouraged not only to know their subjects well but to communicate their knowledge with grace, confidence, and creativity. This is especially important in program areas involving public expression, the use of modern media, teaching, the visual arts, music, and the theatre.

Leadership Ability — Students learn to develop their servant leadership skills by coming to value disciplined study, focused reflection, and the development of skill and competency through the rigours of rehearsal and practice. They come to see the positive influence of mentoring, epitomized in the life of Jesus Christ, but also evident in models both historical and contemporary. Students are given opportunities to practise these leadership skills both within and outside of classes.

Career Preparation — Students are encouraged to combine their theoretical knowledge with practical and creative applications in life and society. The majors in this School help prepare students for various careers in visual and performing arts, media, education, public relations, design and publishing, business, leadership and church ministry.

Art and Design

School of the Arts, Media + Culture, Department of Art + Design

Dr. Erica Grimm, Chair

The Department of Art + Design offers:

- An Honours program in Art + Design, leading to a BA (Honours) degree
- A major in Art + Design, leading to a BA degree
- A concentration
- A minor with a choice of streams in: Art History, Design, and Studio

SAMC Art + Design is a community of professional artists, designers, scholars, and students who are committed to inquiry-based visual scholarship and visual ways of knowing, expressing, interpreting, and making. Within a web of historical, critical, and theoretical contexts we explore how art contributes to and critiques culture. We are committed to mentoring students in discovering that art is a unique form of intelligence, a creative form of critical inquiry with which we make sense of the world. Art scrutinizes interior and exterior, inquires into self and society, and constitutes an experience.

Art seeks understanding, builds affective, perceptual, sensory, tacit, intuitive, haptic, spiritual, and intellectual receptivity, and enacts through material, experiential and textual means. Our program is grounded in a robust liberal arts core and offers visual foundations, studio, design, art history/theory streams of study; and a capstone experience within a community receptive to intersections between faith and art.

Each year has a particular curricular emphasis:

Year One—Visual Foundations

Year Two—Material/Semiotic Practices

Year Three—Cultural Theory Integration

Year Four—Capstone Exhibition/Project

The department cultivates liberally educated, visually literate, cultural contributors by educating the heart and mind. An essential part of a life of shalom, aesthetic expression and interpretation adds value to our culture and economy. The arts cultivate a complex cognitive capacity that benefits the artist and society, without which, the individual, society, and curricula would all be handicapped. In an increasingly media-saturated culture, meaning is constructed through the visual, making this field increasingly indispensable for human flourishing.

Arts, Media and Culture

School of the Arts, Media and Culture

David Squires, Ph.D., Dean

The School of the Arts, Media and Culture offers a multidisciplinary major in arts, media and culture, leading to a BA degree.

The arts, media and culture major is designed to give broad exposure to art, film studies, theatre, and music. This program is designed for students with general interest in the arts, media and culture, rather than for those who wish to specialize in one discipline.

Students can select from two configurations of the major:

- A concentration (30 sem. hrs.) in one of art, communication: film studies, theatre, or music; a minor (24 sem. hrs.) in a second area of the four mentioned above, and 6 sem. hrs. in a third remaining area (chosen in consultation with the student's advisor).
- A major with a double concentration in any of the above four subject areas. See the art, communication: film studies, theatre, and music entries for requirements of concentrations and minors in each of these areas.

Program Checklist and Requirements:

- multidisciplinary major in arts, media and culture, BA degree
- double concentration in arts, media and culture, BA degree

Programs, Activities, and Facilities

Students are encouraged to participate fully in the activities and programs offered in the art and design, media and communication, music, and theatre departments. In particular, students are encouraged to participate in the London travel study.

Job Opportunities

Graduates in arts, media and culture have pursued careers such as education, film production, print, and interactive industry.

General Studies

A student may choose to pursue a BA or a BSc in general studies. These programs incorporate academic study in a combination of disciplines. This is particularly suitable for students whose areas of interest extend beyond the usual disciplinary boundaries.

A BA in general studies is available by combining a minimum of two minors (24 sem. hrs. each), at least one of which is not a natural or applied science. A BSc in general studies is available by combining a minimum of two minors (24 sem. hrs. each), both of which must be in the natural sciences. For more depth, students may choose to do a concentration (30 sem. hrs.) in one or both cases. Minor and concentration requirements are listed under the various disciplines.

Program Checklists and Requirements:

Media and Communication

Department of Media and Communication

Bill Strom, Ph.D., Chair

To study communication is to investigate how people understand, influence, and relate to each other through the creation and co-creation of messages in diverse contexts and situations. Students in this program examine and gain experience in the power, creativity, and responsibilities of media communication, leadership communication, and professional writing. The Department offers opportunity for on- and off-campus practica and co-op work opportunities to help students bridge the gap between university and career-related professional experience. The program is rooted in critical thinking and Christian ethics with the goal to develop leaders of integrity, wisdom, and honesty. The Department of Media and Communication features a liberal arts curriculum that emphasizes and assists students to think, create, write, lead, and speak well and offers the opportunity for skill development in numerous communication contexts.

The Department offers:

- A major in media and communication with a choice of four streams: general, media communication, leadership communication, and professional writing, leading to a BA degree.
- A major in corporate communication (in conjunction with the School of Business);
- Note: This program is offered under the written consent of the Minister of Advanced Education effective May 27, 2010, having undergone a quality assessment process and been found to meet the criteria established by the minister. Nevertheless, prospective students are responsible for satisfying themselves that the program and the degree will be appropriate to their needs (for example, acceptable to potential employers, professional licensing bodies, or other educational institutions).

Music

Department of Music

Allan Thorpe, Ph.D., Chair

The Department of Music offers:

- a major in, leading to a BA degree
- a concentration
- a minor

Major in Music, BA Degree

In addition to taking a required core of theory, history, and applied music courses, students must select one of four options:

- General Music prepares students for advanced professional training or a variety of musical careers such as media work, library work, or the music business.
- Music Education, especially when taken in conjunction with Education at Trinity Western University, helps to prepare students for teaching in private or public schools.
- Performance prepares students for careers
- in the performing arts and/or private music instruction. This option is available to students who demonstrate exceptional potential as performers during the first two years of the degree program and are recommended to the Department chair by their instructor to pursue this option.
- Church Music prepares students for musical leadership in the worship ministry of the local Church.

Applied Performance Proficiency Requirements for Admission to the Music Major

Generally, for those intent on majoring in Music, previous instruction in applied music is assumed (a Royal Conservatory of Music grade seven or the equivalent is recommended). An audition—requiring the performance of two pieces from contrasting style periods—must be successfully completed for entrance into the music major. Auditions are held in late March/early April and September each year.

All students planning on majoring in music, or non-music majors who are considering enrolling in MUSI 131 or 225 must write the music placement test during Orientation Week in September. This short test covers the basic rudiments of music (equivalent to Advanced Rudiments as prescribed by the Royal Conservatory of Music in Toronto).

Program Checklists and Requirements:

- major in music, BA degree

Programs, Activities, and Facilities

Instrumental Music

Instrumental music is a vital and growing part of TWU campus life, providing students with a wide variety of performance options in both large and small ensembles. In the ensembles students sharpen technical skills, develop artistic excellence, and learn to communicate musical expression with grace and creativity. The repertoire for the Orchestra and Concert Band is selected for its artistic quality and is representative of a variety of styles, composers, and historical periods. Each of the chamber music ensembles explores a broad range of music literature in preparation for recitals and other performances both on and off campus. The Jazz Combo rehearses and performs a variety of repertoire from Big Band standards to contemporary works.

Choirs and Vocal Ensembles

Trinity Western University's choral activities have grown extensively, reaching a quality and calibre of performance that has earned the University international recognition for its Music program. Commitment to excellence is evident in a large network of University choirs and vocal ensembles, outstanding voice professors, eclectic repertoire, and exposure to distinguished conductors. University choirs have frequently been featured in CBC Radio national broadcasts. Four choirs and three small vocal ensembles provide students with opportunities to explore a wide range of repertoire including classical, gospel, contemporary,

Private Music Instruction

Private Music Instruction in voice, piano, guitar, and most band and orchestral instruments is offered on campus by a roster of affiliate Music faculty who are also active as professional performers.

The Recording Studio

The Recording Studio is a digital music and audio post-production facility. It features Cubase and Reason on a Macintosh platform with a collection of professional audio production equipment. Students who learn these technologies are likely candidates for practical positions that serve clients on and off campus.

The Contemporary Music Centre

In conjunction with the Council for Christian Colleges and Universities, this semester-long experience provides practical and professional training to second-, third-, and fourth-year students who qualify. Up to 9 sem. hrs. of course work may be transferred to the student's music major. The program takes place at The Contemporary Music Center, Nashville, TN, and can be taken in either the fall or spring semester. Consult the School Dean for further information.

Music Students' Guild

This is an organization administered by an executive committee of music majors. The primary thrust of the guild is to promote the music department both on and off campus and to work together with other music students and faculty in the ongoing development and enhancement of the University's music program.

Career Opportunities

Private music teacher; elementary or secondary music educator; minister of music and worship; conductor; accompanist; solo performer; instrumentalist in bands or orchestras;

Theatre

Department of Theatre

Angela Konrad, Chair

The Department of Theatre offers:

- a BFA degree in acting
- a major, leading to a BA degree
- a concentration
- a minor

The Theatre Program is designed to provide a solid grounding in all aspects of theatre education, with a firm foundation in the liberal arts. Theatre is a collaborative, interdisciplinary art that demands knowledge of literature, history, aesthetics, and psychology. No field of study is irrelevant in a discipline whose primary subject is the human story.

Bachelor of Arts

Our BA with a major in theatre ensures a strong foundation in key subject areas, while allowing the flexibility to specialize. Whether students are primarily interested in directing, playwriting, stage managing, or dramatic literature, the program can be tailored to each individual.

Bachelor of Fine Arts

Our BFA in acting combines a Christian liberal arts education with intense actor training. BFA in Acting students are required to take a range of acting, dramatic literature, voice, and movement classes, and receive a significant number of performance opportunities. In addition, they work backstage and take Directing and Playwriting. This ensures that BFA graduates are well-rounded theatre artists able to create their own work and make a significant contribution to the world of theatre. Students audition for the BFA program at the end of the first year.

Note: This program is offered under the written consent of the Minister of Advanced Education effective May 27, 2010, having undergone a quality assessment process and been found to meet the criteria established by the minister. Nevertheless, prospective students are responsible for satisfying themselves that the program and the degree will be appropriate to their needs (for example, acceptable to potential employers, professional licensing bodies, or other educational institutions).

Because the Department believes Christian artists are called to be culture-shapers, students in the theatre program are expected to critically engage issues of faith and art at every stage of their development. With the guidance of instructors who are committed Christians and working professionals, students are challenged to apply classroom lessons to real theatre experience. The Department's goal is to graduate whole people, wholly engaged in using their talents to transform culture.

Both the BA and BFA programs offer a healthy mix of academic and studio courses, as well as varied production opportunities. Students are prepared for graduate school, public school education, or careers as theatre artists. Students are required to attend performances at professional theatres in the Greater Vancouver area. TWU enjoys a unique relationship with Pacific Theatre, an acclaimed professional theatre company in Vancouver, and gifted students have the opportunity to intern and apprentice with Pacific Theatre and other local theatre companies.

School Of Business

Kevin Savatsky, JD, Dean

Purpose

The purpose of the Trinity Western University School of Business is to develop positive, goal-oriented leaders—persons who thoroughly understand biblical stewardship and who apply their knowledge, skills, and values to impact the marketplace in dynamic and positive ways. The School of Business strives to be an innovative and outstanding institution by designing its programming, course delivery, and learning experiences to serve and maintain interaction with regional, national, and international communities. In modeling exemplary business practices, the School builds strategic alliances with business interests and endeavours to focus on empowering business students and leaders to pursue their academic and professional activities with a Christian perspective.

Perspective

The School of Business is a unique professional school that provides teaching in the conventional disciplines but does so through the eyes of faith and servant leadership.

The School of Business supports and promotes the core values of Trinity Western University:

- Obeying the authority of Scripture: The notion of biblical stewardship and biblical values such as integrity, justice, compassion, and respect for the dignity of humans provide the framework for all activities in the School of Business. The School wholeheartedly embraces all that Scripture teaches in regard to faith and a responsible way of life.
- Pursuing faith-based and faith-affirming leadership: The School gives fair and balanced representations of a wide diversity of business theories and practices, evaluating them from a biblical standpoint. It integrates theory, reflection, and practical experience.

- Having a transformational impact on culture: The School not only prepares students to have an impact on the marketplace after program completion, but also provides marketplace involvement for students while enrolled: mentoring experiences, co-op/internship programs, partnerships with business organizations, consulting opportunities, etc. The School intends students and graduates to be “salt and light” as they undertake business-related pursuits.
- Servant leadership as a way of life: The School helps business students and leaders to motivate and mobilize others to accomplish tasks and think with creativity, integrity, and skill. The School encourages leaders who work with and invest in others for the benefit of the common good.
- Growing as and making disciples: The School teaches people to be ambassadors of Jesus Christ and provides them with a model for a Christian way of life as they are engaged in business activities.
- Striving for excellence: The School sets high standards and vigorously pursues them in all its programs—standards that are acknowledged as worthy of pursuit by both the business and the Canadian university communities. This includes the goal of excellence in whole-person development, an excellence that glorifies and pleases God.

Today, it is widely recognized that successful business leadership requires character development as well as practical and theoretical expertise. The School of Business offers courses designed to develop students’ skills in communication, problem-solving, goal-setting, team building, ethical decision-making, and many other competencies necessary for business life.

Faculty members also encourage students to evaluate the theories, practices, and problems of modern business in light of biblical principles. Such evaluation enables students to form a distinctly Christian worldview, well suited to dealing with the ethical, moral, and human issues that are increasingly encountered in contemporary business and economic life.

Students interact with faculty members who have excellent academic backgrounds, relevant business experience, and a commitment to a biblical view of the marketplace. To provide additional enrichment to students’ studies, the School solicits the help of outside advisors, guest speakers who share their expertise and experience, and mentors who provide advice and counsel to students about their future business ventures. The School also maintains close liaison with professional organizations such as the British Columbia Institute of Chartered Professional Accountants and the Financial Planners Standards Council, ensuring an educational experience that is consistent with current standards and requirements.

Programs

The School of Business offers:

- an honours program in business administration, leading to a BBA (honours) degree
- a Bachelor of business administration degree, BBA
- a major in business administration, leading to a BA degree
- a major in sport and leisure management
- (in conjunction with the School of Human Kinetics), leading to a BA degree
- a major in corporate communication (in conjunction with the School of the Arts, Media & Culture), leading to a BA degree

- a concentration and minor in business administration
- a concentration and minor in economics
- a concentration and minor in international development studies
- a minor in accounting

The Bachelor of business administration is a professional degree with a minimum of 60 sem. hrs. of business-related courses. The honours program in business administration, leading to a BBA (honours) degree, requires a high GPA and an additional 12 sem. hrs. of upper level business courses. The Bachelor of Arts with a major in business administration offers students more flexibility to take concentrations or minors in other disciplines. The School of Business, in conjunction with the School of Human Kinetics, offers a Bachelor of Arts with a major in sport and leisure management. The School of Business, in conjunction with the School of Arts, Media, and Culture, offers a Bachelor of Arts in corporate communication. The School also offers various concentrations and minors as outlined in this section.

Accounting

The minor in accounting is open to all University students, and prepares students for the professional accounting designations.

Economics

Economics, according to economist Robert Heilbroner, is an effort to explain how a society knit together by the market, rather than by tradition or command, could work. It is divided into macroeconomics—the study of inflation and recession, unemployment, and economic growth— and microeconomics—the study of markets, prices, supply, and demand.

The concentration and minor in economics are open to all university students, not just business administration students.

International Development Studies

This program provides students with perspectives and skills that prepare them for a wide variety of careers in the developing world. These include overseas development work with non-governmental organizations, missionary service with church and mission agencies, and work with governmental agencies.

The concentration and minor in international development studies is open to all university students, not just business administration students.

Sport and Leisure Management

The demand for business professionals in the world of sport continues to expand as an area of impact upon sport and society. This degree is designed for students who wish to work in the field of sport and leisure management or for those with an entrepreneurial spirit who wish to work in senior sport management. A minimum grade of C is required in all business courses.

Corporate Communication

The demand for individuals to effectively communicate information to the internal and external community is growing. This degree is designed for students who want to positively impact an organization's message or its product or service or for students who seek a communications career in a for-profit or not-for-profit organization.

Master of Business Administration (MBA)

Murray MacTavish, Ph.D., Director

Purpose

The purpose of the MBA program is to develop positive, goal-oriented Christian business leaders who apply their knowledge, skill, and values to positively impact the marketplace. In particular, the program has the following objectives:

- equip participants in the art of business leadership, including the ability to effectively motivate and mobilize employees and others to accomplish organizational goals and objectives
- provide all participants with a thorough foundation in core business areas (marketing, finance, accounting, human resources, economics, and corporate law)
- encourage all students to have a global business perspective
- develop managers and professionals uniquely skilled and prepared for entrepreneurial business, the non-profit and charitable organization sector, or international business
- provide all participants with an ethics and values foundation that ensures graduates function with integrity in their personal and professional life

Program Structure

The MBA program has three specializations: management of the growing enterprise, non-profit and charitable organization management, and international business. The program specializations vary in duration and in structure. Each specialization consists of nine core business courses (including an applied research business strategy project) and five specialization courses for a total of 45 sem. hrs. The core courses feature an integrated curriculum with application to each of the specializations.

22-Month Program with four Short Residencies on the TWU Campus:

The management of the growing enterprise and non-profit and charitable organization management specializations are delivered through a mixed-modal approach in which students come to TWU's campus for four residencies (total of eight weeks) and utilize online and other distance learning technologies to complete the remainder of the degree.

One Year Full-Time On-Campus Program:

The international business specialization is designed for students seeking a career in global business. The courses are delivered in monthly modules, which allows students to enter the program in almost any month in the schedule. A typical month includes one week of pre-readings, one week of concentrated classroom instruction, and two weeks of course work completion. International students may take up to three semesters of English in the ESLI pre-Masters program offered on the TWU campus beginning in January, May, or September before entering the international business specialization. For more information, see the graduate program in business administration section of the Calendar.

Other Programs

Accounting

The School of Business maintains a working relationship with all of British Columbia's professional accounting bodies, i.e., The Chartered Professional Accountants of BC and The Certified General Accountants Association of BC. The accounting courses offered by the School of Business meet all or the majority of the requirements for admission to these associations and allow the students to pursue the CPA and CGA designations.

Financial Planning

Many of the finance courses offered by the School of Business are accredited by the Financial Planners Standards Council of Canada (FPSC), which allows graduates to fast track their Certified Financial Planner (CFP) education. Graduates meet the first stage of requirements towards the CFP designation (a stage which normally takes two or more years) and are able to take their CFP comprehensive exam immediately following graduation. In this program of study students also are prepared to achieve the Canadian Securities Certificate (CSC) and write the first exam towards the Certified Financial Analyst (CFA).

Travel Studies

During summer sessions, faculty from the School of Business offer Business courses in different countries. Students can complete several of their regular classes while touring for-profit and not-for-profit companies, hearing presentations from senior executives in world headquarters, and attending lectures in Asian, European, and African universities.

Exchange Programs

The School of Business has agreements with universities in Europe so TWU business students can take one term at these universities. These programs provide an opportunity for students to experience a different culture and to learn business from a global perspective. Although the programs are taught in English, students are given opportunities to learn the language of the country.

Laurentian Leadership Centre

Students from the School of Business can take a term at the Laurentian Leadership Centre in Ottawa and achieve credit for a full term of courses that includes two Business classes. A major component of the program is an internship in a local business or political office that aligns with the student's field of study and interest.

Study Abroad Programs

TWU is a member of the Council for Christian Colleges and Universities, which sponsors a number of programs that offer students the opportunity to study abroad for a semester. These include the Russian Studies, Latin American Studies, China Studies, Middle East Studies, and American Studies programs.

School Of Education

Kimberly Franklin, Ph.D., Dean

Purpose

TWU's School of Education prepares educators who are interested in making a difference in the lives of children and young people, inspiring life-long learning oriented towards contributing to communities in caring and transformational ways. Whether you plan to become a certified teacher or an educator in community-based learning environments or build on your existing career in education, our undergraduate and graduate programs will support your journey in becoming a knowledgeable, competent, reflective, and compassionate educator.

Perspective

The TWU School of Education is the only teacher education program in BC that intentionally connects educational practice with the rich tradition of Christian spiritual understandings of teaching and learning. As a faculty, we are interested in advancing educational research and educational practice that nurtures wisdom, compassion, and care for all, integral ways of understanding the world, and transformation of learners and communities.

In each of our elementary, secondary, special education and leadership programs, students will be pointed beyond meeting standards and acquiring technical expertise and background knowledge, to the life-long exploration and development of philosophical and theological understandings of what it means to be human, to be educated, and to live well with others and the created.

Successful teaching and educational leadership require a broad liberal arts education, professional expertise, and personal integrity and trustworthiness. The School of Education requires pre-service teachers to take Trinity Western's liberal arts core and to gain a concentrated knowledge of one or two subject areas. Pre-service teachers gain an understanding of learning, teaching, curriculum planning, and philosophical and social issues in education. They also develop their abilities in teacher-learner interaction, classroom decision-making and problem solving, and student assessment that strives to improve learning. All this takes place within the contours of a distinctly Christian world view.

Programs

The School of Education offers the following programs:

- A five-year concurrent BA/B.Ed. or BSc/B.Ed. program for Grades K-12. Graduates are recommended for a Professional Teaching Certificate issued by the British Columbia Teacher Regulation Branch.
- A five-year B.Ed. program for Grades K-7. Graduates are recommended for a Professional Teaching Certificate issued by the British Columbia Teacher Regulation Branch.
- A two-year post-degree B.Ed. program for Grades K-12. Graduates are recommended for a Professional Teaching Certificate by the British Columbia Teacher Regulation Branch.
- A 37 sem. hr. Master of Arts in Educational Leadership, a degree for practitioners in education, with on-campus summer courses and online courses from September to May.
 - A concentration in Education.
 - A minor in Education.
 - A minor in Education (Special Education).

Education

Concurrent Five-Year BA/B.Ed. or BSc/B.Ed. Programs (Grades K–7)

Beginning in the second semester of the first year, students in the concurrent BA/B.Ed. or BSc/B.Ed. program (K-7) take both liberal arts and professional education courses. During their first four years students complete core requirements, subject specializations, 33 or 34 sem. hrs. of specified foundational professional education courses, including a minimum of 3 sem. hrs. of initial classroom experiences. At the end of the fourth year, students obtain a BA or BSc degree, depending on their area(s) of specialization.

The fifth year is a professional certification year from late August to late May. During this final year students extend and implement their knowledge and skills in seminars and in two lengthy classroom practica under the guidance of master teachers as well as professors. During December, January, and May of the professional year, students complete 7 sem. hrs. of course work in curriculum and pedagogy courses in particular subject areas. Upon the successful completion of the Professional Year, students also receive a B.Ed. degree.

Concurrent Five-Year BA/B.Ed. or BSc/B.Ed. Program (Secondary)

Beginning in the second semester of the first year, students in the concurrent BA/B.Ed. or BSc/B.Ed. program (secondary) take both liberal arts and professional education courses. During the first four years students complete core requirements, subject specializations, and 33 or 34 sem. hrs. of foundational professional education courses, including at least 3 sem. hrs. of initial classroom experiences. At the end of the fourth year, students obtain a BA or BSc degree, depending on their area(s) of specialization. The fifth year, from August to May, is a professional certification year. During this final year, students extend and implement their knowledge and skills in seminars and in two lengthy classroom practica under the guidance of master teachers as well as professors. During December, January, and May of the professional year, students complete 7 sem. hrs. of course work in curriculum and pedagogy courses in particular subject areas. Upon the successful completion of the Professional Year, students receive a B.Ed. degree.

Five-Year B.Ed. Program (Grades K–7)

Beginning in the second semester of the first year, students in the five-year B.Ed. program (K–7) take both liberal arts and professional education courses. During their first four years students complete core requirements, one subject specialization, 33 or 34 sem. hrs. of specified foundational professional education courses, including a minimum of 3 sem. hrs. of initial classroom experiences. Students also have room to fit in a variety of elective liberal arts courses. The fifth year is a professional certification year from late August to late May. During this 70 final year students extend and implement their knowledge and skills in seminars and in two lengthy classroom practica under the guidance of master teachers as well as professors. During December, January, and May of the professional year, students complete 7 sem. hrs. of course work in curriculum and pedagogy courses in particular subject areas. Upon the successful completion of the Professional

NB: This degree is mainly designed for TWU and transfer students transitioning into an Education program after three years of undergraduate study (including 24 sem. hrs. of academic coursework in one teachable subject area). However, this degree is also available to students wishing to do an Education degree over five years, with the first four years focusing on one academic teachable and allowing opportunity for electives.

Two-Year Post-Degree B.Ed. Program (Grades K–12)

Trinity Western's post-degree Bachelor of Education program is for people who have completed a BA or BSc that meets the requirements of the acceptable degree policy for certification in British Columbia. This means the student's previous degree must include a minimum of 30 sem hrs. of course work in faculties other than Education. The program is intended for those who wish to teach at the elementary, middle, or high school levels. During the first year of the program, students take three foundation education courses as well as courses in social issues in education, teaching exceptional students, curriculum planning, classroom management and leadership, assessment and evaluation, literacy or middle/senior years education, and an interdisciplinary course in Christian world view thinking applied to educational issues. Students also complete two initial classroom experience practica.

In the second year of the program students bring together, implement, and extend their knowledge and skills in seminars and in two lengthy classroom practica under the guidance of master teachers and education professors. They complete the program by taking curriculum and pedagogy courses in specific school subjects in December, January, and May.

Applicants to the post-degree B.Ed. program are expected to have completed a four-year BA or BSc degree. Their minimum cumulative GPA for the semesters that include the last 60 sem. hrs. of credit must be 2.7 (B-).

To meet the acceptable degree policy for certification of elementary and middle school teachers in British Columbia, the applicant's university courses must include the following core courses:

- English (6 sem. hrs., including both composition and literature, with a minimum C average)
- mathematics (3 sem. hrs.)
- science (3 sem. hrs.)
- Canadian studies (3 sem. hrs.)

To meet the acceptable degree policy for certification of secondary school teachers in British Columbia, the applicant's university courses must include the following core courses:

- English (6 sem. hrs., including both composition and literature, with a minimum C average)
- Canadian studies (3 sem. hrs.)

All applicants must also have at least 24 sem. hrs. of course work in one of the following teachable specializations: art, biology, business, chemistry, computing science, English, French, geography, history, human kinetics, applied linguistics/TESL, mathematics, music, physics, social studies, theatre, and Spanish.

Applicants who are one or two courses short of having completed the foregoing requirements are considered for entry if they can demonstrate that they will complete the prerequisites prior to entering the second year of the post-degree B.Ed. program.

Minor in Education (Special Education)

This minor can be taken as a teachable subject area by Education students interested in elementary, middle school or secondary education. The minor consists of 25 sem. hrs. in education and psychology course work. Education course work is in addition to course work already required in the B.Ed. degree.

Important Information

Teacher Certification and Qualification

Categories

For students in the concurrent BA/B.Ed., BSc/B.Ed., and the post-degree B.Ed. programs for grades K–12, the School of Education sends the British Columbia Teacher Regulation Branch (BCTRB) a list of students who have successfully completed teacher certification requirements. The School includes a copy of each student's TWU transcript. Copies of transcripts from other post-secondary institutions are also required and must be sent in separately by the applicant. The BCTRB is the sole agency that issues teaching certificates that are valid in both public and independent schools in British Columbia. TWU's programs are designed to meet the criteria of the Professional Teaching Certificate. This certificate is valid at all grade levels.

Each student who wishes to teach in British Columbia must forward an application to the BCTRB for formal evaluation for certification and membership in the BCTRB. If students are not Canadian citizens, landed immigrants, or in possession of a Canadian work permit, they receive a Letter of Standing indicating that they qualify for the Professional Certificate. A Professional Certificate or the Letter of Standing entitles them to apply for a teaching certificate in all jurisdictions in Canada and most jurisdictions in the United States. However, early in their program they should determine specific requirements for the particular jurisdictions where they plan to teach so they can include those in their studies.

The Teacher Qualification Service (TQS) is an advisory service to teachers and school boards for evaluating newly certified teachers for salary placement. Sponsored jointly by the B.C. Teachers' Federation and the B.C. School Trustees Association, TQS assesses the number of years of preparation it finds acceptable for salary purposes. Requests for evaluation forms are available from the School of Education or directly from TQS at 106- 525 West 8th Avenue, Vancouver, B.C. V6J 1T5.

Teacher Certification and B.Ed. Program Changes

The B.Ed. degree is designed to prepare students for BC Teacher Regulation Branch Professional Certification. Therefore, when the BCTRB makes changes to certification requirements, or suggests program changes in light of reviews or audits, the School of Education may make program requirement changes that are effective immediately in order to ensure that graduates are eligible for certification.

Transfer Credit into TWU'S Education Programs

Students may transfer courses into TWU's Education program from post-secondary institutions that are accredited and recognized by the British Columbia Teacher Regulation Branch (BCTRB), the provincial teacher certification authority. The BCTRB recognizes credits and BA or BSc degrees for entry into the Post Degree B.Ed. Program from any institution that is provincially authorized to grant degrees. Advanced Placement and International Baccalaureate courses are recognized only with Grades of 4 and 5. Transfer credit for courses in education depend on whether the courses are equivalent to those offered in TWU's Teacher Education program. Normally, a maximum of 6 transfer credits are accepted into the B.Ed. degree program.

Admission Process for TWU'S Education Programs

Concurrent Program Admissions Process:

In the concurrent five-year programs, students apply for official entry into the education program upon completion of the three education "screen" courses, i.e., EDUC 200, 203, and 211. Except for transfer students, this takes place when students complete their second year at Trinity Western. To be successful, students need at least a 2.7 cumulative GPA (B-), a minimum C average in English 103 and 104 (or their equivalents), and the recommendation of their second-year education course professors.

In the concurrent K-12 program, students apply for entry into the professional year by November 15 for entry the following September. Entry into this year is competitive. It is based on a minimum 2.7 GPA of the last 60 sem. hrs. of study, breadth of academic background, quality of the submitted CV, suitability for teaching as indicated by referees, and successful initial classroom experiences. Students must also be able to demonstrate that they will meet all graduation requirements for the concurrent program, except for those courses to be taken during the professional year, prior to entering that year. The School of Education must receive applications by November 15. Late applications are considered only when successful applicants who submitted their applications by November 15 have not filled all available positions.

Post -Degree Admissions Process:

Students must apply for admission into the post-degree B.Ed. program directly to the Professional Education Programs by February 15 for entry the following September.

Entry is competitive. If not all available positions are filled, applications received by May 15 are considered. Acceptance is based on a minimum 2.7 GPA of the last 60 sem. hrs. of study, breadth of academic background, quality of the submitted CV and case study analysis, suitability for teaching as indicated by referees, and successful experiences working with children. Applicants should complete all the required core and subject specialization course work prior to entering the program. However, applications lacking one or two of these courses are considered, if it is possible to complete all core and subject requirements in the first year of study.

All students admitted to the post-degree program must provide evidence of a satisfactory standard of written and oral English. Post-degree B.Ed. program applicants who have had all their post-secondary study at English language institutions and have obtained an average grade of C on the two required English courses are assumed to have met a satisfactory standard of writing. Students whose first language is not English are interviewed and may be evaluated for their spoken English by the School of Education prior to an admission decision.

Students may obtain application packages from the School of Education at 604.513.2072 or school.education@twu.ca.

Criminal Record Check

All Education students participating in practicum placements that involve working with children under the age of 19, and that are a requirement for certification by the B.C. Teacher Regulation Branch, are required to have a Criminal Record Check done by the Criminal Records Review Program. Education students are asked to complete a Criminal Record Review Consent Form by the School of Education in the fall of their second year. This Criminal Record Review is kept on file in the School of Education office for five years. International or US students should visit the School of Education during their first year for information about Criminal Record Reviews for international and US students. Students convicted of a criminal offence or given an absolute or conditional discharge and who are considering a teaching career should write to the registrar of the B.C. Teacher Regulation Branch for clarification on their status before undertaking an Education degree.

Withdrawal and Readmission

Students who are required to withdraw from EDUC 452 or 453 may appeal to the dean for permission to re-enroll in the program when EDUC 452 or 453 is offered again. Such an appeal must include evidence of having successfully met the conditions that were set at the time of withdrawal.

Students who voluntarily withdraw from EDUC 452 or 453 may apply to re-enter the program. Their new application is considered along with other applications. Acceptance is not guaranteed.

Students who have been accepted but do not enter the professional certification year of the concurrent program or the post-degree program forfeit their place and must re-apply for program entry.

School Of Human Kinetics

Blair Whitmarsh, Ph.D., Dean

The School of Human Kinetics offers the following programs:

- Bachelor of human kinetics
- major in human kinetics, leading to a BA degree
- major in sport and leisure management, leading to a BA degree
- concentration in human kinetics
- minor in human kinetics
- minor in elementary school physical education
- students may choose to take the BHK degree in one of four stream options: generalist, kinesiology, physical education, or sport and leisure management.

Trinity Western's human kinetics program is designed to give students the necessary theoretical foundations and practical experiences to be successful in teaching, coaching, and other recreational and human kinetics leadership positions.

Human kinetics specialists take courses ranging from a basic theoretical study of human physical performance and behaviour such as biomechanics and sport psychology to courses with a more practical, applied approach such as fitness leadership, teaching, and coaching development. Students develop a sound knowledge base as well as relevant planning and organizational skills. They learn how to help others measure and evaluate their fitness and psychomotor skill levels as well as develop and implement realistic plans for self-improvement. Human kinetics students gain skills in lesson and program planning as well as the communication of sports skills, team concepts, and the need for physical fitness. Sport studies and supervised practica are an essential part of a progressive strategy of leadership education, with compulsory third and fourth year courses involving both applied and theoretical content. Trinity Western's programs do more than provide a conceptual knowledge base with complementary practical experiences. Students gain insight into how human kinetics activities can reflect the Christian life and biblical values. They experience how team sports can be used not only to improve skills but also as a means to build Christian community. They learn how human kinetics and recreation relate to the fundamental principles of a balanced, productive, Christ-honouring life. Students are challenged to model and teach Christian values to others, using current and future leadership positions as opportunities for discipleship and witness.

The School of Human Kinetics also offers students not specializing in human kinetics a wide variety of courses designed to promote physical health, fitness and wellness, psychomotor skill improvement, and positive attitudes towards a God-pleasing, physically-active lifestyle. Students wanting to combine Human Kinetics with teaching certification in British Columbia are strongly advised to consult with an advisor in the School of Education.

School of Nursing

Sonya Grypma, Ph.D., Dean

Purpose

The mission of the School of Nursing is to prepare highly qualified graduates with the knowledge, clinical experience, and critical thinking skills necessary to provide exceptional nursing care within a rapidly changing health care field. The School aims to do this through:

1. Development and deliverance of exceptional undergraduate and graduate nursing programs in conformance with the requirements and standards of the College of Registered Nurses of BC, the Canadian Association of Schools of Nursing, and the BC Ministry of Advanced Education.

2. Ongoing promotion and development of nursing scholarship and research capacity.
3. Promotion of program excellence through networking with external stakeholders, including professional associations, accrediting bodies, nursing educators, health services administrators, government agencies, research groups, and funding sources.
4. Embodiment of thoughtful Christian perspectives in a healthcare environment characterized by increasingly complex ethical, technical, organizational, and social challenges.

Perspective

The TWU School of Nursing is committed to equip nurses for excellence in nursing practice. Through the mentorship of knowledgeable, supportive and passionate faculty, TWU students are taught to be competent, ‘covenantal caring’ nurses, who embody a spirit of inquiry to provide person-centred care that addresses equity and quality of life for individuals and communities within pluralistic societies. TWU nursing graduates are reflective, life-long learners, prepared to give servant leadership to the changing health care needs of a global community.

Programs

The School of Nursing offers the following programs:

- a Bachelor of Science in nursing
- a Master of Science in nursing

Nursing courses are sequential. Therefore, first year nursing and science courses must be successfully completed before students progress to nursing courses designated for subsequent years. Students have opportunities to develop their clinical skills in the on-campus nursing skills lab and in off-campus clinical sites.

Program Checklists and Requirements:

Graduate Program in Nursing (M.S.N.)

Sheryl Reimer-Kirkham, Ph.D., Director

Purpose

The vision of TWU's Master of Science in Nursing program is to foster values-based nursing, educational vitality, excellence in scholarship in practice, and transformation through Christian graduate nursing education. A strong disciplinary nursing core together with electives allows students to personalize their studies for their unique career path, whether as educators, leaders, or advanced practice nurses.

The objectives of the program are to prepare graduates who are able to:

- apply thoughtful Christian perspectives to nursing practice
- enact a vision and mission for values-based leadership
- enact an enhanced professional role based on specialized knowledge and expertise in nursing education, administration, and practice
- advance nursing scholarship in practice that is informed by sound evidence
- promote ethically responsible health care and health-related policy
- relate historical, academic, social, and political influences to health and nursing
- qualify for entrance into doctoral studies
- Graduates who choose a focus on nursing education

Graduates who choose a focus on nursing education are prepared to step into the many current and upcoming faculty and clinical supervision positions in baccalaureate nursing programs. Graduates who choose a focus on nursing leadership have integrated interdisciplinary nursing knowledge— about health promotion, patient responses to illness, interpersonal communication, population health and the social contexts of health and illness—and emerging knowledge about health care organizations and leadership theory. Trinity Western MSN graduates are in a unique position to provide highly effective leadership to today's changing, complex health care environments. The electives in advanced nursing practice with the older adult reflect a social responsiveness to the demographic trend of an aging population and prepare nurses for various advanced practice positions.

Program Structure

The program is delivered through a combination of on-campus and online courses which ensures a provincially, nationally, and internationally accessible graduate program. Students have two residencies: four weeks on TWU's Langley campus during the first summer which fosters a community of learners, and an exceptional week of health policy and leadership analysis at TWU's Laurentian Leadership Centre (LLC) in Ottawa at the end of the first year. The program consists of six core Nursing courses, two electives, and a capstone project (knowledge translation project or thesis) for a total of 30 sem. hrs. of study. Course work is typically completed over two years, followed by the capstone project. Students have five years to complete all program requirements.

For more information on the Master of Science in Nursing program, see the Graduate Studies portion of this Academic Calendar.

TWU Extension

P.G. Laird, Ph.D., Associate Provost

Linda Long, Executive Director

TWU Extension specializes in programs serving adult, international, and online learners on the TWU Langley campus and at TWU Extension sites.

Purpose

To respond to the specialized needs of the lifelong learner, TWU Extension facilitates flexible learning practices and extends the mission and core values of TWU to non-traditional learning audiences around the globe. In addition to extending TWU beyond traditional boundaries, TWU Extension also provides services and support to learners and faculty in technologically-innovative ways serving adult, undergraduate, and graduate programs. The function of TWU Extension is to facilitate the design, development, delivery, and distribution of non-traditional learning opportunities for both traditional and non-traditional audiences. TWU Extension's programs and courses are relevant, innovative, and interactive, featuring flexibility and convenience (accelerated or modularized, and face-to-face or mediated [online] formats). Courses are delivered both on campus and at extension sites via traditional classroom methods, online, and/or mixed-mode delivery formats (50 per cent in class; 50 per cent online). Programs and courses range from evening and online classes to weekend seminars to one, two, or three weeks, and up to eight weeks in length. To accommodate working learners around the globe, the admission and registration processes for TWU Extension vary by program and are simplified to accommodate unique learning choices.

Perspective

To effectively serve the needs of its diverse learners, TWU Extension is organized into the following four program areas:

- Adult Programs
- Global and International Programs
- Online Programs
- University Connection Programs

Adult Programs

The focus of TWU Extension Adult Programs is to provide options for people who desire to engage or re-engage their university education while maintaining an active work and/or family life. Through TWU Extension, adult learners may enrol in any TWU course or program of study as part-time learners. Learners may also choose certificate programs such as the TESOL Certificate, Educational Leadership Certificate, and Certificate in Leadership and Applied Public Affairs. Adult learners can also enrol in the Accelerated Adult Degree Completion Programs at the Langley or Bellingham campuses, in which a group of students (a cohort) completes a university degree in 18 to 24 months. In Bellingham, adults can complete a BA in Multidisciplinary Social Sciences or a BA in Psychology, both incorporating a Certificate in Human Services. In Langley, Bellingham, and Richmond (beginning October 2012) they can complete a BA in Leadership. Designed for a busy working adult, accelerated degree completion classes meet in the evenings and/or weekends. Adult Degree Completion students can also complete a number of classes online. Students work with a faculty learning coach to develop an individual academic portfolio and learning plan, based on the individual's academic background. Through the laddering process, learners who complete the adult-oriented programs are able to continue their education by applying to one of TWU's professional graduate programs such as the Master of Arts in Leadership, Master of Business Administration, Master of Arts in Teaching English as a Second or Other Language, or the Master of Arts in Counselling Psychology.

Admissions

Adult learners are 23 years of age or older and are not able to attend university full time during conventional class times. Admissions processes for adult learners are open and flexible. Learners are accepted into the course, certificate, or degree program based on either traditional University entrance standards, or on their life and work experiences. Admissions standards are set by program.

Inquiries should be directed to:

Langley campus program: 604.513.2067

Bellingham campus program: 360.527.0222 or 604.513.2121 ext. 3986

Recognition for Prior Learning (RPL)

Adult learners may be given up to 30 university credits for their life and work experiences that can be documented as worthy of university credit at a basic level (60 per cent standing or higher in course related experiences). Recognition for prior learning is only available to adult learners enrolling in the Accelerated Degree Completion Programs. Students are able to receive recognition for prior learning through challenge exams, standardized exams, or portfolio assessment of prior learning.

For more information on RPL credit, please contact:

Langley campus program: 604.513.2067

Bellingham campus program: 360.527.0222 or 604.513.2121 ext. 3986

Degree Completion Formats

Accelerated degrees are completed in 18 to 24 months, through in-class, online, and summer session programming. To be fully admitted into an accelerated degree program, learners must have credit for an Associate of Arts (AA) degree, a recognized international diploma, or the equivalent (a combination of 60 lower level course credits including standard General Education Requirements). Learners may be conditionally accepted into the Accelerated Degree Completion Program with fewer than 60 credits at the discretion of the Associate Provost for TWU Extension, or relevant dean. In accelerated degree formats, the lower level University core and standard prerequisite degree requirements are waived as having been completed as part of the AA or equivalent. International learners with recognized diplomas may be required to complete prescribed liberal arts courses in addition to the Leadership major. Upper level core requirements (two RELS courses and IDIS 400) must still be completed within the remaining 62 upper level credits to graduate from the accelerated degree completion programs. Individualized degree completion pathways are designed and provided to each learner at the outset of the accelerated degree process.

Customized Degree Completion Format

Students who have completed the majority of their university credits at TWU (90 or more credits) but who are unable to complete their degree can complete it through customized degree completion. Students in the customized degree completion program are supported by an advisor who assists students in choosing among existing options (TWU courses in the evening, weekend, online, alternate location, or in accelerated formats) for degree completion. The degree completion advisor can also help with student transfers of course credits from other institutions and developing online independent studies where faculty develop an individualized online course to assist students in finishing the final components of their TWU degree. In some cases, the faculty advisor also assists students in transitioning to a more convenient degree pathway such as the Accelerated Degree Completion format, as long as this meets the educational needs of the learner.

Certificate Programs

A variety of certificate programs are offered through TWU Extension. Delivered at non-traditional times, formats, and locations, these programs are developed for the adult and non-traditional learner. Certificate programs feature laddering options to ensure smooth transition into bachelor's or master's degree programs. Completion requirements and standards vary by program. Visit twu.ca/extension for more information.

Certificate in Leadership for Christian Organizations

This program is delivered online for flexible learning. Contact TWU Extension for more information and convenient registration. Phone (604) 513-2067.

This certificate makes leadership studies available to serve and strengthen lay volunteers, workers, and others in Christian organizations, for the purpose of helping them achieve their desired outcomes. The Certificate in Leadership for Christian Organizations is designed specifically for adult learners. The program is broadly titled to represent strategic studies for Christian non-profits as well as ministry-specific organizations including churches. The target audience is the Christian adult interested in a possible career move from a secular profession into a Christian organization, those seeking to volunteer more effectively in a leadership capacity of a Christian organization, and/or those preparing and exploring leadership studies in ministry or NGO organizations before engaging further education at a masters level i.e. MA Leadership or ACTS programs. This Certificate also serves as elective credit in the Adult Degree Completion program BA in Leadership.

Program Content:

The Certificate in Leadership for Christian Organizations requires the successful completion of the following courses.

Project Management Professional Certificate Program

There is an increasing demand for skilled project management professionals in our rapidly changing workplace. Employers are looking for trained people to successfully plan and execute complex work projects that are on target with budgets and time. Project Managers are identified as having strong leadership and organizational skills, which, combined with experience in current technologies, make a project manager an in-demand employee in nearly any organization or industry. The 20 sem. hr. Project Management Certificate may also be ladder into the BA in Leadership program. Additionally, the certificate prepares students to apply for and pass the Project Management Institute's PMI Certified Associate in Project Management (CAPM) or the PMI Project Management Professional (PMP) certificate. This program is designed specifically for the busy, working adult and is currently available online through our Bellingham Extension site. Courses are completed in six- to seven-week cycles.

Courses	Semester Credits	Course Name
---------	------------------	-------------

PMPP 201	3 sem. hrs.	Introduction to Project Management (PMPP 201 is a prerequisite to registration for each of the following courses - except with instructor permission to enroll)
PMPP 302	3 sem. hrs.	Project Management Foundation: Project Scope Management, Schedule Management, Cost Management
PMPP 303	3 sem. hrs.	Principles, Tools, and Practices of Project Risk Management
PMPP 304	3 sem. hrs.	Philosophy, Principles, and Practices of Quality Management
PMPP 305	3 sem. hrs.	Project Management Infrastructure: Human Resources, Communication, and Procurement
PMPP 401	3 sem. hrs.	Project Management Certification (CAPM or PMP)
PMPP 402	2 sem. hrs.	Project Management Practicum

Graduate Certificate in Educational Leadership

This certificate consists of five graduate level courses for educators. Serving multiple educational audiences, this program may be taken as a stand-alone certificate or may be laddered towards the MA in Leadership program for those seeking further degree options. This program is designed for current and prospective principals, assistant principals, curriculum and grade coordinators, teachers, and leaders in educational organizations. Some courses are delivered in face-to-face formats during Summer Sessions and some are delivered online between September and May. Check twu.ca/extension for schedules.

Program Content:

The Graduate Certificate in Educational Leadership requires the successful completion of five courses (15 sem. hrs.).

--	----------------------------------	--

Graduate Certificate in Christian School Education

Similar to the above Graduate Certificate in Educational Leadership, this program is for teachers and prospective teachers in Christian schools who want to enhance or develop a Christian worldview perspective in their teaching style and content. The program assists teachers in developing a Christian understanding of educational issues. Courses in the Certificate in Christian School Education may be applied to the MA in Christian Studies at TWU's ACTS seminaries. Courses at the 600 level may be used for credit towards the MA in Leadership (Education stream). Some courses are delivered in face-to-face formats during Summer Sessions and some are delivered online between September and May. Check twu.ca/extension for schedules.

Program Content:

The Graduate Certificate in Christian School Education requires the successful completion of five courses (15 sem. hrs.).

Course Requirements (choose five of the following):

EDUC 540	Christian Approaches on Teaching and Pedagogy

EDUC 569	Curriculum and Pedagogy: Biblical Studies
EDUC 621	Worldview Foundations for Schooling

EDUC 622	Leadership in Educational Organizations
EDUC 623	Developing Educational Programs

Elective Option:

One approved 3 sem. hrs. course in Biblical Studies or Theology at TWU's ACTS seminaries may be substituted.

Certificate in Leadership and Applied Public Affairs

Offered at the Laurentian Leadership Centre in Ottawa, this residency certificate recognizes 15 sem. hrs. of upper level credit for specialized study in governmental affairs. The program includes 6 sem. hrs. of practicum experience throughout the semester. The practicum experience is relevant to a wide variety of career choices including international relations, business, communications, history, politics, non-governmental organizations, and public service.

This program may be laddered towards a bachelor's degree as a degree component or may be taken as an independent certificate through TWU Extension. For interested students who have a recognized bachelor's degree, this program may be taken as a Graduate Certificate in Leadership and Applied Public Affairs, with advanced study requirements. Visiting and non-degree seeking learners may access these certificates through TWU Extension.

Program Content:

The Certificate in Leadership and Applied Public Affairs requires the successful completion of:

POLS 391	Canadian Governmental Leadership	(3 sem. hrs.)
POLS 392	Ethics and Public Affairs	(3 sem. hrs.)

Accelerated Summer Courses

A variety of TWU Extension accelerated courses occur in the summer when the main University campus operates at a slower pace. The summer schedule begins after April graduation and continues until September, utilizing a variety of face-to-face and online formats. Open registration provides a hassle-free process for visiting students who wish to transfer credits back to their primary institution. Adult learners use the summer accelerated course program to complete courses that are necessary for full standing in a degree completion or certificate program. Current university students can use accelerated courses to catch up on missed credits, retake courses that were not passed, take unique courses that allow for a high level of student-to-faculty engagement and full time immersion at a retreat centre or camp that would not be possible during the academic year. Students who take accelerated courses of study also enjoy smaller classes, are able to focus on one discipline at a time, and realize their plan to finish university on time or ahead of schedule. TWU’s unique summer scheduling provides opportunities for a custom-designed summer of study, work, travel, retreat, and missions options. Courses are offered in one-, three-, or six-week session intensive learning formats. For more information, visit twu.ca/summer.

Camp Options

TWU Extension provides an opportunity for learners to finish their summer in a camp setting where they are able to complete a course while engaging faculty and fellow learners. University Week at Camp enables students to take classes while enjoying a high energy, socially packed learning experience. Contact TWU Extension for more details at 604.513.2067.

Four and Six Week Accelerated Courses

For a slightly more relaxed pace, students can enrol in four or six week courses in the Summer Session. Four-week courses require students to attend classes for three hours per day, three days per week, for four weeks. Six-week courses involve taking classes for three hours per day, two days a week, for six weeks. Whereas three-week and one-week intensive courses require students to be almost 100 per cent dedicated to their studies for the course duration, four- and six-week courses allow students to continue to work and take more than one class simultaneously. For a listing of the current four- and six-week modular courses, visit twu.ca/summer or contact TWU Extension at 604.513.2067.

One Week Intensives

One week intensive courses require 100 per cent student dedication during the week the class meets. Students must complete a pre-reading list before embarking on the course. In some cases, students must complete a paper prior to beginning the class. Students then meet either at TWU or in a retreat or camp setting where they participate in three to six hours of classes daily for five consecutive days. Outside of class time, students are expected to interact with other learners and the faculty member about the impact of the course content on their developing worldview. At the conclusion of the one-week intensive, students are assigned a major paper that must be submitted to the professor at a predetermined time (typically two to four weeks after the completion of the class).

Retreat Options

TWU Extension provides an opportunity for learners to spend a week with a Trinity Western professor and a small group of students at a retreat site. Participants immerse themselves in disciplines blended with biblical perspectives while developing meaningful relationships with fellow learners, learning to communicate effectively, think critically and reflectively, and build self-awareness. For a listing of the current retreat course options, visit twu.ca/summer or contact TWU Extension at 604.513.2067.

Three Week Intensives

TWU Extension offers two sets of three-week intensive sessions in May and June. Each intensive involves taking classes for three hours per day, four days per week for three weeks. Three-week intensive sessions allow students the flexibility of staying at TWU for the first three or six weeks of the summer (from the beginning of May until the middle of June, depending on the annual calendar) and then to engage employment or recreational activities once their courses are completed. For a listing of the current three-week intensive courses, visit twu.ca/summer or contact TWU Extension at 604.513.2067.

University Transition Year 1 (U1)

Global students who are academically strong can begin their undergraduate degree through U1. Students are admissible with an IELTS of 6.0, iBT of 78, CAEL of 60, or graduation from an English medium secondary school with a passing grade in Grade 12 English or a B in Communications 12. See www.twu.ca/u1 for additional details. During the U1 Year, students take a minimum of 27 semester hours while developing their confidence in post-secondary level studies in English. Students take liberal arts core courses (WRTG 101, ENGL 101, HKIN 190, and PHIL) with a global cohort and add other courses of their choice. Throughout the year, the program director provides academic direction and personal support while a team of learning coaches is trained to guide, mentor, and instruct students one-on-one. Accent-reduction clinics, grammar support, and discipline-specific tutors (for subject such as math, sciences, and accounting) make the U1 Year a strong foundation for students from global contexts. Once students have completed at least 27 semester hours and achieved a minimum of 2.0, they move out of the U1 environment and continue their degree.

EDGE Program

International students who have successfully completed 3 years or more of a business degree in their home country and have achieved an IELTS 6.0 or equivalent qualify for the EDGE program. During this two-semester program, students take 24 semester hours consisting of WRTG 101, ENGL 101, two liberal arts of choice, and 4 upper level business courses. With a 3.0 GPA, students then qualify to ladder into the MBA. Admission to EDGE and to MBA are determined by Graduate Studies Admissions.

International Degree Completion

International students with a completed diploma, or equivalent, from a recognized institution, and having met TWU language proficiency requirement, may apply to the BA in Leadership degree completion program. Upper level degree and upper level core requirements must still be completed to graduate from the accelerated degree completion program. For International learners to complete their degree, the BA in Leadership program requires 42 sem. hrs. in the Leadership major plus 21 sem. hrs. in specified university liberal arts courses. The accelerated delivery format allows the student to complete the program in less than 24 months.

Travel Studies Program

Each summer, students have the opportunity to combine academic studies with travel for exciting and unique experiential learning opportunities with fellow TWU students and faculty. Courses offered on each travel study either fulfil a program major or minor or satisfy electives and core requirements. The Travel Studies programs listed below are offered in May, June, July, or August on a rotational basis. They vary in length from approximately two weeks to one month. Because Travel Studies programs change periodically and not all programs are offered annually, students should check regularly which Travel Studies options are available. The list of Travel Studies below is not exhaustive. For more information, contact the TWU Extension office at 604.513.2067.

For more information see the Course Descriptions section for Travel Studies.

Collaborative Programs

TWU Extension serves a number of K-12, college, university and organizational groups through our collaborative programs. These programs provide opportunities for students, teachers, and professionals to study at TWU for short periods of time, for TWU to provide instruction to learners at other institutions in other locations, or for TWU students to study on other campuses or locations.

University Bridge Program

The Bridge Program provides international and second language learners with a variety of university English language and cultural support elements in the context of academic studies, such as English language writing courses and course companion classes (teaching critical thinking applications and rhetorical aspects of interaction with text and course content). In cooperation with ESLI (English as a Second Language Institute), international students transition seamlessly into mainstream classes of the University. The Bridge Program is a culmination of a variety of customized programs and services that meet the unique needs of international student groups that may require a higher level of support and service in order to be considered for full admission into TWU.

Au Sable Institute Of Environmental Studies

As a service to Environmental Studies majors and other majors who have an interest in environmental studies, a number of 300 and 400 level courses are available for credit to Trinity Western students through the Au Sable Institute, in Michigan, Washington, Florida, and India. These intensive courses, taught primarily during the spring and summer, offer a distinctly Christian perspective on the environment. Tuition fees are charged at regular Trinity Western Summer Session rates, but with each course assessed at 4 sem. hrs. Some financial assistance is available from the Au Sable Institute. Program details are obtained from the coordinators of the Environmental Studies Program.

Visiting Professor/Teacher's Programs

Melinda Densbury, Assistant Sessional Instructor

The Visiting Academic Scholars program provides an opportunity for professional academic scholars from other countries to engage in university classes and activities for one semester on a credit-free basis. It is open to teachers, professors, and professionals from non-English speaking countries and provides them with an opportunity to enhance their English language skills and to experience Canadian culture. In most cases, visiting professors or teachers come to TWU based on their relationships with TWU Extension or with a specific faculty or school at TWU. Occasionally, groups of professionals come to TWU as part of their professional development programs. In these cases, TWU Extension works with the relevant institutions to develop a collaborative model for the educational program and service to be provided. TWU has served teachers and faculty from a number of locations, but most specifically serves the Tianjin Municipal Education Commission in meeting the language and learning needs of K-12 teachers. In addition to serving the needs of visiting teachers during the fall and spring semester, TWU Extension offers short term study options for students, teachers, and professionals from around the world during our summer session. Typically, visiting students or teachers come to TWU for 2-4 week periods and learn English while studying Canadian and North American lifestyles. If you are an international student, K-12 school, college, or university and are interested in developing a short term summer or complete semester learning opportunity, feel free to contact TWU Extension at 604.513.2067.

Learner Support Services

TWU Extension provides a number of flexible and relevant learning services. Services include technology support for online learners and faculty, instructional services for faculty transitioning to teach in the Virtual Campus MyCourse environment (MyCourse design-development-delivery strategies), provision and maintenance of online platform, provision of learning resources for online and adult learners (reading and writing helps and university success strategies), academic advising, and enrolment services for TWU Extension students. Learner support services include one-stop shop for enrolment and payment of fees as well as learning coaches to support online, casual, international, and adult learners in defining and actualizing their learning pathway.

Online Courses and Programs

TWU Extension provides service and support for online learning as well as the design, development, and delivery of online courses and programs. TWU's learning management system is called MyCourses and it utilizes MOODLE. Students automatically receive their TWUPass—the universal log-in-information—once registered in a course. Students are provided with support for the use of the MyCourses system Monday to Thursday from 9 am to 9 pm; Friday and Saturday from 9 am to 5 pm by calling 604.882.4357 or 1.866.614.4652, or by emailing esupport@twu.ca. Faculty who desire or are contracted to use the MyCourses system in the development, design, and delivery of online learning are supported through TWU Extension instructional and online learning supports. Faculty are provided with group and individualized training in the appropriate use of online learning systems; are coached through the delivery of their online courses; and are able to access course design specialists to provide appropriate design elements to support their learning outcomes.

Focus (Freshman Online Certificate—University Studies)

FOCUS is a program for individuals who want to begin their studies but are unable to attend courses on campus such as graduating homeschool students, stay-at-home parents, or individuals who work. The program supports students as a community of learners who stay together in cohorts for the entire academic year. A faculty learning coach is a key element of FOCUS and support is provided by phone or email. Intensive courses are seven to eight weeks in length and are taken two at a time for maximum concentration and success. It is recommended that students plan to devote between 25 to 30 hours of learning time per week to complete their studies. FOCUS represents 27 sem. hrs. in fall and spring and one 3 sem. hr. elective in a Summer session.

FOCUS Program Content:
BUSI 111	Introduction to Business	(3 sem. hrs.)
ANTH 101	Introduction to Anthropology	(3 sem. hrs.)
MCOM 171	Introduction to Communication	(3 sem. hrs.)
PSYC 105	Introduction to Psychology	(part 1: 3 sem. hrs.)
PSYC 106	Introduction to Psychology	(part 2: 3 sem. hrs.)
HIST 111	History of Western Civilization	(3 sem. hrs.)
SOCI 101	Introduction to Sociology	(3 sem. hrs.)

WRIT 100	University Writing	(3 sem. hrs.)

Elective: choice of one 3 sem. hrs. online or on-campus course during Summer sessions (subject to availability)

Note: Courses offered may be adjusted with notice.

Online Courses

All students have the opportunity to enrol in online courses when they are offered. Through our independent study course program, any course in the TWU Calendar can be delivered in a customized way to a student based on faculty interest and availability. Check the timetable for current course listings.

Mixed Mode (Hybrid) Courses

Mixed modal courses involve a proportion of the learning face-to-face and a proportion online. Typically, each portion must comprise more than one third of the course instructional time in order to constitute a mixed mode course. What this means for the learner is that mixed mode courses involve less class time than traditional face-to-face classes. This type of learning mixes the best of both worlds and provides face-to-face instruction with a more convenient schedule. Check the timetable for current course listings.

Web-Enhanced Courses

Professors who use the MyCourses system to supplement their existing face-to-face class are conducting a web-enhanced course. A web-enhanced course involves either the use of technology to supplement or complement an existing face-to-face class or online class time substitution at less than one third of the class. Currently the majority of TWU classes use the MyCourses system for at least a portion of the learning that occurs.

Travel Abroad Programs Council For Christian Colleges And Universities Programs

Trinity Western University is a member of the Council of Christian Colleges and Universities (CCCU), an association of more than 90 liberal arts Christian colleges and universities. Through the CCCU, a number of off-campus experiential learning opportunities exist. Most programs are one semester in length and provide a full course load of study. Students may transfer approximately 15 to 17 sem. hrs. of CCCU credit towards their TWU program.

American Studies Program

The American Studies Program serves as the Washington campus of CCCU-member institutions. Based on the principle of integrating faith, learning, and living, students spend a semester in Washington, D.C., earning academic credit by serving as interns and participating in a contemporary, issue-oriented seminar program. Available internships may include congressional offices, social service agencies, think tanks, or cultural institutions. The American Studies Program is designed for third and fourth year students with a wide range of academic majors and vocational interests. Available fall and spring terms. Contact TWU Extension for more information.

China Studies Program

Students interested in China have the opportunity to engage this large and intriguing country from the inside. The semester includes study of standard Chinese language, geography, history, religion, and culture, and China's modern development. Participants travel throughout China, including Beijing, Shanghai, Xi'an, and the Guangzhou/ Hong Kong region. They also have opportunities to interact with Chinese by assisting in English classes. This interdisciplinary program is designed to help students understand the complex history, culture, and current issues facing China, to provide an opportunity to learn through travel and interaction with the people, and to equip them to develop a Christ-centred worldview of China. Available fall and spring terms every year. Contact TWU Extension for more information.

Contemporary Music Center

The Contemporary Music Center, located on the island of Martha's Vineyard, just off the coast of Cape Cod, Massachusetts, offers students the opportunity to spend a semester studying, living, and working with faculty, music industry experts, and other students interested in making and marketing contemporary music. The program is designed not just for music majors but for any student considering a career as a musician, vocalist, songwriter, producer, engineer, artist manager, booking agent, A&R director, marketing executive, music publisher, concert promoter, or entertainment industry entrepreneur. In addition to core courses about the music industry and the intersection of faith and culture, students choose between the Artist Track and the Music Executive Track. The program combines lectures and seminars with intensive hands-on and field experience. Contact the Dean of the Faculty of Professional Studies and Performing Arts for more information.

Latin American Studies Program

An opportunity to live and learn in Latin America is available to students from CCCU-member institutions through the Latin American Studies Program. Located in San Jose, Costa Rica, the program is committed to helping students examine and live out the lordship of Jesus Christ in an international context. Each semester, approximately 25 students are selected to participate in this seminar and service experience.

Available fall and spring terms every year. Contact TWU Extension for more information.

Los Angeles Film Studies Center

The purpose of the Los Angeles Film Studies Center is to enable Christian college and university students to serve in various aspects of the film industry with professional skill and Christian integrity. Located semester-long program combines seminar courses with an internship in various segments of the film industry, providing students with the opportunity to explore the industry within a Christian context and from a liberal arts perspective. Contact Ned Vankevich, Ph.D., for more information.

Middle East Studies Program

Located in Cairo, Egypt, students spend a semester learning how to relate to the Muslim world in an informed and constructive manner. Students explore Middle Eastern cultures, religions, and conflicts from within this diverse and strategic region of the world. Arabic language instruction is provided. Students serve as interns with various organizations in Cairo and spend two weeks in Israel. Available fall and spring terms. Contact the Dean of the Faculty of Humanities and Social Sciences for more information. Oxford

Honours Program

Students have the opportunity to study in England through an interdisciplinary semester at Oxford University. This rigorous academic program, aimed at increasing critical thinking skills and scholarship from a Christian perspective, allows participants to choose from a wide variety of tutorial study programs in the arts, religion, history, economics, philosophy, and other disciplines. In addition to two Oxford tutorials, students participate in a seminar and an integrative course through which they produce a scholarly project or term paper. Field trips provide opportunities for experiential learning in England's rich historical setting. Contact the chair of the English Department for more information.

Oxford Summer School Program

Students at CCCU-member colleges and universities are invited to apply for admission to the Oxford University Summer School Program, a multi-disciplinary study of the history and development of the Renaissance and Reformation through examination of the philosophy, art, literature, science, music, politics, and religion of this era. Students have the opportunity to study with the faculty of the Centre for Medieval and Renaissance Studies, which is affiliated with Oxford University's Keble College. Contact the chair of the English Department for more information.

India Studies Program

The India Studies Program offers a unique opportunity to encounter one of today's most fascinating and diverse cultures. In particular, the India Studies Program challenges students to discover for themselves a variety of ways to address the needs of the poor and disenfranchised, acting as agents of salt and light in broken world. The India Studies Program is structured to provide students with both immersion in a local community and broad exposure to a variety of peoples, places, and customs in India including an extensive two-week travel portion to provide students a close-up look at India's diversity. Students participate in two core courses designed to provide a broad overview of the historical, religious, geographical, and economic landscape of India. Building on their basic understanding of India's past and contemporary realities, students have opportunities to explore a variety of issues—poverty, social justice, rapid social change, and religious pluralism—through the eyes and experience of Indian Christians. Rounding out the semester experience, students also have the opportunity to take courses in their major areas with Indian students and professors. The India Studies Program is located at Bishop Appasamy College of Arts and Sciences, which is in the city of Coimbatore in the state of Tamil Nadu. Contact Paul Rowe, Ph.D., for more information.

Australia Studies Centre

Students interested in the arts (music, dance, theatre, design) can enjoy a unique semester studying ways to express themselves in the thriving international city of Sydney, Australia, through the Wesley Institute. In this highly experiential program, students explore and learn how to live the Christian life in a world that is religiously and culturally pluralistic, grappling with the meaning of being salt and light in the arena of professional performing arts. Contact the Dean of the Faculty of Professional Studies and Performing Arts for more information.

Washington Journalism Center

Located in Washington, D.C., students intent on journalism have the opportunity to study the industry in the capital of the U.S.A. Students interact in internships and listen to professionals who broaden their understanding of news, reporting, and media involvement. Contact the chair of the Media + Communication Department for more information. Uganda Studies Program The Uganda Studies Program enables students to experience various geographical and cultural aspects of Uganda over the course of a semester. Witness a society in reform as the country experiences political and religious transformations with a new and growing government and an enthusiastic involvement of Christianity across the continent. University Connections

TWU Extension also extends TWU learning connections and community concepts to other agencies and assists them in meeting their own goals. TWU Extension provides individuals, schools, churches, associations, and organizations with educational solutions and advancements.

These learning products and programs may be customized for specific needs or may be drawn from the University's current course and program selections. TWU Extension is currently involved in the following partnership programs: courses offered in cooperation with high schools, university credit linguistics courses in cooperation with Canada Institute of Linguistics, teacher education professional development in cooperation with the Society of Christian Schools and the Association of Christian Schools International, and programs offered in post-secondary institutions and professional organizations (nationally and internationally).

University Connections also provide individuals with access to university transitions programs from high school to university (Freshman Academy), part-time studies for casual learners, and transitional support programs for international students seeking English language and cultural training in the context of academic studies (Freshman Academy and Bridge Program). Finally, accelerated programs provide students with opportunities to speed up their migration through university, to enrol in condensed and intensive programs of study or to catch up on their university education if they get behind in their degree pathway.

Casual/Continuing Studies

This program provides access to most TWU courses on a casual basis. Casual learners may have access to both on-campus classes and online courses through this program. Casual studies is ideal for students who need a few courses to complete a degree program or who are interested in trying TWU before making a full commitment to be admitted into a TWU degree program. For more information, visit twu.ca/extension.

Freshman Academy

Students whose academic background is slightly below admission standards can begin their degree through Freshman Academy. This program is also open to students who would like to experience their first year in a more supportive environment. During the Freshman Academy year, students take university core liberal arts courses (WRTG 100, ENGL 103, HKIN 190, PSYC 106, and PHIL) in a cohort and choose up to four additional courses for a total of 27 semester hours. The program advisor offers not only academic guidance but also personal support throughout the year, helping students navigate the university expectations and processes. In addition, students have one-on-one sessions with a learning coach each week as well as optional study sessions during the year. The goal of Freshman Academy is to support first year students to develop confidence and strengthen academic competencies. To complete the program and continue into second year, students must achieve a cumulative GPA of at least 2.0. Students whose grades fall below 2.0 are not permitted to continue their studies.

Test Drive

(University courses for High School Students)
This program is designed for high school students interested in getting a head start on university. In many school districts, dual credit may be available, providing students with credit for a course on both high school and university transcripts. Embedded in the modularized university course are university preparation learning resources that introduce the learner to university studies and how to navigate the post-secondary system and culture. These modules provide assistance on university level reading and writing skills, time management, career counseling, and university life orientation.

Leadership

Program Design and Delivery

The BA in Leadership program is an accelerated adult degree completion program delivered in Langley or at the Bellingham campus in Washington State. Successful applicants with two years or equivalent of TWU coursework or properly assessed college or university credit may complete their third and fourth years of baccalaureate study at the Langley or Bellingham campuses to earn the BA in Leadership degree. Courses run consecutively throughout the year on a six-week rotation at a time convenient for adult learners (evenings and weekends).

Program Objectives

The BA in Leadership graduate:

1. Understands the foundations and core principles underlying a variety of leadership models and organizational systems
2. Is able to define good leadership and understands the difference between leadership and management
3. Applies core leadership theories to existing and future workplace practices in order to effectively manage and communicate within an organizational environment
4. Plans strategies and implements steps to effectively move organizations forward
5. Critically integrates Christian perspectives in leadership theory and practice.

Note: This program is offered under the written consent of the Minister of Advanced Education effective April 28, 2008, having undergone a quality assessment process and been found to meet the criteria established by the minister. Nevertheless, prospective students are responsible for satisfying themselves that the program and the degree will be appropriate to their needs (for example, acceptable to potential employers, professional licensing bodies, or other educational institutions).

Major in Leadership B.A. Degree

1. General Graduation Requirements: a total of 122 sem. hrs. are required. There are three elements: To enter the program, degree completion students must have earned an Associate of Arts (AA) degree or equivalent from a recognized institution or a recognized International Diploma, or have 60 transfer sem. hrs. from recognized institutions including TWU, or a combination of transfer sem. hrs. from recognized institutions to equal 60 sem. hrs. Up to 30 sem. hrs. of Recognition for Prior Learning (RPL) credit may be applied to enter the program;
2. To graduate, students must have at least 42 upper level sem. hrs, and 42 LDRS sem. hrs, including 24 upper level LDRS sem. hrs.;
3. An additional 20 sem. hrs. of electives are required. The electives may be transferred into the program or may be achieved through RPL.

Faculty of Graduate Studies and Programs

Dr. Eve Stringham, Dean of Graduate Studies

The Faculty of Graduate Studies is composed of 18 graduate programs, organized into two schools: the School of Graduate Studies and the Graduate School of Theological Studies. It is overseen by the Dean of the Faculty of Graduate Studies and the Graduate Academic Council, and administered through the Office of Graduate Studies.

General Information – Graduate Studies

Admissions Requirements

Admissions requirements are specific to each graduate program and are described in the Academic Calendar under the specific section for each program. For international students, additional admissions requirements are included under the international students section in the Academic Calendar.

For all programs, students are required to have an undergraduate degree from an accredited post-secondary institution. Some exceptions may apply.

For inquiries, email gradadmissions@twu.ca.

Academic Advisor

Upon admission, each student is assigned an academic advisor. Students need to consult their advisor regarding academic matters such as course selection. The academic advisor may differ from the thesis supervisor.

Admission Types

Full Admission — This classification requires a bachelor's degree from an accredited institution and fulfillment of all the admission requirements outlined under program information.

Advanced Standing — This classification admits students with graduate credits or graduate degrees from other programs. Applicants with advanced standing need to provide evidence of equivalence, such as a course syllabus, to transfer credits received at another accredited institution. All petitions for transfer credits must be sent to the relevant graduate director for approval. The maximum possible transfer credits into a graduate program is 50% of the program; however, the specific amount of transfer credit is determined on an individual basis by the program director. Courses with less than a B-grade and thesis work are not eligible for transfer credit.

Conditional Admission — For this classification, students are admitted with the understanding that they need to make up certain deficiencies prior to full admission. The student must maintain a minimum GPA of 3.0 for these prerequisite courses, as outlined in their admissions letter.

Unclassified Standing — There are situations where, for various reasons, individuals may wish to take specific courses without actually entering a graduate program. In this case, a person may apply for unclassified standing and, with the approval of the program director, may take up to four graduate courses without full admission to the program. There is a simplified application process for unclassified standing, but applicants must still meet the program admission requirements. Credits earned as an unclassified student may be applied to the program upon formal admission. If auditing a course is desired under these conditions, the approval of the course professor must be obtained.

Qualifying Studies — This admissions classification is designed for students whose undergraduate degree lacks prerequisite courses or the background necessary for admission into their chosen area of graduate studies. This admission is through the School of Graduate Studies, although the courses taken are at the undergraduate level. Admission for qualifying studies does not imply admission to a specific graduate program. That is a supplementary process that the student must undertake to gain full admission to his or her desired program.

Visiting Student — A visiting graduate student, who is deemed qualified by the program director, may audit or take courses for credit for a variety of reasons (e.g. Letter of Permission, single courses taken for personal or professional development, to get started in the program based on a quick time frame). Visiting students will be restricted to 3 courses attempts or 9 semester hours, whichever is fewer. Further study would require full admission to a program (Letter of Permission excepting).

Applications

Applications are available online at twu.ca/gradapply. Applying online is encouraged; paper applications are accepted but a $40 processing fee applies. Each application must be accompanied by the required supporting documents, including two references and official academic transcripts issued directly from each university or college attended. References must be written by non-family members who know the applicant well and can describe his or her personal qualifications for the desired program of study. Additional supporting documents may be required for certain programs, as outlined on the application.

Deadlines

Each graduate program has unique application and financial aid deadlines, as described under each program in the Academic Calendar.

Financial Awards

A minimum course load of 9 semester hours per semester is required for most scholarships. Student loans require a minimum of 6 semester hours per semester.

Note: Due to the above requirement, some programs are not eligible for financial assistance.

A list of Trinity Western University's awards and scholarships for graduate students is available at twu.ca/awards.

Graduate Student Status

Full-time Graduate Student — A full-time student is registered in the program for not less than 9 sem. hrs. per semester. The student is regularly involved in graduate student activities and discussions. Admission priority is given to full-time students.

Part-time Graduate Student — Registration in less than 9 sem. hrs. per semester.

On-leave Status — On-leave status may be granted, with the program director's permission, to students who find it necessary to interrupt their graduate studies. Leave is limited to one year. Normally a single fee for continuation is charged to students granted on-leave status. However, a student may apply for a waiver of the continuation fee for various reasons, such as for parental or medical leave. This application must be made in writing to the director. Failure to request leave from the director and/or failure to pay the Continuing Graduate Fee may result in suspension from the program. A leave of absence is registered as 000 (e.g., CPSY 000).

Students may take a maximum leave of four months (one semester) without charge; this fee exemption may also apply for certified medical conditions. However, students requesting subsequent terms of leave (except Summer sessions) are charged the Continuing Graduate Fee to remain registered in the program.

Continuous Enrolment — Students are expected to maintain continuous enrolment throughout the program. Failure to enrol for a minimum of 3 sem. hrs. or payment of a continuation fee in a given semester may result in suspension from the program. A leave of absence must be formally requested (see above). Re-enrolment requires application for re-admission to the program through the Office of the School of Graduate Studies.

Degree completion — A maximum of five years is allowed for degree completion from first enrolment. A limited extension may be granted upon appeal by the student and the recommendation of the thesis/ project supervisor and the director.

International Students

Trinity Western University is a diverse community that welcomes students from around the world. There are various things that international students should be aware of when applying to Trinity Western University.

Application Fee

International students must pay an application fee of $150 at the time of application.

English Proficiency Requirement

Applicants must possess proficiency in both oral and written academic English. Those applicants whose native language is not English are required to demonstrate this proficiency regardless of their academic qualifications. TWU accepts official original results from TOEFL, IELTS, CAEL, and the ESLI Proficiency exams. These results must be submitted at the time of application.

Proof of English language proficiency is required from all international students with the exception of natives of the following countries (for whom English is their first language):

- Australia
- Ireland
- New Zealand
- United States
- United Kingdom
- Countries of the West Indies except Cuba, Dominican Republic, Haiti, Martinique, Netherlands Antilles, Puerto Rico, St. Lucia
- South Africa

In the case of those who are not native to these countries but who have studied at a post-secondary level in one of them, proof of English language proficiency is still required if less than four years of study have been completed. In cases of four years or more, the student's completed application will be reviewed and the language requirement may be waived. This will be assessed on a case-by-case basis.

Applicants who do not meet the English language requirements may be conditionally admitted to certain graduate programs by applying for and successfully completing the Pre-Masters Program (PMP) offered through ESLI at Trinity Western University. For further information on PMP, contact the Graduate Admissions Office at gradadmissions@twu.ca.

Degree Equivalency Assessment

International students must submit a degree equivalency assessment of their undergraduate degree prior to being assessed for admission to a graduate program.

Please send an official copy of your transcript for evaluation to one of the organizations listed below and then have an official copy of both your transcript and the evaluation sent to:

Immigration Requirements

International students need to apply for an entry visa and a study permit with the Canadian Embassy, High Commission, or Consulate in their own country. No person will be permitted to enter Canada as a student without presenting the required documents to immigration officials at the port of entry. Application for a visa and study permit should be made as early as possible to ensure sufficient time for processing. For more information, visit cic.gc.ca/english/study/index.asp.

Health Care Requirements

Trinity Western University requires all non-Canadian students who will reside in BC for the academic year to enrol in the British Columbia Medical Services Plan. See details under Tuition and Student Fees.

Graduation Requirements

1. All students must apply to graduate by completing an application for graduation available online at twu.ca/graduation.
2. The Graduation Application deadline for all Graduate Studies students is July 15 of each year. a) This deadline applies to all students who wish to participate in the graduation ceremony in the fall of the same year. b) Students who apply after this deadline will not be permitted to participate in the graduation ceremony. c) Students who may not be eligible to participate in the ceremony may still be eligible for a December 31 conferral.
3. Students who apply for graduation on or before July 15 of each year will be deemed eligible to participate in the graduation ceremony on the following basis: a) ALL course work, internships, and other degree requirements (other than thesis or graduating essay or project) must be completed with final grades posted as of August 31 of that same year. b) Summative projects (thesis, graduating essay, or applied project) must be deemed passable by the faculty no later than September 30 of that same year. c) A minimum cumulative GPA of 3.00 is required for graduation.
4. In all cases, ALL grades must be received and posted before a student is deemed to have completed their degree. Students who are completing a thesis must submit their final edited and bound copy to the Graduate Studies office before a conferral date will be determined. The two primary conferral dates each year are May 31 and December 31.

Graduate Tuition and Student Fees 2016-2017

Payment of Fees

Payment schedule Fall 2016 and Spring 2017

Payment is due two weeks prior to the first day of classes. Please note that you will not be able to access MyCourses until payment is received. Early payment will ensure your place in the class and access to MyCourses. Once payment is received, your course status will be updated to current if there is still space in the course. Once students have enrolled in classes, they may view their semester invoice on the student portal. If students fail to complete their payment two weeks prior to the first day of classes (see below for payment options), their course registration will not be cancelled; however, their status in classes may be shifted from preregistered to waitlist status. If payment arrangements and/or confirmation of loans, bursaries, etc. are not received by the first day of classes, course selection will be cancelled. Students may re-register until the add/drop deadline, but will incur a late registration fee of $50.

Additional Fees (per semester)

1. Lab Fees (if applicable): $8–$75
2. Graduate Students Fee: $3/ sem. hr.
3. Facilities & Technology Fee: $15/ sem. hr.
4. Parking Permit (Aug. 15–April 30): $350.00- 382.50 (plus applicable taxes)
5. Health and Accident Insurance (per year): Trinity Western University is committed to ensuring that students' health care needs are provided for while they study. For this reason, TWU requires all non-Canadian students who reside in BC during the academic year to enrol in the British Columbia Medical Services Plan (BCMSP). BCMSP provides all basic health care needs. When students arrive on campus, Trinity Western staff members provide information about BCMSP, sign students up for both interim health care coverage and BCMSP, and take the payment. The annual cost of insurance is approximately $900 CDN. This cost covers interim health care coverage for three months and BCMSP coverage for nine months. Information regarding BCMSP coverage is available at health.gov.bc.ca/msp/infoben/faqs.html.

Students who come for short-term programs and who will reside in BC for less than three months must provide proof of personal medical insurance coverage when they register at TWU.

Course Additions and Withdrawals

Regular on-campus courses may be added prior to the add/drop deadline without additional costs. Online or summer courses may be added during the first two weeks of a semester.

Course additions later than these dates require approval of the program director. An administration fee will be charged.

Students who find it necessary to withdraw from the program or semester courses after completing registration and whose withdrawal is approved by the program director will be granted refunds as outlined below.

1. Tuition Refunds (Fall and Spring semesters for programs which run the full semester): During the first two weeks of the semester a full refund of tuition charges will be made less a $200* withdrawal fee. During the third week of the semester, a 70 per cent refund will be issued. Refunds will decrease by 10 per cent per week over subsequent weeks with no refund after the sixth week. *

Note: If the Office of the Registrar has provided a Confirmation of Registration Letter, the withdrawal fee is $1000.

2. On-Campus Summer Classes: Full refund less a $500 withdrawal fee during the first day of class only. No refund thereafter.
3. Online Classes: 75 per cent refund during first two weeks. No refund after two weeks. Note: Calculation of the refund depends upon the date of receipt of the withdrawal form in the Office of the Registrar.

Method of Payments

We accept payment in Canadian and U.S. currency—cash or cheque.

We accept payment through online banking from Canadian banking institutions.

Approved government student loans are accepted as payment. Confirmation of loan approval must be presented to the Office of the Registrar to confirm payment by payment dates.

We offer a Pre Authorized Debit (PAD) payment plan option.

For American and International students, we accept payment through Flywire (flywire.com) Further payment information is available at twu.ca/academics/office-of-the-registrar/financial-information/payment-methods.html

Miscellaneous Fees

1. Continuing Graduate Fee
(Fall and Spring semester: $955 |
Summer semesters: $450)

Students must pay this fee for each semester required to complete the thesis or internship requirements beyond the 6-12 sem. hr. allotment. This fee also covers students on leave from the program, with the exception of parental leave and other certified medical leave (see above).

Registration for continuation needs to be made each semester a student continues in his or her thesis beyond the original thesis registrations. Students applying for government loans may need to complete a form signed by the director to prove equivalent credit status, since no extra credit is awarded for continuation. See the Financial Aid Director for details.

2. Admission Deposit For All Programs

International Students: $9990

For new and re-enrolling students, this deposit is credited towards payment of other fees. Students should check with the Director of Graduate Admissions for all deposit due dates and cancellation deadlines. All registration deposits sent by mail should be addressed as follows:

*Trinity Western University Graduate
Admissions 7600 Glover Road Langley, B.C.
V2Y 1Y1*

3. Security Deposit $100

The security deposit is a $100 refundable deposit required of all students. The deposit will be used to cover damage or breakage in a student residence or academic lab and other areas of student indebtedness to the University including outstanding parking and library fees & fines, etc. Should there be any charges against this deposit reinstatement to the full amount of $100.00 will be required by the beginning of the next semester at the University.

4. Transcripts $13

A fee is charged for each copy ordered as per the fee schedule on the Registrar website. Students may order transcripts online from the Office of the Registrar at twu.ca/transcripts.

5. Returned Cheque Regardless of Reason $30
6. Late Registration Fee $50
This fee is applicable to all course registrations after the first week of the semester.
7. Late Payment Fee $50
This fee is applicable for those students who do not make payments on time. This fee is over and above interest charges incurred on overdue accounts.

Residence Fees

Student housing is available for some graduate students, especially for those attending the summer semester. Contact the director of the Housing Office for costs and availability.

Graduate Interdisciplinary MA in the Humanities (English, History, Philosophy)

Description

The Master of Arts (MA) in the Humanities is an interdisciplinary program, focusing on the disciplines of English, History, and Philosophy. Students may choose either a general program of study in all three disciplines or a greater level of specialization in one of the disciplines. The program may be completed in four semesters or in several years on a part-time basis. It combines the disciplines of English, History, and Philosophy to analyze significant aspects of Western culture, including those that are rooted in, are impacted by, and/or are challenges to a Christian world view. It specifically focuses on such themes of cultural formation as: humanity's purpose in the world; the values, traditions, mores, and belief systems that inform personal and corporate relationships; and the context within which communities function. The cross-disciplinary integration of faith and learning, focused on but not limited to Christian thought and action, encourages students to explore and examine the ideals of truth, goodness (virtue), and beauty.

Note: This program is offered under the written consent of the Minister of Advanced Education effective April 12, 2005 (renewed March 31, 2010), having undergone a quality assessment process and been found to meet the criteria established by the Minister. Nevertheless, prospective students are responsible for satisfying themselves that the program and the degree are appropriate to their needs (for example, acceptable to potential employers, professional licensing bodies, or other educational institutions).

Purpose

The MA Humanities program provides a graduate-level competency that prepares students for admission to related doctoral programs. In addition, it is of interest to teaching professionals who wish to further their own education through advanced training in the key high school subjects of English, history, or philosophy, which will equip them for effective service in their educational and social context. Other professionals, working in fields such as administration, communication and writing, social service and ministry, have benefited from the program and some students have found it excellent preparation for law school. The program enhances leadership potential through development of the skills of analysis, critical thinking, research and communication, and strengthens each student's ability to evaluate cultural trends from historical, philosophical, and literary perspectives.

Admission Requirements

Normally one of the following:

- BA (Honours) or equivalent in English, history, or philosophy;
- a four-year BA degree with a major in English, history, or philosophy (at least 42 sem. hrs.);
- a BA degree with 24 or more senior level (300- 400) semester hours in one of the above disciplines
- B.Ed. and a major in one of the disciplines or concentrations/minors in at least two of the disciplines; or
- a strong BA program in diverse humanities disciplines.

In each case, an average of B+ in the relevant humanities disciplines is normally required.

Consideration for admission into a period of qualifying studies is given to motivated applicants whose academic or disciplinary background is not as strong or as specialized. Details regarding the amount of preparation necessary for entry into the program are determined by the program director.

In addition to BA requirements, applicants will be required to submit two references, all official post-secondary transcripts and, upon request, an academic writing sample.

The application for the MAIH program can be found online at twu.ca/gradapply.

Application Deadlines

Typically students can begin in the program annually in September, January and July. The priority application deadline for July or September entry is April 1 and for January entry is November 1. Late applications are accepted as space permits.

General Humanities

This option is designed for several categories of students including: teachers of English, history, social studies and related disciplines; professionals and other interested students desiring broad studies in the humanities disciplines and students desiring to pursue doctoral studies in general humanities. It includes the core as above but replaces the thesis requirement with a major essay and an additional course. It requires 36 sem. hrs.

Program Checklists and Requirements:

- General Humanities

Specialized Humanities

This track is appropriate for students with a strong interest in one of the disciplines in the program. The level of specialization is similar to that of a MA in that discipline (e.g. MA in English, MA in History, or MA in Philosophy). Both the thesis and non-thesis options are open to any student with a strong background in one of these disciplines, but are designed primarily for students desiring to pursue doctoral studies in the chosen discipline.

At the same time, the interdisciplinary character of the humanities program is provided by: 1) the composition of the required three interdisciplinary core seminars; 2) the ability of the student (with the advisor) to select, according to individual interest, appropriate courses from a variety available in each disciplinary stream; and 3) an intentional interdisciplinary component in the thesis. The common critique from a Christian world view perspective is also both an integrative and an interdisciplinary facet.

The thesis option is recommended for students in philosophy. The non-thesis option includes the same core but replaces the thesis requirement with a major essay and an additional course. It is recommended for students in English and history.

Graduate Program in Biblical studies (MA) Program

Description

The Master of Arts in Biblical studies is a specialized academic program designed to prepare students to interpret Scripture and investigate major issues that attend biblical studies. Led by expert faculty, students become acquainted with the most recent scholarship in this field. Together they engage in original research and critically examine biblical and related primary texts in their original languages (e.g. biblical manuscripts, the Dead Sea Scrolls, papyri, inscriptions, early rabbinica, and pseudepigrapha). Students formulate their own written contributions to scholarly conversations in a style that is professional and compelling. The MA in Biblical studies has a proven track record of preparing graduates for entrance to and success in Ph.D. programs at leading academic institutions.

Admission Requirements

Normally, applicants who qualify for immediate entry into the graduate year have earned a BA in biblical studies or the equivalent of 42 credit hours in biblical studies, including 12 sem. hrs. of Hebrew and 12 sem. hrs. of Greek. Applicants who have completed an M.Div. (or equivalent) at an accredited institution and meet the language requirements also qualify. (NB: see the second paragraph following.)

The minimum GPA for admission is 3.0 (or B) based on the last two years of the BA (at least half of these courses must be upper level), including the 12 sem. hrs. of upper level course work in the major in the final two years with a minimum GPA of 3.5 (or B+).

Highly motivated applicants with a bachelor's degree in another discipline may apply to undertake the qualifying course work of up to 42 credit hours in biblical studies, including 12 sem. hrs. of Hebrew and 12 sem. hrs. of Greek. Upon satisfactory completion of the qualifying course work, students are eligible to enter the graduate year.

Applicants must submit an online application, two references, all official transcripts and a recent written sample of their work in the area of biblical studies. Normally this would be a research or term paper produced in the last two years of the BA program. Papers specifically prepared for application are also accepted.

All students are required to familiarize themselves with Trinity Western University's Community Covenant and voluntarily commit themselves to honour the Covenant while enrolled at the University.

The application for the program can be found online at twu.ca/gradapply.

Deadlines

Application for admission to the MA in biblical studies program may be submitted up to one year prior to the desired date of entry. All application materials should be sent to the Office of Graduate Admissions. The priority application deadline for September enrolment is June 15; for January enrolment, the priority application deadline is November 1. Late applications are processed on a first-come basis with acceptance dependent on available space in the program.

Applications are processed and admissions responses forwarded, usually within three weeks of application completion, or by June 30 for fall enrolment. Admitted students are required to indicate formal acceptance by submitting a $300 deposit to the Office of Graduate Admissions.

The Dead Sea Scrolls Institute

The Dead Sea Scrolls Institute provides important additional resources and scholarly support to the University's Graduate Program in biblical studies. The Institute sponsors symposia in which leading scholars give lectures to students and the public on the latest results of research. Transfer Students

1. Students may seek to transfer credits received at another accredited institution towards the graduate year. If deemed equivalent to course work required in the degree program, the student may be granted advanced standing. The amount of transfer credit is determined by the Registrar and the Admissions Committee. Courses that have less than a B grade are not considered for transfer.
2. Courses taken at an undergraduate level normally cannot be transferred into a graduate program, but some advanced placement may be granted (i.e., course exemptions replaced by electives).
3. Normally maximum transfer into the MA program is 6 sem. hrs. of the final year (i.e., 600 level electives).

Graduate Program in Business Administration (MBA)

Murray MacTavish, Ph.D., Director

Purpose

The purpose of the MBA program is to develop positive, goal-oriented Christian business leaders who apply their knowledge, skill, and values to positively impact the marketplace. In particular, the program has the following objectives:

1. Equip participants in the art of business leadership, including the ability to effectively motivate and mobilize employees and others to accomplish organizational goals and objectives.
2. Provide all participants with a thorough foundation in core business areas (marketing, finance, accounting, human resources, economics, and corporate law).
3. Encourage all students to have a global business perspective.
4. Develop managers and professionals uniquely skilled and prepared for entrepreneurial business, the non-profit and charitable organization sector, or international business.
5. Provide all participants with an ethics and values foundation that ensures graduates will function with integrity in their personal and professional life.

Note: This program is offered under the written consent of the Minister of Advanced Education effective July 31, 2006, having undergone a quality assessment process and been found to meet the criteria established by the Minister. Nevertheless, prospective students are responsible for satisfying themselves that the program and the degree will be appropriate to their needs (for example, acceptable to potential employers, professional licensing bodies, or other educational institutions).

MBA Program Options

The MBA program offers three specializations in three formats, varying in duration and structure. Each program format consists of nine core business courses (including an applied research project) and five specialization courses for a total of 45 sem. hrs. The core courses feature an integrated curriculum with application to each of the specializations.

22-Month Part-Time Programs

The MBA program consists of two specializations— Non-Profit and Charitable Organization Management and Management of the Growing Enterprise—and is 22 months in length. Courses are delivered through a mixed-modal approach, including five residencies (total of eight weeks) on the TWU campus and the utilization of online and other distance learning technologies. The primary entry date is August for the Management of the Growing Enterprise specialization and Non- Profit and Charitable Organization Management specializations. However, it is possible to start in October and January.

The Management of the Growing Enterprise specialization is designed to equip students with the skills and creative mindset to pursue new initiatives or launch a new product in an existing firm. With its focus on growth and innovation, this specialization is suited for those seeking to initiate new projects or start a new company.

The Non-Profit & Charitable Organization Management specialization helps non-profit managers lead their organizations to achieve greater missional fulfillment amidst the myriad challenges and limited resources. Management capacity building is a critical goal of this MBA option.

This specialization is also of interest to non-profit Board of Directors.

12-Month Full-Time Program

The International Business specialization is delivered over 12-18 months on the Langley campus. Designed with the global marketplace in mind, this specialization prepares current and future leaders to navigate the ever-changing landscape of doing business across borders. An international trip to a key global market region is a critical component of the learning experience in this specialization.

The courses are delivered in monthly modules. Each module includes pre-readings, one week of concentrated classroom instruction, and two to four weeks of course work completion. Program entry is possible most months for the international business specialization. International students interested in this program may be required to take one or more semesters of English in the ESLI Pre-Masters program before entering the MBA program. The Pre-Masters program accepts students on the TWU campus beginning in January, May, or September.

Great Wall MBA Program (Tianjin, China)

The Great Wall MBA program is delivered in English in Tianjin, China on the campus of our partner university, Tianjin University of Finance and Economics (TUFE). The courses are taught by expert faculty from TWU's School of Business and TUFE's MBA programs. The length of the program is approximately 18 months.

The program's goal is to help students develop a global business perspective by studying in one of the world's largest and fastest growing economies. As part of this process, the Great Wall MBA program equips students in the art and science of strategic leadership, providing a solid foundation in core business areas through engaging in analysis of theories and application to real-world solutions in China and globally. The intention is to create a globally-diverse classroom that supports and encourages business connectivity through the exchange of relationships between business leaders from China, Canada, and other countries. The program also engages students in conversations about ethical business practices in the global marketplace.

For more information, please contact Brenton Reimer at Brenton.Reimer@twu.ca or visit twu.ca/mba.

Note: This program is offered under the written consent of the Minister of Advanced Education effective July 25, 2013, having undergone a quality assessment process and been found to meet the criteria established by the Minister. Nevertheless, prospective students are responsible for satisfying themselves that the program and the degree will be appropriate to their needs (for example, acceptable to potential employers, professional licensing bodies, or other educational institutions).

Domestic Student MBA Admissions Requirements And Application Deadlines

Students can apply for direct admission to the MBA program. Students have the option of choosing one of three program specializations: Management of the Growing Enterprise specialization, Non-Profit and Charitable Organization Management, or International Business.

To be admitted into the MBA program, participants must meet the following requirements:

- Applicants must normally have a bachelor's degree. In exceptional cases, a combination of education and work experience may be considered

- Applicants must have a GPA of at least 3.0 (B) based on the final two years of their undergraduate program
- Successful applicants must have sufficient knowledge of math and statistics. Some students may be required to take additional preparatory courses before admission into the program is granted
- Applicants must complete the GMAT exam. While no minimum GMAT score is identified, in order to be competitive, applicants need a score of 550 or better
- Selected applicants may be required to successfully complete an entrance interview (which may occur by telephone conference call). The interview evaluates an applicant's level of maturity, interpersonal skills, career focus, and motivation

The application process includes submission of an application form, all official post-secondary education transcripts, GMAT score, two letters of reference and a personal statement that illustrates the applicant's readiness to study in the MBA program.

Entry to the MBA program depends upon the specialization chosen, with entry possible most months for the International Business Specialization and in August, October, and January for the Management of the Growing Enterprise specialization and Non-Profit and Charitable Organization Management specializations. The application deadline is two months prior to the desired date of entry.

International Student MBA Admission Requirements And Application Deadlines

International students may apply for direct admission to the MBA program or if they do not have a sufficient English proficiency test score (e.g., TOEFL, IELTS) they may apply for conditional admission to the MBA program through our ESLI Pre-Masters Program. For more information on the ESLI Pre-Masters Program, contact the Office of Graduate Admissions at gradadmissions@twu.ca.

To be admitted into the MBA program, international applicants must meet the following requirements:

- Applicants must normally have a bachelor's degree. In exceptional cases, a combination of education and work experience may be considered
- Applicants must have a GPA of at least 3.0 (B) based on the final two years of their undergraduate program
- Successful applicants must have sufficient knowledge of math and statistics. Some students may be required to take additional preparatory courses before admission into the program is granted
- Applicants must complete the GMAT exam. While no minimum GMAT score is identified, in order to be competitive, applicants need a score of 550 or better. For international students
- taking the ESLI Pre-Masters Program, the GMAT exam may be deferred until the final semester of the ESLI Pre-Masters Program
- Applicants who did not take their bachelor degree in an English speaking country (these include Canada, USA, UK, Australia, New Zealand) must submit an official TOEFL or IELTS score. Alternately, they may complete the ESLI Pre-Masters Program before entering the MBA program. A TOEFL or IELTS score is not a requirement for conditional admission to the MBA program through the ESLI Pre-Masters Program. English language proficiency is assessed upon arrival at TWU and students are placed into the appropriate ESL or Pre-Masters level. However, applicants with an iBT score of 88 with at least 21 in each category (or an equivalent) are eligible for immediate entry into the ESLI Pre-Masters Program

- Selected applicants may be required to successfully complete an entrance interview (which may occur by telephone conference call). The interview evaluates an applicant's level of maturity, interpersonal skills, career focus, and motivation

The application process includes submission of an application form, all official post-secondary education transcripts, GMAT score (for those students entering the MBA program directly without the ESLI Pre-Masters Program), two letters of reference, and a personal statement that illustrates the applicant's readiness to study in the MBA program.

Entry to the International Specialization is possible most months with the application deadline two months prior to the desired date of entry.

Entry dates for the ESLI Pre-Masters Program are at the beginning of January, May, or September. Students should apply to the ESLI/MBA program at least two to four months prior to the desired date of entry to allow for visa and study permit processing.

Graduate Program in Counselling Psychology (MA)

Marvin McDonald, Ph.D., Director

Purpose

The purpose of the Graduate Program in Counselling Psychology is to fulfil the mission of the University in the professions of counselling and psychology. Godly Christian leaders are nurtured to serve God and people as mental health professionals, community advocates, and scholars. The mission of the program can be summarized as the equipping of students and the advancement of knowledge in counselling psychology. Graduates of the program are competent, professional counsellors who are able to function in a pluralistic society. The Graduate Program in Counselling Psychology encourages personal and spiritual growth, fosters community spirit, and promotes the integration of scholarship, practice, and faith. Graduates from the program may pursue doctoral studies in counselling or clinical psychology, counsellor education, and related fields. There is a wide variety of professional approaches and research interests represented by program faculty and students.

Students gain a unique perspective on the discipline as they learn to integrate scientific psychology and counselling skills. This synergy between research and practice is grounded in a profound recognition of biblical principles and spiritual resources in the healing process. Likewise, the personal and professional development of students emerges in the heart of integration as they strengthen their ability to make a difference in the world. The program fosters a community spirit through shared values, teamwork, ministry opportunities, and mutual support. Students entering this program bring a wide range of personal, cultural, and professional experience to their training and contribute in many ways to the growth and awareness of their colleagues in the program. The MA program prepares students to function competently and professionally in community agencies and to work with families and individuals in increasingly diversified and pluralistic communities.

Admission Requirements & Application Deadlines

Applicants must have completed a BA in Honours Psychology or an equivalent four-year program. Applicants with a non-psychology degree who demonstrate high academic competence and a serious commitment to pursue counselling as a profession require courses in the following undergraduate psychology areas: Introductory Psychology, Introductory Statistics, Research Design, Brain and Behaviour, Abnormal Psychology, Personality Psychology, and Developmental Psychology. In addition, applicants normally need to have successfully completed a course in basic counselling skills (offered each August at TWU as CPSY 490). Other recommended courses that provide good background for professional practice include: Social Psychology, Cognitive Psychology, Learning Theory, Psychological Testing, Marriage and the Family, and History of Psychology. Although these recommended courses are not required for entry, students without them may be at a learning disadvantage in graduate studies and may need to do extra reading. Additional background that further strengthens preparation for graduate studies includes studies in cultural psychology and community psychology; experience as a research assistant or teaching assistant; advanced courses in research design, statistics, or neuropsychology; and familiarity with multiple languages.

The minimum GPA for admission is 3.0 (or B), based on the last two years of the BA (presuming these include predominantly upper level courses), and the minimum grades for four of the upper level psychology courses must be 3.7 (or A-). Applicants may supplement the documentation of their academic credentials by submitting their score from the GRE Aptitude Examination (General Test) or from the MAT (Miller Analogies Test). When more than five years have elapsed since their bachelor's degree was awarded, applicants must submit either the GRE or MAT.

Other applicants who would like to strengthen their application by submitting the GRE or MAT scores may do so. Trinity Western's institutional code for score submission is 0876. Applicants who have an MA in research-based subfields of psychology but who wish to acquire clinical skills are encouraged to apply.

Applicants must supply evidence of successful work or volunteer service in a counselling-related field over a two-year period. Applicants must provide a brief description (approximately two pages long) of their reasons for wishing to pursue a master's degree at TWU, their view of counselling processes, and their career goals. They should also describe their openness to self-examination and their commitment to personal and professional self-development during professional training and as a life-long practice. They may also want to mention their spiritual journey and personal faith. All members of TWU, including faculty, staff, and students, are required to honour the University's Community Covenant. This code of conduct reflects the shared values of the TWU community.

Applications must be accompanied by two references: one academic and one work/experience-related reference. The references must be written by persons who know the applicant well and can describe his or her personal qualifications for the role of a counsellor. Applicants are also required to submit a video that clearly demonstrates capacity to provide warmth, support, encouragement, and active listening on personal topics along with a confidential Character & Professional Fitness Disclosure form.

Additional information detailing both the video requirements and the Character & Professional Fitness Disclosure form can be found online at twu.ca/cpsy.

The application for the program can be found online at twu.ca/graduate/apply.

The MA Counselling Psychology program accepts applications twice per year. Students wishing to begin in September should apply by January 31. Space in the program is limited so applicants are encouraged to apply on time; however, late applications will be accepted and qualified applicants may be placed on a waitlist if space permits. A limited number of applications are considered for admission in January. The application deadline for January admission is October 15. Successful applicants are required to submit a $300 deposit to the Grad Admissions Office upon their formal acceptance to the program. Applicants who fail to respond by this date risk losing their placement in the program.

Graduate Program in Educational Studies - Special Education (MAES-SPED) Kenneth Pudlas, Ed.D., Director

Purpose

The Master of Arts in Educational Studies – Special Education program serves TWU’s mission of developing godly Christian leaders for the various marketplaces of life. This graduate program offers advanced preparation for leadership in the K-12 classroom and in educational administration and will empower educational leaders to meet the increasingly diverse learning needs in public and private school classrooms.

Outcomes

In the MAES – SPED program, students will further develop:

- familiarity with current trends and issues regarding diversity in education
- knowledge of diverse cognitive needs
- knowledge of diverse sensory and physical abilities
- knowledge of diverse emotional and behavioural needs
- ability to assess students with diverse learning needs
- ability to apply the assessment data to the development of individual educational plans (a particular strength of the program)
- knowledge of counselling issues for students with diverse needs
- educational strategies for students with diverse learning needs
- new professional skills and resulting confidence to provide leadership in educating diverse learners;
- experience in implementing educational strategies through field work
- understanding of research design and evaluation, and preparation for further (doctoral) studies
- thoughtful Christian perspectives on diversity theory and practice

Admission Criteria And Graduation Requirements

To be admitted into the program, applicants require an undergraduate degree in education or a relevant field and successful completion of the professional year, with an overall GPA of at least 3.0, possession of or eligibility for a BC Professional Teaching Certificate or other Professional Teaching Certification as approved, and three or more years of school-based teaching experience or approved equivalent. Consideration may be given to a lower GPA when the applicant can demonstrate ability to study at the graduate level.

To graduate from the program, students must successfully complete 35 semester hours, including a major project or a thesis, with a cumulative grade point average of at least 3.0.

Note: This program is offered under the written consent of the Minister of Advanced Education effective January 6, 2014 having undergone a quality assessment process and been found to meet the criteria established by the Minister. Nevertheless, prospective students are responsible for satisfying themselves that the program and the degree will be appropriate to meeting their needs (for example, acceptable to potential employers, professional licensing bodies, or other educational institutions).

Application

The application process includes completion of an online application form (or submission of written forms), including two references, all post-secondary education transcripts, and a personal statement that illustrates the applicant's readiness to study in the MAES-SPED program.

Deadlines

As a new program, applications are reviewed up until two weeks prior to the commencement of the new cohort each summer. Applicants are encouraged to apply early in order to ensure space is available in the program. Successful applicants are required to indicate formal acceptance by submitting a deposit to the Office of Graduate Admissions.

Program Checklists and Requirements:

- Master of Arts in Education Studies – Special Education - Non-Thesis
- Master of Arts in Education Studies – Special Education - Thesis

Program Structure

The program courses are delivered in two years through a combination of on-campus and online courses with a third year for the capstone project. Students have three residencies: four weeks on TWU's Langley campus during the first two summers, and a final residency for a capstone course and work on either their thesis or major project. Online learning experiences offered during the academic year ensure a provincially, nationally, and internationally accessible graduate program accessible to working educators.

Graduate Program in Leadership (MA) and in Educational Leadership (MA)

Phil Laird, Ph.D., Acting Director & Vice Provost

Purpose

The purpose of the MA in Leadership and MA in Educational Leadership programs is to help professional people improve their leadership competence through enhanced commitment, capability, and effectiveness in five specialty areas: business, health, education, non-profit organizations, and Christian ministry.

The goal of the MA in Leadership and the MA in Educational Leadership programs is to enable participants to:

- Develop a personal value-based foundation;
- Develop a personal philosophy of servant leadership;
- Understand leadership and its personal and corporate challenges in a world of

- shared power and multiple organization leadership levels;
- Appreciate leadership as the establishment of vision that is expressed through service;
- Acquire skills in the formation, direction, motivation, and evaluation of individual and team activities (negotiation, resolution, and positive use of conflict in living and employment circumstances, etc.);
- Ensure better organization performance through strategic leading and commitment to financial accountability, and;
- Apply leadership principles in the place of employment and in other areas of life.

Perspective

TWU's leadership degrees are intended to be intensely practical, with an emphasis on developing skills that can be used immediately in the participant's place of employment. The cohort model assists in achieving this objective.

To ensure that participants learn leadership skills particular to their needs, and those of the organization in which they are employed, adult learning principles are applied in the learning process:

- Balancing the instructor's information presentation with opportunities to raise leadership-based service improvement;
- Providing a learning format that accommodates personal styles and rate of learning progress;
- Involving extensive group interaction and assignments;
- Solving practical problems faced in participant work situations;
- Promoting different perspectives towards realization of shared learning outcome expectations;
- Utilizing instructor experiences, special readings, and case studies in understanding new concepts, and;

- Empowering participants through specification of shared learning objectives.

Program Overview

Learners can select from three different leadership programs:

- MA in Leadership
- MA in Educational Leadership
- MA in Leadership (Business Stream) in Mandarin

MA in Leadership

The MA in Leadership program is offered at two campuses: Langley and Richmond.

- Langley Campus – The program is offered as a part-time and full-time option and consists of eight courses online and four face-to-face courses. There are five specializations (Streams) offered in the following areas: Business, Education, Health, Non-Profit, Christian Ministry, Education. Each year there are two program-start intakes: January and July.
- Richmond Campus – The Program is offered as a full-time program only and all courses are taught face-to-face. There is only one specialization (Stream) offered—Business. Each year there are two program-start intakes: January and September. The admission requirements for the Richmond program vary somewhat from the Langley Campus program. Contact the program office for details.

MA in Educational Leadership

The MA in Educational Leadership is offered at the Langley Campus and offers a part-time and full-time option. Eight courses are taught online and four are taught face-to-face at the Langley Campus. Each year there are two program-start intakes: January and July.

Students interested in this stream must have an education background.

MA in Leadership (Business Stream) in Mandarin
The MA in Leadership (Business Stream) in Mandarin is offered for students in Mandarin and is contextualized for business in China. There is one course face-to-face at the Langley Campus and all other courses are taken online.

Curriculum

Curriculum Specific to MA in Leadership & MA in Educational Leadership

The MA in Leadership and MA in Educational Leadership programs comprise 34 semester hours, which include six foundational courses, four stream courses, and two Leadership Integration Project (Capstone) courses.

- The foundational course topics include: Leadership Foundations, Scholarly Inquiry, Results-based Leadership, Team Leadership & Conflict Resolution, Leadership Values and Ethics, and Strategic Leadership. The introductory course on Scholarly Inquiry is designed to facilitate critical thinking, logical, and systemic major project work. Each new student cohort intake (January and July), the students will be taught two, face-to-face foundational courses on-campus.
- The next two foundational courses are taught online and the last two foundational courses are held face-to-face on campus, usually, in July or August of the last year of study.
- The specialized online courses (stream courses) focus on the participant's chosen area of leadership practice: Business, Education, Health, Non-Profit, Christian Ministry.
- The Leadership Integration Project (Capstone Project) culminates the leadership competencies and allows the student to apply them to a practical, individually inspired project. Throughout the program students will work one-on-one with an assigned advisor as part of the two Leadership Integration Project courses.

Curriculum specific to MA in Leadership (Business Stream) in Mandarin

The Master of Arts in Leadership (Business Stream) in Mandarin includes a mandatory two day in-person Orientation and a pre-requisite (non-credit) course (LDRS 498) offered predominantly online. Learners must successfully complete the Orientation and prerequisite course to commence the program.

The Master of Arts in Leadership (Business Stream) in Mandarin consists of 34 semester hours, including five foundational leadership courses, one scholarly inquiry course, four specialized business courses, and Leadership Integration Project (Capstone Project).

- All courses in the MA in Leadership (Business Stream) in Mandarin degree program are based on the MA in Leadership degree program (business stream) while contextualized for Chinese business realities.
- All participants are required to take five foundational leadership courses. Please refer to (MA Leadership program description for the list of foundational courses). Four of the five foundational courses in the MA in Leadership (Business Stream) in Mandarin program are delivered predominantly online with an experiential learning/travel study component conducted in an offline seminar format to enrich online learning and to facilitate community building.
- One of the five foundational courses is delivered entirely face-to-face on TWU campus in Canada, where learners engage in classroom learning, challenge courses and rowing courses to achieve course objectives and realize learning outcomes.

Learners also take this opportunity to develop social belonging to the larger Trinity Western University community.

- The Scholarly Inquiry course is designed to facilitate critical thinking, develop research methods and improve learner's ability to analyze research results in order to best prepare for the Capstone Project. This course is delivered entirely online.
- Four business stream specific courses are delivered entirely online, with focus on leadership practices in the Chinese business context. Please refer to MA Leadership program description for the list of business stream specific courses.
- The final requirement is the completion of a Leadership Integration Project or the Capstone Project. Learners begin the Project immediately after completing the Scholarly Inquiry course, at which time each learner will be assigned an advisor. In the following months leading up to Graduation, learners will work one-on-one with their advisor to complete the Project.

MA in Leadership Grading Policy

Letter Grade	%	Grade Point Value	Meaning In Graduate Work Note: For Assignments That Meet Criteria In Several Categories, Instructors Will Assign An Average Grade.
A+	95–100	4.3	Exceptionally well-reasoned, compelling development of position. Outstanding incorporation of personal vision as well as of references and resources. Strikingly appropriate examples. Extraordinary insight, critical analytical and evaluative ability, and creativity. Superlative style and language usage. Makes an original contribution and is potentially publishable.

A	90–94	4.0	Well-argued and convincing development of position. Insightful incorporation of personal vision as well as of references and resources. Notably appropriate examples. Excellent insight, critical analytic and evaluative ability, and creativity. Impressive style and language use.
A-	85–89	3.7	Thorough and plausible development of position. Skillful incorporation of personal vision as well as of references and resources. Very good examples. Very good insight, analytic and evaluative ability, and creativity. Commendable and fluent style and language usage.
B+	80–84	3.3	Proficient development of position. Appropriate incorporation of personal vision as well as of references and resources. Relevant examples. Good quality insight, analytic and evaluative ability, and creativity. Clear and correct style and language usage.

B	75–79	3.0	Competent development of position, but possibly with some gaps and/or limitations. Satisfactory incorporation of personal vision as well as of references and resources. Satisfactory examples. Reasonable insight, analytic and evaluative ability. Little creativity. Generally satisfactory style and language usage, but possibly with some minor flaws.
B-	70–74	2.7*	Unimpressive graduate level work. Position not completely consistent with personal vision or references and resources not taken fully into account or examples are basic or not completely convincing or lacking acceptable insight and analytic and evaluative ability. Style and language usage with weaknesses (e.g., clarity, coherence, grammar). Overall quality shows noticeable deficiencies.

Note: * a grade of “B-“ carries a GPA of 2.7. Learners require a composite GPA of 3.0 to graduate.

Other Designated Grades

INC = Incomplete. A grade may be incomplete if assignments remain outstanding in a course or if the instructor has not yet submitted a grade. If assignments remain outstanding at the end of a course, students must obtain and complete an incomplete grade form from Enrollment Services.

W = Withdrew. This grade is assigned for students withdrawing during the first half of the course.

WP /WF = Withdrew passing / Withdrew failing. These grades are assigned to students withdrawing during the second half of a course. Grades are not computed into the cumulative GPA. A student may withdraw from a course only because of severe extenuating circumstances and if approval is granted by the Program Director and the Dean of Graduate Studies.

Specific to MA in Leadership (Business Stream) in Mandarin

- A prerequisite, non-credit course offered in the Mandarin program, uses the following grading:
- P = Pass (not calculated into cumulative GPA)
- F = Failure and 0 Grade Points (GP); Used in pass/fail courses.
- Failure at a graduate level is anything below B-.

Graduate Program in Linguistics (MA)

Roderic F. Casali, Ph.D., Director

Program Description

The MA in Linguistics program is a two-year graduate academic program that is strongly oriented towards field work. It prepares students to analyze and describe the linguistic structures of languages and to put previously unwritten languages into writing. Upon graduation, students are prepared for careers in linguistics, literacy, and translation. They are also prepared to gain admission into doctoral programs in linguistics.

Note: This program is offered under the written consent of the Minister of Advanced Education effective March 20, 2006 (renewed April 4, 2011), having undergone a quality assessment process and been found to meet the criteria established by the Minister. Nevertheless, prospective students are responsible for satisfying themselves that the program and the degree are appropriate to their needs (for example, acceptable to potential employers, professional licensing bodies, or other educational institutions).

Admission Criteria

To be considered for admission, applicants must have:

- A bachelor of arts or equivalent degree from an accredited institution with a minimum cumulative GPA of 2.75 for all undergraduate work and 3.0 based on the last two years of the BA
- Completed at least 12 sem. hrs. of linguistics prerequisites, including courses equivalent to Articulatory Phonetics, Phonological Analysis, and Grammatical Analysis. All prerequisite courses must have been completed with a minimum grade of B.

- Completed at least 6 sem. hrs. (or equivalent) of a foreign language. If the applicant does not meet this requirement, the requirement may be met later in the program. However, any credits earned towards the foreign language requirement will not be included in the total hours needed to complete the MA
- A minimum TOEFL score of 600 (250 computer based) for students who do not have English as their native or primary language

Students may transfer into the program up to 18 sem. hrs. from other institutions. The Registrar and program director shall determine which courses may be transferred and from which institutions.

Deadlines

All new applications should be received by May 15 prior to the fall semester in which enrolment is desired. Although admission takes place as applications are received, later applications may be considered if space is available.

Program Objectives

The program aims to produce graduates who are able to:

- Analyze a language that is not well documented
- Understand the implications of linguistic analysis for various applications such as the development of orthographies, literacy materials, pedagogical grammars, and dictionaries
- Critically read and understand scientific literature in their field
- Prepare research findings for publication in professional journals

- Qualify for entrance into doctoral studies in linguistics
- Continue their professional development
- Integrate their faith with their work

Program Requirements

The program has two options: thesis and non-thesis. Students who wish to subsequently pursue a doctorate in linguistics are advised to take the thesis option. This option requires completion of 33 sem. hrs. of coursework, plus the thesis. Students who pursue the thesis option must complete 33 sem. hrs. of linguistics coursework taken at the 500 or 600 level, write a thesis (6 sem. hrs.), and defend it successfully. Students who pursue the non-thesis option must complete 39 sem. hrs. of linguistics coursework at the 500 or 600 level and receive a grade of P (Pass) on written comprehensive exams.

The MA in Linguistics program has core course requirements of 15 sem. hrs. These five courses cover the main areas of linguistics that are necessary for students preparing for fieldwork in linguistics. Survey of Linguistic Theories gives students a broad overview of linguistic theory. Syntax and Semantics and Advanced Phonology prepare students for field work in two of the most fundamental areas of linguistics. Field Methods and Advanced Field Methods focus on teaching students how to gather linguistic data, manage that data electronically, analyze the data, and write descriptions of their data and analyses.

The program has two streams: analytical and applied. Students take at least 12 sem. hrs. in their chosen stream. In the case of the analytical stream, the courses develop skills that are necessary for field workers who wish to focus mainly on linguistic analysis. In this stream, Problems in Morphology and Syntax is a required course (included in the 12 sem. hrs). In the case of the applied stream, the courses develop skills that are necessary for field workers who plan to work mainly in the areas of literacy development and translation. In this stream, Language Programs Design and Management is a required course (included in the 12 sem. hrs.).

Graduate Program in Nursing (M.S.N.)

Sheryl Reimer-Kirkham, Ph.D., Director

Purpose

The Master of Science in Nursing program serves TWU's mission of developing Christian leaders for the various marketplaces of life. Nurses with graduate preparation provide leadership locally, nationally, and globally to meet humanity's most basic and pressing needs in the realm of health and illness. This program prepares nursing leaders to serve in key nursing education, advanced practice, and health care leadership positions.

The vision of TWU's Master of Science in Nursing program is to foster values-based nursing, educational vitality, excellence in scholarship in practice, and transformation through Christian graduate nursing education. A strong disciplinary nursing core together with electives allows students to personalize their studies for their unique career path, whether as educators, leaders, or advanced practice nurses.

The objectives of the program are to prepare graduates who are able to:

1. apply thoughtful Christian perspectives to nursing practice
2. enact a vision and mission for values-based leadership
3. enact an enhanced professional role based on specialized knowledge and expertise in

- nursing education, administration, and practice
- 4. advance nursing scholarship in practice that is informed by sound evidence
- 5. promote ethically responsible health care and health-related policy
- 6. relate historical, academic, social, and political influences to health and nursing
- 7. qualify for entrance into doctoral studies

Graduates who choose a focus on nursing education are prepared to step into the many current and upcoming faculty and clinical supervision positions in baccalaureate nursing programs. Graduates who choose a focus on nursing leadership have integrated interdisciplinary nursing knowledge— about health promotion, patient responses to illness, interpersonal communication, population health and the social contexts of health and illness—and emerging knowledge about health care organizations and leadership theory. TWU M.S.N. graduates are in a unique position to provide highly effective leadership to today’s changing, complex health care environments. The electives in Advanced Nursing Practice with the Older Adult reflect a social responsiveness to the demographic trend of an aging population and prepare nurses for various advanced practice positions.

Note: This program is offered under the written consent of the Minister of Advanced Education effective April 28, 2008 having undergone a quality assessment process and been found to meet the criteria established by the Minister. Nevertheless, prospective students are responsible for satisfying themselves that the program and the degree will be appropriate to meeting their needs (for example, acceptable to potential employers, professional licensing bodies, or other educational institutions).

Admission Criteria

To be admitted into the M.S.N. program, applicants must have:

- Baccalaureate degree in nursing with a GPA of 3.0 (B) in the final two years of the undergraduate program (GPA requirement may be waived in exceptional circumstances, e.g. mature student with additional experience/education)

- Undergraduate statistics course within the past five years. There is a program expectation that a student has statistical knowledge at the level of a basic undergraduate statistics course. Students who do not have an undergraduate statistics course will be required to take a statistics course prior to or during the program as a pre-requisite for NURS 540
- Practising registration with provincial/state regulatory body
- For students whose first language is not English: a minimum TOEFL score of 250 if computer based, 600 if paper based

Application

The application process includes submission of an application form, two references, all post-secondary education transcripts, TOEFL score (for applicants who do not have English as their native or primary language), and a personal statement that illustrates the applicant’s readiness to study in the M.S.N. program.

Deadlines

Applications are reviewed November 1, and March 1. As this is a competitive program, serious applicants are encouraged to apply early in order to ensure space is available in the program. Successful applicants are required to indicate formal acceptance by submitting a $300 deposit to the Graduate Admissions Office. Deposits are due January 15 (for November 1 review date), and April 15 (for March 1).

Program Checklists and Requirements: Master of Science in Nursing

Program Structure

The program courses are delivered in two years through a combination of on-campus and online courses with a third year for the capstone project. The program consists of six core nursing courses, two electives, and a capstone project (knowledge translation project or thesis) for a total of 30 semester hours of study. For those students who wish to complete the program in a condensed version, elective courses may be taken concurrently with core courses for completion in 15 months. Students have two residencies: four weeks on TWU's Langley campus during the first summer, and one week at TWU's Laurentian Leadership Centre (LLC) in Ottawa in the second summer. The LLC residency offers students an exceptional experience in healthcare policy and leadership analysis. Online learning experiences offered during the academic year ensure a provincially, nationally, and internationally accessible graduate program.

Graduate Program Teaching English to Speakers of Other Languages (MA)

William Acton, Ph.D., Director

Purpose

The mission of the Master of Arts in Teaching English to Speakers of Other Languages (TESOL) is to prepare English language teachers for excellence as practitioners and leaders in the field.

Perspective

The program focuses on personal and professional development from several perspectives. The emphasis is on a personally rewarding approach to language instruction in the service of others, globally. The curriculum is future-oriented, preparing instructors who are competent and experienced in online technology, state-of-the-art teaching strategies, course design, and program implementation. Although the Christian world view is fundamental to the program and the TWU community, students of all faiths and beliefs are welcome.

Admission

The following are typically required for entrance to either program:

- A bachelor's degree
- A TESL certificate, similar to that offered by TWU, is highly recommended
- Teaching experience (one to two years)
- An IELTS score of 7.5 on all bands (for non-native English speakers) of the equivalent

Other factors which may enhance a candidate's application include extensive teaching experience, other languages studied, and a strong rationale for entering the program. If necessary, students lacking some of this background may be required to take certificate level courses, such as Phonetics, English Grammar, and Introduction to TESL, prior to beginning the program.

Program Structure

Online Track (Two to Three Years)

The program uses a unique form of collaborative online instruction. The first summer of the program, students begin with three weeks of intensive instruction on campus. Throughout the academic year, students work through modules that are mediated by a combination of online discussions, readings, media, and collaborative project work. July is the sole entry point into the program, but exceptions may be made with highly qualified applicants.

Residential Track (12 To 16 Months)

The residential MA TESOL program can be completed within 12 to 16 months. It is suitable for those on study leave of one to two years' duration from their teaching positions. All courses are delivered face-to-face in the classroom on campus.

September is the entry point into the program, but exceptions may be made with highly qualified applicants.

Program Requirements

Program Checklists and Requirements

Students must satisfy all requirements listed on the program checklist. (Credit or waiver of some courses may also be allowed by transfer of equivalent graduate courses taken previously.)

Conferral of the MA is granted following completion of the internship, capstone and ePortfolio. Degrees are officially conferred twice annually, in May and December. To participate in the fall convocation, all work must be completed by September 30th.

Trinity Western Seminary and ACTS Seminaries:

A Collaborative Graduate School of Theological Studies at TWU

Trinity Western Seminary (TWS) is the non-denominational seminary of Trinity Western University with a special relationship with the Evangelical Free Church of Canada (EFCC). The Associated Canadian Theological Schools (ACTS) Society is a collaborative effort of four seminaries (Canadian Baptist Seminary, Mennonite Brethren Biblical Seminary, Northwest Baptist Seminary, and Trinity Western Seminary) working together to provide high quality graduate theological studies. With Trinity Western Seminary, the ACTS schools constitute a Graduate School of Theological Studies of Trinity Western University. Degrees in the consortium are offered conjointly, that is, by both the University and the participating seminary together. In this way, ACTS students receive the best of university education and professional seminary training. TWU maintains membership in the Association of Universities and Colleges of Canada (AUCC) and ACTS is an accredited member in the Association of Theological Schools in the United States and Canada (ATS).

Trinity Western Seminary/ACTS Degree Programs

Graduate Program in Pastoral Ministries (M.Div.)

Our Master of Divinity (M.Div.) is a three-year program that develops godly leaders who have a love and compassion for others growing out of their strong commitment to Jesus Christ and the Christian scriptures. A combination of classroom and church-based environments are utilized to equip graduates with the spiritual and personal maturity, biblical understanding, theological knowledge, and practical skills and competencies to plant, develop, and lead healthy churches.

At TWS, students can take the ACTS Master of Divinity program either as the M.Div. Classic, the traditional graduate form of study, with classes and strong mentored field experience, or as the new, church-based cooperative Immerse M.DIV. model, which focuses more on mastering program outcomes within a "serve and learn" context. Additionally, TWS M.Div. students may opt for an English Bible plan of study without Greek or Hebrew studies.

Track Options for the Classic M. Div.

Options:

Apologetics, Biblical Studies; Chaplaincy; Church Ministries; Theological Studies.

Graduate Program in Marriage and Family Therapy (MAMFT)

The Master of Arts in Marriage and Family Therapy (MAMFT), a 68 semester hour program, is designed to produce professional counselors with effective marriage and family therapy skills, committed to responding to spiritual and emotional needs by developing a biblically oriented, theoretical and practical understanding of human nature and the helping process. It is the perspective of the program that counselling as a vocational calling is grounded in clinical excellence, the compassion of Jesus for those in need, and the teaching of the New Testament that offers healing for the whole person in Christ.

For program information see ACTS program website

Graduate Program in Theological Studies (MTS)

The Master of Theological Studies (MTS) offered by TWS with its ACTS partners is a flexible two-year research-oriented program of 50 semester hours designed for those whose sense of vocation includes teaching and scholarship, who are planning to pursue doctoral studies, or who are interested in advanced training and knowledge for their own educational purposes. The program offers a choice of seven specializations, and includes opportunities to study in a mentoring relationship with faculty.

Track Options:

New Testament; Old Testament; Theology; Church History; Septuagint; Apologetics and Cross-Cultural Studies.

For program information see ACTS program website

Graduate Program in Applied Linguistics And Exegesis (MLE)

The Wycliffe related Canadian Institute of Linguistics (CanIL) has been on TWU's campus since 1985. TWS Master of Applied Linguistics and Exegesis (MLE) offered at ACTS is a two-to-three-year program designed to provide a thorough knowledge of the techniques of applied linguistics and biblical exegesis. Exegetical skills are developed through the study of biblical languages and intensive interaction with the biblical text. Graduates are prepared for effective cross-cultural communication and ministry with focus in Bible translation or language development. This degree program is offered in cooperation with the Canada Institute of Linguistics.

For program information see ACTS program website

Graduate Program in Christian Studies (MACS)

One of the most popular degrees for TWS students studying at ACTS is the Master of Arts in Christian Studies (MACS), a two-to-three-year program designed to assist a person who possesses an undergraduate degree or equivalent to develop a coherent, biblical worldview, strengthen his or her spiritual disciplines, learn significant leadership skills, and demonstrate a measure of expertise in theological and ministry disciplines. Graduation requires the completion of a graduating essay.

Track Options:

Biblical Studies; Theological Studies; Chaplaincy and Pastoral Care; Christian Leadership Development; Church History; Church Planting Leadership; Contemporary Apologetics; Cross-Cultural Ministry; Pastoral/Church Ministries; Global Leadership (Korean Language).

For program information see ACTS program website

Graduate Program in Theological Studies (M.Th.)

The Master of Theology (M.Th.) at TWS/ACTS is a specialized, post-M.Div. research-oriented program of 30 semester hours. The program is designed for those whose sense of vocation includes teaching and scholarship, who are planning to go on to doctoral studies, or who are interested in acquiring advanced training and knowledge in a specialized area to enhance church-based ministries or to enrich a teaching role. The program offers a choice of seven specializations, and includes opportunity to study in a mentoring relationship with faculty.

Track Options:

New Testament; Old Testament; Theology; Church History; Septuagint; Apologetics; and Cross- Cultural Ministries.

For program information see ACTS program website

Postgraduate Program in Doctorate of Pastoral Ministry (D.Min.)

Trinity Western Seminary/ACTS' Doctor of Ministry degree is a professional development degree designed for people who have earned a Master of Divinity or the equivalent and who are actively engaged in pastoral ministry or evangelism. The program focuses upon two broad areas of ministry: spiritual formation and leadership development. It gives significant attention to ministry practice and theological integration. Applicants must complete at least three years of full-time ministry after completing an M.Div., before pursuing admission to the D.Min. program. As an in-service degree, students must be involved in regular ministry during the time of enrolment. Courses are offered in one week modules, three times per year. The primary focus remains on the final and significant "Project" which emerges from the ministry setting of the student. The program can be completed in four to five years.

For program information see ACTS program website

Graduate Diploma in Christian Studies (DCS)

One way to begin to explore theological education for older students is to enroll in the Diploma in Christian Studies at TWS. The one-year (27–32 sem. hrs.) Graduate Diploma in Christian Studies provides students who are actively engaged in ministry and witness with a quality master's level theological and biblical education combined with advanced integration in practice. This program is also designed for those wishing refreshment and upgrading of academic and professional life experience. The Graduate Diploma offers flexibility to meet individual in-service needs, especially for those students desiring a non-thesis program. If students work closely with their advisors, a large part of this program could be applicable to a more advanced degree. An undergraduate degree or its equivalent is normally required for admission.

Track Options:

Apologetics/Defending your Faith; Chaplaincy and Pastoral Care; Church History; Church Ministries; Church Planting; Cross-cultural Ministries; Women's Ministry; Children's Ministry; Korean Worldview Studies.

Note: A track is comprised of at least 9 semester hours of course work in a specific area of study.

For program information see ACTS program website

Admissions Information

All Trinity Western Seminary degree programs normally require an undergraduate degree or equivalent as a prerequisite for admission. Because the particular nature of the bachelor's degree may vary, applicants should consult the specific description of each degree program. In addition, each candidate must show evidence of personal faith in Jesus Christ as Lord and of submission to His will, as well as the positive recommendation of his or her church congregation. All TWS students must agree to the Community Covenant of the University and signify this by their signature on it. TWS admits students of any race, nationality, or ethnic origin to all the rights, privileges, programs, and activities generally made available to students within ACTS.

Trinity Western Seminary/ACTS Application Procedures

Trinity Western Seminary, as the seminary of Trinity Western University, welcomes students from all denominations. Evangelical Free affiliated students are particularly sought after, but 80% of TWS students are from a variety of many faith traditions—which we love!

Seminary affiliation is up to the choice of each student, and Trinity Western Seminary, with its broad Evangelical tradition and unique connection to Trinity Western University, is the largest participating school within ACTS. All applicants should also note carefully the specific admissions requirements of each program.

Prospective TWS students should apply at actsseminaries.com, submitting all educational and other documents as required. The application fee is payable on submission of the application. It is the policy of ACTS to welcome students from other denominations into its programs as space permits.

The Admissions Committee considers each application together with the other relevant documents and informs the candidates of their status as soon as possible. At the direction of the committee, candidates may be asked to attend a personal interview as part of the admissions process.

Seminary Graduation Application

- 1) All students must apply to graduate by completing an application for graduation available online at twu.ca/graduation
- 2) The Graduation Application deadline for all seminary students is October 31.
 - a) This deadline applies to all students who wish to participate in the graduation ceremony in April of the following year. Students who complete their degree outside of this timeline are encouraged to apply so that a conferral and conferral date can be determined that may differ from the ceremony dates.
 - b) Students who apply after this deadline will not be permitted to participate in the graduation ceremony.
 - c) Students who may not be eligible to participate in the ceremony may still be eligible for a May 31 conferral.
- 3) Students who apply for graduation on or before October 31 of each year will be deemed eligible to participate in the April graduation ceremony on the following basis:
 - a) Students may have only one course remaining, after registration for the semester of graduation, to be completed in their program. MA in Marriage and Family Therapy students are allowed an additional four semester hours of internship outstanding at the time of graduation.
 - b) Summative projects (thesis, graduating essay or applied project) must be deemed passable by the faculty no later than March 31 of that same year.
 - c) A minimum cumulative GPA is required for graduation. See specific program requirements for more information.

- In all cases, ALL grades must be received and posted before a student is deemed to have completed their degree. Students who are completing a thesis must submit their final edited and bound copy to the ACTS Deans office before a conferral date will be determined. The two primary conferral dates each year are May 31 and December 31.

Affiliate Institutions

Trinity Western University partners with several affiliate institutions. These partnerships create opportunities for both parties to fulfil their mission in ways that might not otherwise be possible.

Canada Institute of Linguistics (CanIL)

Danny Foster, President

Since 1985, Trinity Western University has been the site for the Canada Institute of Linguistics (a training partner of Wycliffe Bible Translators and SIL International). CanIL offers linguistics courses in all three academic terms. The nine-week summer session runs from mid-June to mid-August. CanIL cooperates with TWU in offering both undergraduate and graduate degree programs. Undergraduate students may choose a B.A. with a major, concentration, or minor in Applied Linguistics. Graduate students may choose either a Master of Applied Linguistics and Exegesis (offered in cooperation with ACTS Seminaries) or a Master of Arts in Linguistics (offered in cooperation with Trinity Western's School of Graduate Studies).

Purpose Statement

The Canada Institute of Linguistics trains linguists, translators, and trainers so that all people may have access to the Bible in their own language. The courses at CanIL are designed to teach skills necessary for learning and describing unwritten languages and for the work of language development and translation. The courses deal with general principles that are basic to all languages and are illustrated by material from many of the world's languages. Students benefit greatly by being part of a community where most faculty members have had years of experience in linguistic fieldwork. CanIL graduates are well prepared to serve anywhere in the world in language development and Bible translation. Graduates of CanIL have also gone on to a variety of careers including speech language pathology, TESOL (teaching English to speakers of other languages), teaching, multicultural and bilingual education, and many others.

Undergraduate Course Offerings

The following are CanIL's undergraduate course offerings (the 200 and 300 level courses function as prerequisites for the 400 level courses):

LING 101	Introduction to Linguistics
LING 210	Language and Society (3 sem. hrs)
LING 310	Articulatory Phonetics
LING 330	Phonological Analysis
LING 360	Morphosyntax I (3 sem. hrs)

LING 697	Linguistics Thesis I
LING 698	Linguistics Thesis II
LING 699	Linguistics Continuing Registration

The CanIL Summer Session

Prospective students should have completed two years of post-secondary education to qualify for admission to the summer session. Mature students with equivalent experience are also considered. The summer session is especially encouraged for those fulfilling pre-requisites before entering either graduate program.

TWU students wishing to take CanIL summer courses should register directly through CanIL using the online application at summer.canil.ca, preferably by May of the year they wish to begin the summer session. Students requiring housing for the summer may contact the CanIL admissions coordinator at caniladmissions@twu.ca.

Catholic Pacific College

Christine Jones, Ph.D., President

Catholic Pacific College (CPC) is an independent Catholic college that functions as an approved teaching centre at Trinity Western University for a number of TWU courses. The University's Undergraduate Academic Council approves courses included in this arrangement. The appropriate school or faculty dean gives oversight to the quality of instruction and approves the credentials of all instructors involved in the courses.

Catholic Pacific's Mission

Catholic Pacific is a liberal arts college born from the heart of the Catholic Church and its rich intellectual tradition.

At Catholic Pacific College, while studying imaginative literature, philosophy, theology, history, science, the arts and various media, students are taught how to engage with the Church's tradition, and with the entire heritage of western civilization, in order to evaluate what human beings in preceding generations have counted as wisdom, and in an endeavor to "sift all things and hold fast to what is good" (1 Thess 5:21). Yet, at Catholic Pacific, our attention is not just on the past and on what preceding generations have taught. We believe that it is essential that students examine everything they have received from the Catholic tradition in such a way as to make that inheritance their own. As Pope Benedict XVI said in Deus Caritas Est, "Being Christian is not the result of an ethical choice or a lofty idea, but the encounter with an event, a person, which gives life a new horizon and a decisive direction." Hence, a Catholic educational institution is first and foremost a "place to encounter the living God who in Jesus Christ reveals his transforming love and truth." A Christianity that is a lived experience of all that is beautiful, good, and true, touches the deepest longing of our hearts, and can transform and make fruitful our lives. Hence, Catholic Pacific College's mission is to help all whom we meet develop a consciousness of Christ's presence in the here and now, so that, transformed, we can be faithful to the Church's mission in service to the Gospel.

Certificates

CPC Catholic Liberal Arts Certificate

Successful completion of eight CPC Catholic Liberal Arts courses (24 sem. hrs.).

CPC Catholic Theological Studies Certificate

Successful completion of eight selected CPC Religious Studies and Philosophy courses (24 sem. hrs.). See catholicpacific.ca/courses for specific courses pertaining to this certificate.

CPC Catholic Education Certificate

Successful completion of eight selected CPC courses qualifies a student for this certificate, designed to give Catholic students a solid background in the heritage of their faith. This knowledge is an integral part of their preparation for the option of teaching in Catholic schools. See catholicpacific.ca/courses for specific courses pertaining to this certificate.

Courses

TWU core and elective requirements described in the specific commentary of each of the various undergraduate majors, concentrations, or minors are met by sections of CPC courses. CPC offers both sections of TWU courses as well as unique CPC-TWU courses.

Catholic Pacific College Sections of TWU Courses

MCOM 172 CP	Introduction to Interpersonal Communications
ENGL 103 CP	Introduction to Fiction
ENGL 104 CP	Introduction
RELS 101 CP	Introduction to Old Testament Studies
RELS 102 CP	Introduction to New Testament Studies
RELS 160 CP	Introduction to Theology
RELS 224 CP	New Testament Theology
RELS 465 CP	Influential Thinkers in the Western Christian Tradition

See this Calendar's Course Descriptions section for more information.

See Course Descriptions for information on each course. Refer to the TWU timetable or the CPC website, catholicpacific.ca, for information on when courses are offered. All TWU students should register for CPC courses through TWU's course registration process.

Minor in Christianity and Culture: Catholic Studies

A minor in Catholic Studies consists of 24 sem. hrs. in religious studies and philosophy courses at Catholic Pacific College, of which at least 12 sem. hrs. must be at 300 or 400 level.

Program Checklists and Requirements:

Coastal Pacific Aviation/UFV Aviation Studies

Since September 1993, Trinity Western University has had a cooperative agreement with Coastal Pacific Aviation (CPA) and the University of the Fraser Valley (UFV) in Abbotsford, BC, for students who wish to combine quality aviation training with academic studies towards a university degree (baccalaureate) or an Associate of Arts diploma.

Aviation subjects are taught by Coastal Pacific instructors. University academic courses are taught by professors at Trinity Western University. Students study part time at Trinity Western University while completing two years of aviation course work at Coastal Pacific. The Aviation program credits are transferable towards either an Associate of Arts diploma (two years of study) or a bachelor's degree (four years of study) at Trinity Western as a special concentration in aviation consisting of approximately 26 sem. hrs. of aviation courses at CPA/UFV (depending on specialization). An additional 4 sem. hrs. of upper level TWU aviation courses are granted, upon completing all CPA/UFV aviation requirements, resulting in a concentration (30 sem. hrs.) in aviation. Students who pursue a baccalaureate degree are required to do at least one other concentration. If that concentration is chosen from the Faculty of Natural and Applied Sciences, a BSc is granted; otherwise, a BA is awarded.

The Aviation program through Coastal Pacific is designed to cover the academic and flying components essential to the preparation of commercial pilots for entry-level positions in the aviation industry. The program consists of training for a commercial licence followed by advanced training, generally including multi-engine and instrument training, but with an optional flight instructor rating. The program is rigorous and requires a high standard of academic and flight performance. Program requirements are meant to protect the applicant's investment by enhancing the professional environment in which he or she trains. Students need to make direct application to CPA for acceptance into the program. Inquiries should be made well in advance of intended commencement. Acceptance is not guaranteed.

It should be noted that responsibility for ensuring the academic quality of Coastal Pacific's aviation courses rests with the University of the Fraser Valley, not Trinity Western. Similarly, all liability exposure for the Aviation program rests solely with Coastal Pacific/University of the Fraser Valley. Trinity Western merely grants 30 sem. hrs. of transfer credit for Coastal Pacific's Aviation program towards either its Associate of Arts diploma in aviation or one of its baccalaureate degrees.

The program objective is to develop pilots who are well-trained in the manual skills required to fly an aircraft, who have a comprehensive academic background to help them understand complex aircraft systems, and who have the interpersonal skills to work effectively in a team.

ESLI Language Centre at TWU

Barbara Konrad, Director

English as a Second Language International (ESLI) partners with Trinity Western University to provide intensive academic English preparation for university-bound international students. The goal of the ESLI program is to teach the standard academic English skills students need to succeed in university. International students not intending full-time study at the University also benefit from the program's multi-skilled approach to language acquisition. International students can apply for the English Only program or undergraduate and graduate degree programs, regardless of English competency at the time of application.

Admission Requirements

1. English Only students must be at least 18 years of age
2. Applicants for undergraduate studies must have:
 - a) graduated from an accredited secondary school with a Canadian Grade 12 equivalent
 - b) completed four academic subjects (e.g., math, history, science) in their final year of high school with a minimum Canadian GPA of 2.3

Document Requirements

All ESLI applicants must submit a completed ESLI application (including a signed Community Covenant statement). In addition, any student planning to study in a TWU degree program must include the following:

- Undergraduate Studies: official original transcripts from all schools attended, including high school and college or university
- Graduate Studies: official original transcripts from all college and universities attended and a separate application for the School of Graduate Studies

ESLI Student Housing

As university students, applicants to the ESLI program are eligible to live in TWU campus housing with North American roommates. Students who prefer to live with Canadian families may do so through the ESLI Homestay Program. ESLI students 21 years of age and over may choose to make their own housing arrangements. The ESLI office makes every effort to assist in this process.

International Student Applications

All students whose first language is not English or who have not completed the majority of their schooling in English should refer to the Undergraduate Admissions, Registration, and Enrolment section of this Calendar to determine eligibility for direct entry into a TWU degree program. Students who do not meet the University’s language requirements may receive an offer of admission to TWU conditional upon the successful completion of the ESLI program.

Conditional admission is granted for:

1. Undergraduate Studies
2. School of Graduate Studies

Types of Programs

Upon arrival, international students are evaluated and placed in one of five levels. Each ESLI level provides students with 25 hours of classroom instruction per week. In addition to academic reading, writing, listening, and speaking courses, ESLI programming also includes conversation partners, computer-assisted language learning, and field studies. Advanced level ESLI students participate in the University Bridge program. This program enables students to take university credit courses as part of their ESLI studies. The Bridge program has been developed to provide maximum opportunity for undergraduate students to prepare for university.

Students who have been conditionally admitted to a TWU graduate program are required to complete one semester of a Pre-Masters Program (PMP). The PMP focuses on research, writing, and presentation skills specific to the student’s area of study. MBA bound students will also take a GMAT course if they have not already completed the GMAT requirement for MBA admission.

Students may enrol in the ESLI program throughout the semester. However, students arriving six weeks into the term or later are placed into regular academic ESLI classes and are given a general comprehensive final exam to evaluate their language progress. When successful, students progress to the next level.

Summit Pacific College

Summit Pacific College (SPC) is an affiliate of Trinity Western University. Under this arrangement, students may transfer between institutions (see course equivalency chart), elect to participate in the SPC-TWU Joint Program (two years of study at SPC followed by two years of study at TWU), or take the University Transfer Certificate program (see Certificates in the TWU Extension section of this Calendar) concurrent with their SPC program.

Affiliation Course Equivalencies

The TWU Undergraduate Academic Council has approved TWU course equivalencies for the following Summit Pacific College courses:

In fields such as English, history, psychology, and sociology, the total minimum required for a TWU bachelor's degree is 122 sem. hrs., of which 42 sem. hrs. must be 300 or 400 level courses.

*TWU concentration (30 sem. hrs.) in Biblical Studies requires that a minimum of half of the upper level requirements (i.e., 6 sem. hrs. of the 12) be taken at TWU.

Courses in this category count towards a TWU degree as part of this program only. They are not transferable otherwise.

Additional Curricular Opportunities

Blaauw Eco Forest

Christopher Hall, Outdoor Laboratory Supervisor

The Blaauw Eco Forest was donated to Trinity Western University in the fall of 2013 by the Blaauw family in memory of Thomas Blaauw, a local farmer who passed away in 2012. The forest is preserved for public use, education, and research. It can be accessed from a trailhead located on 257A Street, just north of 84th Avenue.

The Blaauw Eco Forest consists of 25 acres located in Glen Valley in Langley Township just south of the Fraser River. It is found within the Western Hemlock biogeoclimactic zone, which is characterized by three layers of plant canopy and mature stands of red cedar, Douglas-fir, and hemlock. Smaller stands of big leaf maple and ancient cottonwood are scattered throughout. The forest sits on top of a glacial moraine; the soils consists of gravel, medium stones, sand and coarse debris with a medium organic layer on top. This forest has unique microhabitats such as various wetlands and mixed forest communities, which can foster a greater richness of plant and animal species.

Rare species that have been identified in the forest include the northern red-legged frog, the wandering salamander, and the Pacific sideband snail. The Blaauw Eco Forest also plays host to larger wildlife such as coyotes, barred owls, bald eagles, great blue herons, black-tailed deer, raccoons, black bears, bobcats, and garter snakes. This relatively small remnant of the type of forest that once covered much of the Fraser Valley provides excellent opportunities for student research projects and field experiences associated with Trinity Western courses. It is also a place for the public to enjoy a quiet, serene walk in God's creation. We are grateful to the Blaauw family and also for many community members such as WOLF (Watchers of Langley Forests) who made it possible to preserve this unique habitat. Visitors are asked to abide by the rule "leave only footprints, take only pictures" so that this beautiful corner of God's creation can continue to flourish for generations to come.

Choirs, Vocal Ensembles, and Instrumental Ensembles

Non-music students are encouraged to participate in one or more of the choirs, vocal ensembles, or instrumental ensembles under the auspices of the Department of Music in the School of the Arts, Media + Culture.

Co-operative Education

Putting Education To Work

Trinity Western offers Co-operative Education (Co-op) opportunities. A Co-op enables students to gain career-related work experience in a real work environment. Students participate in a minimum of three work terms, to a maximum of five work terms, integrated with their academic program. Co-Operative Education allows students to explore career choices while making valuable contributions to the marketplace. Participating employers include corporations, government, industry, small business, non-profit groups, Christian ministries, and professional service firms.

Admission To The Program

Interested Co-op students, including US and international students, should make early contact with their program director. Students must be enrolled in full-time studies in an approved program at Trinity Western to participate in a Co-op and have earned less than 90 sem. hrs. A minimum GPA is required.

A completed application form and an entrance interview are required. College transfer students who have participated in Co-op programs elsewhere may be credited with the semesters already taken. TWU presently offers Co-op programs in Biology, Business Administration (Accounting, Finance, Human Resource Management, Marketing, Small Business Management), Chemistry, Media and Communication, Computing Science, English, Environmental Studies, Geography, Human Kinetics, International Studies, Linguistics, Music, Nursing, Political Studies, Psychology, Religious Studies, and Theatre. It is recommended that students take Career Prep 100.

Benefits To Students

Co-op students acquire 12 to 20 months of practical work experience related to their major interests within a field of study

During the program, students develop self-confidence, leadership abilities, and interpersonal and communication skills

Work terms allow students to realistically evaluate interests, values, skills, educational needs, and future employment opportunities

Co-op programs help to build a professional network

Competitive wages paid during work terms may assist with financing educational costs

Co-Op Work Term

Each work term represents 400 to 640 hours of discipline-related work that may be fulfilled through one or a combination of the following options:

- Traditional full-time co-op placement during an academic semester or the summer
- 12 to 20-month full-time co-op internship

Depending on career goals and availability of assignments, students may work for one employer or a number of organizations throughout the duration of their co-op program. These options allow students to customize a co-op program to fit their goals and the needs of interested organizations.

Definition of Work Term

Appropriate work opportunities are identified by either the co-op program or by students according to the following criteria:

- Each work site is to be approved by the program coordinator as a suitable learning and working situation
- The student is to be engaged in productive work rather than merely observing
- The student is to receive remuneration for the work performed
- The student's progress on the job is to be monitored by the co-op program coordinator and evaluated by the employer
- The student is to complete a work term report at the end of each work term
- The program coordinator must approve all co-op work terms before they commence. Registration for each work term must be submitted by the add/drop date for each semester

Students are allowed to complete a maximum of five work terms using the following course numbers that indicate the level of the work term (e.g., COOP 110 for the first work term): COOP 110, 210, 310, 410, 420. These courses are listed on a student's transcript with a Pass/Fail notation. Upon successful completion of the co-op work terms and Career Prep 100, students receive a Co-op Certificate. Failure to successfully complete a co-op work term terminates participation in the Co-operative Education Program.

International Students

International students must apply for and receive employment authorization before they commence a co-op work term in Canada. Students must maintain continuous student status to remain in the co-op program.

Program Objectives

Individual assistance is also given through counselling, orientation, and evaluation so that students gain the most benefit from the program. In general, program objectives include:

- Awareness of personal qualifications and their relation to work opportunities
- Ability to look for work and to succeed on the job
- Ability to understand employer expectations
- Development of self-confidence and an adaptable attitude towards a constantly changing work environment
- Direct application of classroom learning in an employment setting

Crow's Nest Ecological Research Area

*The Crow's Nest Ecological Research Area (CNERA) consists of 72.7 acres of ecologically significant land located on Salt Spring Island in the Southern Gulf Islands of B.C. It was donated to Trinity Western University in 2000. Soon after, it was discovered that in addition to breathtaking views, the property contained some of the few remaining Garry oak (Quercus garryana) meadows in British Columbia. These meadows and their associated communities contain more plant species than any other terrestrial ecosystem in coastal B.C., as well as a multitude of other creatures, many not found elsewhere in Canada.*

The purpose of the TWU Crow's Nest Ecological Research Area is fourfold: 1) to encourage people to reflect on their relationship with nature (community) and God (ethics); 2) to conserve and restore the integrity of the unique ecological regions entrusted to TWU; 3) to research methods of inventorying, studying and interacting with natural systems; and 4) to educate others from a Christian perspective about humanity's responsibility to nature.

The CNERA is not open to the public. Since 2001, TWU professors and students have been involved in research projects on the property. The goal is to continue to contribute to the understanding of this unique ecosystem, enabling TWU to manage the property in such a way as to keep it ecologically healthy for future generations to enjoy. Students enrolled in programs such as Environmental Studies, Biology, Geography, and Chemistry may visit the CNERA on field trips and have the opportunity to gain valuable field experience through student research positions during the summer.

Directed Studies

If a course is a required component of a student's program and the student has valid reasons for not being able to take it when offered, students may apply to take the course by directed study but only during a semester when the course is not offered on campus. Students must apply during the first week of the semester to allow sufficient time for the instructor and the Office of the Provost to process the application prior to the add/drop deadline. (Application forms are available from the Office of the Registrar.) Directed study courses are normally available to third and fourth year students only. Students are allowed a maximum of 12 sem. hrs. of directed study in their degree program and may not normally take more than one directed study course per semester.

Ecosystem Study Area

Christopher Hall, Outdoor Laboratory Supervisor

Encompassing all undeveloped natural areas of the Trinity Western University main campus, as well as 57 acres across Glover Road, the Ecosystem Study Area (ESA) is a beautiful example of God's creation, providing areas for recreation, relaxation, and outdoor education. While specific university course work and research projects make use of virtually all of the 100+ acres, the Salmon River Trail, which runs through woodlands, a pond area, and along the Salmon River, is the primary area open to the campus community and public.

The purpose of the Ecosystem Study Area is threefold: 1) to provide an area open to all for recreation and appreciation of nature; 2) to serve as a living outdoor laboratory for university course work and public education; and 3) to serve as a creation stewardship site for protection of plant and wildlife species.

Hundreds of species, including a number of rare and endangered species, have been catalogued in the ESA, and ongoing research efforts continue to add to this total. The Salmon River and its tributaries comprise the largest Coho salmon-producing watershed on the Fraser River. Additionally, the ESA is home to the endangered Oregon Forest snail, supporting the largest known populations of this species in Canada. Trinity Western University has become the lead research institution studying this species, through a World Wildlife Fund grant to the Environmental Studies Program. Splendid examples of mature Pacific Northwest temperate rainforest species exist in some portions of the ESA, with highly productive salmon-bearing streams throughout. While of obvious value to Biology, Environmental Studies, and other science departments, the ESA is also of interest to non-science departments as an historic area, a fitness course, and an inspirational area for literary and fine arts students.

In the interest of serving the multiple uses of the ESA, certain areas have been set aside for general public use, while other areas are left in a natural state, accessed for research of special projects only by permission from the campus Ecological Stewardship Committee. It is intended that this division of public and restricted areas strikes a balance between heavy impact use and conservation/education use. To that end, the following set of rules has been developed for the Ecosystem Study Area:

- Stay on designated trails
- Leave all vegetation and animals in place
- No motorized vehicles, bicycles, horseback riding, or pets

A group of volunteer stewards conducts patrols, research projects, and maintenance projects in the ESA throughout the year. For information about stewarding opportunities, to arrange a group tour, or simply to learn more about the ESA, contact the Outdoor Laboratory Supervisor, Christopher Hall, or visit the Ecosystem Study Area website at twu.ca/ecosystem.

Laurentian Leadership Centre program (Ottawa)

The Laurentian Leadership Centre program provides a full semester of credits (15 sem. hrs.) every fall and spring. It is designed to give third and fourth year students, as well as alumni, experience relevant to a wide variety of careers including international relations, business, communications, history, politics, non-governmental organizations, and public service. All students in this program must complete a supervised internship related to their major and up to three courses. The program operates on the semester system although the dates may vary from Trinity Western's regular calendar. The cost of the program is comparable to a full academic program while living on campus.

Certificate In Leadership and Applied Public Affairs

The program and curriculum described above may be laddered towards a bachelor's degree as a component of a degree, or may be taken as an independent certificate. For students who have already completed a recognized bachelor's degree, this program may be taken as a Graduate Certificate in Leadership and Applied Public Affairs, with advanced study requirements. Visiting and non-degree seeking learners may access these programs through TWU Extension (see TWU Extension section of this Calendar for contact information). Receiving a certificate requires successful completion of the entire program, a minimum GPA of 1.7 in each course, and the recommendation of the director of the Laurentian Leadership Centre.

Curriculum

Students take up to three courses in the morning. Each course is designed to introduce students to experts in the field who are not available on the Langley campus. The courses also enable students to see how their Christian faith can and does impact public life.

The three courses are:

POLS/HIST/ SOC 391	Canadian Governmental Leadership
POLS/SOCI 392	Ethics and Public Affairs
POLS/IDIS 393	Law, Public Policy, and Cultural Change (an IDIS 400 equivalent course).

Students who take the three courses and the accompanying internship are eligible, upon satisfactory completion of the program, for a Certificate in Leadership and Applied Public Affairs or for a Graduate Certificate in Leadership and Applied Public Affairs.

For personal and academic reasons, some students may elect to take only two of the three courses. These students are free to remain at two courses or take an online directed study course, or attend a class at either Carleton University or the University of Ottawa. Students who elect this option are not eligible for the certificates. While the courses offered at the Laurentian Leadership Centre are in the areas of Political Studies, International Studies, History, Business, and Communications, students not completing a major in one of these areas are encouraged to take these courses as electives. Students should consult their department chair as to how the internship credits may be counted towards their major. As well, students in Business or Communication programs should inquire about options to fulfil revised program requirements by taking courses at the Laurentian Leadership Centre. Students completing the Human Services Certificate should inquire of the practicum coordinator about fulfilling practicum requirements at the LLC. To benefit from this unique learning experience, students need some understanding of Canadian politics and government. For that reason, the course pertaining to this, POLS 234, is offered each semester at TWU and online during the summer and is required for admission to the Centre. Business students may be exempted from this requirement if they have taken BUSI 345 and 346. Knowledge of Canadian history and the ability to speak French are assets. For admission requirements, see the contact information below.

Internship

Students select an internship worth 6 sem. hrs. of credit towards their major. Placements have included working in a Member of Parliament's office, political party office, governmental department or agency, national and local media outlets, a business office (in accordance with a student's special interests), or non-governmental agency. There are a variety of internship sites from which to choose that would help to advance the student's career interests. The internships occur every afternoon and some full days and offer an opportunity to learn from experts and meet leaders in the field. These internships provide a broader learning experience than what students would experience if they were employees of an organization. Internships are designed to show the student the inner workings of the organization and how that organization interfaces with others. For internship credits, students choose one set (6 sem. hrs.) from:

BUSI 395	Internship (3 sem. hrs.)
BUSI 396	Internship (3 sem. hrs.)
MCOM 391	Internship (1 sem. hr.)
MCOM 392	Internship (2 sem. hrs.)
MCOM 393	Internship (3 sem. hrs.)
HIST 315	Internship (3 sem. hrs.)
HIST 316	Internship (3 sem. hrs.)
POLS 395	Internship (3 sem. hrs.)
POLS 396	Internship (3 sem. hrs.)

Students in HKIN, Human Services, or Geography and Environment may arrange with the practicum supervisor in their department to complete a practicum in that major with permission from the Director and the practicum supervisor.

Location

The program operates from the famous Booth House, later known as the prestigious Laurentian Club, a unique heritage site located in the heart of Ottawa. It is located at 252 Metcalfe Street, which leads directly to Parliament Hill.

Omada Teambuilding

Omada Teambuilding is part of Trinity Western University, which has a 50-year legacy of leadership development. Omada Teambuilding, which caters to school groups, corporate teams, sports teams, youth groups, non-profit organizations, students, and others, seeks to bring out the best in each person, while building cohesive and energized teams. Through shared experiences, such as our high ropes course, team development programs, voyageur canoeing, rock climbing, caving, hiking, snowshoeing, and orienteering, groups must learn to co-operate, trust, problem-solve, and communicate in the pursuit of a common goal. A time of reflection following the events revitalizes people's perspectives on team dynamics and individual strengths and weaknesses. Every Omada Teambuilding event is individually tailored to suit the group's specific needs and desires. Each activity is directly relevant to the group, and a group never has the same experience twice. Students have the opportunity to experience Omada's programs through their classes, student leadership positions, or by working as facilitators for Omada Teambuilding.

Contact the Director of Omada Teambuilding for bookings and further information.

Spartans Athletics

In full concert with, and support of, the University mission statement, Spartans Athletics develops godly Christian leaders equipped to succeed in dynamic environments, persistently advancing to the edge of their abilities, shaping and transforming sport and culture, and growing in their personal relationship with Jesus Christ.

Spartans Athletics is characterized by:

Transformation: Spartans Athletics transforms lives. With a pervasive climate of whole-person development, Spartans Athletics works intentionally with student athletes to enable them to become great competitors, committed scholars, mature Christian leaders, and full participants in their communities upon graduation.

Servant-Leadership: Spartans Athletics has outstanding leadership and leadership development. Spartans Athletics is led by a highly effective team of servant leaders who reflect TWU's mission and values and who are committed to learning, modeling, and teaching effective teamwork and servant leadership.

Collaboration: Spartans Athletics is a valued partner. Spartans Athletics works collaboratively and proactively as a strategic partner with every TWU department to support the goals and initiatives of others.

Recognition: Spartans Athletics is well recognized. Spartans teams and staff are recognized locally and nationally for their outstanding model of higher education athletics and for positive contributions to local and non-local communities.

Trinity Western University offers a first-class athletics program in a Christian environment. The University is a member of Canadian Interuniversity Sport (CIS) and competes regionally in the Canada West division with the following universities: University of Victoria, University of British Columbia, University of the Fraser Valley, Thompson Rivers University, University of Northern British Columbia, University of Calgary, Mount Royal University, University of Alberta, MacEwan University, University of Lethbridge, University of Saskatchewan, University of Regina, Brandon University, University of Winnipeg, and University of Manitoba.

Complete Champion Approach

The Complete Champion Approach focuses on developing student athletes as whole persons (spiritual, physical, intellectual, emotional, and social). The Complete Champion Approach helps student athletes use their God-given talents and intellect to live a life of significance, experiencing true personal success and powerfully influencing their family and their community.

Partnering with other departments of the University, Spartans Athletics intentionally strives to develop the Complete Champion in five areas:

Athletic Development

- technical skill development, high-level competition, strength and conditioning, nutrition, sport psychology, and video analysis

Spiritual Development

- discipleship, mentoring, sport ministry, national training camp, Bible studies, Playbook (Sunday Night Alive), prayer teams, winter retreat, and short-term cross-cultural mission trips

Academic Development

- athletes have access to an academic coach, the Learning Resource Centre, study hall/ study skills, tutoring, advising, technical support, and a Collegium membership

Leadership Development

- Student-Athlete Leadership Team (SALT) leadership opportunities, professional development for SALT and team captains, and community service projects

Personal Development

- life skills seminars, career planning, time management seminars, counseling service, special speakers bureau, and Toastmasters

Other Services

There are many components to the Spartans Athletics infrastructure. Developing Complete Champions (well-rounded, well-developed graduates) requires the coordinated effort of many athletic services, including:

Sport Therapy

Under the leadership of a certified therapist and in concert with campus health workers, a comprehensive rehabilitative programs (prevention of injuries), strength and conditioning program, injury assessment, and rehabilitative programs take place year round. More than 15 student therapists receive on-the-job training and certification and assist with the delivery of therapy services to 120 student athletes.

Event Management

Under the leadership of the Events Manager, many students gain experience hosting campus and community spectators at 80 sporting events each year. More than 16,000 people watch Trinity Western's home games every year.

Athletics Marketing, Promotions, and Advertising

Athletics marketing, promotions, and advertising is responsible for raising the profile of Spartans Athletics in the business community and supporting the efforts of student-athletes. These business partnerships include sponsoring signage in the gymnasium and on the soccer fields, game-night sponsorships, and program advertising. It also hosts the annual golf tournament that raises funds towards scholarships for student-athletes and the Complete Champion Approach.

Sports Information

The sports information director, student assistants, and head coaches provide coordination, guidance, and direction to the public relations program. Several students are mentored each year in journalism, public announcing, web broadcasting, statistical data entry, and photography. Sports information is disseminated in a variety of methods including highlights, features, game broadcasts, web pages, Spartans Hotline, press releases, and bulletin board displays.

Spartans Athletics is under the administrative leadership of the Director of Athletics and the Dean of the School of Human Kinetics.

Theatre Opportunities

Trinity Western University offers a variety of performance, playwriting, and technical theatre opportunities each semester. See the Department of Theatre overview for details or contact the Department chair.

Ensemble

Ensemble offers students a range of performance and production opportunities. These have included original touring shows, classics, student-created productions, contemporary works, and specially commissioned plays.

Guest Artists and Workshops

Theatre professionals are invited to the TWU campus to share their skills in low-cost workshops or free seminar sessions. Guest artists have included professional actors, designers, directors, make-up artists, critics, television producers, and playwrights.

Mainstage Productions

Classic, contemporary, and original works are staged each semester as part of the Theatre program. Auditions for most productions are open to all registered TWU and ACTS students. Each production also provides opportunities in stage management, set construction, costuming, lighting, sound, front of house, and publicity. Recent productions include Romeo and Juliet by William Shakespeare, Proof by David Auburn, Halo by Josh MacDonald, The Good Woman of Setzuan by Bertolt Brecht, and Fiddler on the Roof by Joseph Stein, Jerry Bock, and Sheldon Harnick.

Student Directed One-Acts And New Play Readings

Students interested in directing, who have completed the Theatre Department's directing course, may be invited to direct a one-act play as part of New Generations, a bi-annual festival of student work. Playwriting students may be invited to produce a staged reading, and some of these plays may be chosen for full production in New Generations. Additional opportunities for directing and playwriting exist for exceptional students.

Other Opportunities

TWU enjoys a unique relationship with Pacific Theatre, an acclaimed professional theatre company in Vancouver. TWU students are frequently involved in Pacific Theatre's emerging artist productions, as actors, stage managers, and technical theatre artists. Students and graduates have interned and apprenticed with Pacific Theatre, as well as with other professional theatre companies. Many TWU grads have worked professionally with Pacific Theatre as artists and/or administrators.

Course Descriptions

Course descriptions consist of:

- Subject heading: ANTH
- Course number: 101
- Course title: Introduction to Cultural Anthropology
- Credit value: 3 sem. hrs.
- Course description: A study of the....
- Co-requisites: (None listed)
- Special notes (NB): (None listed)
- Cross-listings: (None listed)
- Prerequisite(s): None
- Lecture – Lab hrs. per week: (3-0; 3-0)

The course numbering system generally conforms to the following:

- First digit — represents the year in which the course would normally be taken;
- Second digit — represents the department designation to an area or time period within that subject area;
- Third digit — odd numbers generally indicates the course will be offered in the fall; even numbers in the spring; and '0' that the course may be offered in either semester.

Weekly lecture/laboratory hours are indicated as follows:

- (3-0; 0-0) = 3 hours lecture only, fall semester
- (0-0; 3-0) = 3 hours lecture only, spring semester
- (3-0; 3-0) = 3 hours lecture only, both semesters
- (3-0 or 3-0) = 3 hours lecture only, either semester

- (3-3; 3-3) = 3 hours lecture, 3 hours laboratory, both semesters

In addition, some courses may have a tutorial or seminar indicated by 3-1-3 or 0-3.

Note: The University reserves the right to cancel or revise any of the courses listed or to withdraw for the semester any course for which there is insufficient demand.

Anthropology

ANTH 101 Introduction to Cultural Anthropology (3 sem. hrs.)

A study of the similarity and diversity of the lifeways of people in different cultural contexts, drawing primarily from systematically derived information about different modes of life in various parts of the world. Cultural Anthropology seeks insights to understanding others as well as ourselves, examining human beliefs, attitudes, values, behaviours, and the transgenerational transmission of cultural information within society.

Prerequisite(s): None. (3-0 or 3-0)

ANTH 210 Islamic Culture (3 sem. hrs.)

A basic overview of Islamic society. Students consider gender and marriage issues, social stratification, law, economics, art, and related topics, and their expression within Islamic culture. NB: Not offered every year. See department chair.

Prerequisite(s): None. (0-0; 3-0)

ANTH 302 Cross-cultural Communication (3 sem. hrs.)

The nature of cross-cultural interaction, drawing attention both to the unexpected variations in other cultures as well as to the presuppositions from one's own culture that inhibit cross-cultural communication. The need to take into account the dynamic of constant cultural change is also emphasized.

Cross-listed: MCOM 372; LING 302.

Prerequisite(s): ANTH 101 or instructor's consent. (0-0; 3-0)

ANTH 390. Special Topics in Anthropology (3 sem. hrs.)

An examination of selected topics and theories within the field of anthropology.

Prerequisite(s): ANTH 101 or instructor's consent (3-0 or 3-0)

ANTH 452 Leadership Communication in Multi-cultural Contexts (3 sem. hrs.)

This course builds on foundational concepts of cross-cultural communication, taking a deeper look at issues raised by the interface of leadership communication and multi-cultural, non-western contexts. Explores issues such as cognitive frameworks, motivation, decision-making, conflict resolution, and the management of time, people, and projects. Studies perception and the enactment of relational leadership behaviour in settings abroad, deepening understanding and sharpening cross-cultural skills, thereby equipping students for maximum effectiveness in a professional multi-cultural setting.

NB: Summer session only in Guatemala or Kenya.

Cross-listed: MCOM 472.

Prerequisite: ANTH 302.

ANTH 470 Linguistic Field Methods: Language and Culture Learning (3 sem. hrs.)

An introduction to various facets of linguistic field work with an emphasis on language acquisition. Students develop self-directed strategies based on personal learning styles. Various topics related to field work include text collection, cultural journaling, and technical writing. Practical experience in the above topics is gained by working with a speaker of a non-Indo-European language. Additional work includes phonological and grammatical analysis of this language.

Co-requisite(s): LING 460, 480.

Cross-listed: LING 470.

Prerequisite(s): LING 210; 310, 330, 360; or instructor's consent. (3-2; 0-0)

Art and Design Department

ART 140 Introduction to Printmaking (3 sem. hrs.)

This studio course introduces the basic application and procedures of the two traditional methods of printmaking—relief and screen printing. The course is designed to provide a positive studio experience for non-art students interested in art and its application to popular culture. This course is similar to ART 240, but is intended for non-art majors; therefore ART 140 and ART 240 may not both be taken for credit.

Prerequisite(s): None. (0-3 or 0-3)

ART 180 Integration Forum (0 sem. hrs.)

A seminar for students in all levels of the program, this course is required for all majors each semester (concentrations and minors are encouraged to attend). The core of the class is a visiting lecture series facilitating presentations, critiques, and communication amongst local artists, faculty, and students. The class covers topical issues in art; facilitates communication regarding departmental and professional practices; creates a community of inquiry supporting one another's production; addresses issues common to students of art; and supports the integration of faith and art in preparation for a life in the arts.

Prerequisite(s): None.

ART 181 Visual Foundations I (3 sem. hrs.)

This foundations level studio course cultivates visual intelligence through carefully sequenced drawing exercises, illustrated lectures, and readings. Perceptual, conceptual, and technical skills are honed and elements of art and principles of design are explored through drawing and composition projects that give students an experiential understanding of a wide range of art making paradigms.

Prerequisite(s): None. (0-3; 0-3)

ART 182 Visual Foundations II (3 sem. hrs.)

This course, complementing the visual foundations begun in ART 181 and ART 182, focuses on colour theory, and introduces three-dimensional, time and space-based contemporary practices and architecture. Visual practices and language are explored through weekly two and three dimensional projects widening students' experiential understanding of the wide diversity of art making paradigms.

Prerequisite(s): None. (0-0; 0-3)

ART 211 Life Drawing I (3 sem. hrs.)

This studio course focuses on the acquisition of basic painting skills and explores how paintings function as visual signs and are embedded in contexts of experiences and understanding. Colour theory is used in increasingly intentional ways as students explore strategies of using picture plane, shape, plane, volume, and brushstroke. Students examine how societal concerns and issues interface with personal voice and translate into painting practices.

Prerequisite(s): ART 181 and one of ART 237 or 238 (0-3 or 0-3)

ART 212 Life Drawing II (3 sem. hrs.)

A continuation of the life drawing investigations introduced in ART 211, with a particular focus on developing critical interpretive tools to examine how culture, society, and theology influence imaging the body.

Prerequisite(s): ART 181 and one of ART 237 or 238

NB: Not offered every year. (0-0; 0-3)

ART 215 Beauty and the Sacred: Introduction to the Sacred Arts CP (3 sem. hrs.)

This course introduces students to the particular genre of sacred art and the subject of beauty as central to the proclamation of the Gospel with which the Church has been entrusted. As such, beauty and sacred art are discussed as the subject matter of theology. The course reviews a broad historical study of the sacred arts beginning with Byzantine art and spirituality until the present, addressing aspects of painting, the written word, music, and architecture. A primary focus is the genre of sacred art as it impacts the Christian individual, the Church, and the world as a whole. NB: Course taught at Catholic Pacific College, an approved TWU learning centre.

Prerequisite(s): None. (3-0 or 3-0)

ART 221 Painting I (3 sem. hrs.)

This studio course focuses on the acquisition of basic painting skills. Colour theory is used in increasingly intentional ways as students explore strategies of using picture plane, shape, plane, volume, and brushstroke. Students are involved in issues of how personal voice and concerns translate into painting practices.

ART 222 Painting II (3 sem. hrs.)

A studio course designed with a view to increase understanding of how painting skills have been used through history as carriers of disparate personal and socio/political meaning. Through a series of exercises in painting, students develop their painting skills and explore how seemingly intuitive choices made while painting always intersect with an artist's personal expression as well as with cultural theory.

NB: Not offered every year.

ART 224 Byzantine Iconography (3 sem. hrs.)

This studio course teaches how to make religious icons in the Byzantine tradition. Students are led through the preparation of the icon support, background, egg emulsion, pigments, and gold leaf application. The course traces the historical and theological basis for icons, divine rules, and prayers for iconographers.

NB: Summer session only.

Prerequisite(s): None.

ART 226 Issues in Art and Culture: 1850 to Present (3 sem. hrs.)

Thematically examines how western artists and architects have engaged and sparked public debates through their art and writings, and investigates these ideas and controversies in context.

NB: Not offered every year.

Prerequisite(s): SAMC 112, ART 181 or 182, and ART 237 or 238. (0-0; 3-0)

ART 230 Photography (3 sem. hrs.)

An introduction to photographic art. Basic techniques of digital and traditional photography are explored at an introductory level. These include, but are not limited to: composition, lighting, review of darkroom procedures, and production. Photographic theory is introduced as it relates to cultural, aesthetic, ethical, and theological matters.

Prerequisite(s): None. (0-3 or 0-3)

ART 237 History of Western Art (3 sem. hrs.)

This course examines the visual images, sculptural objects, and architectural structures that have been produced throughout history. It traces chronologically some of the major developments that have influenced both western and eastern cultures from cave painting to the 15th century and examines the ways in which these participate in the political, social, religious, and economic climates of which they are an integral part.

ART 238 History of Western Art (3 sem. hrs.)

This course examines the visual images, sculptural objects, and architectural structures that have been produced throughout history. It traces chronologically some of the major artistic developments that have influenced western cultures from the Renaissance to the present, and examines the ways in which these participate in the political, social, religious, and economic climates of which they are an integral part.

Prerequisite(s): None. (0-0; 3-0)

ART 240 Printmaking I (3 sem. hrs.)

This studio course introduces the basic applications and procedures of printmaking through the medium of screen printing. The class covers black and white, colour separation, editioning, registration, proofing, and printing, integrating technical ability with conceptual development during the execution of each project.

Prerequisite(s): SAMC 112, ART 137 or 138; and 181 or 182. (0-3 or 0-3)

ART 250 Foundations in Digital Design (3 sem. hrs.)

A practical study of graphic design essentials specifically related to the elements of graphic style (image, type, and colour), conceptual ideation, and the visualization of ideas. Emphasis is given to investigating digital production practices, developing a visual communication vocabulary, and sharpening creative, analytical, and perceptual skills.

NB: Priority given to art and communication students.

Cross-listed: MCOM 231.

Prerequisite(s): None. (0-3 or 0-3)

ART 280 3D Design (3 sem. hrs.)

An overview of the various stages in the process of design from ideation and planning to production. The course investigates three-dimensional design through a study of the properties and characteristics of objects within cultures, focusing on relationships between form, function, ideas, and ideologies.

NB: Not offered every year.

Prerequisite(s): None. (0-3 or 0-3)

ART 283 Sculpture I (3 sem. hrs.)

An introduction to working in three dimensions in a variety of media, including clay, wood, and metal. Historical and contemporary approaches to sculpture are examined to achieve an understanding of the relationship of materials to form, space, expressive content, and the construction of meaning.

NB: Not offered every year.

Prerequisite(s): ART 182 or 280, and ART 237 or 238. (0-3 or 0-3)

ART 290 Special Topics in Art (3 sem. hrs.)

Topics vary from year to year.

NB: Not offered every semester. Course may be repeated.

Prerequisite(s): None. (0-3 or 0-3)

ART 291 Special Topics in Art (1 sem. hrs.)

Topics vary from year to year.

NB: Not offered every semester. Course may be repeated.

Prerequisite(s): None. (0-3 or 0-3)

ART 292 Special Topics in Art (2 sem. hrs.)

Topics vary from year to year.

NB: Not offered every semester. Course may be repeated.

Prerequisite(s): None. (0-3 or 0-3)

ART 305 Art Practicum (1 sem. hr.)

In this art-related work experience, practicing artists and other art professionals mentor students in areas of expertise widening the students' exposure to artists, art historians, art institutions, designers, and their professional practices. Readings and discussions address practical, theoretical, and theological aspects of cultural contribution.

NB: Course may be repeated.

Prerequisite(s): Art major, concentration, or minor, and third or fourth year standing; or instructor's consent. (0-1 or 0-1)

ART 306 Art Practicum (2 sem. hrs.)

In this art-related work experience, practicing artists and other art professionals mentor students in areas of expertise widening the students' exposure to artists, art historians, art institutions, designers, and their professional practices. Readings and discussions address practical, theoretical, and theological aspects of cultural contribution.

NB: Course may be repeated.

Prerequisite(s): Art major, concentration, or minor, and third or fourth year standing; or instructor's consent. (0-2 or 0-2)

ART 307 Art Practicum (3 sem. hrs.)

In this art-related work experience, practicing artists and other art professionals mentor students in areas of expertise, widening the students' exposure to artists, art historians, art institutions, designers, and their professional practices. Readings and discussions address practical, theoretical, and theological aspects of cultural contribution.

NB: Course may be repeated.

Prerequisite(s): Art major, concentration, or minor, and third or fourth year standing; or instructor's consent. (0-3 or 0-3)

ART 310 Drawing (3 sem. hrs.)

Students explore a range of ways of defining contemporary drawing practice. Criteria for the description analysis, interpretation, and evaluation of drawings are widened to include cultural theory. Issues and themes of art-making practice after the initial decades of postmodernism are the focus of student projects.

NB: Not offered every year.

Prerequisite(s): ART 211 or 212. (0-3 or 0-3)

ART 321 Abstract Painting (3 sem. hrs.)

This course provides an in-depth look at the integration of theory and practice surrounding historical and contemporary abstract painting. Art elements and principles, particularly colour, are used with increasing specificity and intentionality.

Students investigate how aesthetic choices realized on a canvas reveal the artist's position within art, culture, and political history.

ART 324 Byzantine Style Iconography (3 sem. hrs.)

Byzantine Iconography involves the making of art objects for a specific purpose. Icons, however, were never made with the intention of being "art" as we think of art today. This class explores the historical and current purposes of iconography. Student projects examine icon making during and outside of class time.

NB: Summer session only.

Prerequisite(s): ART 224 and upper level standing or instructor's consent.

ART 327 Modern Art History (3 sem. hrs.)

This course traces the diverse artistic movements that developed in urban centres throughout Europe from The Great Exhibition of 1851 in London to the Dada movement in Zurich in the 1920s. Students consider the changing role of the artist and the way in which both the subject matter and the stylistic treatment of their art are shaped by and are a response to this "modern" world.

NB: Not offered every semester.

ART 328 Modern Art History (3 sem. hrs.)

This course explores how art strategies (in traditional mediums such as painting, sculpture, and architecture, as well as film, video, performance) and the critical debates that arose in Europe and North America in the aftermath of the First World War to the present day, reflect the social, economic, and political context charting the rise and fall of modernism and the transition to postmodern practices within the visual arts. The role of art in society, its relationship to mass culture, and what is at stake in maintaining socially engaged art today are considered.

NB: Not offered every semester.

ART 330 Photographic Vision (3 sem. hrs.)

Cultivating an informed engagement with our predominantly visual culture, this course combines photographic technical skill (composition, lighting, darkroom procedures, etc.) with informed cultural photographic theory relating to aesthetic, ethical, and theological issues. Participants are encouraged to embody a re-visioning as photographers and thinkers who embrace a Christian view of the world and its inhabitants.

NB: Not offered every year.

Prerequisite(s): 3 sem. hrs. of art and ART 230. (0-0; 0-3)

ART 340 Printmaking II (3 sem. hrs.)

Printmaking is explored historically, and as a vehicle for critical inquiry and self-expression. Critical, theoretical, and practical aspects of relief printmaking are studied.

NB: Not offered every year.

Prerequisite(s): ART 240 and 6 sem. hrs. of art, or instructor's consent. (0-0; 0-3)

ART 351 Intermedia (3 sem. hrs.)

Through cultural theory readings and material experimentations, this course investigates a variety of contemporary practices and themes, including, but not limited to, multimedia investigations, site-specific installation, soundscapes, video, performance, and phenomenologically driven practices. The boundaries of more traditional art experience are pushed to discover new possibilities of collaborative and personal expression using a variety of media in time and space.

NB: Not offered every year.

Prerequisite(s): 15 sem. hrs. of art and third or fourth year standing. (0-3 or 0-3)

ART 352 Intermediate Production (3 sem. hrs.)

This studio production course complements ART 351. Students spend the semester researching, planning, producing, and presenting a piece of work in the media they have chosen to develop in ART 351 (installation, sound work, video, performance, digital project). Unlike ART 351, where emphasis is on process, the emphasis in ART 352 is on production — following through with material, aesthetic, ethical, and social issues to produce a work suitable for a graduate portfolio or professional exhibition. This course also prepares senior students for their final exhibition.

NB: Not offered every year.

ART 361 Imaging and Illustration Design (3 sem. hrs.)

An exploration of the conception, production, and analysis of imagery in graphic communication design, including photos, illustrations, and graphic marks. Imagery-based problems are investigated in multiple design contexts and formats. Specialized rendering techniques, digital studio practices and iconographic style development are considered.

Cross-listed: MCOM 331.

Prerequisite(s): ART 250 or MCOM 231, and one of the following: MCOM 111; MCOM 261; ART 181, ART 182, or instructor's consent. (0-3 or 0-3)

ART 362 Symbol and Typography Design (3 sem. hrs.)

An exploration of integrated conceptual thinking and formal experimentation with type and related symbol systems in graphic communications. Emphasis is placed on type as image, principles of typesetting, hierarchy, and structure. The complex interaction of type in relation to other graphic elements in multiple design contexts and formats is considered.

Cross-listed: MCOM 332

Prerequisite(s): ART 250 or MCOM 231, and one of the following: MCOM 111; MCOM 261; ART 181, ART 182, or instructor's consent. (0-3 or 0-3)

ART 363 Format and Layout Design (3 sem. hrs.)

An exploration of integrated conceptual thinking and formal experimentation with the structural and organizing systems at work in graphic communications. Emphasis is given to the development of unified graphic systems spanning multiple design contexts and formats.

Cross-listed: MCOM 333

Prerequisite(s): ART 250 or MCOM 231, and one of the following: MCOM 111, MCOM 261, ART 181, ART 182, or instructor's consent. (0-3 or 0-3)

ART 390 Cultural Theory (3 sem. hrs.)

This course introduces students to a broad range of critical and theoretical texts that have impacted art practices and the discipline of art history in the 20th century through to the current day. The role of enlightenment aesthetics and the rise of mass culture are explored in relation to the formation of cultural modernism and how Marxist, psychoanalytic, and poststructuralist theories have challenged modernist conceptions.

This course investigates the implications for Christians engaging with visual culture today; considers the theoretical underpinnings of postmodern theory; and cultivates the critical thinking skills necessary to engage in current critical debates within visual culture.

NB: Not offered every year.

Prerequisite(s): ART 327 or 328. (3-0 or 3-0)

ART 410 Drawing (3 sem. hrs.)

This studio course guides students in developing independent, inquiry-based projects in drawing. Students link theory with praxis; inquire into the interrelationships between aesthetics, theory and theology in relation to their emerging body of work; and locate themselves within contemporary drawing practices.

NB: Not offered every year.

Prerequisite(s): 15 sem. hrs. of art and third or fourth year standing. (0-3 or 0-3)

ART 411 Senior Studio (3 sem. hrs.)

In this intensive studio course, students are guided through sustained research that culminates in a senior show during ART 412. With the approval of the Senior Studio faculty, sustained visual cultural research and the development of a body of work is executed. This work is self-directed and must demonstrate an increasingly high level of understanding of a professional work process and the resulting production. Through research, as well as written and spoken practice, students gain confidence and a voice to articulate visually and verbally, as well as to contextualize their work in contemporary practice. Students research and write on the integration of faith and art.

Prerequisite(s): 12 sem. hrs. of art and fourth-year standing. (0-3; 0-0)

ART 412 Senior Studio (3 sem. hrs.)

In this studio course, the research and experimentation in production done during ART 411 culminates in an intense semester of developing a sophisticated body of work for the Senior Show. A multidisciplinary environment is protected, and diversity in style and medium is emphasized.

ART 421 Advanced Painting (3 sem. hrs.)

This studio course emphasizes the development of advanced artistic inquiry in painting. Students examine strategies for structuring and developing a visual investigation. By studying examples of serial and thematic approaches, students see how artists have developed bodies of sophisticated and exploratory work.

NB: Not offered every year.

Prerequisite(s): ART 321. (0-3 or 0-3)

ART 435 The Incarnate Eye: Representations of the Body of Christ in the Latter Middle Ages and Early Renaissance (3 sem. hrs.)

Through a series of focused readings, this course examines the diversity of visual representations of the body of Christ and considers the ways in which these images constitute a variety of signifying social practices within a dynamic social, political, or religious context. These issues resonate with a variety of contemporary artistic practices which confront the legacy of a dualistic enlightenment theology with a more visceral presentation of the body of Christ.

NB: Not offered every year.

Prerequisite(s): ART 237. (3-0 or 3-0)

ART 490 Special Topics in Art (3 sem. hrs.)

Topics vary from year to year. i.e. relational aesthetics (socially engaged art), curatorial practices, etc.

NB: Not offered every year. Course may be repeated.

Prerequisite(s): 6 sem. hrs. of art or permission of instructor. (0-3 or 0-3)

ART 490 Special Topics in Art (3 sem. hrs.)

This course engages a process based learning approach that expands a student's creative problem solving skills by utilizing the design methodology known as design thinking. Through this process of ideation, research, prototyping, and interacting with users, students will define problems, get ideas, and create form while applying the methodology to real-world complex challenges.

Prerequisite(s): none

ART 491 Special Topics in Art (1 sem. hr.)

Topics vary from year to year.

NB: Not offered every year. Course may be repeated.

Prerequisite(s): 6 sem. hrs. of art or permission of instructor. (0-3 or 0-3)

ART 492 Special Topics in Art (2 sem. hrs.)

Topics vary from year to year.

NB: Not offered every year. Course may be repeated.

Prerequisite(s): 6 sem. hrs. of art or permission of instructor. (0-3 or 0-3)

ART 495 Honours Project (3 sem. hrs.)

Students plan, produce and install a solo exhibition, major paper or major design project, and are mentored through the process by a faculty member. The mentoring can be continued through two or more semesters.

Prerequisite(s): Permission of instructor

Arts, Media and Culture

SAMC 110 Introduction to the Arts (3 sem. hrs.)

A general education course designed to give the student an understanding of the differences and similarities in structure, content, and style of artistic media including music, painting, sculpture, architecture, film, theatre, and dance. Examples of various art forms from ancient to modern times are discussed and explored.

Prerequisite(s): None. (3-0 or 3-0)

SAMC 111 Critical Issues in the Arts (3 sem. hrs.)

This foundational interdisciplinary arts course introduces some of the complexities in the arts, including topics such as arts and technology, arts and culture, arts and interpretation, arts and gender, and arts and faith. Students explore these issues through the engagement of representative works of both artists and scholars from varying viewpoints and historical periods. Students are expected to participate fully in individual and collaborative research projects, applying both developing skills and critical evaluation. The format of the course includes lectures supplemented by assigned readings for discussion and debate. The course is delivered by an interdisciplinary teaching team.

Prerequisite(s): None.

SAMC 112 Interdisciplinary History of Western Arts (3 sem. hrs.)

This foundational interdisciplinary arts course introduces students to key historical developments in artistic practice and concepts, following a chronological trajectory from ancient times to present. Through critical examination of historical concepts in the arts, students develop their ability to meaningfully experience, interpret, and articulate different approaches to the arts. Students are encouraged to think critically, charitably, and divergently as they examine a multiplicity of artistic practices and concepts. The format of the course includes lectures, readings, discussion, and individual and collaborative assignments. The teaching team.

Prerequisite(s): None.

SAMC 246 Canadian Landscape and the Arts (3 sem. hrs.)

This course examines the Canadian landscape as constructed by artists in a variety of disciplines including painters, photographers, poets, filmmakers, and musicians.

NB: Not offered every year.

Prerequisite(s): Second year standing. (0-0; 3-0)

SAMC 351, 352, 353 Arts, Media and Culture Practicum (1, 2, 3 sem. hrs.)

Designed for any student seeking arts leadership skills through experience-based learning. Students work with systems and strategies applying to self-promotion and production, interdisciplinary and collaborative work, and arts organizations. Working under the direction of fine arts faculty, students focus on utilizing resources for development and implementation of special projects.

NB: Pass/Fail courses.

Prerequisite(s): SAMC 110 or equivalent and upper level standing.

SAMC 370 Aesthetics (3 sem. hrs.)

An analysis of the aesthetic experience arising from a response to the visual arts, architecture, music, and literature. The nature of beauty, the development of taste, the question of objective standards of criticism, and the role of the artist's intention as a factor in a response to art.

NB: Not offered every year. See Department of Philosophy chair.

Cross-listed: PHIL 370.

Prerequisite(s): Third or fourth year standing or 6 sem. hrs. of philosophy or instructor's consent. (3-0 or 3-0)

SAMC 420 Arts, Media and Culture Travel Study (3 sem. hrs.)

A three-week interdisciplinary fine arts study trip to London, England, in which students critically engage culture and the fine arts. Visits to galleries, performances, and cultural sites accompany lectures and readings to encourage students to develop and deepen their biblically-informed view of the role of fine arts. While most course activities take place in London proper, several day trips to surrounding locations are included.

NB: Summer travel study course. This course is limited to students wishing to take this course for credit. It simultaneously meets both the fine arts and the IDIS 400 equivalent core requirements (provided students choose this as their "double-counted" core requirement) although the total credit for the course is 3 sem. hrs. No prior courses in art, theatre, or music are necessary. Another course, often MUSI 310, is offered on the travel study.

Cross-listed: IDIS 420.

Prerequisite(s): Completion

Biology

BIOL 101 Genes and Society (3 sem. hrs.)

This course introduces students to modern concepts in biology and enables them to evaluate independently the potential benefits and risks of the biotechnological revolution and its implications for society. The topics give an understanding of the nature of the genetic material, as well as major technologies currently used in genetic engineering. Cloning and genetic engineering of microorganisms, plants, and animals are discussed. Students are made aware of the impact of various genetic engineering projects on their own lives and on society in general.

Ethical, moral, and theological issues arising from genetic engineering are also discussed.

NB: Not to be taken for credit by biology students. The course fulfils the non-lab science core requirement and does not require Biology 12.

Prerequisite(s): None. (3-0; or 3-0)

BIOL 103 Introduction to Biology I – Ecology and Biodiversity (3 sem. hrs.)

An introduction to basic concepts and connections in the study of life, with emphasis on ecology and adaptation of representative life forms. The major plant and animal groups are surveyed with emphasis on unifying elements and diversities. This course is designed for non-Science majors and, without BIOL 104 and 105, does not serve as a prerequisite for upper level biology courses.

Prerequisite(s): None. (3-3; 0-0)

BIOL 104 Introduction to Biology II – The Design of Life (3 sem. hrs.)

An introduction to the basic relationships governing the existence of all living organisms. The anatomy and physiology at all levels from DNA to organ-systems are studied, looking at energy requirements, inheritance, reproduction, development, and adaptation of representative life forms. This course is designed for non-Science majors and, without BIOL 105, does not serve as a prerequisite for upper level biology courses.

Prerequisite(s): None. (0-0; 3-3)

BIOL 105 Advanced Introduction to Biology (3 sem. hrs.)

This lecture course covers certain topics in biology that are foundational to modern biology. The course examines the chemistry of life, DNA, phylogeny, ecosystems, physiology, and biotechnology. This course is designed for students who have taken BIOL 103, 104 and intend to take upper level biology courses.

NB: Summer sessions only.

Prerequisite(s): BIOL 103, 104

BIOL 113 Principles of Biology I (3 sem. hrs.)

An introduction to the basic relationships governing the existence of all living organisms, with emphasis on ecology and adaptation of representative life forms. Consideration is given to classification and surveys of the major plant and animal groups with emphasis on unifying elements and diversities.

Prerequisite(s): Biology 11 or 12 or equivalent. (3-3; 0-0)

BIOL 114 Principles of Biology II (3 sem. hrs.)

An introduction to the basic relationships governing the existence of all living organisms. Consideration is given to the anatomy and physiology at all levels as these relate to the energy requirements, inheritance, reproduction, development, and adaptation of representative life forms.

Prerequisite(s): Biology 11 or 12 equivalent. (0-0; 3-3)

BIOL 200/300 Biotechnology Practica II, III (2 or 3 sem. hrs.)

Biotechnology Practica II and III provide general and advanced intern experiences in industrial settings. BIOL 200 (2 sem. hrs.) is a requirement for entry to co-op placements and graduation. BIOL 300 (3 sem. hrs.) is additional intern experience providing exposure to advanced techniques and applications in biotechnology. The skills taught in each practicum vary depending on the industrial setting, but should include some of the following techniques: mammalian tissue culture; monoclonal antibody production including cell fusion; hybridoma screening by ELISA and immunoblotting; fermentation microbiology and the operation of large-scale fermentation systems; insect cell culture and use of Baculovirus expression vectors to produce recombinant proteins; downstream processing and the recovery and purification of proteins, carbohydrates, lipids; freezing, freeze-drying and preservation of microorganisms, animal viruses, cell lines and hybridomas; high throughput screening strategies, diagnostic testing; methods in bioinformatics; and quality control procedures.

Cross-listed: BIOT200/300.

Prerequisite(s): BIOT 100.

BIOL 212 Biology of Vascular Plants (3 sem. hrs.)

An exploration of the role of plants as the basis for most ecosystems, and as valuable resources for agriculture, horticulture, forestry, biotechnology, and other areas of human concern. The study of vascular plants includes classification, development, physiology, ecology, and economic uses, with comparison of form, function, and significance. The course involves local field trips and laboratory studies.

NB: Students may take only one of BIOL 212 and BIOL 312 for credit. Not offered every year. See department chair.

Prerequisite(s): BIOL 103, 104, and 105; or BIOL 113, 114. (0-0; 3-3)

BIOL 214 Biology of Non-vascular Plants (3 sem. hrs.)

An exploration of non-vascular plants and the important niches they occupy, particularly in aquatic or moist environments and in relation to human health. The course covers algae, fungi, lichens, and bryophytes including classification, development, physiology, and ecology. Applied aspects include productivity of freshwater and marine systems, commercial uses, mushroom culture, plant pathology, and environmental and human health. Firsthand experience of the organisms includes local field trips and laboratory studies.

NB: Students may take only one of BIOL 214 and BIOL 314 for credit. Not offered every year. See department chair.

BIOL 216 Plant Environments (3 sem. hrs.)

An inventory of plant life across major habitats - particularly in the local area of British Columbia - this course provides insights into the ecology of these environments. Local field trips highlight natural habitats, agricultural and horticultural crops, and managed forests. Critical assessment of planetary stewardship forms a common theme. NB: Summer sessions only. Includes field work in the Gulf Islands. Not offered every year. See department chair.

Cross-listed: GENV 216.

Prerequisite(s): Instructor's consent. Fulfills lab-science requirement for non-majors.

BIOL 223 Cell Biology (3 sem. hrs.)

A study of the molecules and processes that determine cell structure and function, including how this information is derived from the wide range of visual and analytical tools available today. The course describes the chemical nature of cells and the structure and behaviour of cells in the context of tissues

NB: Students taking BIOL 223 are urged to take CHEM 221 (Organic Chemistry) concurrently in order to be prepared to take BIOL 384 or 386.

Prerequisite(s): A minimum grade of C in BIOL 103, 104, and 105; or BIOL 113, 114; and CHEM

103, 104; CHEM 103, 112 or CHEM 111, 112. (3-3; 0-0)

BIOL 226 Introduction to Evolutionary Theory (3 sem. hrs.)

An introduction to the basic concepts of evolution as an organizing theory in biology. Topics covered include: comparative genomics, sources or variation, natural selection, genetic drift, adaptation, sexual selection, kin selection, speciation and phylogenetics.

Prerequisite(s): BIOL 103, 104 AND 105; or BIOL 113 and 114.

BIOL 241 Human Anatomy and Physiology I (3 sem. hrs.)

An introductory course in human anatomy and physiology focusing on the structure and function of the cellular, histological, integumentary, skeletal, muscular, cardiovascular, respiratory and metabolic systems. Special attention will be given to the interaction of these systems in maintenance of homeostasis and adaptations during performance and disease conditions.

Prerequisite(s): None. (3-3; 0-0)

BIOL 242 Human Anatomy and Physiology II (3 sem. hrs.)

An introductory course in human anatomy and physiology focusing on the structure and function of the nervous, digestive, renal, endocrine, and reproductive systems in addition to immunity and acid-base balance. Special attention will be given to the interaction of these systems in maintenance of homeostasis and adaptations

Prerequisite(s): BIOL 241 or Instructor's permission. (0-0; 3-3)

BIOL 262 Marine Biology (3 sem. hrs.)

A study of the life history and distribution of marine organisms in several major habitat types, including soft sediment and rocky substrate communities. Emphasis is on field and laboratory work in a survey of common local marine plants and animals and their relationships. Includes field work in the Lower Mainland, Gulf Islands, and/or Vancouver Island.

NB: Summer sessions only. Not offered every year. See department chair.

Cross-listed: GENV 262.

Prerequisite(s): Instructor's consent. Fulfills lab-science requirement for non-majors.

BIOL 290 Introduction to Biotechnology (3 sem. hrs.)

This course reviews the role of modern biotechnology in plant, animal, and marine biology, microbiology, agriculture, the pharmaceutical industry, and medicine. The course focuses on underlying technologies in biotechnology, how these technologies are implemented, together with public concerns and government guidelines and legislation.

Cross-listed: BIOT 290.

Prerequisite(s): BIOL 103, 104, and 105 or BIOL 113, 114. (3-0 or 3-0)

BIOL 308 Vertebrate Zoology (3 sem. hrs.)

A comparative study of the vertebrate classes with special emphasis on the anatomy and physiology of representative forms. The significance of advances in the complexity of chordates is considered, as well as the impact of human activities on vertebrate population dynamics.

NB: Not offered every year. See department chair.

Prerequisite(s): BIOL 103, 104, and 105; or BIOL 113, 114. (3-3; 0-0)

BIOL 312 Advanced Biology of Vascular Plants (3 sem. hrs.)

An exploration of the role of plants as the basis for most ecosystems, and as valuable resources for agriculture, horticulture, forestry, biotechnology, and other areas of human concern. The study of vascular plants includes classification, development, physiology, ecology, and economic uses, with comparison of form, function, and significance. The course involves local field trips and laboratory studies. Recent discoveries in plant biology are highlighted through the completion of a literature review.

NB: Students may take only one of BIOL 212 and BIOL 312 for credit. Not offered every year. See department chair.

BIOL 314 Advanced Biology of Non-Vascular Plants (3 sem. hrs.)

An exploration of non-vascular plants and the important niches they occupy, particularly in aquatic or moist environments and in relation to human health. The course covers algae, fungi, lichens, and bryophytes including classification, development, physiology, and ecology. Applied aspects include productivity of freshwater and marine systems, commercial uses, mushroom culture, plant pathology and environmental and human health. Firsthand experience of the organisms includes local field trips and laboratory studies. Recent discoveries in plant biology are highlighted through the completion of a literature review.

NB: Students may take only one of BIOL 214 and BIOL 314 for credit. Not offered every year. See department chair.

BIOL 315 Plant Physiology (3 sem. hrs.)

An inventory of basic plant mechanisms and plant development. Mechanisms include assimilation, transport, and utilization of water and mineral nutrients and the utilization and distribution of photoassimilates. Plant development includes cell division, tissue culture, meristems, and the role of hormones in plant morphogenesis. Experimental approaches and biotechnology applications of plant molecular biology are stressed.

NB: Not offered every year. See department chair.

Prerequisite(s): BIOL 103, 104, and 105; or BIOL 113, 114; BIOL 223 recommended. (3-3; 0-0)

BIOL 316 Plant Ecology (3 sem. hrs.)

This course explores the crucial role of plant ecology in shaping major habitats - including those in the local area of British Columbia. Local field trips highlight the population dynamics and inter-relationships of plant communities in natural habitats, agricultural and horticultural crops, and managed forests. Critical assessment of planetary stewardship forms a common theme across various issues in plant ecology.

NB: Summer sessions only. Includes field work in the Gulf Islands. Not offered every year. See department chair.

Cross-listed: GENV 316.

Prerequisite(s): BIOL 103, 104, and 105; or BIOL 113, 114.

BIOL 318 Tropical Botany (3 sem. hrs.)

As an exploration of the botanical riches of the tropics - focusing on the plant life of Hawaii - this course traces fundamentals of plant taxonomy, physiology, and ecology in relation to complexities of existence on the most isolated island chain in the world. Issues related to indigenous vegetation, including effects of introduced animals and plants, agriculture, and ethnobotany, are discussed. The course involves one week of lectures at Trinity Western and two weeks of lectures and field work in Hawaii.

NB: Summer sessions only. Not offered every year.

Cross-listed: GENV 318

Prerequisite(s): BIOL 103, 104, and 105; or BIOL 113, 114 and instructors consent. BIOL 216 or 312 or 314 or 316 strongly recommended.

BIOL 333 Introduction to Medical Microbiology (3 sem. hrs.)

A study of pathogenic microorganisms and the control of infectious diseases. Topics include: (i) the biology of bacteria, viruses, fungi, protozoa, and helminths; (ii) infectious diseases of temperate and tropical climates; (iii) immunity, immunology, and immunization; (iv) sterilization, disinfection, chemotherapeutic agents; and (v) epidemiology and public health microbiology.

Prerequisite(s): BIOL 103, 104, and 105; or BIOL 113, 114; or BIOL 241, 242 (3-3; 0-0)

BIOL 334 Basic and Applied Microbiology (3 sem. hrs.)

An advanced study of topics in basic and applied microbiology. Topics include: (i) the structure, ultrastructure, and biochemical structure of prokaryotes, eukaryotes, and viruses; (ii) microbial biochemistry and physiology; (iii) microbial taxonomy and phylogeny; (iv) microbial ecology and agricultural microbiology; and (v) industrial microbiology and biotechnology.

NB: Not offered every year. See department chair.

Prerequisite(s): BIOL 103, 104, and 105; or BIOL 113, 114. (0-0; 3-3)

BIOL 336 Immunology (3 sem. hrs.)

A lecture course covering current topics in immunology, including: the cellular basis of immunity, the molecular genetics of antibody diversity, the major histocompatibility complex, antigen recognition, lymphocyte development, the complement system, hypersensitivity reactions, and immunodeficiency diseases. The course provides an integrated view of the immune system and the immunologic response to disease.

NB: Not offered every year. See department chair.

Prerequisite(s): BIOL 223; BIOL 333 recommended. (0-0; 3-0)

BIOL 340 Development Biology (3 sem. hrs.)

This course studies animal development and its underlying causal principles including introductory reproductive biology, embryology, and developmental genetics.

NB: Not offered every year. See department chair.

Prerequisite(s): BIOL 103, 104, and 105; or BIOL 113, 114; 223. (3-3; 0-0)

BIOL 343 Human Histology (3 sem. hrs.)

A study of the normal microscopic anatomy of the various tissues and organs of the body with an emphasis on the relationship between structure and function. Special attention is given to the field of human histology with some discussion of the similarities and differences in animals. The laboratory component of the course involves the observation and discussion of representative tissue sections and provides a basic understanding of normal versus abnormal morphology.

NB: offered every year. See department chair.

BIOL 344 Environmental Physiology (3 sem. hrs.)

A survey of physiological adaptations of animals to different environments including environmental stress. These adaptations are examined at several levels of organization, from the molecular and biochemical to the function of organ systems and behaviour. Includes in-depth examination of both vertebrate and invertebrate examples.

NB: Not offered every year. See department chair.

Prerequisite(s): BIOL 103, 104, and 105; or BIOL 113, 114. (0-0; 3-3)

BIOL 345 Vertebrate Physiology (3 sem. hrs.)

A course on the physiology of the various organ systems of humans and higher vertebrates. The course provides an integrated view of the organization and functioning of the different organ systems of the body and their role in maintaining homeostasis.

NB: Not offered every year. See department chair.

Prerequisite(s): 103, 104, and 105; or BIOL 113, 114; BIOL 223 recommended. (3-3; 0-0)

BIOL 346 Advanced Human Physiology (3 sem. hrs.)

Providing a deeper insight into mechanisms underlying a broad range of physiological phenomena, this course emphasizes the integration of the homeostatic mechanisms involving the various organ systems.

NB: Not offered every year. See department chair.

Prerequisite(s): BIOL 103, 104, and 105; or BIOL 113, 114; 345; or instructor's consent. (0-0; 3-3)

BIOL 360 Invertebrate Zoology (3 sem. hrs.)

A survey of the invertebrate phyla with particular reference to their phylogenetic relationships. Laboratories and field trips provide hands-on experience studying both terrestrial and marine invertebrates of the Pacific coastal region.

NB: Not offered every year. See department chair.

Prerequisite(s): BIOL 103, 104, and 105; or BIOL 113, 114. (3-3; 0-0)

BIOL 362 Marine Ecology (3 sem. hrs.)

A study of the ecological relationships of marine life in several major habitat types. Emphasis is on productivity, food webs, nutrient cycling, and community ecology. Ecosystem parameters are investigated through field and laboratory studies. Part of course work takes place in the Lower Mainland, Gulf Islands, and/or Vancouver Island.

NB: Summer sessions only. Not offered every year. See department chair.

Cross-listed: GENV 362.

Prerequisite(s): Advanced standing in biology and instructor's consent. BIOL 308 and/or 360 strongly recommended.

BIOL 364 Coral Reef Ecology (3 sem. hrs.)

A field course focusing on the systematics and ecology of tropical coral reef organisms. Plants, animals, and physical factors of a fringing coral reef are examined through snorkeling excursions and laboratory studies. One species is chosen for a detailed research project. Includes field course work in Hawaii.

NB: Summer sessions only. Not offered every year. See department chair.

Cross-listed: GENV 364.

Prerequisite(s): Advanced standing in biology and instructor's consent. BIOL 262, 308, 360 and/or 382 strongly recommended.

BIOL 371 Introduction to Genetics (3 sem. hrs.)

An introduction to the study of heredity.

Emphasizes classic genetics of populations and individuals in viruses, bacteria, plants, and animals.

Prerequisite(s): BIOL 103, 104, and 105; or BIOL 113, 114. (3-4; 0-0)

BIOL 372 Molecular Genetics (3 sem. hrs.)

This course considers modern developments and techniques in genetics, especially the basic and applied aspects of recombinant DNA technology.

Prerequisite(s): BIOL 103, 104, and 105 or BIOL 113, 114; a minimum grade of C in BIOL 223; and CHEM 103, 104; or 103, 112; or 111, 112. CHEM 221, 222 and BIOL 371 recommended. (0-0; 3-3)

BIOL 381 General Ecology (3 sem. hrs.)

A study of the structure and dynamics of ecosystems. Consideration of plant and animal populations in relation to physical, chemical, and biological factors affecting their interaction and productivity. Considerable laboratory time is devoted to the study of local ecosystems, field sampling techniques, and field trips to ecological research areas.

Cross-listed: GENV 381

Prerequisite(s): BIOL 103, 104, and 105; or

BIOL 113, 114; or equivalent. (0-0; 3-3)
BIOL 384 Principles of Biochemistry
(3 sem. hrs.)

This course studies chemical structure, function, and metabolism of carbohydrates, lipids, proteins, and nucleic acids. This class is continued as BIOL 386.

Cross-listed: CHEM 384.

Prerequisite: CHEM 221, 222.

Recommended: BIOL 103, 104, and 105; or BIOL 113, 114; 223. (3-1-3; 0-0-0)

BIOL 386 Biosynthesis (3 sem. hrs.)

This course explores the modern understanding of the biochemical transfer of genetic information: DNA structure and synthesis, transcription and translation. This course also examines the regulatory mechanisms of gene control in prokaryotes and eukaryotes, as well as protein structure and function. The central theme of the course is to illustrate the significance of nucleic acid and protein biochemistry in modern biology.

Cross-listed: CHEM 386.

Prerequisites: CHEM 221, 222.

BIOL 390 Biology and Christian Theology (3 sem. hrs.)

This course is designed to untangle some of the actual or perceived dissonance between issues of biological science and Christian theology. Six major topics are addressed: (1) models, analogies, and metaphors in science and Christian theology; (2) scientific and religious investigations of the biosphere; (3) defining human nature; (4) defining non-human nature; (5) caring for the earth; and (6) the biomedical revolution. The common threads among these topics are the tension between Christian faith and the findings of basic and applied biology (biotechnology), and the call to action required in a faith-based view of creation. As well as speaking from their own disciplines and background, the course instructors take part in panel discussions at the end of each of the six units to foster discussion and dialogue on the issues. Student participation is encouraged by group projects that develop and present a position paper on an area that engenders dissonance between scientific and religious worldview perspectives.

NB: Not offered every year. See department chair.

Cross-listed: BIOT 390.

Prerequisite(s): BIOL 103, 104, and 105 or BIOL 113, 114; third year standing. (3-0 or 3-0)

BIOL 400 Directed Studies in Biology
(3 sem. hrs.)

Students are required to produce an outline of the topic to be studied in consultation with the instructor. A course of reading and/ or experimentation is pursued according to the approved outline. Assessment may be via examination and/or a final written report.

NB: This course, with the appropriate choice of topics, can be used as a preparation for the senior thesis (BIOL 410).

Prerequisite(s): Advanced standing in biology or instructor's consent.

BIOL 409 Thesis Preparation (1 sem. hr.)

Students are required to choose a topic for their senior thesis (BIOL 410) in consultation with an instructor. Selected readings and references pertinent to the topic are assigned. A final written report is presented consisting of a detailed thesis proposal and a review of the literature. Students choosing environmental studies or ecology should start in their third year to allow observations over a full calendar year.

Prerequisite(s): Advanced standing in biology or instructor's consent. (1-1; 0-0)

BIOL 410 Senior Thesis (2 sem. hrs.)

In this course, students research a chosen area of biology and provide a final written report. Students present research findings in a seminar.

Cross-listed: BIOT 410

Prerequisite(s): BIOL 409, a related directed study in preparation, or instructor's consent. (0-0; 1-2)

BIOL 411 Senior Thesis (3 sem. hrs.)

In this course, students research a chosen area of biology and provide a final written report. Students present research findings in a seminar. This course option allows students with larger projects to gain extra credit.

Prerequisite(s): BIOL 409, a related directed study in preparation, or instructor's consent. (0-0; 1-3)

BIOL 423 Advanced Cell and Molecular Biology (3 sem. hrs.)

A laboratory course emphasizing advanced techniques in cell biology, molecular biology, and developmental genetics. Topics include functional genomics, mobile genetic elements, somatic clonal analysis, molecular cloning, and epifluorescence/confocal microscopy. This course is designed for students who are interested in a career in the life sciences and who wish to familiarize themselves with a number of applied laboratory techniques.

NB: BIOL 423 is an appropriate addition to or substitution for BIOL 409, 410.

Prerequisite(s): CHEM 221, 222; a minimum grade of C in BIOL 223, and at least one of BIOL 384 or 372. BIO 371 is highly recommended. (0-4; 0-0)

BIOL 438 Virology (3 sem. hrs.)

This course provides a basic understanding of some of the current topics in modern virology including the structure, classification, and replication of viruses, virus-cell interactions, diagnostic and research applications in virology, and the molecular biology of several important viruses causing disease in humans and animals. Special emphasis is given to viral pathogenesis making this course suitable for those pursuing careers in medicine or related fields.

NB: Not offered every year. See department chair.

Prerequisite(s): BIOL 223; 333; and BIOL 372 or 386. (0-0; 3-0)

BIOL 450 Neuroscience (3 sem. hrs.)

An advanced course in neuroscience which examines current research on the cellular organization of the brain as well as the role of physiological processes in human thought, emotions, and behaviour. Interactions between physiological and psychological processes are emphasized. Laboratory experiments focus on the basics of recording bioelectric potentials in invertebrates and humans.

NB: Not offered every year. See department chair.

Prerequisite(s): BIOL 350 or PSYC 350. (0-0; 3-3)

BIOL 470 Introduction to Bioinformatics (3 sem. hrs.)

An overview of the interdisciplinary science of genomics, proteomics, and bioinformatics which applies the tools of information technology (computer hardware and software) to analyze biological data such as gene or protein sequences. This course examines the theory of bioinformatics as well as its practical application to biological problems using approaches such as BLAST searches, phylogenetics, and protein structure function analysis.

Cross-listed: BIOT 470 or CMPT 470

NB: Not offered every year. See department chair.

Prerequisite(s): BIOL 223; BIOL/CHEM 372, and either 3 sem. hrs. of Computing Science or MATH 102. (0-0; 3-3-0)

BIOL 474 Genetics and Cell Biology of Neoplasia (3 sem. hrs.)

A lecture course reviewing a wide range of topics related to cancer including the biology and immunology of tumor cells, chemical and viral carcinogenesis, oncogenes, genetic predisposition to cancer, and treatment strategies.

NB: Not offered every year. See department chair.

Prerequisite(s): BIOL 223, and one of BIOL 340, 372, or 386. (0-0; 3-0)

BIOL 484 Applied Ecology (3 sem. hrs.)

An exploration of various practical applications of biology in environmental management, monitoring, and remediation. Topics include many important areas of concern such as wildlife management, fisheries, forestry, agriculture, water and air pollution, and protection of endangered ecosystems. Various biological approaches to these are considered, such as population modelling, ecophysiology, microbiology techniques, biomonitoring, ecosystem health, and biodiversity inventories. The implications of environmental ethics and the role of Christian environmental stewardship are discussed.

NB: Not offered every year. See department chair.

Cross-listed: GENV 484.

Prerequisite(s): BIOL 381 (may be taken concurrently). (0-0; 3-3)

BIOL 490 Advanced Biotechnology (3 sem. hrs.)

This capstone course in biotechnology considers the theoretical and practical aspects of implementing biotechnology, paying particular attention to current issues including: (1) technology transfer and commercialization; (2) patent protection in biotechnology; (3) Good Laboratory Practices (GLP); (4) Good Manufacturing Practices (Food and Drug Regulations, 2002 edition); (5) Good Clinical Practices (GCP); (6) Research Ethics Board guidelines; (7) validation studies; (8) downstream processing and the recovery of purified products; (9) novel developments in methodology. The course includes a seminar series by industry and regulatory experts and site visits to local biotechnology companies to assess how they have implemented and overcome obstacles to production and quality control.

Prerequisite(s): BIOL 290. (0-0; 3-3)

For further course listings, see Au Sable Institute of Environmental Studies listings (under Environmental Studies).

Biotechnology

BIOT 100 Biotechnology Practicum I (1 sem. hr.)

This hands-on course is part of an intern program in the Biology Department at TWU designed to provide instruction in general laboratory procedures and laboratory safety beyond that required during regular undergraduate laboratories. Performed tasks are evaluated and occur in the areas of animal husbandry, general laboratory maintenance, cell culture, histochemistry, light microscopy, and protein chemistry (i.e. western blotting, SDS-PAGE). Students will also acquire general instruction in Good Laboratory Practice (GLP) and Good Animal Practice (GAP).

BIOT 200/300/400 Biotechnology Practica II, III, IV (2 or 3 sem. hrs.)

Biotechnology Practica II–IV provide general and advanced intern experiences in industrial settings. BIOT 200 (2 sem. hrs.) is a requirement for entry to co-op placements and graduation. BIOT 300 and 400 (3 sem. hrs. each) are additional intern experiences providing exposure to advanced techniques and applications in biotechnology. The skills taught in each practicum vary depending on the industrial setting, but should include some of the following techniques: mammalian tissue culture; monoclonal antibody production including cell fusion; hybridoma screening by ELISA and immunoblotting; fermentation microbiology and the operation of large-scale fermentation systems; insect cell culture and use of Baculovirus expression vectors to produce recombinant proteins; downstream processing and the recovery and purification of proteins, carbohydrates, lipids; freezing, freeze-drying and preservation of microorganisms, animal viruses, cell lines and hybridomas; high throughput screening strategies, diagnostic testing; methods in bioinformatics; and quality control procedures.

Cross-listed: BIOL 200/300

Prerequisite(s): BIOT 100.

BIOT 290 Introduction to Biotechnology (3 sem. hrs.)

This course reviews the role of modern biotechnology in plant, animal, and marine biology, microbiology, agriculture, the pharmaceutical industry and medicine. The course focuses on underlying technologies in biotechnology, how these technologies are implemented, together with public concerns and government guidelines and legislation.

Cross-listed: BIOL 290

Prerequisite(s): BIOL 103, 104, and 105 or BIOL 113, 114. (3-0 or 3-0)

BIOT 390 Biotechnology and Christian Theology (3 sem. hrs.)

This course is designed to untangle some of the actual or perceived dissonance between issues of biological science and Christian theology. Six major topics are addressed: (1) models, analogies and metaphors in science and Christian theology; (2) scientific and religious investigations of the biosphere; (3) defining human nature; (4) defining non-human nature; (5) caring for the earth; and (6) the biomedical revolution. The common threads among these topics are the tension between Christian faith and the findings of basic and applied biology (biotechnology), and the call to action required in a faith-based view of creation. As well as speaking from their own disciplines and background, the course instructors take part in panel discussions at the end of each of the six units to foster discussion and dialogue on the issues. Student participation is further encouraged by group projects in which the group must develop and dissonance between scientific and religious worldview perspectives.

NB: Not offered every year. See department chair.

Cross-listed: BIOL 390.

Prerequisite(s): BIOL 103, 104, and 105 or BIOL 113, 114; third year standing. (3-0 or 3-0)

BIOT 409 Thesis Preparation (1 sem. hr.)

Students choose a research topic for their senior thesis in consultation with biotechnology faculty. Selected readings and pertinent references to the topic are assigned. A final written report is presented consisting of a detailed thesis proposal with a review of the literature.

Cross-listed: BIOL 409.

Prerequisite(s): Advanced standing in biotechnology. (1-1; 0-0)

BIOT 410 Senior Thesis (2 sem. hrs.)

Students research a chosen area of biotechnology and provide a final written report and oral presentation of research findings.

Cross-listed: BIOL 410.

Prerequisite(s): BIOL 409, a related directed study in preparation, or instructor's consent. (0-0; 1-2)

BIOT 470 Introduction to Bioinformatics (3 sem. hrs.)

An overview of the interdisciplinary science of genomics, proteomics, and bioinformatics which applies the tools of information technology (computer hardware and software) to analyze biological data such as gene or protein sequences. This course examines the theory of bioinformatics as well as its practical application to biological problems using approaches such as BLAST searches, phylogenetics, and protein structure function analysis.

Cross-listed: BIOL 470.

Prerequisite(s): BIOL 223; BIOL/CHEM 372; and either 3 sem. hrs. of computing science or MATH 102. (0-0; 3-3-0)

BIOT 490 Advanced Biotechnology (3 sem. hrs.)

This capstone course in biotechnology considers the theoretical and practical aspects of implementing biotechnology, paying particular attention to current issues including: (1) technology transfer and commercialization; (2) patent protection in biotechnology; (3) Good Laboratory Practices (GLP); (4) Good

The course includes a seminar series by industry and regulatory experts and site visits to local biotechnology companies to assess how they have implemented and overcome obstacles to production and quality control.

Cross-listed: BIOL 490.

Prerequisite(s): BIOT 290. (0-0; 3-3)

Business

BUSI 110 Business in the Global Market (3 sem. hrs.)

An introduction to global business practices. The course surveys governmental and corporate practices of major economic systems: Japan, Europe, Pacific Rim, Rhine countries, etc. Different cultural meanings of concepts such as globalization, world class, nimble organizations, empowerment, and teams are explored. The course provides students with experiential as well as classroom learning to provide a better grasp of the differences in cultures and the adaptation of business concepts.

NB: Offered when available in summer, with overseas travel component. Open to Business and non-Business majors.

Cross-listed: ECON 110.

Prerequisite(s): Instructor's consent.

BUSI 111 Introduction to Business and Management (3 sem. hrs.)

In this course, modern business is studied in its various aspects: economic and social setting, business classifications and financial requirements, business structure and functional areas, basic concepts and techniques, practices and responsibilities, and career opportunities in business.

Prerequisite(s): None. (3-0; 3-0)

BUSI 121 Financial Accounting I (3 sem. hrs.)

Accounting fundamentals, techniques, principles, and concepts. Other topics include the complete accounting cycle, including adjusting and closing entries, the preparation and interpretation of simple financial statements, inventory treatments, capital assets, and partnership accounting. Students are also required to complete a computer based accounting lab.

Prerequisite(s): None. (3-0; 3-0)

BUSI 176 Introduction to Business Research and Decision Making (3 sem. hrs.)

Business research allows managers to make effective decisions in today's organizations. This class will assist students in understanding the research questions to ask in business and will prepare them to analyze and present the data they gather. Students will gain extensive skills in the use of spreadsheets and in spreadsheet modeling – an indispensable tool in the business world.

Cross-listed: ECON 176.

Prerequisite(s): None. (3-0; 3-0)

BUSI 222 Financial and Managerial Accounting (3 sem. hrs.)

The first half of the course focuses on financial accounting with topics such as shareholder equity, investments, the cash flow statement, the comprehensive income statement, and financial analysis. Students learn to analyze and extract key information from corporate financial statements. The second half of the course focuses on managerial accounting covering topics such as cost-volume-profit analysis and budgeting.

Prerequisite(s): BUSI 121 (3-0; 3-0)

BUSI 231 Principles of Marketing (3 sem. hrs.)

This course explores basic considerations affecting the domestic and international marketing of goods and services. Topics include: the nature of marketing activities and marketing institutions, the function and responsibility of an effective marketing system, as well as its role in the economy, the manner in which various forces influence the marketing process, and the analysis of marketing concepts, policies, and practices.

Prerequisite(s): BUSI 111 and second year standing or instructor's consent. (3-0; 3-0)

BUSI 241 Personal Financial Planning (3 sem. hrs.)

Personal financial planning is key to the successful accomplishment of one's life goals. Topics in this course include foundations in financial planning, asset management, debt management, insurance analysis, investment management, retirement planning, and estate planning.

NB: Open to business and non-business students.

Prerequisite(s): None. (3-0; 0-0)

BUSI 245 Foundations of Business Law in Canada (3 sem. hrs.)

A general overview of business law with specific focus on the law of contracts. Attention is given to offer and acceptance, consideration, assignment, discharge, breach, and remedies available at law.

Prerequisite(s): Second year standing. (3-0; 3-0)

BUSI 275 Business Statistics (3 sem. hrs.)

This course considers statistical tools and knowledge necessary for success in business endeavours. Topics include: descriptive statistics, probability (with discrete and continuous distributions), hypothesis testing, regression, and ANOVA. Students learn theory behind the methods, and primarily use spreadsheets as tools for solving advanced problems.

Cross-listed: ECON 275.

Prerequisite(s): MATH 101; BUSI 176 or instructor's consent. (3-0; 3-0)

BUSI 280 Organizational Behaviour (3 sem. hrs.)

This course focuses on the nature of individuals and behaviour in organizations. The emphasis of the course is on building a set of conceptual and pragmatic skills useful in understanding and managing interactions among individuals and groups within organizations. By providing a knowledgebase of organizational and managerial concepts, and by using cases, videos, exercises, and personal inventories, this course develops a student's analytical, diagnostic, and interpersonal skills.

Prerequisite(s): BUSI 111 and second year standing. (3-0; 3-0)

BUSI 301 Managerial Economics (3 sem. hrs.)

The study of the main principles and techniques of price theory and its practical applications. Major topics include: price, production, and distribution theories, the theory of the firm, risk and uncertainty, game theory, and transaction costs. New developments and/or approaches to microeconomic analysis.

Cross-listed: ECON 301.

Prerequisite(s): ECON 102, 201; MATH 101. (3-0; 3-0)

BUSI 302 Intermediate Macroeconomics for Managerial Decision-Making (3 sem. hrs.)

This course looks at the main concepts and methods usually used by economists to explain macroeconomic variables. Topics include: inflation, unemployment, consumption, investment, foreign trade, monetary and fiscal policies, and economic growth. Classical and Keynesian macroeconomic models are studied and compared in terms of economic statics and dynamics.

NB: May not be offered every year.

Cross-listed: ECON 302.

Prerequisite(s): ECON 102, 201. (0-0; 3-0)

BUSI 304 Financial Markets and Institutions (3 sem. hrs.)

The study of the role of money, monetary policy, and financial institutions in the Canadian and U.S. economies. Major topics include: interest rates, decision makers, financial asset prices, risk management, banking and financial institutions, and central banks and monetary policy.

Cross-listed: ECON 304.

Prerequisite(s): BUSI 342. (3-0 or 3-0)

BUSI 311 Global Issues in Business (3 sem. hrs.)

This course explores concepts of international trade theories and the role of multinational enterprises in fostering trade across international borders. Topics include: the political, economic, and cultural environment of international business, global strategies, international competitiveness, country risk analysis, international logistics, marketing, finance, and personnel decisions.

NB: May not be offered every year.

Cross-listed: ECON 311.

Prerequisite(s): ECON 102, 201. (3-0; 3-0)

BUSI 317 Investment Theory (3 sem. hrs.)

A study of financial markets and the various instruments traded on those markets, with consideration to how these instruments are priced. Other topics explored include: portfolio theory, market efficiency, equilibrium, asset analysis, asset allocation, and portfolio management.

Cross-listed: ECON 317.

Prerequisite(s): BUSI 342. (3-0 or 3-0)

BUSI 318 Applied Investments (3 sem. hrs.)

This course encompasses the Canadian Securities course (CSC) and will explore investment topics relevant to an investment advisor in the Canadian securities industry. Topics considered in this course include: capital markets and their regulation, investment products, portfolio management, and managed accounts. The student has opportunity to apply this knowledge through detailed analysis of a specific investment product.

Prerequisite(s): BUSI 342. (0-0; 3-0)

BUSI 321 Intermediate Accounting I (3 sem. hrs.)

This course explores the role and objectives of financial reporting, the challenges facing standard setting, and a review of the accounting process. Other topics include income measurement and issues related to economic resources such as cash, receivables, inventories, and operational assets.

Prerequisite(s): BUSI 121, 222 with at least a 2.5 GPA. (3-0; 0-0)

BUSI 322 Intermediate Accounting II (3 sem. hrs.)

Accounting principles related to capital assets and amortization. Topics include: investments, contingent liabilities and disclosure, bonds and long term liabilities, capital and operating leases, income tax liabilities, pension and benefits liabilities, shareholder's equity, and earnings per share calculations.

Prerequisite(s): BUSI 321. (0-0; 3-0)

BUSI 323 Management Accounting I (3 sem. hrs.)

Accounting concepts used by management to plan and control their operations. Topics include: analysis of accounting information for use in decision-making, cost-volume-profit relationships, the techniques for costing a firm's products and services, the managerial uses of these costs, and the development of budgets.

Prerequisite(s): BUSI 222. (3-0; 0-0)

BUSI 324 Management Accounting II (3 sem. hrs.)

A study of the design, preparation, and use of flexible budgets and variances, the cost information required for pricing and product evaluation, management control systems and performance measures, and how to assist in the strategic planning of the firm.

Prerequisite(s): BUSI 323. (0-0; 3-0)

BUSI 334 Sales Management (3 sem. hrs.)

This course looks at case studies, textual material relating to various aspects of sales management - such as marketing strategy, planning the sales function, and controlling of the sales effort - sales analysis, and evaluation management of the sales force and personal selling.

Prerequisite(s): BUSI 231. (3-0 or 3-0)

BUSI 335 Consumer Behaviour (3 sem. hrs.)

This course explores the ways human beings think about buying the products and services they need, want, or desire in order to help the producers of products and services better design and deliver them. This understanding of what we term “consumer behavior” is a fundamental key to all marketing decisions and programs as we seek to explore the psychology of the entire buying process from awareness of need to post-purchase evaluation. Students are exposed to numerous theories from psychology, sociology, economics, education, and marketing to explain why and how consumers buy the products and services they do.

Prerequisite(s): BUSI 280; ECON 201 (3-0 or 3-0)

BUSI 338 International Marketing Management (3 sem. hrs.)

Designed to equip students for marketing in a global environment, this course will cover the scope and challenges of international marketing, the dynamics of international trade, and the cultural, political, legal, and business systems of global markets. Students will develop the ability to recognize global market opportunities; they will also learn to develop global marketing strategies.

Prerequisite(s): BUSI 231. (3-0 or 3-0)

BUSI 342 Management Finance (3 sem. hrs.)

This course will explore the principles of successful financial management and will target various aspects of managing an organization financially. The focus of the course is on theory and application of that theory to four key areas of financial management: capital budgeting; optimal debt levels; financial management of day -to-day activities; and, various ways to assess and identify risk. The course will be taught from a Christian world view and will emphasize the importance of man’s responsibility/ stewardship of what she/he is responsible for, and to whom she/he is ultimately accountable.

Prerequisite(s): MATH 101; BUSI 176, 222. (3-0; 3-0)

BUSI 346 Law for the Business Manager (3 sem. hrs.)

This course follows up on BUSI 245 and provides students with the knowledge and skills to manage a number of business areas that have potential legal risk including sale of goods, agency, bailment, insurance and guarantees, negotiable instruments, employment and human rights, intellectual property, real property, mortgages, partnerships, the nature and operations of corporations, credit transactions, and government regulation of business.

Prerequisite(s): BUSI 245. (3-0; 3-0)

BUSI 351 Industrial Relations (3 sem. hrs.)

This course focuses on the nature of union-management relations in organizations. The course emphasis is on building a set of conceptual skills useful in understanding the industrial relations system within Canada. By using cases, videos, and exercises, students discuss laws and practices of unionization, the negotiation and administration of collective agreements, and a variety of dispute resolution procedures.

Prerequisite(s): BUSI 280; third year standing. (0-0; 3-0)

BUSI 352 Managing the Human Resource (3 sem. hrs.)

A practical study on how organizations obtain, maintain, and retain their human resources that enable them to achieve their objectives. Topics include: human resource planning, recruitment, selection, performance management and training and development.

Prerequisite(s): BUSI 280; third year standing. (3-0; 3-0)

BUSI 363 Organizational Design and Development (3 sem. hrs.)

This course focuses on how to design and maintain organizational effectiveness through developing appropriate levels of control and coordination. This course introduces and critically examines the current theories and approaches to the management and structural design of organizations, and assesses their relevance and usefulness to organizations wanting to remain competitive in a rapidly changing marketplace.

Prerequisite(s): BUSI 280; third year standing. (3-0; 3-0)

BUSI 370 Business Information Systems (3 sem. hrs.)

A study of the impact of information technology and the ways in which organizations can achieve competitive advantage and support of key business functions through the strategic design, deployment, and use of information technology. The course teaches students the utilization of spreadsheet, database management, and project management software to manage the design, deployment, and use of information technology within an organizational setting.

Cross-listed: ISYS 370.

Prerequisite(s): Third year standing. (3-0 or 3-0)

BUSI 377 Operations Management (3 sem. hrs.)

This course considers the various operative models with which firms attempt to create value. Topics include: quality theory, quality measurement, production/supply chain planning and execution, process design, and project management. The course also covers information tools necessary for effective operations, and management of the service content of the firm's products.

Cross-listed: ISYS 377.

Prerequisite(s): BUSI 275. (3-0; 3-0)

BUSI 381 Advanced Topics in Operations Management (3 sem. hrs.)

This course looks at the management of operations' variables and their part in the overall business strategy. Students will focus on one chosen firm or industry, possibly with additional focus on the business climate in a chosen geographic region. Topic emphasis will vary depending on the focus, but will include some combination of: allocation and scheduling of resources, inventory and quality control, personnel needs, how to achieve production efficiencies and cost control, operation layout and design, and standards and methods development. Quantitative management tools are incorporated.

NB: May not be offered every year.

BUSI 411 Business in the Global Market (3 sem. hrs.)

An introduction to global business practices while on a travel study. The course surveys governmental and corporate practices of major economic systems throughout the world. Different cultural meanings of concepts such as globalization, world class, nimble organizations, empowerment, and teams are explored. The class provides students with experiential as well as classroom learning to provide a better grasp of the differences in cultures and the adaptation of the concepts.

NB: Offered when available in summer with overseas travel component.

Cross-listed: ECON 411.

Prerequisite(s): Permission of the instructor. (3-0 or 3-0)

BUSI 412 International Economic Competitiveness (3 sem. hrs.)

This course studies the competitiveness of companies in different countries and regions given ever-changing economic conditions and policies.

The course reviews factors that determine competitive advantage including: factor conditions, demand conditions, supporting industries, firm strategy, and government policy.

Cross-listed: ECON 412

Prerequisite(s): ECON 102, 201; third year standing. (3-0 or 3-0)

BUSI 413 Business as Mission (3 sem. hrs.)

Business Administration, Graduate Courses

Core Business Courses

MBA 501 Marketing Management (3 sem. hrs.)

This course explores the theoretical underpinnings of the discipline of marketing in order to develop a conceptual framework to critique the practice of marketing in the early 21st century. This course utilizes extensive case analysis techniques to enhance the manager's ability to develop and critique marketing plans in both the for-profit and non-profit sectors.

MBA 521 Managerial Accounting (3 sem. hrs.)

Managerial Accounting provides managers with an understanding of internal reporting of operating results, including the tools they need to interpret key financial information and improve overall performance. Management accounting plays a vital decision-making role in today's lean organization. Topics include cost concepts and applications, cost-volume-profit relationships, product costing, budgeting, and standard costing.

MBA 525 Managerial Economics (3 sem. hrs.)

This course applies economic theories and quantitative methods to management decision-making. Solutions for many important management decision problems in the areas of product selection, pricing, investment, and organization design can be found in managerial economics using relevant economic theories and quantitative methods. Topics include theory of the firm, theory of consumer demand, industrial organization, game theory, forecasting, statistical estimation, decision-making under uncertainty, and capital budgeting.

MBA 542 Managerial Finance (3 sem. hrs.)

This course provides an opportunity for the manager to develop good understanding in the areas of capital investment and financing. The capital investment decision allocates scarce resources to projects in the organization and involves asset valuation, capital budgeting, risk management, working capital management, and performance assessment. The financing decision chooses sources of cash to finance the investment decisions and involves capital structure, financial instruments, the risk-return trade-off, financial planning, and the cost of capital. Ethical considerations and management in the global context from a Christian worldview are integrated into these topics.

MBA 552 Human Resource Management (3 sem. hrs.)

This course focuses on the strategic use of human resource practices to reinforce and support the core capabilities of the organization. The course reviews the functions of human resource management, organizational behaviour, and organizational theory within a business and a non-profit setting, with a special emphasis on doing business in the global marketplace. The course examines how organizations plan for, attract, retain, and manage employees for a sustained competitive advantage.

MBA 570 Information and Knowledge Management Systems (3 sem. hrs.)

This course provides an overview and understanding of the issues involved in the strategic management of the information and knowledge assets of national, international, and transnational organizations. The course examines a broad range of issues and problems associated with information systems (IS) and knowledge management systems (KMS) and their alignment with the strategic goals of an organization. The course includes a comparative study of present theories with particular attention to the role of computer-based information and knowledge management systems in the organizational policy of a variety of business, government, and other institutions.

MBA 571 Operations Management (3 sem. hrs.)

This course considers the various operative models by which firms attempt to create value. It is assumed that business operations are conducted to realize the aims of the business strategy. Toward that end, students develop the skills and the thinking necessary to maximize the effectiveness of the operations. Topics include quality, production/supply chain planning, production/supply chain execution, process design, and project management. Analytical methods are introduced when appropriate. Specific consideration is given to the correct management of the service content of the firm's products.

MBA 590, 591, 592 Christian Leadership and Ethics (1, 1, 1 sem. hr.)

This unique course consists of three modules taken during the first three residencies. The course explores a Christian perspective on business and how it impacts management and leadership of organizations. The course introduces students to cutting edge leadership theory, techniques, and tools. Topics include: general leadership principles, motivation and behavioral change, decision-making, vision setting, understanding group dynamics, team building, communication processes, understanding power, and conflict resolution. The course includes a self-assessment of leadership skills and focuses on Christian values and ethics in the marketplace, surveying Christian perspectives of morality as they relate to particular business leadership issues. This includes examination of ethical issues arising in the areas of corporate social responsibility, dispute resolution, employee rights, advertising, and the use of information technology.

MBA 593 Christian Leadership and Ethics (3 sem. hrs.)

This course explores a Christian perspective on business and how it impacts management and leadership of organizations. The course introduces students to cutting edge leadership theory, techniques, and tools. Topics include: general leadership principles, motivation and behavioral change, decision-making, vision setting, understanding group dynamics, team building, communication processes, understanding power, and conflict resolution. The course includes a self-assessment of leadership skills and focuses on Christian values and ethics in the marketplace, surveying Christian perspectives of morality as they relate to particular business leadership issues. This includes examination of ethical issues arising in the areas of corporate social responsibility, dispute resolution, employee rights, advertising, and the use of information technology.

MBA 684 Business Strategy (6 sem. hrs.)

This course focuses on competitive strategy at the corporate and business unit level. Strategy development is highly complex and this course helps students develop skills that identify and properly address issues. The format of the class is designed for thought and practice on the part of each student. Key topics include: learning curve, relative market share, value chain; Porter's 5 Forces, BCG, GE, PIMS, EVA, and other such concepts; mission statement, competitive positioning, SWOT and other aspects of analyzing one's own organization; forecasting – sources of information, trends, and analysis; critically analyzing situations and persuasively presenting solutions to various audiences; ethics and corporate responsibilities; and implementation strategies.

Prerequisite(s): MBA 501, 521, 542, and 552. Specialization Courses

MBA 650 Integrated Project for a Non-Profit Organization (3 sem. hrs.)

This integrated project for a non-profit organization requires students to apply several management disciplines to the development of a complex project in an actual non-profit community setting. MBA 660 Business Internship (3 sem. hrs.)

This integrated project for a non-profit organization requires students to apply several management disciplines to the development of a complex project in an actual non-profit community setting. Students will work closely with both the professor and individuals in the non-profit community to complete the project. All projects are to be approved by the MBA Director. Specialization Courses – Non-Profit and Charitable Organization Management

MBA 651 The Formation and Structure of Non-Profit and Charitable Organizations (3 sem. hrs.)

This course explores the elements of an effective start-up of a charitable organization. They include analysis of steps needed to form a charitable organization, development of a business plan, recruiting leadership, establishing a board, securing seed funding, and much more. The course also analyzes why some organizations succeed while others do not.

MBA 652 Management and Leadership for Non-Profit and Charitable Organizations (3 sem. hrs.)

This course examines the unique characteristics and role of non-profit organizations in our society. From this perspective, we seek to understand the role of effective management and leadership of non-profits, with attention to factors that leaders may use to improve the effectiveness of their organizations. Through case description and theoretical analysis, students learn about major differences between managing non-profit and profit-making organizations. Student acquire skills focused on governance, financing, and general management of non-profit organizations.

MBA 653 Legal Issues for Charitable Organizations (3 sem. hrs.)

Managers of non-profit and charitable organizations face numerous legal challenges not faced by corporate managers. The course examines a number of such legal challenges including formation of the charity, obtaining charitable status, reporting requirements, charitable governance, employment and human rights concerns including codes of conduct and lifestyle requirements, working with volunteers, and exposure to tort liability.

MBA 654 Grants, Funding, and Not-for-Profit Marketing (3 sem. hrs.)

Securing adequate resources is a challenge for all non-profit organizations. Funding can be obtained from a variety of sources, including grants, user fees, gifts and bequests, and investments. This course provides the tools for properly assessing the funding mix of an organization and developing strategies to increase revenue streams. In particular, topics such as fee setting and collection, grant writing, investment management, public relations, and donor development and relations are covered.

MBA 655 Financial Management of Non-Profit and Charitable Organizations (3 sem. hrs.)

The practice of financial management in non-profit organizations is significantly different from that in for-profit businesses. Many of the differences stem from the difficulty of measuring and valuing outputs, and from restrictions imposed by donors and grant-making agencies. This course considers accounting, budgeting, financing, investment, and other financial management activities in non-profit organizations, including fund accounting, form and interpretation of financial statements, endowment management issues, federal and provincial regulation, measurement and evaluation of organizational performance, and control systems design. This course is ideally suited for students who expect to manage non-profit organizations or serve on non-profit boards.

Specialization Courses – Management of the Growing Enterprise

MBA 671 Enterprise Start-Up and Positioning (3 sem. hrs.)

This course explores the process of creating a new venture, including opportunity recognition, feasibility analysis, business plan creation, and financing. Class discussion and case analyses present decision-making techniques and skills required to evaluate business start-up strategies.

MBA 672 Business and Venture Financing (3 sem. hrs.)

This course focuses on the development of strategies for financing entrepreneurial ventures. It includes analysis of numerous funding sources including debt, venture capital, and private equity financing. It includes a study of the contractual and operational relationships that exist between suppliers of venture capital, intermediaries, and the entrepreneurial firm. The course also assists managers in understanding how to pragmatically structure and negotiate the financing deal.

MBA 673 Strategic Issues in Marketing the Growing Enterprise (3 sem. hrs.)

This course familiarizes students with writings and research in the areas of e-marketing, global marketing, internal marketing, relationship marketing, services marketing, and sports marketing, particularly with respect to how each impacts the growing enterprise. The rapidly evolving field of marketing requires extensive discussion around these various topics and the ability to connect these seemingly disparate topics together within an integrated theoretical marketing framework.

MBA 674 Leadership, Management, and Systems Change (3 sem. hrs.)

Growing enterprises often encounter leadership, management, and systems problems caused by their growth. To sustain growth, the activities of entrepreneurs usually have to change from innovation to delegation, with greater levels of communication and organization. Different functional and leadership skills are needed at various stages of growth. External supports, such as accountants, lawyers, and investors, often have to be incorporated into the operations of the firm. In addition, corporate systems require significant change as the enterprise grows. This course is designed to identify the reasons for, and the tools to make critical leadership, management, and systems change as the enterprise grows.

MBA 675 The Legal Environment of Business (3 sem. hrs.)

This course provides students with an understanding of the legal environment in which Canadian businesses operate. Prerequisite(s): None. (4-1-3; 0-0-0)171

CHEM 104 General Chemistry II (3 sem. hrs.)

A continuation of CHEM 103. Topics covered include: chemical equilibrium, chemical kinetics, the nature of organic substances and some of their basic reactions. These concepts are discussed as far as possible in the context of their significance in life processes, in industrial processes, and in the environment.

NB: Not offered every year. See department chair.

Prerequisite(s): CHEM 103 or equivalent or instructor's consent. (0-0-0; 3-1-3)

CHEM 111, 112 Principles of Chemistry (3, 3 sem. hrs.)

This course covers modern concepts in the fundamental laws and principles of chemistry. Topics include: molecular bonding and structure, stoichiometry, and chemical calculations, thermochemistry, nature of solutions, introduction to chemical kinetics, chemical equilibrium, acids, bases and buffer systems, elementary energy concepts, introduction to organic chemistry, and descriptive inorganic chemistry.

NB: Credit is not given for both CHEM 103, 104; and CHEM 111, 112.

NB: CHEM 111 should precede CHEM 112 or instructor's consent is required.

Prerequisite(s): Chemistry 11 or 12 or equivalent. (3-1-3; 3-1-3)

CHEM 221, 222 Organic Chemistry (3, 3 sem. hrs.)

An introduction to theoretical, physical, and descriptive organic chemistry. A study of the properties of aliphatic, alicyclic, and simple aromatic compounds is examined. Introductory spectroscopy. The laboratory course illustrates the operations, representative reactions, and syntheses of organic chemistry.

NB: CHEM 221 should precede CHEM 222.

Prerequisite(s): CHEM 111, 112; or CHEM 103, 112; or CHEM 103, 104 with instructor's consent. (3-1-4; 3-1-4)

CHEM 230 Inorganic Chemistry (3 sem. hrs.)

This course studies the chemical and physical properties of the elements and inorganic compounds using atomic orbital theory and the theory of bonding in molecules and crystalline solids. Main group element chemistry and the structure of the periodic table are emphasized throughout.

Prerequisite(s): CHEM 111, 112; or CHEM 103, 112; or CHEM 103, 104 with instructor's consent. (3-0 or 3-0)

CHEM 240 Physical Chemistry (3 sem. hrs.)

An introduction to thermodynamics as applied to chemical reactions. Topics include: the First and Second Laws of Thermodynamics, free energy and equilibria, phase equilibria, and electrochemistry.

NB: Not offered every year. See department chair.

Cross-listed: PHYS 240.

Prerequisite(s): CHEM 111, 112; or CHEM 103, 112; or CHEM 103, 104 with instructor's consent; MATH 123, 124. (3-4 or 3-4)

CHEM 321, 322 Advanced Organic Chemistry (3, 3 sem. hrs.)

Methods for spectroscopic determination of structures in organic chemistry. The course covers functional chemistry of organic substances that have particular relevance to the life sciences; modern synthetic techniques for functional group transformation; principles involved in the planning and execution of multi-step synthesis of organic molecules; and, laboratory in synthetic methods and spectroscopic techniques.

NB: Not offered every year. See department chair.

Prerequisite(s): CHEM 221, 222. (3-4; 3-0)

CHEM 341, 342 Advanced Physical Chemistry (3, 3 sem. hrs.)

The fundamental concepts of matter and its structure in relation to energy. Quantum mechanics, statistical thermodynamics, spectroscopy, kinetics, and the solid state are considered.

NB: Not offered every year. See department chair.

Cross-listed: CHEM 341 is cross-listed as PHYS 341.

Co-requisite: MATH 223.

Prerequisite(s): CHEM 240. (3-4; 3-0)

CHEM 357, 358 Modern Analytical Methods (3, 3 sem. hrs.)

Introduction to the theory and practice of analytical chemistry. After a review of the basic laboratory techniques used in pure and applied chemistry and in biological chemistry, the course discusses a number of instrumental techniques, particularly those based on chromatographic, electromagnetic radiation, and electrochemical theories.

NB: CHEM 357 should precede CHEM 358. Not offered every year. See department chair.

Prerequisite(s): CHEM 111, 112; or CHEM 103, 112; or CHEM 103, 104; and a 200 level or above chemistry lab course. (3-4; 3-4)

CHEM 370 Environmental Chemistry (3 sem. hrs.)

The study of chemical reactions as they relate to the environment. The course takes a biogeochemical approach with emphasis placed on the deleterious effects that human activities and technologies have had on atmospheric, aquatic, and terrestrial systems. Methods to alleviate environmental problems are considered.

Prerequisite(s): CHEM 111, 112; or CHEM 103, 112; or CHEM 103, 104. CHEM 221, 222 recommended. (0-0; 3-4)

CHEM 372 Molecular Genetics (3 sem. hrs.)

This course considers modern developments and techniques in genetics, especially the basic and applied aspects of recombinant DNA technology.

NB: CHEM 372 may only be applied to the Life Sciences Emphasis Program in chemistry.

Cross-listed: BIOL 372.

Prerequisite(s): BIOL 113, 114; a minimum C grade in 223; CHEM 103, 104; or 103, 112; or 111, 112. CHEM 221, 222 recommended. (0-0; 3-3)

CHEM 384 Principles of Biochemistry (3 sem. hrs.)

The study of chemical structure, function, and metabolism of carbohydrates, lipids, proteins, and nucleic acids. This class is continued as CHEM 386.

Cross-listed: BIOL 384.

Pre-requisite(s): CHEM 221, 222.

Recommended: BIOL 113, 114; 223. (3-1-3 or 3-1-3)

CHEM 386 Biosynthesis (3 sem. hrs.)

In this course, two aspects of biochemistry are developed: (1) The modern understanding of the biochemical transfer of genetic information: DNA structure and synthesis, transcription, and translation. These are related to developments in recombinant DNA technology. (2) An introduction to physiological biochemistry including vision, muscle contraction, and neurotransmission.

NB: CHEM 386 may only be applied to the Life Sciences Emphasis and honours programs in chemistry.

Cross-listed: BIOL 386.

Prerequisite(s): CHEM 221, 222.

Recommended: BIOL 113, 114; 223. (3-0 or 3-0)

CHEM 400 Directed Studies in Chemistry (2 or 3 sem. hrs.)

Students are required to produce an outline of the topic to be studied in consultation with the instructor. A course of reading and/or experimentation is pursued according to the approved outline. Assessment may be via examination and/or a final written report.

NB: This course with the appropriate choice of topics can be used as a preparation for the senior thesis (CHEM 410).

Prerequisite(s): Advanced standing in chemistry or instructor's consent.

CHEM 409 Thesis Preparation (1 sem. hr.)

Students are required to choose a topic for their senior thesis (CHEM 410) in consultation with an instructor. Selected readings and references pertinent to the topic are assigned. Regular meetings take place with all students and instructors in the class. A final written report is presented consisting of a detailed thesis proposal and a literature review.

Prerequisite(s): Advanced standing in chemistry or instructor's consent.

CHEM 410 Senior Thesis (2 sem. hrs.)

Students research a chosen area of chemistry and provide a final written report.

Prerequisite(s): CHEM 409, a related directed study in preparation, or instructor's consent.

CHEM 411 Senior Thesis (3 sem. hrs.)

Students research a chosen area of chemistry and provide a final written report.

NB: This course can only be taken by prior arrangement with the department chair and the Office of the Registrar.

Prerequisite(s): CHEM 409, a related directed study in preparation, or instructor's consent.

CHEM 431, 432 Advanced Inorganic Chemistry (3, 3 sem. hrs.)

This course looks at the chemistry of the transition metals. Emphasis during the first semester is on classical co-ordination chemistry, including stereochemistry, symmetry, theories of bonding and electronic structure in complexes. The second semester includes a variety of special topics in inorganic chemistry, such as organometallic chemistry, catalysis, and bioinorganic chemistry.

NB: CHEM 431 should precede 432. Not offered every year. See department chair.

Prerequisite(s): CHEM 230. (3-4; 3-0)

CHEM 469 Polymer Chemistry (3 sem. hrs.)

A study of organic and structural aspects of several polymer families, physical properties including molecular weight and distribution, solution properties of macromolecules, kinetics of polymerization in free radical, ionic, and condensation systems. Stereochemistry of polymers. Application to the properties of selected synthetic rubbers and plastics.

NB: Not offered every year. See department chair.

Prerequisite(s): CHEM 221, 222. (3-0 or 3-0)

For further course listings, see Au Sable Institute of Environmental Studies listings (under Environmental Studies).

Chinese

CHIN 101, 102 Introduction to Chinese Language and Culture I & II (3, 3 sem. hrs.)

A basic introduction to Mandarin Chinese for students with no previous knowledge of either Mandarin or Cantonese. The courses focus on speaking and listening comprehension, but also introduce reading and writing. With Chinese culture as a major component, students gain insight into the significance of China today and over the centuries.

Prerequisite(s): None; CHIN 101 is a 174

prerequisite for CHIN 102. (3-1; 3-1)

CHIN 201, 202 Intermediate Chinese Language and Culture I & II (3, 3 sem. hrs.)

These courses develop students' Chinese language skills and provide them with further insight into Chinese culture and history. With an emphasis on improving communication skills, the courses offer extensive practice in listening, speaking, reading, and writing. Students read various authentic texts, review and study grammar, and expand their cultural understanding through readings, film, and discussion with the instructor. A field trip to the Chinese community enables students to practise their language skills and experience Chinese culture firsthand.

NB: Presently offered as a directed study.

Prerequisite(s): CHIN 102 or permission for CHIN 201; CHIN 201 FOR CHIN 202

CHIN 301, 302 Intermediate Chinese Language and Culture III & IV (3, 3 sem. hrs.)

These courses are intended to further improve students' Chinese language skills and to expand their understanding of the Chinese culture and history. With an emphasis on both spoken and written Chinese, the courses help students enlarge their Chinese vocabulary, improve their speaking skills, enhance their understanding of Chinese grammar, and develop their writing skills in Chinese. Through reading authentic Chinese texts of increasing difficulty, students gain a greater mastery of the language and a better understanding of Chinese culture.

NB: Presently offered as a directed study.

Prerequisite(s): CHIN 202 for CHIN 301; CHIN 301 for CHIN 302

CHIN 401, 402 Advanced Chinese Language and Culture I & II (3, 3 sem. hrs.)

As advanced courses in Mandarin Chinese, CHIN 401 and 402 continue to improve students' capabilities in the skills of listening comprehension, speaking, reading, and writing, with an emphasis on conversational skills. With extensive listening, speaking, and reading practice, these courses will help students enlarge their Chinese vocabulary, improve their oral skills, increase their understanding of Chinese grammar, and enrich their knowledge of Chinese culture.

Prerequisite(s): CHIN 302 for 401; CHIN 401 for 402.

CHIN 411 Modern Chinese Texts 1 (3, 3 sem. hrs.)

An intensive reading course for students who have acquired advanced reading skills in modern Chinese. Selected reading materials cover a wide range of modern and contemporary Chinese fiction, non-fiction and cinematic texts from 1975 to the present. Through intensive reading of some influential works of this period, students will gain a better understanding of the development and major themes of modern Chinese culture.

NB: Presently offered as a directed study.

Prerequisite(s): CHIN 402, Grade 12 Chinese, or permission.

Computing Science

Computing Science courses may be used to satisfy core requirements for natural sciences, but not for a laboratory science.

NB: Students studying programming must master very large amounts of technical material and demonstrate their mastery in written form. For this reason, a high level of English reading and writing skills is required before taking the following courses. Students who lack such skills should take courses to develop them before considering enrolment in any programming course.

CMPT courses numbered below 130 do not count towards a mathematics, applied mathematics with computing science, or computing science major, concentration, or minor.

CMPT 113 Introduction to Information Systems and Web Technologies (3 sem. hrs.)

An introductory level of understanding of information systems with an emphasis on web technologies. Students learn about authoring static and client-sided dynamic web pages and sites. Information systems and web technology studies, including the development of database aware server-sided web pages and sites in later courses, are also examined.

NB: Not offered every year. See department chair.

Cross-listed: ISYS 113

Prerequisite(s): None. (3-3 or 3-3)

CMPT 123 Data Analysis for Information Systems (3 sem. hrs.)

An introduction to spreadsheets and databases. Cell formulas, charts, macro programming are examined. Database design, decomposition; basic SQL. Tools such as Excel, Access, and MS-SQL may be used, but the focus is on concepts and design rather than skills with specific tools.

Prerequisite(s): CMPT 113 or CMPT 140, or equivalent.

Cross-listed: ISYS 123 (3-1-3 or 3-1-3)

CMPT 140 Introduction to Computing Science and Programming I (3 sem. hrs.)

An elementary introduction to computing science and programming as a problem-solving tool. Fundamental concepts and terminology of computing science will be introduced. Programming skill will be obtained by using a high-level language. Topics will include: abstraction, data types and control structures, fundamental algorithms and pseudocode, computability and complexity, and computer architecture.

Cross-listed: ISYS 140

Prerequisite(s): None. (3-1-3 or 3-1-3)

CMPT 150 Introduction to Discrete Math (3 sem. hrs.)

An introduction to those branches of pure mathematics that are most commonly used in the study of computing science and/or have other practical applications. Topics include: logic, proofs, switching circuits, set theory, induction, functions, languages, finite automata, combinatorics, and algebraic structures. This course may be taken by non-majors for non-lab science credit.

NB: Not offered every year. See department chair.

Cross-listed: MATH 150.

Prerequisite(s): Mathematics 12, MATH 101 or the equivalent. (3-1-0 or 0-0-0)

CMPT 166 Introduction to Computing Science and Programming II (3 sem. hrs.)

A rigorous introduction to computing science and computer programming. Students will learn in-depth programming concepts by seeing how object oriented (OO) concepts are employed in the design and writing of code in a variety of notations. The emphasis is on the theory of OO programming and design of solutions, as well as implementation using an OO language such as Java or C++.

Cross-listed: ISYS 166

Prerequisite(s): CMPT 140 with a minimum grade of C+. (0-0; 3-3)

CMPT 200 Computing Projects (1-3 sem. hrs.)

In this course, students choose to work on a particular computing project. Possible projects include: a second or third computer language, computer applications in the arts and sciences, ethical issues, computer security, networking, or a major software project. Enrolment is strictly limited, and instructor's consent is required.

NB: Not offered every year. See coordinator of academic computing for permission to take this course.

Prerequisite(s): Second year standing in computing science and in the subject 176 area of the proposed project. (3-3 or 3-3)

CMPT 211 Web Technologies I (3 sem. hrs.)

This course is a continuation of CMPT 113, and introduces students to the programming side of web technologies. Students learn to write client side, and begin to explore server-side dynamic web page programming utilizing web programming language, such as JavaScript and PHP. This course provides initial instruction in the latest web technologies; the exact techniques taught from year to year depend on W3C, and programming standards developments.

NB: Not offered every year. See department chair.

Cross-listed: ISYS 211

Prerequisite(s): CMPT 113 or instructor's consent. (3-3 or 3-3)

CMPT 231 Data Structures and Algorithms (3 sem. hrs.)

Basic organization of programs, optimizing program structure, modularization, data structures, searching and sorting algorithms, handling large data sets, analysis of algorithms.

NB: Not offered every year. See department chair.

Prerequisite(s): CMPT 140 or instructor's consent. (3-3 or 3-3)

CMPT 237 Introduction to Database Management Systems (3 sem. hrs.)

An introduction to the common methods of structuring files for a variety of applications and to methods of using data organization techniques in the design and management of databases.

NB: Not offered every year. See department chair.

Cross-listed: ISYS 237

Prerequisite(s): CMPT 140. (3-2 or 3-2)

CMPT 242 Computing Machine Organization (3 sem. hrs.)

An introduction to assembly language, machine architecture, low-level components of the operating system, and other low-level issues.

NB: Not offered every year. See department chair.

Prerequisite(s): CMPT 140 or equivalent. (3-3 or 3-3)

CMPT 325 Computer Networking (3 sem. hrs.)

This course looks at network protocols, network operating systems, and the construction and maintenance of server sites.

NB: Not offered every year. See department chair.

Cross-listed: ISYS 325

Prerequisite(s): Third year standing in computing science or Information Systems. (3-0-3 or 3-0-3)

CMPT 330 Numerical Analysis (4 sem. hrs.)

Numerical techniques for solving problems in applied mathematics. Error analysis, roots of equations, interpolation, numerical differentiation and integration, ordinary differential equations, matrix methods are considered.

NB: Not offered every year. See department chair.

Cross-listed: MATH 330.

Prerequisite(s): MATH 223, 250; CMPT 140; or equivalent. (4-0 or 4-0)

CMPT 334 Principles of Operating Systems (3 sem. hrs.)

Operating system and control software at a low level, memory management, processor management, storage management, and system architecture are among the topics considered.

NB: Not offered every year. See department chair.

Prerequisite(s): Third year standing in computing science. (3-0-3 or 3-0-3)

CMPT 340 Discrete Structures and Computing (3 sem. hrs.)

This is a second course in the topics of pure mathematics, particularly those most commonly used in the study of computing science and related applications. It includes proof techniques, models of computation, formal languages, analysis of algorithms, trees and advanced general graph theory with applications, finite state and automata theory, encryption, and an elementary introduction to mathematical structures such as groups, rings, and fields.

NB: Not offered every year. See department chair.

Cross-listed: MATH 340.

Prerequisite(s): CMPT 150 or MATH 150. (0-0; 3-0)

CMPT 360 Comparative Programming Languages (3 sem. hrs.)

The history, development, and design principles for programming notations. The design and internal operations of the major notational categories are examined in detail. Students are expected to become proficient in at least four languages they have not previously learned, typically chosen from historical, modern working, and cutting edge languages and from among such (non-exclusive) categories as Algol-descended, functional, scripting, Web-based, modular, application-specific, visual, and object oriented. They will also learn how to select appropriate programming notations for a given project. Programming will be undertaken in at least three OS environments.

NB: Not offered every year. See department chair.

Prerequisite(s): CMPT 140, 166 and at least one second year computing science course. (3-0-3 or 3-0-3)

CMPT 370 Computer Graphics (3 sem. hrs.)

This course is designed to provide already-experienced students with some of the advanced graphics tools that they need to take their places as competent professional programmers. Topics include: advanced programming using packages and environments.

NB: Not offered every year. See department chair.

Prerequisite(s): CMPT 166; or the equivalent, and third year status, or instructor's permission. (3-3 or 3-3)

CMPT 385 Software Engineering (3 sem. hrs.)

An introduction to the theory of designing and carrying out large software projects. All stages of the software engineering cycle are examined and experienced, and planning for at least one project is undertaken.

NB: Not offered every year. See department chair.

Cross-listed: ISYS 385

Prerequisite(s): Proficiency in two or more programming languages; CMPT 140; CMPT 231. (3-3; 0-0)

CMPT 386 Software Engineering Project (3 sem. hrs.)

The projects designed in CMPT 385 are carried through to completion and tested.

NB: Not offered every year. See department chair.

Cross-listed: ISYS 386

Prerequisite(s): Grade of B- in CMPT 385 and the ability to work on a team. (0-0; 1-6)

CMPT 387 Software Engineering Project II (3 sem. hrs.)

The projects designed in CMPT 385/386 are carried through to completion and tested. This course permits students to do a second project.

NB: Not offered every year. See department chair.

Cross-listed: ISYS 387

Prerequisite(s): Grade of B- in CMPT 385 and 386 and the ability to work on a team. (0-0; 1-6)178

CMPT 400 Directed Studies in Computing Science (1-3 sem. hrs.)

Students are required to produce an outline of the topic studied in consultation with the instructor. A course of reading and/or experimentation is pursued according to the approved outline. Assessment may be via examination and/or a final written report.

NB: This course with the appropriate choice of topics can be used as a preparation for the senior thesis (CMPT 410) or senior project (CMPT 420). This course can only be taken with the consent of the academic computing coordinator.

Cross-listed: ISYS 400

Prerequisite(s): Advanced standing in computing science.

CMPT 401 Special Topics in Computing Science (3 sem. hrs.)

A study of special topics or issues in computing science that are not considered in-depth in other courses.

NB: Not offered every year. Course may be repeated.

Prerequisite(s): Advanced standing in computing science or instructor's permission.

CMPT 409 Thesis Preparation (1 sem. hr.)

Students are required to choose a topic for their senior thesis (CMPT 410 or 411) in consultation with an instructor. Selected readings and references pertinent to the topic are assigned. A final written report is presented, consisting of a detailed thesis proposal and a literature review.

NB: A student is allowed credit for only one of CMPT 409 or 419.

Cross-listed: ISYS 409

Prerequisite(s): Advanced standing in computing science or instructor's consent.

CMPT 410 Senior Thesis (2 sem. hrs.)

Students research a chosen area of computing science and provide a final written report.

NB: Normally 2 sem. hrs. are assigned unless prior arrangement is made with the department chair and registrar.

Cross-listed: ISYS 410

Prerequisite(s): CMPT 409, a related directed study in preparation, or instructor's consent.

CMPT 411 Senior Thesis (3 sem. hrs.)

Students research a chosen area of computing science and provide a final written report.

NB: Normally 2 sem. hrs. are assigned for a senior thesis unless prior arrangement is made with the department chair.

Cross-listed: ISYS 411

Prerequisite(s): CMPT 409, a related directed study in preparation, or instructor's consent.

CMPT 419 Project Preparation (1 sem. hr.)

Students are required to choose a topic for their senior group project (CMPT 420 or 421) in consultation with the instructor. Selected readings and references pertinent to the topic are assigned. A final written report (software requirements document) is produced giving a detailed specification of the proposed software project.

NB: A student is allowed credit for only one of CMPT 409 or 419.

Cross-listed: ISYS 419

Prerequisite(s): Advanced standing in computing science or instructor's consent.

CMPT 420 Special Topics - Senior Collaborative Project (1-6 sem. hrs.)

Students work on a major collaborative software project in a chosen area of computing science and provide a final report and presentation. At least two, and normally not more than five people, work as a team to design, code, debug, test, and document the software.

Cross-listed: ISYS 420

Prerequisite(s): CMPT 419, a related directed study, or instructor's consent

CMPT 421 Special Topics - Senior Collaborative Project (1–6 sem. hrs.)

Students work on a major collaborative software project in a chosen area of computing science and provide a final report and presentation. At least two, and normally not more than five people, work as a team to design, code, debug, test, and document the software.

NB: The choice of CMPT 420 or both 420 and 421 depends on the instructor's assessment of the proposed project's size and complexity.

Cross-listed: ISYS 421

Prerequisite(s): CMPT 420.

CMPT 470 Introduction to Bioinformatics (3 sem. hrs.)

An overview of the interdisciplinary science of genomics, proteomics, and bioinformatics which applies the tools of information technology (computer hardware and software) to analyze biological data such as gene or protein sequences. This course examines the theory of bioinformatics as well as its practical application to biological problems using approaches such as BLAST searches, phylogenetics, and protein structure function analysis.

Cross-listed: BIOT 470 or BIOL 470

Prerequisite(s): Third year standing in computing science.

CMPT 480 Ethical and Social Issues in High Technology (3 sem. hrs.)

A study from a Christian context of some historical, social, and ethical issues relating to the development and use of scientific ideas and techniques. Science and technology are examined in their total social, historical, and intellectual contexts, with a view to tracing, in possible new developments, what the key issues are today.

Students are challenged to think through the issues from more than one point of view and to learn how to determine appropriate Christian responses to them.

NB: Not offered every year. Offered only in fall semester. See department chair. This course may be substituted for IDIS 400 and/or NATS 487, but not NATS 490. Students need to take both CMPT 480 and NATS 490 to meet the core requirement in upper level Interdisciplinary Studies. Students from other departments may take CMPT 480 as their IDIS 400 requirement, but they should be familiar with the history and/or the practice of science.

Cross-listed: ISYS 480

Prerequisite(s): Third year standing overall and at least one computing science or lab science course at the university level. (3-0; 0-0)

Co-operative Education

COOP 110, 210, 310, 410, 420 Co-op Work Terms (0 sem. hrs.)

These are the course numbers for co-op work terms. The appropriate semester coincides with the first digit; i.e., 110 would be the first semester of work experience for students in the co-op program. Co-op terms provide an opportunity to integrate theory and practice. Requirements include completion of a work term report.

NB: Non-credit, Pass/Fail course.

Counselling Psychology, Graduate Courses

NB: CPSY 502-695 are graduate courses. For further information about when courses are offered, see the School of Graduate Studies section or contact the Counselling Psychology Graduate Program.

CPSY 490 Basic Counselling Skills (3 sem. hrs.)

This course introduces the art of counselling 180 skills as a part of the growth process. Basic helping skills will be explored from Hill's three stage model of helping; exploration, insight and action. Students will be provided a framework from which they can approach the counselling process. They will also learn specific skills to use in sessions with clients to help their clients explore, gain insight, and make changes in their lives. Students will also begin to explore the process of coming to think of themselves as a helper.

CPSY 502 Research Design (3 sem. hrs.)

This seminar-style course provides training in quantitative, qualitative, and mixed-methods design for conducting empirical research in counselling psychology. It is an advanced level course that assumes basic undergraduate competence in statistics and social scientific research. Students will be exposed to the methods and stages of basic research, applied research, and program evaluation. An emphasis is placed on training students to reflect critically on the methods themselves -- their philosophical underpinnings, promises, and limitations. Ethical and cultural considerations in research are also addressed.

CPSY 504 Evaluating Statistics and Research (3 sem. hrs.)

Prepares students to evaluate and critique statistics and research methods in counselling psychology, including learning about the use and misuse of basic quantitative and qualitative analytical techniques in counselling-related research and in program evaluation. The course also provides an introduction to ethical issues in research, and conducting critical reviews of the literature.

NB: Credit will not be granted for CPSY 504 if CPSY 502/517 have already been taken.

CPSY 505 Foundations of Counselling and Psychology (3 sem. hrs.)

Provides a critical introduction to scholarly literature on cultural, philosophical, historical, and theological perspectives on counselling, psychotherapy, and research. Students explore their personal worldviews in relationship to professional, biblical, and scientific standards and begin to formulate their approaches to serving in socially, spiritually, and culturally diverse professional settings.

CPSY 506 Theories of Counselling (3 sem. hrs.)

Critical evaluation of major theories of counselling and psychotherapy in terms of their assumptions, research support, and applications. Such issues as cultural diversity, gender differences, and human development are discussed. Students are introduced to the process of integrating theories as they develop their own framework for counselling practice.

CPSY 508 Family and Community Systems (3 sem. hrs.)

This course provides a theoretical and applied introduction to systems theory with a focus on illustrating interventions targeting the wellbeing of children and youth. This course will provide an overview of family systems theory and therapy with an emphasis on clinical skill building and conceptualization within a family life cycle and lifespan human development focus. Attention will be paid to person-environment interactions within families and communities, including ways in which societal issues impact functioning of the individual, family, and community. This course will highlight distinctions between traditional 1:1 intervention paradigms and those of family and community psychology with the aim of expanding the repertoire of skills and approaches available to future professionals. Consideration of issues related to diversity, power, and privilege as they relate to age, gender, sexual orientation, health/ability, culture and ethnicity, socioeconomic status, and spirituality and religion will be encouraged throughout the course.

CPSY 510 Group Counselling (3 sem. hrs.)

An overview of meta-theory and skill applications necessary for leadership of effective group processes. Participants develop and demonstrate introductory group facilitation skills. In addition to an overview of group dynamics, the course includes an introduction to the major models of group counselling and therapy, and a laboratory section to facilitate the development of group counselling skills and competencies. Ethics and cultural differences are also addressed.

Prerequisite(s): CPSY 590 and/ or instructor permission.

CPSY 515 Career Counselling (3 sem. hrs.)

An overview of some of the most useful major career development theories and resources. A wide range of issues such as gender, culture, socioeconomic status, age, and mental health concerns are also addressed, as these issues impinge upon career. Students are introduced to a variety of career counselling and implementation strategies within the current labour market. In addition, each student completes a set of career assessment instruments, and interprets them for a class partner.

CPSY 517 Advanced Data Analysis (3 sem. hrs.)

The course covers advanced quantitative and qualitative data analysis strategies, such as: multiple regression, different models of analysis of variance, factor analysis, content analysis and coding across several qualitative methods (e.g., grounded theory, phenomenology, ECIT, etc.). An additional focus of the course will be on integrating quantitative and qualitative data analysis methods (mixed methods research).

Prerequisite(s): CPSY 502, plus undergraduate course in statistics.

CPSY 518 Research Seminar (3 sem. hrs.)

Helps to orient students to several significant research areas in counselling and psychology as well as issues critical to the successful completion of thesis research. Students present their research ideas in class and develop a research proposal.

Prerequisite(s): CPSY 502, 517, and permission.

CPSY 522 Basic Principles and Applications of Assessment (3 sem. hrs.)

Covers basic principles of psychometrics as applied to the construction and validation of formal tests. Addresses ethical standards of test usage, multicultural assessment, and assessment paradigms. Students learn how to select appropriate tests for specific purposes, to conduct assessment interviews, and to synthesize qualitative and quantitative assessment information in normal personality assessment.

Prerequisite(s): CPSY 504 or 517; and 591.

CPSY 590 Advanced Counselling Skills (3 sem. hrs.)

Students are engaged in this course using a laboratory format. Classes include conceptual presentations on advanced counselling skills, in-class demonstrations, and triad exercises designed to facilitate counsellor development. Students also analyze and transcribe portions of video recordings of sessions. Professional roles, functions, preparation standards, ethics, and cultural differences are addressed.

Prerequisite(s): Undergraduate psychology course covering basic empathy and communication skills. CPSY 490 is recommended.

CPSY 591, 592 Practicum I & II (3, 3 sem. hrs.)

Individual and group clinical practice with intensive supervision totaling more than 100 hours over eight months. The course includes an average of one hour individual supervision and 1.5 hours of group supervision each week. Students must complete a minimum of 40 direct client hours, of which at least 10 hours must be group work. Any incomplete hours must be made up during internship placements. The practicum course is designed to be completed in teams of five students and a faculty supervisor. Practicum I and II must be completed consecutively.

NB: Limited to CPSY students only.

Prerequisite/Co-requisite(s): CPSY 506, 510, 590.182

Year Two

CPSY 603, 604 Thesis I & II (3, 3 sem. hrs.)

Students are required to complete an MA thesis that passes an examiner external to the University with expertise in the area of the thesis. The thesis must be defended orally before an examination committee. Students may complete one of three types of theses. Students who intend to pursue a Ph.D. degree are advised to complete an empirical thesis (1 or 2):

1. Quantitative Research – Typically involves systematic, experimental, or correlational investigation, and employs quantitative analysis and inferential statistics.
2. Qualitative or Mixed Methods Research – Includes a variety of qualitative methods in collecting and analyzing data. Typically, the focus is on phenomenological experience.

3. Theoretical-Integrative Thesis – Requires a critical review of relevant research and the development of an integrative model that attempts to encompass available data and competing theories.

Students normally choose their area of research with help from the thesis coordinator and other faculty after their second semester in the program.

Visit the program's website at <http://www2.twu.ca/cpsy> to view some thesis topics.

Prerequisite(s): CPSY 502, 517, and 518, and permission.

CPSY 605 Thesis & Program Continuation (0 sem. hrs.)

Students who are completing a thesis are required to register for continuation for every term subsequent to CPSY 604 until the thesis has been deposited, in addition to any other courses that are being taken. In addition, all students (including non-thesis track) are required to enrol in Program Continuation in every term, fall, spring, and summer, during which they are not registered for any other courses in the program.

Prerequisite(s): CPSY student.

CPSY 607 Psychopathology (3 sem. hrs.)

An overview of current conceptualization, diagnosis, etiology, and treatment of mental disorders. Historical, biological, sociological, neuropsychological, cultural, and psychological theories and processes involved in the ongoing discourse around psychopathology are examined through the use of historical and current research articles, the Diagnostic and Statistical Manual of Mental Disorders Fifth Edition (DSM-5), class discussions, case studies in print and media, and guest presentations. In addition, “evidence-based” treatments of the more commonly understood mental illnesses, and the social justice and ethical issues involved in the treatment of emotional distress are a focus of discussion.

Prerequisite(s): CPSY 591

CPSY 609 Seminar on Ethical Integration (3 sem. hrs.)

This course thoroughly examines the laws and ethics that guide practitioners in the field of counselling psychology. Students will be expected to grapple with complex issues that arise when confronted with ethical dilemmas in a variety of professional contexts. Since ethical and legal principles are not the only standards by which counsellors make decisions, students will be challenged to integrate these guidelines with their personal values and spiritual beliefs, as well as clinical judgments and multicultural considerations.

Prerequisite(s): CPSY 505, 691, and 45 sem. hrs. earned in the CPSY program.

CPSY 613 Crisis Counselling (3 sem. hrs.)

Focuses on the theory, interventions, and research relevant to providing crisis management services with people experiencing situational, transitional, and cultural/socio-structural crises. The course, based on a psycho-socio-cultural perspectives, explores the interaction of crises with situational factors, developmental status, family dynamics, ethnicity, and gender. The course involves exploration of interactions between crises and situational factors, developmental levels, family dynamics, ethnicity, and gender, as well as both didactic and skills development components.

Prerequisite(s): CPSY 590 & 591; preference given to 2nd-year CPSY students.

CPSY 615 Child and Youth Counselling (3 sem. hrs.)

This course is designed to provide students with a foundation in the theory and practice of assessment, diagnosis, and interventions with children and youth. Consideration of presenting problems will be informed by understanding of lifespan human development. Both individual- and systems-focused interventions will be examined. An advocacy focus on culturally competent perspectives, collaboration with larger systems, and the impact of sociocultural issues on children and families is maintained. Expressive and structured counselling modalities are considered as they relate to research evidence, and the need to tailor interventions to individual clients' needs. Discussion of faith-informed perspectives and legal-ethical principles as they inform practice with children and families will be encouraged.

Prerequisite(s): CPSY 508, 590, 591, 592; minimum completion of 24 sem. hrs. in CPSY program.

CPSY 616 Systemic Therapy with Couples, Families and Aging Adults (3 sem. hrs.)

This course is designed to provide students with a foundation in the theory and practice of assessment, diagnosis, and interventions with couples and older adults. Consideration of presenting problems will be informed by understanding of lifespan human development. Both individual- and systems-focused interventions will be examined. An advocacy focus on culturally competent perspectives, collaboration with larger systems, and the impact of sociocultural issues on couples and older adults is maintained. A clinical focus on relational violence will be used to integrate various professional priorities. Multiple clinical modalities are considered as they relate to research evidence and the need to tailor interventions to individual clients' needs. Discussion of faith-informed perspectives and legal-ethical principles as they inform practice with couples and older adults will be encouraged.

Prerequisite(s): CPSY 508, 590, 591, 592; minimum completion of 24 sem. hrs. in CPSY program.

CPSY 622 - Psychological Assessment and Test Interpretation (3 sem. hrs.)

Evaluates different approaches to assessment as well as the theoretical, empirical, and practical foundations of psychological assessment. Overviews ethical, legal, and cultural facets of psychological assessment. Students are introduced to selected cognitive and personality/ behavioural assessment instruments. The course includes training in administration of widely used intellectual assessment tools (e.g., Wechsler scales), interpretation of test score profiles, and report writing and interpretation. Professional standards and ethical use of standardized assessment tools are emphasized. Multicultural and multilingual issues in assessment are addressed.

NB: Not offered every year.

Prerequisite(s): CPSY 522.

CPSY 624 Counselling in Diverse Educational Settings (3 sem. hrs.)

Examines the foundations of counselling in various educational settings, including elementary and secondary schools, and college counselling, and explores relevant issues and challenges relating to diverse learners, community contexts, and the changing ecology of education in Canada. This skill-building course emphasizes legal and ethical standards of practice and the importance of developing a comprehensive counselling program for students. The class sessions are interactive and experiential, providing opportunities for critical discussion, site visits, and professional consultation.

NB: Not offered every year.

CPSY 630 Advanced Topics in Legal and Ethical Issues (3 sem. hrs.)

Examination of paradigms and developments in professional ethics. This course builds on the 184 professional ethics training infused throughout the curriculum, including topics in legal issues, family therapy, professional psychology and counselling, consultation, and client advocacy. International developments are addressed in professional mobility and regulations, competency standards, and multicultural contexts of professional standards. Emphasis is placed on fostering student proficiency in navigating licensure requirements and fostering accountability in professional practice.

NB: Not offered every year.

CPSY 633 Addictions Counselling (3 sem. hrs.)

Current theories and treatments of addictive behaviour are reviewed, and the impact of addiction upon family systems and other relationships is particularly stressed. Content includes reviews of the effects of mood-altering substances on the body, and therapy modalities for both chemical and process addictions. Co-occurring disorders are addressed, and students are introduced to agency settings where addiction treatment is offered.

NB: Preference given to 2nd-year CPSY students.

CPSY 634 Trauma and Sexual Abuse Counselling (3 sem. hrs.)

A survey of recently developed assessments and treatments for psychological trauma & dissociation, especially sequelae of domestic violence, sexual abuse and sexual assault. Trauma-related disorders include: PTSD, complex PTSD, dissociative disorders, somatoform disorders, eating disorders, and substance abuse disorders. The neuroscience of psychological trauma, along with relational, cultural, and sociological influences, is also discussed.

NB: Not offered every year.

CPSY 660 Advanced Topics in Multicultural Counselling (3 sem. hrs.)

Exploration of topics such as the significance of culture, migration, social class, race, language, and ethnicity for human health and well-being. This course builds on multicultural counselling and diversity awareness principles infused throughout the master's program. Both theory and interventions for addressing bicultural identity development, advocacy, acculturation stress, and barriers to help-seeking and counselling effectiveness. Critical appropriation of professional literature, competencies models, and intersections with other aspects of diversity are emphasized.

NB: Preference given to 2nd-year CPSY students. Not offered every year.

CPSY 670 Psychopharmacology (3 sem. hrs.)

An introduction to principles of pharmacology and the use of pharmacological agents for the treatment of psychological and neuropsychiatric conditions. Reviews basic physiological and biological aspects of psychopathology. The course does not prepare a student for the practice of pharmacology. However, it does enhance the students' ability to communicate more effectively with physicians and assist them in participating in multidisciplinary and interdisciplinary settings.

Prerequisite(s): CPSY 607.

NB: Not offered every year.

CPSY 691, 692 Supervised Internship (3, 3 sem. hrs.)

Students are required to complete a minimum of 600 hours of approved internship, 240 hours of which are in direct service with clients. This provides students with opportunities to refine basic assessment and counselling skills as well as develop specialized areas of interest. The internship is regarded as a summative clinical experience leading to the master's degree in counselling psychology. The primary objective of the internship is to provide an opportunity for integration and practice of knowledge and skills in a professional counselling setting. In addition to the on-site requirements for internship, a reading list and a bi-weekly seminar are required to ensure that students are familiar with professional, ethical, and legal issues. Participation in the seminar counts towards the 600 hours required for internship.

Prerequisite(s): CPSY 591, 592.

CPSY 695 Internship Continuation (0 sem. hrs.)

Students are required to register for Internship Continuation for every term subsequent to CPSY 691 until 120 direct clinical hours have been completed during internship and have been documented. In addition, students are required to register for Internship Continuation for every term subsequent to CPSY 692 until all required direct clinical hours for the entire program have been completed and documented.

Prerequisite(s): CPSY 691.

Directed Studies

CPSY 650, 651 Directed Studies (1, 2, or 3 sem. hrs.)

For students who want to explore academic areas of special interest not provided in the existing curriculum. These areas must be related to the discipline of counselling psychology. Prerequisite(s) or Co-requisites: EDUC 321; fourth year standing, 2.50 GPA. (0-0; 3-0)192

EDUC 456 Curriculum and Pedagogy: K–7 Mathematics (2 sem. hrs.)

The components of an effective elementary school mathematics program: goals of mathematics teaching and learning, recent curriculum trends, function and use of instructional materials, teaching strategies and learning activities, problem solving strategies and skills, and evaluation procedures.

Co-requisite(s): EDUC 451 and 452.

EDUC 457 Curriculum and Pedagogy: K–7 Social Studies (2 sem. hrs.)

A survey and evaluation of recent trends, teaching strategies, learning approaches, and resources in elementary and middle social studies. Participants engage in constructing their own understanding of the rationales, goals, and strategies appropriate for social studies instruction. Additionally, course participants practice selecting and analyzing current social studies resources and instructional methods, and design and create effective and engaging teaching materials.

Prerequisite(s): EDUC 451 and 452.

EDUC 458 Curriculum and Pedagogy: K–7 Science (2 sem. hrs.)

A survey of research in science education, goals of science education; current curricula and resources; planning an elementary-level program; children's science learning; teaching strategies for diverse learners; teaching for inquiry and critical thinking; planning and implementing hands-on activities.

Prerequisite(s): EDUC 451 and 452.

EDUC 459 Curriculum and Pedagogy: Strategies for Teaching Reading and Writing at the Primary Level (1 sem. hr.)

An extension of EDUC 455 as applied to the primary grades (K-2), especially with respect to developing reading and writing proficiency. Theories and models of reading and writing processes. Diagnosing individual strengths and weaknesses in reading and writing development. Planning, organizing, implementing, and assessing a balanced literacy program. Evaluating and choosing resources. Developing learning activities.

Co-requisite(s): EDUC 451 and 452; EDUC 455.

EDUC 460 Curriculum and Pedagogy: Strategies for Teaching Reading and Writing at the Intermediate Level (1 sem. hr.)

An extension of EDUC 455 as applied to the intermediate and middle grades (3-8), especially with respect to developing reading and writing proficiency and the study of literature. Models and practices of reading and writing instruction are introduced and explored. The role of text structure and grammar are examined. Selecting and teaching a range of genres, especially works written for older children, are included. Planning, organizing, implementing, developing, and assessing a balanced language arts program that targets writing acquisition and reading/writing connections are stressed.

Co-requisite(s): EDUC 451 and 452; EDUC 455.

EDUC 465 Teaching and Learning in the Middle and Senior Years (3 sem. hrs.)

The nature of learning and appropriate teaching strategies for students in the middle and senior years. Current trends and recent research as a basis for learning and teaching strategies, for organizing and planning curriculum, and for structuring classrooms and schools. Specific topics include characteristics of 10 to 18-year-olds and the implications for learning; curriculum integration; building student-teacher, teacher-parent, and student-student partnerships; evaluation and assessment in the middle and senior years; personal and career planning; and the role of “exploratories.”

Prerequisite(s) or Co-requisite: EDUC 321. (0-0; 3-0).

EDUC 468 Curriculum and Pedagogy: Teaching French as a Second Language (2 sem. hrs.)

This course facilitates teachers and pre-service teachers to teach French as an additional language. It is designed to integrate theory and application in order to enhance successful additional language learning. Special attention is given to teaching French in Grades K–7, but higher class levels are also addressed.

NB: Offered in May on Saturdays so it is available to practicing teachers.

Prerequisite(s): Teacher Certification or EDUC 321.

EDUC 471 Curriculum and Pedagogy: An Introduction to Teaching the Humanities Grades 8–12 (2 sem. hrs.)

An overview of curriculum organization and principles of teaching and learning in Social Studies and English at the secondary level. The connection with the Humanities is understood as a key ingredient in Education, but so is the integration of the Humanities in all other subjects in the curriculum. The course is guided by the view that the areas of the Humanities and faith intersect in powerful and personal ways. All Professional Year secondary students are required to take EDUC 471.

Co-requisite(s): EDUC 451, 452.

Prerequisite(s): EDUC 465.

EDUC 472 Curriculum and Pedagogy: An Introduction to Teaching the Natural and Mathematical Sciences Grades 8–12 (2 sem. hrs.)

Curriculum organization and principles of teaching the natural and mathematical sciences; developing a basic understanding of the aims, content and pedagogy in secondary math and science; evaluation of selected science and math resources; developing curriculum, instruction and assessment for a unit plan; promotion of science literacy and numeracy (math literacy); teaching strategies for diverse learners; teaching for inquiry, problem-based learning, critical thinking and responsible citizenship. All Professional Year secondary students are required to take EDUC 472.

Prerequisite(s): EDUC 451, 452

EDUC 475 Advanced Teaching and Learning Praxis In Major Teachable Subject Grades 8–12 (3 sem. hrs.)

A mentorship by master teachers in the field in a student's main area of secondary subject specialization. Students use a guide and assignment rubrics to research effective teaching and learning strategies in their main subject area. They discuss their findings with their subject mentor and, possibly, other teachers in the school. Students also attend seminars with the course coordinator, and present an overview and evaluation of their findings in a culminating session.

Co-requisite(s): EDUC 451 and 452.

EDUC 490 Special Topics and Issues in Education (3 sem. hrs.)

An examination of special topics or issues in education that are not considered in depth in other education courses.

NB: Not offered every year. See the dean of education.

Prerequisite(s): 12 sem. hrs. of education courses or consent of the instructor. Specific prerequisites may be required for certain topics or issues. (3-0 or 3-0)

EDUC 495 Critical Issues in Education and Culture (2 sem. hrs.)

A consideration and analysis of selected critical concerns in education that link and interact with broad issues in culture and society. The course emphasizes how worldview thinking across various disciplines affects societal approaches to questions such as religion and multiculturalism in the schools, the influence of technology on education, and plurality and choice in schooling. An overarching 194 theme of the course is the application of a biblical conception of justice to such issues.

NB: Taken concurrently with EDUC 496 to fulfil education IDIS core requirements. Offered only in the fall.

Cross-listed: IDIS 495.

Co-requisites: EDUC 400; 496.

Prerequisite(s): Fourth year standing; minimum cumulative GPA of 2.5. (3-0; 0-0)

EDUC 496 Indigenous Perspectives in Education (2 sem. hrs.)

A study of indigenous culture and its meaning(s), the history of indigenous education in Canada, current social, economic, political, and ethical issues affecting indigenous education, and the current structure and status of indigenous education in British Columbia. A focus on understanding and using indigenous learning, epistemologies, and pedagogical approaches, literature and learning resources. Consideration of teaching and learning in diverse classrooms that include indigenous students, as well as teaching and learning in an indigenous school.

NB: Taken concurrently with EDUC 495 to fulfil education IDIS core requirements. Offered only in the fall.

Co-requisites: EDUC 400, 495.

Prerequisite(s): 2.5 GPA, fourth year standing. (2-0; 2-0)

Education, Graduate Courses

EDUC 504 Evaluating Statistics and Research (3 sem. hrs)

If teaching is to be done well, it must be based on sound psychological principles; educators must be willing to think critically about educational theory and to continually assess those theories in relation to the effectiveness of their own teaching. Congruent with the search for and application of sound psychological principles is the metaphor of teacher as researcher. This course will enable beginning graduate students to intelligently read and critically evaluate published scholarly research by becoming familiar with parametric statistical constructs, measures of certain tendency, variability, and measures of relationship. In order to be research scholars and establish their own research agenda graduate students will need to become increasingly familiar with research design and statistical analyses and this is addressed in subsequent courses. This course introduces these areas and in conjunction with EDUC 513 begins to lay the foundations for future major project or thesis work.

This course prepares students to evaluate and critique statistics and research methods in Education and Counselling Psychology, including learning about the use and misuse of basic quantitative and qualitative analytical techniques in research and in program evaluation. The course also introduces ethical issues in research and conducting critical reviews of the literature.

EDUC 512 Strategies for the Exceptional Child (3 sem. hrs)

This course builds upon the information presented in introductory courses to special education. It is intended for pre-professional education students, professional teachers, and those in psychology, social services, and nursing, and is designed to provide information and strategies for: assessing the needs of students, developing intervention techniques, and utilizing the resources of various professionals to meet the diverse needs of exceptional students and exceptional families. Enrolment in this class includes a practicum in a special needs setting.

EDUC 513 Current Issues and the Exceptional Child (3 sem. hrs.)

This is a foundational course that covers current trends and issues which transcend any particular “category” of diversity. In particular, the course critically examines the current educational practice of “full inclusion” and lays the foundation for critically evaluating how content of subsequent courses might lead to more inclusive learning communities. This is the introductory course that brings together each new cohort in the master’s program and so one important focus is the establishment of a cooperative learning community. This course also lays the groundwork for future work toward either a major project or thesis by introducing the basic elements of each as they relate to this program.

Specific formative readings are assigned to provide a common foundation. Additionally, the course provides an opportunity for students to pursue research in areas of specific interest to their current ecology. For example, some participants may be dealing with a student population that has a very high level of cultural diversity which may exacerbate the identification and remediation of traditionally identified types of exceptionality. Other topics of relevance are determined and students contribute to a dynamic portfolio of readings.

Concomitantly the course utilizes students’ developing knowledge of statistics and research design as applied to current literature. They formulate potential research hypotheses related to topics of special interest, begin to work on proposals for their major papers/theses, and vet their proposals with peers. These processes will be completed in the capstone course which synthesizes program content.

EDUC 514 Assessment of Students with Learning Needs - Level B Assessment (3 sem. hrs.)

The understanding, administration, scoring and interpretation of “Level B” (APA) tests for students with special learning needs, including tests of word reading, passage comprehension, arithmetic, spelling, and receptive vocabulary. This course covers the practical understanding and use of assessment devices and techniques. Students discuss recent litigation issues about assessment and learn to read and understand “Level C” reports (school psychologists, speech-language pathologists, etc.).

EDUC 515 Lab: Field Based Assessments and IEP Development (2 sem. hrs.)

In the authentic ecology of their professional placements, students focus on students with exceptional learning needs and apply the principles of assessment learned in the previous course segment to gather assessment data of various forms, including basic achievement and diagnostic tests. Based on these assessments (including formal tests as appropriate) students then apply the data in developing model Individualized Education Plans (IEPs). As members of the cooperative student cohort, students vet these data and plans among peers in the course

EDUC 516 Students with Diverse Cognitive Needs (3 sem. hrs.)

This course builds upon the information presented in introductory courses to special education and, in conjunction with other courses in the program, examines in depth the unique learning characteristics and needs of persons who are on either end of the continuum of cognitive abilities, and those with at least average intellectual ability but who demonstrate learning disabilities. This course is intended for professional teachers, and professionals in psychology, social services, and nursing. It is designed to provide information and strategies for: Understanding the unique needs of these students, developing intervention techniques, and utilizing the resources of various professional to meet the diverse needs of exceptional students with diverse learning needs and cognitive abilities.

EDUC 517 Diverse Emotional and Behavioural Needs (3 sem. hrs.)

Traditional categories of Attention Deficit Disorder (ADD) and ADHD as well as Emotional Disorders and Behaviour Disorders (ED/BD) are examined. In context, the issues pertaining to students with PDD-NOS are once again addressed, as many of the interventions transcend categorical boundaries. The course is a critical review of the literature, building on students’ extant knowledge and professional experience examining current best practice in each of the areas. Classroom intervention strategies are studied and critically evaluated and experts in the various areas are consulted to give perspective and lend authenticity to the information 196 and suggestions. Authentic assessment data is utilized to collaboratively develop Individualized Education Plans (IEPs) and graduate students work collaboratively to develop intervention strategies for implementation of those IEPs.

EDUC 518 Students with Diverse Sensory Needs (3 sem. hrs.)

This course deals with students who have visual or auditory deficits, ranging from mild to profound in regard to hearing and partially sighted to blind in regard to vision. In addition to sensory components, the course addresses students with unique physical challenges and those who may have multiple disabilities or for whom the foregoing may have a cause and effect relationship to disorders of communication.

EDUC 519 Special Topics in Diversity (3 sem. hrs.)

An examination of special topics or issues in diversity in education that are not considered in depth in other courses.

EDUC 540 Christian Approaches on Teaching and Pedagogy (3 sem. hrs.)

An examination of the theory and practice of teaching and pedagogy, including: the nature of teaching; a biblical framework for understanding and implementing teaching and learning; the classroom context for teaching and learning; the relationship between teaching and a teacher's personal, professional, and spiritual growth; theories of instruction and distinctively Christian approaches to instruction; and a taxonomy of teaching strategies.

NB: Summer sessions only.

Prerequisite(s): Undergraduate degree in education.

EDUC 545 Assessing and Evaluating Student Learning (3 sem. hrs.)

An understanding of assessment and its implementation as an integral part of the curriculum planning. How the purpose of an assessment must fit with the assessment strategy employed. Distinctions between diagnostic assessment, assessment for learning, assessment of learning, and assessment as learning. The interpretation of assessment results in order to shape current and future teaching and learning activities. Clear and accurate communication of the results of assessment for particular audiences.

NB: Summer sessions only.

Prerequisite(s): Undergraduate degree in education.

EDUC 548: Providing for Student Diversity in the Classroom (3 sem. hrs.)

Meeting the needs of diverse learners in classroom: developing strategies for exceptional students and ones with diverse cultural backgrounds, and implementing differentiated learning.

NB: Summer sessions only.

Prerequisite(s): Undergraduate degree in education.

EDUC 569 Curriculum and Pedagogy: Biblical Studies (3 sem. hrs.)

The Bible and its use in Christian schools. How to teach Biblical Studies from Grades K–12, how to use the Bible as a devotional book, and how the Bible gives direction to the learning-teaching process in all areas of the curriculum. The wisdom literature of the Bible, the Minor Prophets, and the Gospels, both from the point of view of how these can be taught in the classroom and to extrapolate from them pedagogical guidelines for teaching of Bible. Planning scope and sequence charts, units, and learning activities.

NB: Summer sessions only.

Prerequisite(s): Undergraduate degree in education.

EDUC 599 Ethical Issues in Diversity (3 sem. hrs.)

This course serves as a capstone course in the Master of Arts in Educational Studies - Special Education program. It reviews the current state of the field and addresses numerous ethical and moral issues such as the inherent value of life and of euthanasia. In addition, social role valorization is explored in the context of persons with special learning needs as well as related issues of diversity in culture and gender.

EDUC 601 Research Design (3 sem. hrs.)

This seminar-style course provides training in quantitative, qualitative, and mixed-methods designs for conducting research in social sciences. It is an advanced level course that assumes competencies in statistics and social scientific research. Students are exposed to the methods and stages of basic research, applied research, and program evaluation. An emphasis is placed on training students to critically reflect on the methods themselves – their philosophical underpinnings, promises and limitations. This course is designed to be interactive and entails a mix of lectures, discussion and classroom activity.

EDUC 602 Advanced Statistics (3 sem. hrs.)

This course is an examination of common parametric and non-parametric statistical techniques used in psychology education and other social sciences research, and principles of accurate application and interpretation of those techniques (e.g., effect size; power; sample size; implications of violations of test assumptions). Topics focus on multiple regression, different models of analysis of variance and covariance, and also include categorical data analysis, meta-analysis, and an introduction to interpretation of multivariate statistics.

An emphasis is placed on applied data analysis and accurate conceptualization, rather than statistical theory.

EDUC 603 Comprehensive Exam (3 sem. hrs.)

Every non-thesis student in the MA in Educational Studies (Special Education) program is required to write a comprehensive examination. The comprehensive is a take-home written exam of 72 hours duration, scheduled from a Friday to a Monday. The exam consists of questions from the coursework integrating the professional practice of diversity in education within case scenarios, and questions addressing the ethical and legal practice of the profession. Students receive the exam syllabus at the beginning of the program so they can prepare for the exam as they complete the program requirements.

Prerequisite(s): All course work must be completed before the comprehensive exam is written.

EDUC 690 Major Project (4 or 5 sem. hrs.)

A major project examines an applied issue from a leadership perspective and, preferably, from the participant's place of employment. The paper focuses on a combination of course content and on a quality presentation of content.

EDUC 691 Educational Leadership Mentorship (1 sem. hr.)

An educational leadership mentorship experience taken by students who elect to take EDUC 690 for 4 sem. hrs.

EDUC 697 Major Project (3 sem. hrs.)

The major project is a synthesis of research, theory, and practice. Students work under the supervision of an approved supervisor to design, implement and evaluate a project related to their professional field of interest. Such projects may involve an analysis of current educational policy, development of a curriculum product, or an in-depth analysis of extant literature on a particular topic related to the course of study. The main focus of the project is the integration of research, theoretical and practice perspectives to a particular practice, focus or problem.

Prerequisite(s): EDUC 601, 603, and 599 or permission.

EDUC 698 Thesis I (3 sem. hrs)

Students are required to complete a thesis (6 sem. hrs.) that passes an examiner external to the 198 University with expertise in the particular area of the thesis. The thesis must be defended orally before an examination committee. Students may choose their area of research with help from the program director and other faculty. This may occur at any time after their first semester in the program.

Pre-requisites: EDUC 601, (602), and permission

EDUC 699 Thesis II (3 sem. hrs)

Students are required to complete a thesis (6 sem. hrs.) that passes an examiner external to the University with expertise in the particular area of the thesis. The thesis must be defended orally before an examination committee. This is the second phase of the thesis project.

Students may choose their area of research with help from the program director and other faculty. This may occur at any time after their first semester in the program.

Pre-requisites: EDUC 601, 602, and permission. English

NB: Two of the following courses, ENGL 101, 102, 103 and 104, are compulsory during first year for all new full-time (12 or more sem. hrs.) students, or, if a WRTG course is required at the point of admission to the University, in the next two consecutive semesters following the successful completion of WRTG 100 or 101. Students for whom English is a second language may substitute ENGL 101 and ENGL 102 (6 sem.hrs.) for ENGL 103 or 104, with ENGL 101 and 102 compulsory in the next two semesters following the successful completion of WRTG 101.

ENGL 101 Introduction to Writing (3 sem. hrs.)

This course is designed to lead students through the writing tasks of the university classroom. The primary goal of the course is to develop in the student the desire, the confidence, and the ability to write coherent English prose in a variety of academic genres, including the research paper, and to employ textual analysis in order to develop awareness of logical patterns. In the context of these tasks, students expand critical thinking skills, acquire effective academic vocabulary, and focus on academic writing skills. This course is recommended for students who have come from international contexts.

Prerequisite(s): WRTG 100 or 101 unless exempt at point of admission to the University. (3-0; 3-0)

ENGL 102 Introduction to Literature and Culture (3 sem. hrs.)

This course examines literature from a multicultural perspective. In comparing and contrasting works of literature composed in a variety of countries, students will gain cultural literacy, appreciation of universal themes, and understanding of the rich relationship between literature and its historical and situational context. In studying this material, students will develop their critical thinking, research, and writing skills. This course is recommended for students who have come from international contexts.

Prerequisite(s): WRTG 100 or 101 unless exempt at point of admission to the University. (3-0 or 3-0)

ENGL 103 Introduction to Fiction (3 sem. hrs.)

An introductory study of fiction with the purpose of understanding literature and cultivating skills in scholarly research, textual analysis, and academic writing and documentation. Such skills are fostered by closely reading and analyzing works of short fiction and the novel by accomplished prose stylists. Students focus on the distinctive conventions of fiction in order to interpret these works critically, while interacting thoughtfully with themes presented therein; there is a particular focus on analyzing and making use of narrative strategies and rhetorical tools. Students continue to develop their academic prose, with attention to improving foundational grammar, diction, phrasing, organization, and argument-building in the thesis-driven essay.

Prerequisite(s): WRTG 100 or 101 unless exempt at point of admission to the University. (3-0; 3-0)

ENGL 104 Introduction to Poetry and Drama (3 sem. hrs.)

Building on the skills acquired in English 103, an advanced study of poetry and drama with the purpose of understanding literature and cultivating skills in scholarly research, textual analysis, and academic writing and documentation. Such skills are fostered by closely reading and analyzing poems and plays by accomplished writers. Students focus on the distinctive conventions of the genres of poetry and drama in order to interpret these works critically, while interacting thoughtfully with themes presented therein; there is a particular focus on analyzing and making use of effective patterns of language, lyrical and theatrical presentation, and figures of speech. Students continue to develop their academic prose, with attention to advanced grammar, diction, phrasing, organization and argument-building in the thesis-driven essay.

Prerequisite(s): WRTG 100 or 101 unless exempt at point of admission to the University. (3-0; 3-0)

ENGL 207 Introduction to Creative Writing (3 sem. hrs.)

A seminar in the techniques of imaginative writing and in the development of a critical appreciation of the art of writing in its varied forms. This course focuses on free verse poetry, flash fiction, the short story, and short dramatic works.

Prerequisite(s): ENGL 103 and 104, with a minimum grade of B. (2-1; 2-1)

ENGL 208 Introduction to Creative Writing (3 sem. hrs.)

A seminar in the techniques of imaginative writing and in the development of a critical appreciation of the art of writing in its varied forms. This course focuses on formal verse poetry, the longer short story and the novel, plus full-length dramatic works.

Prerequisite(s): ENGL 103 and 104, with a minimum grade of B. (2-1; 2-1)

ENGL 213 Major Authors (3 sem. hrs.)

A concentrated study of ten to twelve authors from the medieval period to the early eighteenth century, including Chaucer, Shakespeare, and Milton.

NB: Strongly recommended for students intending to major in English.

Prerequisite(s): ENGL 103, 104. (3-0; 3-0)

ENGL 214 Major Authors (3 sem. hrs.)

The concentrated study of ten to twelve authors from the eighteenth to the twentieth century, including at least two novelists.

NB: Strongly recommended for students intending to major in English.

Prerequisite(s): ENGL 103, 104. (3-0; 3-0)

ENGL 216 Introduction to Poetry in the Twentieth Century (3 sem. hrs.)

An introduction to poetry, its forms and conventions, as well as innovations in its development during the twentieth century, with particular representation from the American tradition.

NB: This course may not be taken for credit if ENGL 316 is taken for credit.

Prerequisite(s): ENGL 103, 104. (3-0 or 3-0)

ENGL 217 Introduction to Canadian Literature (3 sem. hrs.)

A historical survey of representative works of Canadian prose, poetry, and drama prior to 1960.

NB: This course may not be taken for credit if ENGL 317 is taken for credit.

Prerequisite(s): ENGL 103, 104. (3-0; 0-0)

ENGL 218 Studies in Modern Canadian Literature (3 sem. hrs.)

A study of representative works of modern Canadian poetry, fiction, and drama after 1960.200

NB: This course may not be taken for credit if ENGL 318 is taken for credit.

Prerequisite(s): ENGL 103, 104. (0-0; 3-0)

ENGL 219 Studies in Short Fiction (3 sem. hrs.)

The exploration of shorter narratives, primarily through a study of the short story and novella of the nineteenth and twentieth centuries.

Prerequisite(s): ENGL 103, 104. (3-0; 0-0)

ENGL 222 Studies in the Novel (3 sem. hrs.)

Traces the development of the novel written in English through a study of works written between the eighteenth and twentieth centuries.

Prerequisite(s): ENGL 103, 104. (0-0; 3-0)

ENGL 223 Introduction to American Literature (3 sem. hrs.)

A survey of American literature from the colonial period to the present. Readings will be drawn from major writers such as Nathaniel Hawthorne, Edgar Allan Poe, Herman Melville, Mark Twain, and Henry James, along with poets such as Anne Bradstreet, Emily Dickinson, and Walt Whitman and essayists Henry David Thoreau, Ralph Waldo Emerson, and Jonathan Edwards, all writers of influence in the literary and historical contexts of America.

NB: This course may not be taken for credit if

ENGL 323 is taken for credit.

Prerequisite(s): ENGL 103, 104. (3-0; 3-0)

ENGL 224 Introduction to American Literature: 1850 to the Present (3 sem. hrs.)

A course in American literature (prose and poetry) from 1850 to the present, emphasizing the continuity of the American literary tradition and focusing on literary analysis of and theoretical perspectives on representative works of the novel, short fiction and essays in their particular conventions. Readings will be drawn from major writers such as Edith Wharton, Stephen Crane, Edna St. Vincent Millay, F. Scott Fitzgerald, William Faulkner, John Steinbeck, Ernest Hemingway, Raymond Carver, Flannery O'Connor, and other writers of influence in the literary and historical contexts of America.

NB: This course may not be taken for credit if

ENGL 324 is taken for credit.

Prerequisite(s): ENGL 103, 104 (3-0; 3-0)

ENGL 231 Classical Backgrounds of English Literature (3 sem. hrs.)

Readings in Greek and Roman mythology, epic poetry, and short poetry with attention to the cultural and literary context of these works of literature. This course includes the study of selected works of English literature that have been influenced by the Greek and Roman literary tradition.

NB: Either ENGL 231 or 232 is strongly recommended for English majors.

ENGL 232 Biblical Backgrounds of English Literature (3 sem. hrs.)

Readings in the various genres of Biblical literature with attention to the cultural and literary context of these works. This course includes the study of selected works of English literature that have been influenced by the Biblical literary tradition.

NB: Either ENGL 231 or 232 is strongly recommended for English majors.

Prerequisite(s): ENGL 103, 104. (3-0; 9-0)

ENGL 290 Special Topics and Themes in English Literature (3 sem. hrs.)

This course offers an intensive study of literature focusing on one particular topic or theme. The topical or thematic approach will allow students to explore literary works across time periods and in different genres that address areas of interest in their liberal arts studies, since a semester's study might focus on one of these areas: politics, athletics, religion, art, or ecology.

Prerequisite(s): ENGL 103, 104. (3-0; 0-0)

ENGL 307 The Writing of the Literary Novel (3 sem. hrs.)

An advanced study and application of the strategies and techniques involved in writing the literary novel.

Prerequisite(s): minimum grade of B in either ENGL 207 and/or ENGL 208; an English Course focusing on the novel is strongly recommended (e.g. ENGL 222, 371, 482). ENGL 308 The Writing of Poetry (3 sem. hrs.)

An advanced study and application of poetic form and content, focusing on evaluating and producing literary poetry.

Prerequisite(s): minimum grade of B in either ENGL 207 and/or ENGL 208; an English Course focusing on the novel is strongly recommended (e.g. ENGL 222, 371, 482).

ENGL 310 The Writing of Creative Non-Fiction (3 sem. hrs.)

Studies in the reading and writing of literary non-fiction, known as the "fourth genre": (auto) biography, memoir, diaries, travel and nature writing, and personal essays. Writers include

Virginia Woolf, C.S. Lewis, Henry Thoreau, Thomas Merton, E.M. Forster, George Orwell, Michael Ondaatje, Annie Dillard, and others of literary influence.

Prerequisite(s): 9 sem. hrs. of English and third or fourth year standing, or instructor's consent. (3-0; 0-0)

ENGL 316 Introduction to Poetry in the Twentieth Century (3 sem. hrs.)

An introduction to poetry, its forms and conventions, as well as innovations in its development during the twentieth century, with particular representation from the American tradition.

NB: This course may not be taken for credit if ENGL 216 is taken for credit.

Prerequisite(s): 9 sem. hrs. of English and third or fourth year standing, or instructor's consent. (3-0 or 3-0)

ENGL 317 Introduction to Canadian Literature (3 sem. hrs.)

A historical survey of representative works of Canadian prose, poetry, and drama to 1960.

NB: This course may not be taken for credit if ENGL 217 is taken for credit.

Prerequisite(s): 9 sem. hrs. of English and third or fourth year standing, or instructor's consent. (3-0; 0-0)

ENGL 318 Studies in Modern Canadian Literature (3 sem. hrs.)

A study of representative works of modern Canadian poetry, fiction, and drama after 1960.

NB: This course may not be taken for credit if ENGL 218 is taken for credit.

Prerequisite(s): 9 sem. hrs. of English and third or fourth year standing, or instructor's consent. (0-0; 3-0)

ENGL 323 Introduction to American Literature (3 sem. hrs.)

A survey of American literature from the colonial period to the present. Readings will be drawn from major writers such as Nathaniel Hawthorne, Edgar Allan Poe, Herman Melville, Mark Twain, and Henry James, along with poets such as Anne Bradstreet, Emily Dickinson, and Walt Whitman and essayists Henry David Thoreau, Ralph Waldo Emerson, and Jonathan Edwards, all writers of influence in the literary and historical contexts of America.

NB: This course may not be taken for credit if ENGL 223 is taken for credit.

Prerequisite(s): 9 sem. hrs. of English 202 and third or fourth year standing, or instructor's consent. (3-0; 3-0)

ENGL 324 Introduction to American Literature: 1850 to the Present (3 sem. hrs.)

A course in American literature (prose and poetry) from 1850 to the present, emphasizing the continuity of the American literary tradition and focusing on literary analysis of and theoretical perspectives on representative works of the novel, short fiction and essays in their particular conventions. Readings will be drawn from major writers such as Edith Wharton, Stephen Crane, Edna St. Vincent Millay, F. Scott Fitzgerald, William Faulkner, John Steinbeck, Ernest Hemingway, Raymond Carver, Flannery O'Connor, and other writers of influence in the literary and historical contexts of America.

NB: This course may not be taken for credit if ENGL 224 is taken for credit.

Prerequisite(s): 9 sem. hrs. of English and third or fourth year standing, or instructor's consent. (3-0; 0-0)

ENGL 334 European Literature in Translation (3 sem. hrs.)

A survey of European drama and prose classics exploring and critically evaluating the shift in worldviews from Dante's Christian humanism to Kafka's and Camus' modern existentialist views and focusing on the theme of human nature (the self) and the purpose of human life. Works are discussed in their historical and cultural contexts.

Prerequisite(s): 9 sem. hrs. of English and third or fourth year standing, or instructor's consent. (3-0; 0-0)

ENGL 348 World Drama (3 sem. hrs.)

This survey course of the dramatic literature of the past 2500 years begins with the Greek and Roman classic drama and principal Asian drama. It then examines the Christian drama of the Middle Ages, the Renaissance neoclassical drama of the early modern period, and the 18th century antecedents to the realistic drama of the 19th century. Students also explore the modern drama of the 20th century, and the global contemporary international drama of the 21st century. The course is a reading and discussion course that requires students to read major plays and attend live performances of world dramatic masterpieces being performed at local theatres.

Cross-listed: THTR 348.

Prerequisite(s): 9 sem. hrs. of English and third or fourth year standing; or 6 sem. hrs. of English and 3 sem. hrs. of theatre and third or fourth year standing; or instructor's consent. (3-0 or 3-0)

ENGL 351 Shakespeare I (3 sem. hrs.)

An intensive study of selected works by William Shakespeare situated in their Elizabethan and Jacobean contexts. Works studied may include: the sonnets, the history play Henry IV (Parts 1 and 2) or Henry V, the comedies A Midsummer Night's Dream and As You Like It, the problem play Measure for Measure, the tragedies King Lear and Macbeth, and the romance Cymbeline.

Cross-listed: THTR 341.

ENGL 395 Irish Drama (3 sem. hrs.)

A survey of the dramatic literature of Ireland, focusing on 20th century plays from Yeats to Beckett and Friel. After a quick review of the 18th and 19th centuries, the course turns to the drama of Irish nationalism and follows its development into the international arena.

Cross-listed: THTR 345.

Prerequisite(s): 9 sem. hrs. of English and third or fourth year standing; or 6 sem. hrs. of English and 3 sem. hrs. of theatre and third or fourth year standing; or instructor's consent. (3-0; 0-0)

ENGL 396 American Drama (3 sem. hrs.)

A survey of significant American dramatic literature. Touching on the 18th and 19th century contributions from Royal Tyler's The Contrast (1787) to George Aiken's Uncle Tom's Cabin (1853) and Steele MacKaye's Hazel Kirke (1880), the course moves quickly to Eugene O'Neill's Beyond the Horizon (1920), which many historians consider the first truly indigenous American drama of international import, and examines the significant work of playwrights such as Arthur Miller, Lillian Hellman, Tennessee Williams, Sam Shepard, and David Mamet.

Cross-listed: THTR 346.

Prerequisite(s): 9 sem. hrs. of English and third or fourth year standing; or 6 sem. hrs. of English and 3 sem. hrs. of theatre and third or fourth year standing; or instructor's consent. (3-0 or 3-0)

ENGL 400 Special Topics in English (3 sem. hrs.)

Independent but guided research in a specialized area of interest to the student. Directed studies are not offered concurrently for courses available in the regular academic year.

Prerequisite(s): 9 sem. hrs. of English, third or fourth year standing, and instructor's consent. (3-0; 3-0)

ENGL 403 Preparing for English Professions (1 sem. hrs.)

A seminar designed to introduce students to practical techniques and strategies for continuing in their academic and professional lives after graduating with an English degree. This course prepares students for further academic study, and for writing in academic, creative, and professional contexts.

Prerequisite(s): 9 sem. hrs. of English and third or fourth year standing, or instructor's consent (3-0 or 3-0)

ENGL 412 Studies in Twentieth-Century American Literature (3 sem. hrs.)

A study of representative works of twentieth-century American literature and the development of its themes in various historical, political, and socio-cultural contexts, including the major wars and social upheavals in which American society has been involved in the last one hundred years. Works for discussion are drawn from influential American voices of this period (at least six) such as Ernest Hemingway, William Faulkner, F. Scott Fitzgerald, John Steinbeck, Toni Morrison, Theodore Dreiser, Walker Percy, Flannery O'Connor, and Saul Bellow.

Prerequisite(s): 9 sem. hrs. of English and third or fourth year standing, or instructor's consent. (0-0; 3-0)

ENGL 414 Literature and Spirituality (3 sem. hrs.)

Literature has been at the centre of the human story from its beginnings as recorded in ancient sacred texts to its current study as cultural narrative with transformative and transcendent possibilities for interpretation and creativity. This course will explore literary themes integral to the pursuit of Christian spirituality, past and present.

Prerequisite(s): Enrolment priority given to fourth-year English majors, concentrations, and minors; third and fourth year students with a minimum of 12 sem. hrs. of English are considered.

ENGL 422 Chaucer (3 sem. hrs.)

A study of The Canterbury Tales and selected minor works, which may include The Book of the Duchess, The Parliament of Fowls, and Troilus and Criseyde. The course involves reading Chaucer's texts alongside samples of contemporary and historical writings ranging from mystical theology to natural philosophy, including Boethius' Consolation of Philosophy and the Roman de la Rose. The student also develops a good reading knowledge of Chaucerian Middle English.

Prerequisite(s): 9 sem. hrs. of English and third or fourth year standing, or instructor's consent. (3-0 or 3-0)

ENGL 430 Medieval English Literature (3 sem. hrs.)

A study of non-Chaucerian medieval English writings covering a number of different themes. Works studied may include secular and religious lyrics, sermons, debates, visionary or mystical poetry and prose, and/or romance.

NB: No overlap with ENGL 422.

Prerequisite(s): 9 sem. hrs. of English and third or fourth year standing, or instructor's consent. (3-0 or 3-0)

ENGL 450 Honours Essay (3 sem. hrs.)

A research paper of 40 to 50 pages written in close consultation with a member of the English department, to be completed in the final semester of fourth year by all honours students.

Prerequisite(s): Admission to honours program. See department chair. (0-0; 0-3)

ENGL 451 Drama to 1642 Excluding Shakespeare (3 sem. hrs.)

A study of English drama from its liturgical origins to the closing of the theatres in 1642, including medieval mystery cycles and morality plays as well as works by Elizabethan, Jacobean, and Caroline playwrights.

Cross-listed: THTR 441.

Prerequisite(s): 9 sem. hrs. of English and third or fourth year standing; or 6 sem. hrs. of English and 3 sem. hrs. of theatre and third or fourth year standing; or instructor's consent. (3-0; 0-0)

ENGL 453 Milton (3 sem. hrs.)

The intensive study of selected works of poetry and prose by John Milton, situated in their cultural contexts. Particular attention is paid to Paradise Lost and Paradise Regained.

Prerequisite(s): 9 sem. hrs. of English and third or fourth year standing, or instructor's consent. (3-0; 0-0)206

ENGL 454 Renaissance Poetry and Prose (3 sem. hrs.)

The study of selected works of Renaissance poetry and prose (excluding those by Shakespeare and Milton), situated in their cultural contexts.

Prerequisite(s): 9 sem. hrs. of English and third or fourth year standing, or instructor's consent. (0-0; 3-0)

ENGL 456 Seventeenth-Century Women's Writing (3 sem. hrs.)

The study of selected works written by women in seventeenth-century Britain and America, situated in their cultural contexts.

Prerequisite(s): 9 sem. hrs. of English and third or fourth year standing, or instructor's consent. (0-0; 0-3)

ENGL 462 18th Century Drama (3 sem. hrs.)

A survey of the English drama of the 18th century. An examination of representative works of the London stage and comparative continental dramas, in transition and in cultural context.

Cross-listed: THTR 442.

Prerequisite(s): 9 sem. hrs. of English and third or fourth year standing; or 6 sem. hrs. of English and 3 sem. hrs. of theatre and third or fourth year standing; or instructor's consent. (3-0 or 3-0)

ENGL 465 Eighteenth-Century Literature (3 sem. hrs.)

A study of the poetry, non-fiction prose, and novels of the major writers of the neo-classical period, including such authors as John Dryden, Jonathan Swift, Alexander Pope, Samuel Johnson, and Samuel Richardson.

Prerequisite(s): 9 sem. hrs. of English and third or fourth year standing, or instructor's consent. (3-0; 0-0)

ENGL 471 Victorian Poetry and Prose (3 sem. hrs.)

The study of the poetry and non-fiction prose of British writers during the Victorian era (1837-1901), including prose authors such as Thomas Carlyle, John Stuart Mill, and John Ruskin, and poets such as Elizabeth Barrett Browning, Robert Browning, Gerard Manley Hopkins, and Alfred, Lord Tennyson. The course considers these works in the context of Victorian Britain's preoccupation with questions about politics, education, art, science, religion, and the role of women.

Prerequisite(s): 9 sem. hrs. of English and third or fourth year standing, or instructor's consent. (0-0; 3-0)

ENGL 482 World Literature in English (3 sem. hrs.)

This course focuses on issues related to post-colonialism and literature through the study of works written in English by writers from post-colonial nations.

Prerequisite(s): 9 sem. hrs. of English and third or fourth year standing, or instructor's consent. (3-0 or 3-0)

ENGL 490 Literary Theory and Criticism I (3 sem. hrs.)

A study of the major documents of literary theory and criticism from Plato to Frye. Students consider traditional texts and terminology (historical development), genre conventions, and the relation of literary texts to the author, to the reader, and to social and cultural reality.

NB: This course is required of all honours English students.

Prerequisite(s): 9 sem. hrs. of English and third or fourth year standing, or instructor's consent. (3-0 or 3-0)

ENGL 495 Literary Theory and Criticism II (3 sem. hrs.)

A survey of the major interpretive approaches to literature from post-structuralism to the recent ethical turn in literary theory. Designed to complement ENGL 490, the course examines contemporary theory and practice (e.g., deconstruction, psychoanalytical criticism, neo-Marxism, historicism, philosophical hermeneutics, gender studies, and ethical criticism) and considers the social and intellectual context out of which each approach arises.

NB: This course is required of all honours English students.

Prerequisite(s): 9 sem. hrs. of English and third or fourth year standing, or instructor's consent. (3-0 or 3-0)

English, Graduate Courses

ENGL 510 The Writing of Creative Non-Fiction (3 sem. hrs.)

A seminar in the reading and writing of literary nonfiction and in the development of a critical appreciation of its various forms. The course examines life writing in terms of its literary forms, as the authors' responses to their culture, and as texts within which identity is shaped and altered by the intentional acts of their writers. It examines current theories of life writing, based on the assumption that life writing participates in the construction of the identity and the historicity of the individual. Chosen texts demonstrate the art of life writing, as well as other paradigms for its interpretation and its literary and cultural influence. As the genre of literature in ascendancy among readers and writers during this century, it bears careful examination as a means of navigating the reclamation of human selfhood and spirituality in our postmodern condition. The purpose is to provide approaches to the reading and writing of literary nonfiction. Studies include the techniques of writing creative nonfiction and the critical appreciation of this form, known as the “fourth genre.” Such forms as (auto)biography, memoir, letters, diaries, travel and nature writing, and personal essays will provide the models for students’ exploration of this genre. Examples are drawn from writers such as C.S. Lewis, Thomas Merton, E.M. Forster, George Orwell, Michael Ondaatje, Annie Dillard, Kathleen Norris, Flannery O’Connor, John Bunyan, Virginia Woolf, and others who form part of the literary canon of such writing.

ENGL 512 Studies in Twentieth-Century American Literature (3 sem. hrs.)

Examines representative works of twentieth-century American literary prose and the development of its themes in various historical, political, and socio-cultural contexts, including the major wars and social upheavals in which American society has been involved in the last one hundred years. Students examine the major themes and values that comprise a canon of literature which addresses the literary movements characterized by realism and naturalism and the contexts of modernism and postmodernism to which literature has responded in the American tradition. American literature and its contributions to the discussions on religion, morality and Christianity, and the relationship between the three, are engaged.

ENGL 514 Literature and Spirituality (3 sem. hrs.)

Literature has been at the centre of the human story from its beginnings as recorded in ancient sacred texts to its current study as cultural narrative with transformative and transcendent possibilities for interpretation and creativity. This course will explore literary themes integral to the pursuit of Christian spirituality, past and present. The movement to interdisciplinary interpretation and literary hermeneutics demands that students, as readers of text, understand the role that Christian thought and aesthetics have played in their influencing of contemporary literature. In understanding that role, human spirituality is being considered as one of the integral aspects of this enterprise; Christian spirituality offers foundational vantage points from which to participate in this ongoing task of creativity and engagement in the human condition.

ENGL 522 Chaucer (3 sem. hrs.)

This course focuses on Chaucer’s Canterbury Tales, The Parliament of Fowls, and The Book of the Duchess. Care is taken to develop a good reading knowledge of Chaucerian Middle English. The literary, social, economic, political, and spiritual principles in Chaucer’s text, and the aesthetic techniques employed to shape them, will be situated within the historical and cultural context of Ricardian, or late fourteenth-century England. Chaucer wrote for a populace that had confronted decimating plagues as well as social, economic, and religious upheaval. The course draws out the competing medieval voices that emerge in the works composed in this context, which often articulate searing critiques of a complex, disorderly, patriarchal, violent, and humorous medieval world.

ENGL 530 Medieval English Literature (3 sem. hrs.)

Focuses on the rich and varied visionary and mystical literature of the early, high and late Middle Ages, including the writings of Bernard of Clairvaux, Richard of St. Victor, Julian of Norwich, Margery Kempe, Richard Rolle, the author of the Cloud of Unknowing, and Meister Eckhart. The influence of early theologians and philosophers (such as Origen, Plotinus, and Augustine) on these mystics is considered in detail, as is the influence of the medieval mystics on mystical thinkers of Renaissance Europe (including Teresa of Avila and John of the Cross). This course also seeks to read the ontological and epistemological elements of medieval mysticism through the filter of modern philosophical paradigms.

ENGL 534 European Literature in Translation (3 sem. hrs.)

A survey of European drama and prose classics from the thirteenth to the twentieth century, this course explores and critically evaluates the shift in world views from Dante's Christian humanism to Kafka's and Camus' modern existentialist view of human existence. In order to provide depth to our analysis of the works and to highlight the significance of the shift in world view, the works will be discussed in their historical, philosophical, and cultural contexts, in combination with close reading and various theoretical interpretative approaches.

ENGL 551 Shakespeare I (3 sem. hrs.)

Students study seven plays by William Shakespeare (representative histories, tragedies, comedies, and romances) in addition to his narrative poem Venus and Adonis. Shakespeare's plays are considered as both established literary works and as scripts written for performance, and students apply different critical approaches to his works in an attempt to discover the source and nature of the plays' aesthetic power and dramatic force. The course attempts to determine whether William Shakespeare is, as some have claimed, the greatest and most influential writer of all time.

ENGL 552 Shakespeare II (3 sem. hrs.)

Students examine seven representative plays (not covered in ENGL 551) of William Shakespeare and a selection of his sonnets. The Shakespearean works are read within the historically specific cultural context in which they were produced. The course pays particular attention to the way in which Shakespeare blurs generic, thematic, and ideological boundaries in his poetic and dramatic works — exploring his fusion of the tragic and the comic, the sacred and the profane, the noble and the plebeian, the fantastic and the historic, and the orthodox and the transgressive. Students also explore the ways in which these richly layered texts affirm or interrogate the dominant cultural values in Elizabethan and Jacobean Britain.

ENGL 553 Milton (3 sem hrs.)

The major poetic works and selected prose of Milton are read in light of his claim to be the delegated spokesperson for God and Parliament in early-modern England. Milton's works are seen both to reflect the tension and trauma of the Civil War, Interregnum and Restoration, and to participate in shaping a new state and new modes of existence.

ENGL 554 Renaissance Poetry and Prose (3 sem. hrs.)

The course examines representative selections of the poetry and prose of the high and late Renaissance periods in England, covering a century from about 1580–1680, an era characterized by an impressive range of literary output that has never been rivaled in the western world. Even apart from the work of the most eminent figures—Shakespeare and Milton—this period offers a rich and varied legacy of poetry and impressive essays, treatises, and allegories, by such great literary figures as Sidney, Spenser, Marlowe, Jonson, Bacon, Donne, Herbert, Marvell, Browne, Walton, Pepys, and Bunyan who, along with other selected authors, are represented in this course. The course also addresses the political, religious, and theological controversies that energized so much of the writing of this dynamic century.

ENGL 556 Seventeenth-Century Women's Writing (3 sem. hrs.)

A survey of women's writing in the seventeenth century which examines the poetry, prose, and dramatic works of literary figures such as Lady Mary Wroth, Aemilia Lanyer, Anne Bradstreet, Katherine Philips, Margaret Cavendish, and Aphra Behn. The writings of these early-modern women are examined in order to understand how they address not only what it is to be a woman in early-modern times, but what it is to be human, an activity which involves the exploration of historical practices, philosophical concepts, political theories, and theological tenets.

ENGL 567 Drama to 1642 Excluding Shakespeare (3 sem. hrs.)

The study of selected dramatic works written in English prior to the closing of the theatres in 1642, including medieval mystery and morality plays and works by Elizabethan, Jacobean, and Caroline playwrights, excluding Shakespeare.

ENGL 571 The Nineteenth-Century Novel (3 sem. hrs.)

This course offers a study of representative novels and novelists from nineteenth-century Britain. The novel as a genre flourished during this time, as the novel's form was shaped by writers such as Jane Austen, Charlotte Brontë, Charles Dickens, George Eliot, and Thomas Hardy.

ENGL 572 Romantic Poetry and Poetics (3 sem. hrs.)

A study of the poetry created by the six major poets grouped under the term "romantic": William Blake, William Wordsworth, Samuel Taylor Coleridge, Lord Byron (George Gordon), Percy Bysshe Shelley, and John Keats. The course considers both the poetry and critical theories of these influential authors. Graduate students concentrate on the poetry and criticism of one particular poet.

ENGL 573 Victorian Poetry and Prose (3 sem. hrs.)

The study of the poetry and non-fiction prose of British writers during the Victorian era (1837-1901), including prose authors such as Thomas Carlyle, John Stuart Mill, and John Ruskin, and poets such as Elizabeth Barrett Browning, Robert Browning, Gerard Manley Hopkins, and Alfred, Lord Tennyson. The course considers these works in the context of Victorian Britain's preoccupation with questions about politics, education, art, science, religion, and the role of women.

ENGL 582 Studies in Modern British Literature (3 sem. hrs.)

This course studies representative works in British prose, fiction and poetry that both shape and reflect contemporary British literary sensibilities. It includes a selection of poetry from writers such as W.B. Yeats, W.H. Auden, T.S. Eliot, Dylan Thomas, D.H. Lawrence, Philip Larkin and Seamus Heaney; prose from George Orwell and Virginia Woolf; and novels from A.S. Byatt, Joseph Conrad, John Fowles, David Mitchell and Graham Swift.

ENGL 583 World Literature in English (3 sem. hrs.)

This course focuses on issues related to post-colonialism and literature through the study of literature written in English by writers from post-colonial nations.

ENGL 584 Contemporary Canadian Fiction (3 sem. hrs.)

A study of representative works of contemporary Canadian fiction and the development of the post-modern, post-colonial, post-national novel. Authors (a minimum of six) may include a selection of Margaret Atwood, Dionne Brand, Timothy Findley, Jack Hodgins, Hugh Hood, Thomas King, Yann Martel, Rohinton Mistry, Alice Munro, Michael Ondaatje, Sky Lee, Jane Urquhart, Guy Vanderhaeghe, and Rudy Wiebe.

ENGL 590 Studies in Individual Authors (3 sem. hrs.)

Designed to give students the opportunity of studying for an entire semester the works of up to two significant authors.

ENGL 591 Children's Literature (3 sem. hrs.)

The course examines children's literature from the seventeenth century to the present, analyzing representative texts and changing attitudes toward children and their books. Beginning with early didactic stories and traditional folk and fairy tales, and then moving on to British, American, and Canadian novels, the course focuses on questions of history, philosophy, authorship, readership, and genre. The emphasis is on close critical readings of the texts.

ENGL 593 Fantasy Literature (3 sem. hrs.)

Examines the long history of fantasy texts by first locating works of George MacDonald, C.S. Lewis, J.R.R. Tolkien, and Madeleine L'Engle within the Anglo-Saxon epic and the Medieval romance literary traditions in English literature, including Beowulf and Sir Gawain and the Green Knight. The course also considers how these works have shaped the imagination of creators of modern fantasy as well as the argument that modern fantasy is a response to post-Enlightenment rationalism.

ENGL 600 Core Seminar: Reading the Signs of the Times: Text and Interpretation (3 sem. hrs.)

Designed to orient students to the crucial transition from modernist to postmodernist and post-postmodernist models of texts and interpretation, models that depend on changing philosophical views of truth and reality. Examines the main interpretive paradigms in literary studies in order to show how views of reason, language, and textuality continue to shape one's life horizons.

ENGL 607 Special Topics in English Literature (3 sem. hrs.)

Topics may vary. Courses to date include:

- Foundations of Ethical Being
- James Baldwin: The Dialectic of Race and Religion
- Kierkegaard's Postscript
- Life Writing as a Literary Genre: Biography as Identification of Self and Subjectivity
- The Poetics of Resistance, Affirmation and Immigrant Voices and the Poetry of Trauma
- Studies in George MacDonald
- German Romanticism
- Gothic Fiction
- Poetics of American Literature
- Merton and the Solitary Tradition
- The Eighteenth-Century Novel
- Jane Austen
- Identity and Ethics in Communication
- Milton and the Romantics
- Shakespearean Trauma and the Early-Modern Suffering Self
- Studies in the Late-Victorian Fiction of Sir Arthur Conan Doyle

ENGL 610 Bibliography (3 sem. hrs.)

Under the direction of the student's approved thesis or major research paper advisor, a course of reading and study which leads to the development of both a significant bibliographical essay (or annotated bibliography) and a thesis proposal. The latter includes at least the following: major question(s) to be addressed; significance of the issue(s); methodologies to be used; theories to be addressed and primary sources to be examined.

ENGL 611/612 Thesis (3 sem. hrs.; 3 sem. hrs.)

ENGL 613 Major Essay (3 sem. hrs.)

Under the direction of a supervisor, students not writing a thesis will research and write a major paper of approximately 10,000–15,000 words in length.

ENGL 615 “Of Paradise and Light”: Early Modern Devotional Writing (3 sem. hrs.)

The study of the literary expression of religious desire, doubt, and despair in early-modern British literature. The aesthetic shaping of spiritual belief and sentiment within specific historical and cultural contexts is investigated in a selection of early-modern works, including those by Anne Vaughan Lock, Robert Southwell, George Herbert, John Donne, Elizabeth Melville, Henry Vaughan, Richard Crashaw, An Collins, Thomas Traherne, John Bunyan, George Fox, and Margaret Fell Fox. Their works are read alongside religious texts central to the Catholic and Protestant traditions, including the Geneva Bible, the Douay-Rheims Bible, the King James Bible, the Book of Common Prayer, John Foxe’s Book of Martyrs, the Thirty-Nine Articles, the Spiritual Exercises of St. Ignatius of Loyola, and Joseph Hall’s The Art of Divine Meditation.

ENGL 620 (Auto)biography as Literary Genre: Self-Identification and Subjectivity (3 sem. hrs.)

Examines (auto)biographies as literary artifacts, responses to culture, and as texts within which identity is shaped and altered by the intentional acts of their writers. Examines current theories of (auto)biography by including life studies written by individuals whose association with the literary order has its origins in intellectual and cultural spheres. Explores how life writing participates in the construction of identity and engages subjectivity as a narrative strategy. Theorists including Paul Ricoeur, George Steiner, Richard Kearney, and Eva Hoffman are foundational to this study. The reading list includes (auto) biographical writings from authors such as: Elie Wiesel, Victor Frankl, Eva Hoffman, Anne Michaels, Michael Ondaatje, Dietrich Bonhoeffer, Richard Foster, John Bunyan, Frederick Buechner, Annie Dillard, Virginia Woolf, Lytton Strachey, Jean-Paul Sartre, Simone de Beauvoir, Thomas Merton, C.S. Lewis, and other significant (auto)biographers of the nineteenth and twentieth centuries.

ENGL 625 Christian Humanism (3 sem. hrs.)

This course seeks to recover humanism as a central ethos of western culture and its Christian roots in two ways: first, by tracing, as much as possible, the story of humanism and its development from Christian roots to the Renaissance and to Postmodernity and its current “overcoming.” This historical exercise requires a counter narrative to the secularist master narrative that dominates both contemporary secular and Christian ideas of humanism. Secondly, students are encouraged to consider recovering Christian humanism as a possible philosophy of culture that could address the main malaise of our present cultural predicament: an exhaustion of secular reason on the one hand, and the resurgence of religion (or at least its perception by secularist scholars) on the other. For this purpose the course draws on works from eastern and western theologians to establish theologically the theme of humanism as it arises from the Christology of the early church and persists into works of modern Catholic, Protestant, and eastern theology. All of this study provides the student with a deep sense that studying in the humanities may indeed be linked directly to Christology and ecclesiology.

ENGL 630 Religion, Gender, and Literature in Nineteenth-Century Britain (3 sem. hrs.)

This course provides an intensive study of how the writers of influential nineteenth-century British literary texts (including short and long poems, a novella, novels, and prose non-fiction) chose to portray the intersection of religious faith and gender. This course not only familiarizes students with the most significant nineteenth-century British authors, but also enables a thorough exploration of two of the most prevalent areas of debate in the nineteenth century: gender roles and questions of faith. The course focuses on these texts as literature, taking into consideration genre, literary techniques, and audience, but the course as a whole crosses disciplinary boundaries as students read philosophical and historical writers such as John Stuart Mill and John Ruskin. Students also become familiar with the major theoretical approaches applied to these texts by contemporary literary critics.

ENGL 640 Science Fiction, 1600-1900: A Literary Historical Perspective (3 sem. hrs.)

This course will provide an intensive study of significant works of 'science fiction' written between 1600 and 1900 from a literary historical perspective.

ENGL 645 The Great Tradition: Christian Thought in Western Literary Classics (3 sem. hrs.)

Focuses on one overarching theme: how Christian thought is embedded in some of the greatest literary classics of the Western World, selected from the Patristic period up to the twentieth century. These include such diverse genres as St. Augustine's autobiographical ruminations in his Confessions; Dante's Divine Comedy; Shakespeare's Hamlet; Milton's Paradise Lost; Bunyan's Pilgrim's Progress; Goethe's Faust; Hardy's Tess of the d'Urbervilles; and T.S. Eliot's Murder in the Cathedral. This course deals with questions such as: What are we referring to when we speak of the mind? What is the nature of the human mind? Does it have a nature? Does it exist as something separate from the human brain? Is it a property of the human brain? Is it identical to the human brain? Or is it merely an abbreviated way of talking about bodily behaviours? More particularly, how is our phenomenologically rich and existentially weighted point of view on the world related to the neurophysiological conditions that underwrite it (or as one writer put it, "how is the water of the brain transubstantiated into the wine of consciousness?")? How does the way we understand the answers to these questions inform the Christian belief that humans bear God's image? And how does theology bear on our understanding of our bodies' relationship to our minds?

ENGL 650 The Writings of C.S. Lewis (3 sem. hrs.)

The impact of prominent Inklings author C.S. Lewis continues to grow, garnering both applause and, in other quarters, heavy criticism. Lewis is lauded as an intellectual giant, a Christian apologist without equal, and a gifted myth-maker, but also identified as misogynistic, racist, sado-masochistic, and enjoying violence. This course focuses on the literary achievement of C.S. Lewis, analyzing representative texts of his literary criticism, poetry, essays, novels, fictional narratives, and devotional writing, in order to examine his mythopoeic vision and its contribution to Christianity and culture. Through close reading of the texts, and considering these in relation to various forms of theoretical inquiry – historical, sociological, psychological, gender discourse, ecological, ethical and spiritual or theological – students will engage in the critical task of assessing the ongoing impact of the writings of C.S. Lewis.

Foundations

FNDN 101 The Liberal Arts Journey (1 sem. hr.)

An introduction to the distinctive liberal arts education offered at Trinity Western University. Students engage with the concepts underpinning a Christian liberal arts education; learn about TWU's unique core curriculum and Student Learning Outcomes; practice strategies that will help them confidently navigate their university journey and develop a strategic educational plan to guide their academic decision-making.

Prerequisite(s): None.

French

NOTE: regarding all French courses: After consulting with the department, students may begin one level below that for which they qualify if they have not taken French for several years, or if they lack confidence in the adequacy of their preparation. Placement tests may be given to determine a student's level.

FREN 101, 102 Introduction to French (3, 3 sem. hrs.)

Courses provide an introduction to the French language and culture for those with no or very little French (nothing higher than high school French 10). Through intensive work in grammar, conversation, vocabulary building, and basic reading, as well as through online work and videos that accompany the text, students develop oral and written skills and are introduced to various aspects of French culture. Language labs provide additional practice in oral work.

Prerequisite(s): None; FREN 101 is a prerequisite for FREN 102. (3-1; 3-1)

FREN 111, 112 Intermediate French (3, 3 sem. hrs.)

Courses improve the student's command of oral and written French by reviewing previous knowledge and introducing new grammar structures and readings with a cultural content. Students receive intensive practice in reading, writing, speaking and aural comprehension, and develop their knowledge of the language largely through a communicative approach. Language labs using various media provide additional practice.

Prerequisite(s): Grade 11 French or FREN 102. FREN 111 is a prerequisite for FREN 112. Students with a Grade 12 average in French of less than 75% may take FREN 111 with permission. (3-1; 3-1)

FREN 203, 204 Conversational and Written French (3, 3) (Previously FREN 113, 114)

Conversational courses aimed at developing greater fluency in the spoken language through the study of society and culture, as well as language. The emphasis is on developing oral skills, including: improved grammar structures, vocabulary, and pronunciation, aided by written work. FREN 204 focuses on language for the workplace or professional settings and is currently offered in the summer, depending on demand. Courses are conducted entirely in French.

Prerequisite(s): Grade 12 French or FREN 112 for either FREN 203 or FREN 204.

NB: Courses are NOT intended for students with Grade 12 French Immersion.

FREN 205, 206 Langue et introduction à la littérature française (3 sem. hrs.) (Previously FREN 121, 122)

Courses introduce students to French literature through the study of various genres: short story, poetry, novel, and theatre. Students improve their language skills through reading, writing, and discussion. As well, basic elements of French grammar are thoroughly reviewed and consolidated. Language labs provide additional oral practice.

Prerequisite(s): Grade 12 French or FREN 111, 112. FREN 205 is a prerequisite for FREN 206.

NB: Students whose Grade 12 average in French is 75% or higher should register in FREN 205; if it is lower than 75%, they may register in FREN 111 with permission. Students whose Grade 12 average in French Immersion is 80% or higher may enter FREN 305, following a successful placement test.

FREN 303 Conversation avancée (3 sem. hrs.) (Previously FREN 214)

Designed to provide intensive oral practice at the advanced level through conversation, discussion, debate, and oral presentations. Content focuses on social issues of current interest, allowing students to learn how to correctly express their opinions. Various forms of media may be used such as websites, television and film clips and magazine articles. Students work on expressing their thoughts accurately while integrating correct grammatical principles and improving sentence structure, vocabulary, and pronunciation.

Prerequisite(s): FREN 203 or 204, or 206, or Grade 12 French Immersion.

FREN 305, 306 Langue écrite et orale (3 sem. hrs.) (Previously FREN 215, 216)

This course prepare students to go into more advanced work in French by focusing on grammar, reading, writing, and oral practice. Besides intensive work in grammar, the study of literature and other readings provides the basis for discussion and composition, as well as the means of acquiring vocabulary and cultural insights. Language labs provide additional oral practice. These courses are prerequisites for all other upper level courses, except FREN 303. With permission, certain upper level courses may be taken concurrently with FREN 305, 306.

Prerequisite(s): FREN 206. FREN 305 is a prerequisite for FREN 306.

FREN 318 Le modernisme en littérature et en art (3 sem. hrs.)

This course focuses on French literature, culture, and society in the latter part of the 19th century and the beginning of the 20th century. It introduces students to early modernism in French poetry and prose, while presenting parallels in art and architecture. Beginning with such poets as Baudelaire, Rimbaud, Verlaine, and Mallarmé, it shows how the concerns of the symbolist poets and their precursors are reflected in Impressionist art. Apollinaire's poetry is examined in relation to early 20th century society and developing art forms such as cubism and surrealism. Novelists Marcel Proust and André Gide are also studied as founding figures of modernism.

NB: Offered alternating years.

Prerequisite(s) or Co-requisite (with permission): FREN 306. (3-0 or 3-0)

FREN 320 Littérature française du XXe siècle (3 sem. hrs.)

20th century literature as represented by the works of major authors such as Camus, Sartre, and Duras. Various works and literary movements are examined in the light of their philosophical, ideological, and historical contexts, as well as their spiritual implications. Students reflect on underlying issues reflected in these works from a biblical perspective.

NB: Offered alternating years.

Prerequisite(s) or Co-requisite (with permission): FREN 306. (3-0 or 3-0)

FREN 321, 322 Littérature française du Moyen Age au XIXe siècle (3, 3 sem. hrs.)

A survey of French literature from the Middle Ages to the 19th century, through the study of specific texts and literary excerpts. Courses focus on various time periods and movements including: classicism, romanticism, and realism. FREN 321 covers to the end of the 17th century. FREN 322 deals with the 18th and 19th centuries and includes a look at the French Revolution and Enlightenment thinkers.

NB: Offered alternating years.

Prerequisite(s): FREN 306; and FREN 318 or 320 or instructor's permission. (3-0; 3-0)

FREN 340 Littérature francophone (3 sem. hrs.)

Course introduces students to the history and literature of the francophone world, including such regions as Africa, the Caribbean, and Vietnam. Problems of colonization, decolonization, and national identity are examined through literature.

Prerequisite(s): FREN 216.

FREN 350 Civilisation française (3 sem. hrs.)

An overview of French civilization, highlighting important aspects of French life today and over the centuries. Through a mainly historical approach, major developments in government, society, and the arts (including architecture) are examined, while the basic geographical features of France are noted and cultures of the various regions are explored.

NB: Usually offered alternating years.

Prerequisite(s): FREN 306. (3-0 or 3-0)

FREN 360 Grammaire française avancée (3 sem. hrs.)

An advanced course designed to give students a thorough review of French grammar while emphasizing the structure of the language. Students learn to identify all parts of speech and analyze sentences grammatically. Through numerous written exercises, students significantly improve their grammatical skills, including verb usage.

NB: Offered alternating years.

Prerequisite(s): FREN 306. (3-0 or 3-0)

FREN 370 Style et composition (3 sem. hrs.)

Designed to give advanced students intensive practice in written French through various types of composition as well as stylistic exercises. Students work on improving vocabulary, grammar, and syntax, while focusing on different writing styles, including argumentative texts and various forms of creative writing. A variety of articles and short literary texts are used to provide models and examples.

NB: Offered alternating years.

Prerequisite(s): FREN 306; FREN 360 strongly recommended. (3-0 or 3-0)

FREN 380 Phonétique et prononciation (3 sem. hrs.)

Course in French phonetics and pronunciation, providing intensive language practice through a study of the mechanisms of pronunciation and numerous applied exercises, both oral and written. Students improve their accent, intonation, and speech patterns, while also learning the International Phonetic Alphabet as it applies to French.

NB: Not offered every year. Normally offered during summer sessions. See department chair.

Prerequisite(s): FREN 306. (3-0 or 3-0)

FREN 420 Littérature québécoise (3 sem. hrs.)

An overview of the traditional themes of French Canadian literature followed by an intensive study of the works of several modern Québécois authors, revealing an evolving society through the texts.

NB: Offered alternating years.

Prerequisite(s): FREN 306; and one of FREN 318, 320, 321 or 322. (3-0 or 3-0)

FREN 430 Littérature féminine d'expression française (3 sem. hrs.)

A study of selected works of well-known French and francophone women writers, including a discussion of the themes, major concerns, and importance of their works.

NB: Not offered every year. See department chair.

Prerequisite(s): FREN 306; and one of FREN 318, 320, 321 or 322. (3-0 or 3-0)

FREN 450 Études dirigées en littérature ou en culture françaises (3 sem. hrs.)

With permission from the department, a student may do a directed study in a specific area of French literature or culture, accompanied by various assignments, essays, and an oral and written exam.

Prerequisite(s): FREN 306; and an upper level French literature course; and third or fourth year standing.

Geography and Environment

NB: Only GENV 121, 131, 220, 320, 321, and 216

322 fulfil academic core's natural science course requirements (only GENV 121 fulfils the academic core's natural science lab course requirements). Also note that any of the human geography courses (e.g., GENV 111, 212, 230, 354, 355) fulfil academic core society and culture course requirement but human geography courses cannot be taken to meet the natural science (lab or non-lab) course requirement.

GENV 109 Introduction to Physical Geology (3 sem. hrs.)

An introduction to the materials and processes of the physical earth: rocks and minerals, earth structure and composition, plate tectonics, vulcanology, seismology, crustal deformation, weathering and erosion, slope movement, sedimentation, wind and water processes, glaciation, and geologic time. Earth materials and processes are studied in the laboratory and in the field. This course is an environmental studies core requirement.

NB: Fulfils the academic core laboratory science requirements.

Cross-listed: GEOL 109

Prerequisite(s): None. (3-3; 0-0)

GENV 111 Human Geography and Global Change (3 sem. hrs.)

An introduction to human geography and the notion of globalization by exploring some of the major economic, political, social, cultural, environmental, and technological changes that have recently occurred at the global level and are shaping local places. The course is designed to provide students with better understanding of the variation, interaction, and interdependence of places, regions, people and their environments in a globalizing world; and to demonstrate how human geographers might consider and examine the concepts, forces, processes, issues, and ideas that are associated with global transformation.

NB: Fulfills academic core society and culture requirement but not for natural science (lab or non-lab) core requirement.

GENV 121 Earth and Atmospheric Science (3 sem. hrs.)

An introduction to the fundamental concepts and systems of Earth and atmospheric science from a geographic perspective. Emphasis is placed on the origins and development of Earth's surface features; the characteristics and circulations of the atmosphere, including weather and global climates; and the biophysical principles governing vegetation on Earth.

NB: Fulfills academic core laboratory science requirements.

Prerequisite(s): None. (3-3; 3-3)

GENV 131 Global Environment Issues (3 sem. hrs.)

An investigation of the scientific principles behind global environmental issues. The course focuses on key ecological concepts and the changing relationship of humans with the natural world including the different approaches to understanding and solving environmental problems, from local to global scales. It investigates such issues as: human populations and environmental impact; loss of species biodiversity; air, water, and soil pollution; energy use; climate change; and waste management.

NB: Fulfills academic core society and culture requirement.

Prerequisite(s): None. (0-0; 3-0)

GENV 212 Urbanization Issues of Developing Countries (3 sem. hrs.)

This course explores urbanization processes in developing countries, particularly in urban settings across Africa, Asia, and Latin America. It provides a geographic perspective on the socio-economic, political, cultural, and environmental conditions under which cities of the Third World are rapidly growing and their relation to globalization issues. Case studies from selected areas examine such problems as unemployment, inadequate health services, housing shortages, and inadequate urban infrastructure.

NB: Fulfills academic core society and culture requirement.

Prerequisite(s): None. (0-0; 3-0)

GENV 216 Plant Environments (3 sem. hrs.)

An inventory of plant life across major habitats - particularly in the local area of British Columbia - this course provides insights into the ecology of these environments. Local field trips highlight natural habitats, agricultural and horticultural crops, and managed forests. Critical assessment of planetary stewardship forms a common theme.

NB: Summer sessions only. Includes field work in the Gulf Islands. Not offered every year. See department chair.

Cross-listed: BIOL 216.

Prerequisite(s): Instructor's consent. Fulfills lab-science requirement for non-majors.

GENV 220 Geology of the Vancouver Region (3 sem. hrs.)

An overview of the fundamental earth science processes responsible for the creation, transformation, and ongoing physical development of the Pacific Northwest. These processes are studied in the context of the building of the North American continent through tectonic forces and surface dynamics. Topics include: geologic time, tectonics, vulcanology, seismology, stratigraphy, glaciation, erosion, paleontology, paleoclimatology, and environmental issues. Field trips and field studies are included.

NB: Fulfills academic core natural science requirements.

Cross-listed: GEOL 220.

Prerequisite(s): None. (0-0; 3-0)

GENV 230 Geography of Canada (3 sem. hrs.)

This course describes and explores Canada's physical and human geography focusing on the regional distribution of natural features and resources, population and settlements, economic activities and development, and cultural change. It emphasizes the diversity and interrelationships between the physical and human landscapes which have evolved over time, creating the identifiable regions and sub-regions within the country.

NB: Fulfills academic core society and culture requirement.

Prerequisite(s): None. (3-0; 3-0)

GENV 262 Marine Biology (3 sem. hrs.)

A study of the life history and distribution of marine organisms in several major habitat types, including soft sediment and rocky substrate communities. Emphasis is on field and laboratory work in a survey of common local marine plants and animals and their relationships. Includes field work in the Lower Mainland, Gulf Islands, and/or Vancouver Island.

NB: Summer sessions only. Not offered every year. See department chair.

Cross-listed: BIOL 262

Prerequisite(s): Instructor's consent. Fulfills lab-science requirement for non-majors.

GENV 282 Geographic Information Systems (3 sem. hrs.)

This course introduces the basic principles of Geographic Information Systems (GIS). It focuses on the theory and practice of GIS including how to store, analyze, and display geographic information; how to use GIS as tool in the social and environmental sciences; and the development of skills in the operation of GIS software.

Cross-listed: ISYS 390.

Prerequisite(s): None. (0-0; 3-2)

GENV 312 History of Science and Technology in Global Perspective (3 sem. hrs.)

This course explores the changing geographical patterns of transportation and communication, settlement and economic activity, and social and cultural change since the beginning of European contact. Topics include: the role of the physical environment in shaping regional identities; pre-industrial cities and economic activities; urban and economic growth during industrialization; and the changing social geography of the country. Field trips are required.

NB: Offered every other year.

Prerequisite(s): 6 sem. hrs. of geography and environment including one of GENV 111, 212, 131, or 230 or instructor's consent. (0-0; 3-0)

GENV 316 Plant Ecology (3 sem. hrs.)

As an exploration of the botanical riches of the tropics - focusing on the plant life of Hawaii - this course traces fundamentals of plant taxonomy, physiology, and ecology in relation to complexities of existence on the most isolated island chain in the world. Issues related to indigenous vegetation, including effects of introduced animals and plants, agriculture, and ethnobotany, are discussed. The course involves one week of lectures at Trinity Western and two weeks of lectures and field work in Hawaii.

NB: Summer sessions only. Offered every other year.

Cross-listed: BIOL 318

Prerequisite(s): 6 sem. hrs. of geography and environment including one of GENV 111, 212, 131, or 230 or instructor's consent. (0-0; 3-0)

GENV 318 Tropical Botany (3 sem. hrs.)

This course explores the changing geographical patterns of transportation and communication, settlement and economic activity, and social and cultural change since the beginning of European contact. Topics include: the role of the physical environment in shaping regional identities; pre-industrial cities and economic activities; urban and economic growth during industrialization; and the changing social geography of the country. Field trips are required.

NB: Offered every other year.

Prerequisite(s): BIOL 103, 104, and 105; or BIOL 113, 114 and instructors consent. BIOL 216 or 312 or 314 or BIOL/GENV 316 strongly recommended.

GENV 320 Geomorphology (3 sem. hrs.)

A scientific examination of the physical processes which shape landform development, structure, and dynamics. Topics include: weathering, slope systems, fluvial and coastal environments, and glacial and periglacial systems. Special emphasis is placed on deciphering past events from current landscape structures. Field trips and field studies are required.

NB: Offered every other year. Fulfills academic core natural science requirements.

Cross-listed: GEOL 320.

Prerequisite(s): 6 sem. hrs. of geography and environment including one of GENV 121, 131; 220; or GEOL 109; or instructor's consent. (3-2; 0-0)

GENV 321 Geography of Soils (3 sem. hrs.)

A scientific investigation of the various aspects of soil as a natural resource. Topics include: physical, chemical, and biological characteristics of soils applied in the context of soil formation, soil classification and land use, agriculture, and environmental engineering. Soil mapping and spatial distribution of soils is also considered. Field trips and field studies are required.

NB: Offered every other year. Fulfills academic core natural science requirements.

Cross-listed: GEOL 321.

Prerequisite(s): 6 sem. hrs. of geography and environment including one of GENV 121, 131; 220; or GEOL 109; or instructor's consent. (3-3; 0-0)

GENV 322 Global Climate Change (3 sem. hrs.)

A scientific examination of the systems and processes which govern natural and human-induced climate change. Topics include: atmospheric composition, structure, and function; climate change over tectonic, orbital, deglacial, and historical timescales; climate modeling; climate change impacts on terrestrial and marine ecosystems; and the political and socio-economic dimensions of climate change. Field trips are required.

NB: Offered every other year. Fulfills academic core natural science requirements.

Prerequisite(s): 6 sem. hrs. of geography and environment including one of GENV 121, 131; 220; or GEOL 109; or instructor's consent. (0-0; 3-0)

GENV 332 Geography of Western Canada (3 sem. hrs.)

This course provides an overview of the physical and human geography that shapes and defines the Prairie provinces and British Columbia. The course focuses on selected cultural and environmental factors in understanding the spatial variation in population patterns and economic activity. Emphasis is also placed on the role of regional literature and painting in the formation of regional images.

NB: Offered every other year.

Prerequisite(s): 6 sem. hrs. of geography and environment including one of GENV 111, 131; 212, or 230; or instructor's consent. (0-0; 3-0)

GENV 341 Resource and Environmental Management (3 sem. hrs.)

An introduction to key concepts and issues in natural resources management. The course examines major resource-based industries, including agriculture, fishing, forestry, mining, energy, and recreation. It also emphasizes understanding the varied influences that environmental, socio-economic, and political factors have on the spatial distribution of resource utilization and resource management.

NB: Offered every other year.

Prerequisite(s): 6 sem. hrs. of geography and environment including one of GENV 111, 131; 212, or 230; or instructor's consent. (3-0; 0-0)

GENV 343 Geography of the Pacific Rim (3 sem. hrs.)

This course examines the physical and human geography of the Pacific Rim. It gives particular attention to regional distribution of natural features and resources, population and settlements, economic activities and development, as well as globalization and its impact on this region. The Pacific Rim is a geographic realm that has changed dramatically since the middle of the 20th century, therefore, this course explores the dynamic issues, problems, and challenges facing contemporary Pacific Rim countries, how the issues are being addressed, and the future prospects for the people and countries within this region.

NB: Offered every other year. Fulfills area studies requirements for International Studies major/honours.

Prerequisite(s): 6 sem. hrs. of geography and environment including one of GENV 111, 131; 212, or 230; or instructor's consent. (3-0; 0-0)

GENV 344 Geography of Africa (3 sem. hrs.)

This course examines the human and physical geography of Africa. Attention is given to the regional distribution of natural features and resources, population and settlements, economic activities and development, and globalization and its impact on this vast continent. Because Africa is a geographic realm that has changed dramatically since the middle of the 20th century, this course explores the dynamic issues, problems, and challenges facing contemporary African societies, how the issues are being addressed, and the future prospects for the people and countries within this geographic region.

NB: Offered every other year. Fulfills area studies requirements for International Studies major/honours.

Prerequisite(s): 6 sem. hrs. of geography and environment including one of GENV 111, 131; 212, or 230; or instructor's consent. (3-0; 0-0)220

GENV 354 Geography of the World Economy (3 sem. hrs.)

This course investigates the changing geographical patterns of global economic activity and the processes influencing the organization of economic space. It focuses on the spatial patterns of production and manufacturing; the distribution of goods and services; and the role of multinationals, global marketing strategies and outsourcing. It also investigates issues and challenges from global to local economies; including population growth and development, poverty and unemployment, and environmental sustainability.

NB: Offered every other year.

Cross-listed: ECON 354.

Prerequisite(s): 6 sem. hrs. of geography and environment including one of GENV 111, 131; 212, or 230; or third year standing in Economics/Business, or instructor's consent. (0-0; 3-0)

GENV 355 Geography of Urban Areas (3 sem. hrs.)

This course focuses on the origin, physical environment, and structure of urban settlements; the growth and processes of urbanization; and the impact of globalization on urban centres. It investigates societal issues common to urban environments including; poverty, homelessness, substance abuse, criminality, environmental degradation and deterioration of the built environment. It also provides an overview of urban renewal and planning processes.

NB: Offered every other year.

Prerequisite(s): 6 sem. hrs. of geography and environment including one of GENV 111, 131; 212, or 230; or instructor's consent. (3-0; 0-0)

GENV 356 Urban and Regional Planning (3 sem. hrs.)

This course provides a comprehensive introduction to the principles, problems, and techniques of urban, suburban, rural, and regional land use planning. It focuses on the elements and make-up of the comprehensive plan, the politics of planning, and the assessment of economic, social and environmental plans.

NB: Offered every other year.

Prerequisite(s): 6 sem. hrs. of geography and environment including one of GENV 111; 212; 355 or instructor's consent. (0-0; 3-0)

GENV 362 Marine Ecology (3 sem. hrs.)

A study of the ecological relationships of marine life in several major habitat types. Emphasis is on productivity, food webs, nutrient cycling, and community ecology. Ecosystem parameters are investigated through field and laboratory studies. Part of course work takes place in the Lower Mainland, Gulf Islands, and/or Vancouver Island.

NB: Summer sessions only. Not offered every year. See department chair.

Cross-listed: BIOL 362.

Prerequisite(s): Advanced standing in biology and instructor's content. BIOL 308 and/or 360 strongly recommended.

GENV 364 Coral Reef Ecology (3 sem. hrs.)

A field course focusing on the systematics and ecology of tropical coral reef organisms. Plants, animals, and physical factors of a fringing coral reef are examined through snorkeling excursions and laboratory studies. One species is chosen for a detailed research project. Includes field course work in Hawaii.

NB: Summer sessions only. Not offered every year. See department chair.

Cross-listed: BIOL 364.

Prerequisite(s): Advanced standing in biology and instructor's content. BIOL 262, 308, 360 and/or 382 strongly recommended.

GENV 372, 373 Internship/Practicum (3 sem. hrs. each)

This internship course gives students an opportunity to apply the knowledge and skills acquired in the classroom to a real world work environment. The course is an efficient way to hone students' practical skills in spatial information science (SIS) and analysis within the realms of geography, environmental science, and/or geographic information systems (GIS) helping them gain valuable work experience by learning new skills, gaining new perspectives in integrating SIS, exploring the SIS work environment, and networking with the experts in this field. This practicum is offered as a tripartite arrangement that includes: the student, the University's course instructor/program coordinator, and the approved practicum supervisor in a reputable government department, business, or non-profit/non-governmental organization.

NB: Pass/Fail course. See geography and environment coordinator/department chair.

Prerequisite(s): Third year standing with a minimum of 9 sem. hrs. of geography and environment including two of GENV 111, 121, 131, 212, 282 or instructor's consent.

GENV 374, 375 Environmental Studies Internship (3 sem. hrs. each)

This internship/practicum course gives students an opportunity to apply the knowledge and skills acquired in the classroom to a real-world work environment. The course is an efficient way to hone students' practical skills in scientific and social scientific analysis within the realm of environmental science/studies helping them gain valuable work experience by learning new skills, gaining new perspectives in areas such as environmental assessment and ecological analyses, and networking with the experts in this field. This practicum is offered as a tripartite arrangement that includes the student, the University's course instructor/program coordinator, and the approved practicum supervisor in a reputable government department, business, or non-profit/non-governmental organization.

Prerequisite(s): Third year standing with a minimum of 9 sem. hrs. towards an GENV degree including two of BIOL 113, CHEM 101 or 111, GENV 121 and GENV 131 or instructor's consent. (3-0 or 3-0)

GENV 381 General Ecology (3 sem. hrs.)

A study of the structure and dynamics of ecosystems. Consideration of plant and animal populations in relation to physical, chemical, and biological factors affecting their interaction and productivity. Considerable laboratory time is devoted to the study of local ecosystems, field sampling techniques, and field trips to ecological research areas.

Cross-listed: BIOL 381.

Prerequisite(s): BIOL 103, 104, and 105; or BIOL 113, 114; or equivalent. (0-0; 3-3)

GENV 382 Applied Geographic Information Systems (3 sem. hrs.)

This course focuses on the utility of Geographic Information Systems in problem solving and decision-making in real world settings. Students are expected to complete a major term project in consultation with the instructor.

NB: Offered every other year.

Prerequisite(s): 6 sem. hrs. of geography and environment including GENV 282, or instructor's consent. (0-0; 3-2)

GENV 383 Geographic Data Analysis (3 sem. hrs.)

This course focuses on the use of quantitative methods as an aid to problem-solving in the geographical and environmental sciences. Topics include: sampling and data collection; methods of statistical description; and methods of statistical inference and hypothesis testing.

NB: Offered every other year.

Prerequisite(s): 6 sem. hrs. of geography and environment. (0-0; 3-2)

GENV 391, 392 Directed Studies in Geography and Environment (3 sem. hrs.)

In special cases, with the instructor's consent, students may pursue an independent but guided reading and research course in a specialized area of geography of interest to students.

Prerequisite(s): 6 sem. hrs. of geography and environment, and instructor's consent. See geography and environment coordinator. (3-0 or 3-0)

GENV 400 Special Topics in Geography and Environment (3 sem. hrs.)

A study of special topics or issues in geography and environment that are not considered in-depth in other courses.

NB: Not offered every year. See geography and environment coordinator.

Prerequisite(s): Not offered every year. See geography and environment coordinator.

GENV 409 Thesis Preparation (1 sem. hrs.)

Students are required to choose a topic for their senior thesis (GENV 410) in consultation with an instructor. Selected readings and references pertinent to the topic are assigned. A final written and oral report is presented consisting of a detailed thesis proposal and a literature review. Students are advised to start in their third year to allow observations over a full calendar year.

Prerequisite(s): Advanced standing in geography and environment studies or instructor's consent. (1-0; 0-0)

GENV 410 Senior Thesis (2 sem. hrs.)

Research in a chosen area of environmental studies with a final written report. Presentation of research findings are also made by the student in a seminar.

NB: Normally 2 sem. hrs. are assigned unless arrangements are made with the department chair.

Prerequisite(s): GENV 409, a related directed study in preparation, instructor's consent. (0-0; 1-2)

GENV 411 Rural Development (3 sem. hrs.)

The course is designed to introduce students to the broad concept of rural development, to the relationship between rural communities and their environments, and to the critical issues of rural restructuring and sustainability. This course examines the theoretical underpinnings, principles, and practices of rural development as well as the problems and challenges facing rural communities in both developed and developing countries. It is expected that, by the end of the course, students gain and/or broaden their knowledge of contemporary domestic and international rural development processes, practices, and issues.

NB: Offered every other year.

Prerequisite(s): 6 sem. hrs. of geography and environment, third or fourth year standing, or instructor's consent. (0-0; 3-0)

GENV 412 Senior Thesis (3 sem. hrs.)

Research in a chosen area of environmental studies with a final written report. Students present research findings in a seminar. Allows students with larger projects to gain extra credit.

NB: Normally 2 sem. hrs. are assigned unless arrangements are made with the department chair.

Prerequisite(s): GENV 409, a related directed study in preparation, instructor's consent. (0-0; 1-2)

GENV 414 Nature, Society, and History in Global Perspective (3 sem. hrs.)

Human interaction with the environment is the most fundamental of all relationships. This course examines the different ways in which societies have defined, understood, and used their non-human surroundings and the processes through which the environment influences culture and adapts to human communities. Students explore the historical context of the human-nature interaction in global perspective and compare the ways in which the concepts of politics, nationalism, race, ethnicity, gender, religion, etc. inform and guide the relationship.

NB: Not offered every year. See department chair.

Cross-listed: HIST 409

Prerequisite(s): 6 sem. hrs. of history, third or fourth year standing, or instructor's consent. (3-0; 0-0)

GENV 441 Resource Management in British Columbia (3 sem. hrs.)

This course offers a detailed examination of natural resource management issues in British Columbia. It asks participants to consider selected BC environmental issues in a broad context by posing a number of questions: What do we mean when we use the term "environment"? What is problematic? To whom? What is the response? How do we apply what we learn within the context of sustainability and stewardship of Creation? Course themes such as the case of Pacific salmon within the Fraser River Watershed are utilized.

NB: Offered every other year.

Prerequisite(s): 6 sem. hrs. of geography and environment, third or fourth year standing, or instructor's consent. (0-0; 3-0)

GENV 442 Environmental Thought (3 sem. hrs.)

A survey of the origin and development of those streams of geographic thought reflecting people's relationship to the natural environment. The course includes discussions within the context of Christian and non-Christian alternatives, of the development of a responsible Christian environmental ethic and its application to global environmental issues.

NB: Offered every other year.

Prerequisite(s): 6 sem. hrs. of geography and environment, third or fourth year standing, or instructor's consent. (3-0; 0-0)

GENV 482 Geovisualization and Analysis (3 sem. hrs.)

An introduction to the underlying principles and methods of 3D modeling within ArcGIS 3D Analyst. It provides experience with 3DE tools as well as opportunities for practical, real-life applications through a series of examples and exercises, which include: constructing the 3D environment/ landscape, analyzing spatial data, and creating outputs (e.g., 3D maps), based on real-life modeling examples such as urban landscapes, parks, business locations, and housing.

Prerequisite(s): GENV 282 or instructor's consent. (3-0 or 3-0)

GENV 484 Applied Ecology (3 sem. hrs.)

An exploration of various practical applications of biology in environmental management, monitoring, and remediation. Topics include many important areas of concern such as wildlife management, fisheries, forestry, agriculture, water and air pollution, and protection of endangered ecosystems. Various biological approaches to these are considered, such as population modelling, ecophysiology, microbiology techniques, biomonitoring, ecosystem health, and biodiversity inventories. The implications of environmental ethics and the role of Christian environmental stewardship are discussed.

NB: Not offered every year. See department chair.

Cross-listed: BIOL 484.

Prerequisite(s): BIOL 381 (may be taken concurrently). (0-0; 3-3)
Geology

GEOL 109 Introduction to Physical Geology (3 sem. hrs.)

An introduction to the materials and processes of the physical earth: rocks and minerals, earth structure and composition, plate tectonics, vulcanology, seismology, crustal deformation, weathering and erosion, slope movement, sedimentation, wind and water processes, glaciation, and geologic time. Earth materials and processes are studied in the laboratory and in the field. This course is an environmental studies core requirement.

NB: Fulfils the academic core laboratory science requirements.

Cross-listed: GENV 109.224

Prerequisite(s): None. (3-3; 0-0)

GEOL 220 Geology of the Vancouver Region (3 sem. hrs.)

An overview of the fundamental earth science processes responsible for the creation, transformation, and ongoing physical development of western North America. These processes are studied in the context of the building of the North American continent through tectonic forces and surface dynamics. Topics include: geologic time, tectonics, vulcanology, seismology, stratigraphy, glaciation, erosion, paleontology, paleoclimatology, and environmental issues. The objective of the course is to familiarize students with the physical environment around them so they may take a more active role in the stewardship of the earth. Field trips and field studies are included.

NB: Fulfils the academic core natural science requirements.

Cross-listed: GENV 220.

Prerequisite(s): None. (0-0; 3-0)

GEOL 320 Geomorphology (3 sem. hrs.)

The scientific examination of the physical processes which shape landform development, structure, and dynamics. Topics include: weathering, slope systems, fluvial and coastal environments, and glacial and periglacial systems. Special emphasis is placed on deciphering past events from current landscape structures. Field trips and field studies are required.

NB: Offered every other year. Fulfils academic core natural science requirements.

Cross-listed: GENV 320.

Prerequisite(s): 6 sem. hrs. of geography and environment including GENV 121, 131; 220; or GEOL 109; 220, or instructor's consent. (3-2 or 0-0)

GEOL 321 Geography of Soils (3 sem. hrs.)

A scientific investigation of the various aspects of soil as a natural resource. Topics include: physical, chemical, and biological characteristics of soils applied in the context of soil formation, soil classification and land use, agriculture, and environmental engineering. Soil mapping and spatial distribution of soils is also considered. Field trips and field studies are required.

Cross-listed: GENV 321.

For further course listings, see Au Sable Institute of Environmental Studies listings.

German

GERM 101, 102 Introduction to German (3, 3 sem. hrs.)

An introduction to German for those with no previous knowledge of the language. Course includes intensive practice in both spoken and written German, as well as cultural content. Integrated laboratory program.

Prerequisite(s): None for GERM 101; GERM 101 is a prerequisite for 102. (3-1; 3-1)

GERM 201, 202 Intermediate German (3, 3 sem. hrs.)

An intermediate language course designed to develop the student's fluency in reading, writing, speaking, and listening comprehension. Grammar and composition are systematically reviewed, and students are introduced to German literature and culture through short fiction, as well as excerpts from documents and articles.

NB: Not offered every year. See department chair.

Prerequisite(s): GERM 101, 102 or equivalent. (3-1; 3-1)

Greek

GREE 235 Elementary New Testament Greek (3 sem. hrs.)

This basic introduction to Koine Greek is designed to prepare the student for reading the Greek New Testament, including a reading of the Johannine epistles.

Cross-listed: RELS 235. (3-0; 3-0)

GREE 329 Elementary New Testament Greek (3 sem. hrs.)

A continuing study of Koine Greek that is designed to prepare the student for reading the Greek New Testament.

Cross-listed: RELS 329.

Prerequisite(s): GREE/RELS 235 (3-0; 3-0)

GREE 331, 332 Readings in the Greek New Testament (3, 3 sem. hrs.)

A reading of selected texts from the Greek New Testament, including a study of syntax and an introduction to exegetical methodology.

Cross-listed: RELS 331, 332.

Prerequisite(s): GREE 235, 236; or RELS 235, 236. GREE 331 is a prerequisite for 332. (3-0; 3-0)

Hebrew

HEBR 245 Elementary Biblical Hebrew (3 sem. hrs.)

An introduction to the grammar and vocabulary of biblical Hebrew, designed to prepare the student for serious reading and study of the Hebrew Bible.

Cross-listed: RELS 245. (3-0; 3-0)

HEBR 336 Elementary Biblical Hebrew (3 sem. hrs.)

A continuing study of the grammar and vocabulary of biblical Hebrew, designed to prepare the student for serious reading and study of the Hebrew Bible.

Cross-listed: RELS 336

Prerequisite(s): RELS/HEBR 245. (3-0; 3-0)

HEBR 337, 338 Readings in the Hebrew Bible (3, 3 sem. hrs.)

A reading of selected texts from the Hebrew Bible, including a study of Hebrew syntax and an introduction to exegetical methodology.

Cross-listed: RELS 337, 338.

Prerequisite(s): HEBR 245, 246; or RELS 245, 246. HEBR 337 is a prerequisite for 338. (3-0; 3-0)

History

HIST 107 World History to 1750: Ancient to Early Modern (3, 3 sem. hrs.)

This course involves a general examination of primary themes in the history of the world's major civilizations from antiquity to the 18th Century. Although European realities will be examined, the focus of this course will be global in nature with an emphasis on systems of cultural and economic exchange and on the global nature of historical development.

HIST 310 History in Practice (3 sem. hrs.)

An exploration of the practice of history in the public sphere including the ways in which communities, regions, nations, and other polities collect, manage, create, present, and understand their histories and stories. Analyzes how forms of historical consciousness show themselves in archives, museums, films, monuments, anniversaries, government policies, genealogy, etc. Practical application of historical skills and tools through communication with public historians, visits to local historic sites, and relevant assignments and experiential learning. Students gain valuable experiences and knowledge related to a variety of areas where public history is practised and are exposed to career opportunities in history.

NB: This course is the prerequisite for any history practicum (HIST 315). Not offered every year. See department chair.

Prerequisite(s): 6 sem. hrs. of history. (3-0 or 3-0)

HIST 312 Science and Technology in Global Perspective (3 sem. hrs.)

This course provides a survey of the history of science and technology from the ancient world to the present with particular emphasis on the early-modern and modern eras. While much of the focus is on developments in the Western world, this course also examines select issues and events in a comparative world perspective.

NB: Not offered every year. See department chair.

Cross-listed: GENV 314

Prerequisite(s): 6 sem. hrs. of history or third year standing in the natural and applied sciences. (3-0 or 3-0)

HIST 315, 316 History Practicum (3 sem. hrs.)

A supervised field experience designed to give students an opportunity to apply the skills and methodology of the discipline of history in a variety of settings so as to expose them to the broad range of contemporary applications for their formal education. Placements may take place in a variety of public settings including but not limited to: areas such as businesses and industry, government and public service, non-governmental organizations and international agencies, information management and preservation, resource management and land use, and education and training.

NB: Not offered every year. See department chair. Pass/fail course.

Prerequisite(s): Completion of HIST 310 with a minimum grade of a C+. Students may include a maximum of 6 sem. hrs. in their history major, a maximum of 3 sem. hrs. of practicum in their concentration or minor, and a maximum of 9 sem. hrs. in their degree. (3-0 or 3-0)

HIST 321 Tudor-Stuart England (3 sem. hrs.)

An exploration of the history of England from the coming of the Tudors in the 15th century to the so called Glorious Revolution at the end of the 17th century. This was an eventful age, featuring the reigns of Henry VIII and Elizabeth I, the defeat of the Spanish Armada, the creativity of William Shakespeare, a bitterly fought civil war, and the development of a limited monarchy.

Particular attention is paid to two developments that transformed English life: the religious reformations of the 16th century, and the civil war and political revolutions of the 17th century.

Prerequisite(s): 6 sem. hrs. of history, including one of HIST 107, 111, 112 or permission of instructor. (3-0; 3-0)

HIST 324 19th Century Europe (3 sem. hrs.)

This course examines the long 19th century from the French Revolution to the onset of the Great War. Explores key movements and themes in political, intellectual, and socio-economic history through lectures, discussion groups, and close readings of primary and secondary sources.

NB: Not offered every year. See department chair.

Prerequisite(s): 6 sem. hrs. of history including HIST 108 or 112, or instructor's consent. (3-0 or 3-0)

HIST 325 20th Century Europe (3 sem. hrs.)

This course involves an investigation of significant themes in the historical development of European society since 1914. Primary focus is on the issue of changing European perceptions of the nature of social organizations and of Europe's broader role in the international system. Topics include: the origin, nature, and effects of world war; the Russian Revolution and the rise of the Soviet state; the rise of Fascism and the emergence of "totalitarian" style movements; the construction of the Soviet empire in Eastern Europe and the emergence and ultimate resolution of the cold war; decolonization; and the rise of the welfare state and emergence of European federalism.

NB: Not offered every year. See department chair.

Prerequisite(s): 6 sem. hrs. of history including HIST 108 or 112, or instructor's consent. (3-0 or 3-0)

HIST 328 Politics and Society in Britain: 1815- 1964 (3 sem. hrs.)

The major political and social events, issues, developments, controversies, and interest groups in Britain in the period from Waterloo to the close of Macmillan's ministry. Selected themes such as the slave trade and abolitionism, British philanthropy, the decline of religion, imperialism, and the welfare state.

Prerequisite(s): 6 sem. hrs. of History including HIST 108 or 112, or instructor's consent. (3-0 or 3-0)

HIST 332 Issues in the History of British Columbia (3 sem. hrs.)

The history of British Columbia from its earliest beginnings to the late 1980s. The province's move from regionalism, to provincialism, to internationalism by examining many of the social, cultural, political, and economic forces of change which shaped the "West Beyond the West" in Canada. Specific aspects of BC's history that particularly enlighten us about the character of the region, its unique place in Canadian history, and how these events have shaped the province today.

NB: Not offered every year. See department chair.

Cross-listed: POLS 332.

Prerequisite(s): 6 sem. hrs. of history including HIST 135 or 136, or instructor's consent. (3-0 or 3-0)

HIST 334 Issues in Canadian Government and Politics (3 sem. hrs.)

Provides the student with a detailed examination of the political issues that divide and unite

Canadians. Topics include: discussion of alternative theoretical approaches to Canadian politics; regionalism, citizenship, and political participation; the French- English Cleavage; provincialism versus federalism; aboriginal politics; gender and class issues; the uneasy relationship between the United States and Canada; multiculturalism and bilingualism as key indicators of Canadian political culture; the Executive in Parliament dispute; legislative politics and judicial interpretation; law and constitution.

NB: Not offered every year. See department chair.

Cross-listed: POLS 334.

Prerequisite(s): 6 sem. hrs. of history including HIST 135 or 136, or instructor's consent. (3-0 or 3-0)

HIST 335 Development of the Canadian Constitution (3 sem. hrs.)

A survey of the historical development of the Canadian Constitution from 1867 to the present. The search for an amending formula and the patriation of the Constitution. The evolving nature of the federation; the Meech Lake Accord; the Charlottetown Accord; the October 26 Referendum; Western demands for major changes to the Senate and other national institutions of the federation, and the unfinished constitutional agenda. The profound effect on law and public policy development resulting from the Canadian Charter of Rights and Freedoms.

NB: Not offered every year. See department chair.

Cross-listed: POLS 335.

Prerequisite(s): 6 sem. hrs. of history including HIST 135 or 136, or instructor's consent. (3-0 or 3-0)

HIST 340 Issues in Canadian-First Nations Relations (3 sem. hrs.)

The history of First Nations in Canada from pre-contact to the present time. Broad economic, social, and political themes that intersect with the history of Canada's original peoples, including early encounters, fur trade economy, governmental policy, missionization, education, reservations, and co-230 sovereignty. It surveys the major eras, specifically highlighting the observations and experiences of First Nations in Canada.

NB: Not offered every year. See department chair.

Cross-listed: POLS 340.

Prerequisite(s): 6 sem. hrs. of history including HIST 135 or 136, or instructor's consent. (3-0 or 3-0)

HIST 347 Religion in the U.S.A. (3 sem. hrs.)

Religious developments in the U.S.A. from the beginning of European settlement to today. The relationship between such developments and the political, economic, and social life of the country. The Great Awakenings and the Modernist/Fundamentalist controversy.

NB: Not offered every year. See department chair.

Cross-listed: RELS 377.

Prerequisite(s): 6 sem. hrs. of history including one of HIST 135, 136; 251, 252, 264; 348; 362 or instructor's consent. (3-0 or 3-0)

HIST 348 Religion in Canada (3 sem. hrs.)

Religious developments in Canada from the beginning of European settlement to today. The relationship between such developments and the political, economic, and social life of the country.

NB: Not offered every year. See department chair.

Cross-listed: RELS 378.

Prerequisite(s): Any two of HIST 135, 136; 264; 347; 362. (3-0 or 3-0)

HIST 352 Government and Politics of the United States (3 sem. hrs.)

An introduction to American politics, including the major branches of government: the presidency, the Congress, and the Supreme Court. The dynamics of American political institutions and their interaction. The prime emphasis is on national politics, especially the interaction of the executive and legislative, including presidential decision-making.

NB: Not offered every year. See department chair.

Cross-listed: POLS 352.

Prerequisite(s): 6 sem. hrs. of history including HIST 135, 136; 251, 252; 347; or instructor's consent. (3-0 or 3-0)

HIST 355 American Foreign Policy (3 sem. hrs.)

A study of principle themes in United States foreign policy with in-depth review of post-Second World War presidential periods. Students analyze the causes and results of American policy choices in the context of evolving world order. The course explores philosophy and leadership styles.

NB: Not offered every year. See department chair.

Cross-listed: POLS 355.

Prerequisite(s): 6 sem. hrs. of history including one of HIST 136; 251, 252; or 347; or instructor's consent. (3-0 or 3-0)

HIST 361 History of Christianity I (3 sem. hrs.)

A study of the history of the Christian church from the turn of the first century to the eve of the 16th century Reformation, with attention to the persons, events and issues involved in the major developments of Christianity.

Cross-listed: RELS 361, HIST 561.

Prerequisite(s): 6 sem. hrs. of history including HIST 111 or 112. (3-0; 0-0)

HIST 362 History of Christianity II (3 sem. hrs.)

An examination of the development of the Christian church from the late medieval period through the early 21st century. Key topics include: the Protestant and Catholic reformations; the Great Awakenings and the rise of modern evangelism, fundamentalism, and the growth of modern missionary movements, along with a consideration of significant individuals, changes in theology, institutions, devotional practices, gender roles, and attempts to engage and shape culture.

Cross-listed: RELS 362, HIST 562.

Prerequisite(s): 6 sem. hrs. of history including HIST 111 or 112. (3-0 or 3-0)

HIST 366 History of the Family to 1600 (3 sem. hrs.)

This course examines the historical development of the family beginning with the ancient world up to 1600. A central inquiry is the formation of families and households, as well as the impact of religion on gender and family roles. The course also explores the use of power and coercion in the organization of family. It includes an inquiry into contemporary gender theory but concentrates on the lives and ideas of actual persons insofar as the historical record reveals them.

NB: Not offered every year. See department chair.

Prerequisite(s): 6 sem. hrs. of history including HIST 107 or 111, or instructor's consent. (3-0 or 3-0)

HIST 367 History of the Family after 1600 (3 sem. hrs.)

An examination of the historical development of the family in the "modern" era. There is a central focus on the formation of families and households and the impact of religion on gender and family roles. The course integrates contemporary gender theory, but concentrates on the lives and ideas of historical actors as they are revealed in the historical record.

NB: Not offered every year. See department chair.

Prerequisite(s): 6 sem. hrs. of history including HIST 108 or 112, or instructor's consent. (3-0 or 3-0)

HIST 371 Africa Since 1500: From Pre-colonial to Colonial (3, 3 sem. hrs.)

This course will involve an examination of the major themes of sub-Saharan African history from 1500 to the partition of Africa following the Berlin Conference of 1884. Primary emphasis will be on the nature of African societies and the political, social, and economic consequences of their interaction with Europe. Special attention will be given to issues such as the origins and nature of African societies; the rise and impact of the slave trade; the growth of the European presence and the nature of European imperialism; and the onset of direct European colonial rule and the African response to it.

NB: Not offered every year. See department chair.

Prerequisite(s): 6 sem. hrs. of history including HIST 107, 108 or 109. (3-0 or 3-0)

HIST 372 Africa Since 1500: From Colonial to National (3, 3 sem. hrs.)

This course will involve a survey of Sub-Saharan African history since the Berlin Conference of 1884-1885. Primary emphasis will be on a variety of regions at various stages of their development, while exploring the roles of colonial power, emerging nationalisms and the politics of under-development.

NB: Not offered every year. See department chair.

Prerequisite(s): 6 sem. hrs. of history including HIST 107, 108 or 109. (3-0 or 3-0)

HIST 377 20th Century China and East Asia (3 sem. hrs.)

A cultural and political history of China and Japan since 1900 with an emphasis on late 20th century issues. Course includes discussion of Hong Kong and Taiwan as Chinese territories and Korea as a primary neighbour of China and Japan. Of special interest are the relations of Japan and China with the United States.

NB: Not offered every year. See department chair.

Cross-listed: POLS 377.

Prerequisite(s): 6 sem. hrs. of history including HIST 107 or 108. (3-0 or 3-0)

HIST 381 The Arab Middle East in the 20th Century: The Politics of Identity (3, 3 sem. hrs.)

An examination of some major theses in the history of the Arab Middle East since the breakup of the Ottoman Empire following World War I. The course examines the role played by issues of identity in the development of national structures in the Arab East (Egypt, Syria, Lebanon, Iraq, Saudi Arabia and the Gulf States). Themes include: the nature of the Islamic community, the structure and legacy of the Ottoman rule, post-Ottoman settlement and the impact of colonial rule, the emergence of nationalist politics and the growth of contemporary Arab state system, oil and the politics of family rule in the Gulf States, and the relationship between religion and politics.

NB: Not offered every year. See department chair.

Prerequisite(s): 6 sem. hrs. of history including HIST 107, 108 or 109. (3-0; 3-0)

HIST 382 Palestine and the History of the Arab- Israeli Conflict (3, 3 sem. hrs.)

A survey of the history of the Israeli-Palestinian conflict. The historical roots of the conflict, issues of land ownership and immigration, the development of national consciousness, and the process of state formation within both communities, impacts on the larger international community, and problems of peacemaking.

NB: Not offered every year. See department chair.

Prerequisite(s): 6 sem. hrs. of history including HIST 107, 108 or 109. (3-0; 3-0)

HIST 390 Special Topics in History (3 sem. hrs.)

An examination of special topics or issues in history that are not considered in depth in other courses.

NB: Not offered every year. See department chair.

Prerequisite(s): 6 sem. hrs. of history, third or fourth year standing, or instructor's consent. (3-0 or 3-0)

HIST 391 Canadian Governmental Leadership (3 sem. hrs.)

This course focuses on the nature and styles of leadership in the political and governmental sectors. It examines how the current political leadership has evolved historically and how current and past leaders provided leadership to both internal and external constituencies. Particular emphasis is placed on both appropriate and inappropriate leadership styles and how Christian leaders should lead in similar situations. Students observe how leaders lead in the Ottawa setting of their disciplinary choice and may interview those who are, or are connected to, senior governmental leaders. How these leaders work or worked in their respective contexts is the focus of such interviews and observations.

Cross-listed: POLS 391.

Prerequisite(s): Admission to Laurentian Leadership Centre. (3-0; 3-0)

HIST 392 Sugar, Slaves, Silver: The Atlantic World, 1500–1850 (3 sem. hrs.)

This course examines the Atlantic world during an era of immense global change. Since the navigations of the 15th century, the Atlantic has been a corridor for fundamental exchanges of peoples, crops, technology, and ideas. Topics include: early maritime explorations, the destruction and reconfiguration of indigenous societies, the labour migrations of Europeans, Native Americans, and Africans, slavery and the trans-Atlantic slave trade, the establishment of an Atlantic economy, the maturation of Euro-American colonial societies and their struggles for autonomy and national independence.

NB: Not offered every year. See department chair.

Prerequisite(s): 6 sem. hrs. of history, third or fourth year standing, or instructor's consent. (3-0; 3-0)

HIST 398 Radical Religion in the 16th to 18th Centuries (3 sem. hrs.)

Radical Christian movements from the Reformation period to the early Enlightenment: 16th century Anabaptism, German Spiritualism, radical German Pietism and American Pietism, early English Separatism, radical Puritanism, the Levellers, early Baptists, the Philadelphian movement, and the Methodist movement. Class time is divided between lectures and seminar discussion of primary source readings.

NB: Not offered every year. See department chair.

Cross-listed: RELS 398.

Prerequisite(s): 6 sem. hrs. of history including HIST 107, 111, 112; 264, or 362. (3-0 or 3-0)

HIST 400 Directed Studies in History (3, 3 sem. hrs.)

Independent but guided reading and research in a specialized area of history of interest to students.

Prerequisite(s): 6 sem. hrs. of history and instructor's consent. (3-0 or 3-0)

HIST 403 Engendered History (3 sem. hrs.)

This seminar examines specific topics in the history of gender throughout the period known loosely as the modern world. The course is designed to clarify the process through which ideas of gender evolved and the ways in which masculinity and femininity have been constructed and experienced in a global context. The seminar also examines group interactions across lines of race, class, ethnicity, region, and religion and the influence of groups striving to assert their own identities on ideas of gender.

NB: Not offered every year. See department chair.

Prerequisite(s): 6 sem. hrs. of history, third or fourth year standing, or instructor's consent. (3-0 or 3-0)

HIST 406 War, Peace, and Society (3 sem. hrs.)

Examines the changing nature of, and approaches to, war and its effect on society from the ancient world to the present, including an assessment of various visions and proposals for peace. The course includes an assessment of historic and relatively recent armed conflicts, exploring the causes of contemporary conflict and some of its distinctive characteristics. It also evaluates the effectiveness of various strategies for preventing, abating and terminating current forms of conflict. Questions discussed include: Why do states go to war? How do they create a lasting peace? What role does morality play in foreign policy? What is our obligation to just peace or just war?

NB: Not offered every year. See department chair.

Cross-listed: POLS 406.

Prerequisite(s): 6 sem. hrs. of history, third or fourth year standing, or instructor's consent. (3-0 or 3-0)

HIST 409 Nature, Society, and History in Global Perspective (3 sem. hrs.)

Human interaction with the environment is the most fundamental of all relationships. This course examines the different ways in which societies have defined, understood, and used their non-human surroundings and the processes through which the environment influences culture and adapts to human communities. Students explore the historical context of the human-nature interaction in global perspective and compare the ways in which the concepts of politics, nationalism, race, ethnicity, gender, religion, etc. inform and guide the relationship.

NB: Not offered every year. See department chair. Cross-listed: GENV 414.

Prerequisite(s): 6 sem. hrs. of history, third or fourth year standing, or instructor's consent. (3-0; 0-0)

HIST 411 History, Culture, and Interpreting the Past (3 sem. hrs.)

The study of history relies on the written and oral record of human experience. The use to which words have been put has varied over time ranging from the ancient world's innocent acceptance of recorded inventories and boastful heroic conquests, to the post-modern era where the text is not a bearer of truth but an instrument of power. This course traces the place of the text in the human effort to know and remember the past. Although the written text has been foundational for the study of the past, people have left other signs of their presence and we interact with other realities than the text. This course brings in additional disciplines including philosophy, literary criticism, biology, psychology, physics, and biblical studies.

NB: Approved alternative to IDIS 400.234

Prerequisite(s): Enrolment priority given to fourth year history majors, concentrations, and minors; third and fourth year students with minimum of 6 sem. hrs. of history are considered. (3-0; 0-0)

HIST 412 Senior Thesis (3 sem. hrs.)

A program of independent readings and research on a specific topic leading to a written paper for students choosing the European area. A research project involving the use of primary sources, archives, etc., for those choosing the North American area.

NB: For history majors only. See department chair.

Prerequisite(s): 15 sem. hrs. of history including HIST 411.

HIST 415 Science and Religion from Copernicus to Creation Science (3 sem. hrs.)

In 1896 Andrew Dickson White published his famous History of the Warfare of Science with Theology in Christendom, a work that helped establish the belief that science and religion were irreconcilable domains. This course examines the validity of that claim from the Copernican revolution in the 16th century to the rise of the modern creation science movement, and aims to place the relationship between science and faith in a mature, historical, scientific, and theological context.

NB: offered every year. See department chair.

Prerequisite(s): 6 sem. hrs. of history or third year standing in the natural and applied sciences. (3-0 or 3-0)

HIST 423 History of the First World War (3 sem. hrs.)

A seminar course involving an examination of the origins and course of the First World War. Primary focus on various campaigns and fronts of the war, and on specific issues such as the nature and impact of trench warfare, the domestic policies of the belligerent powers, and the social, economic, and political impact of the conflict.

NB: Not offered every year. See department chair.

HIST 424 The History of the Second World War (3 sem. hrs.)

A seminar course involving an examination of the origins and course of the Second World War. Primary focus on main campaigns of the war in Europe and Asia, the domestic policies of the belligerent powers, and the social, economic, and political impact of the conflict.

NB: Not offered every year. See department chair.

Prerequisite(s): 6 sem. hrs. of history including one of HIST 108, 112, 136; or 252. (3-0 or 3-0)

HIST 435 Social History of Canada (3 sem. hrs.)

An examination of major developments in the society and culture of Canada with a particular spotlight on the diverse experience of the people who made Canada. The course highlights aspects of Canadian identity as seen through the lenses of gender, race, class, ethnicity, religion, and region. The focus is on the interaction between migrant groups and the host society, rural and urban societies, education and social reforms, labour and capital, and changing gender roles.

NB: Not offered every year. See department chair.

Prerequisite(s): 6 sem. hrs. of history including one of HIST 135 or 136. (3-0 or 0-0)

HIST 436 Canadian and U.S. Relations (3 sem. hrs.)

A survey of relations between the two countries from their origins, ranging from military and diplomatic contacts to intellectual and cultural. Comparative developments in the two nations.

NB: Not offered every year. See department chair.

Cross-listed: POLS 436.

Prerequisite(s): 6 sem. hrs. of history including one of HIST 135, 136; 251, 252. (3-0 or 3-0)

HIST 440 The Evolution of Canadian Foreign Policy (3 sem. hrs.)

An overview of the formulation and trends of Canadian foreign policy in the period since Confederation. The domestic and external determinants of Canadian foreign policy, the nature of the foreign policy-making process, and the evolution of key themes in Canadian foreign policy.

NB: Not offered every year. See department chair.

Cross-listed: POLS 440.

Prerequisite(s): 6 sem. hrs. of history including one of HIST 109, 135, or 136. (0-0; 3-0)

HIST 471 Missions and Imperialism in the Global Context (3 sem. hrs.)

This seminar-based course examines some of the major themes in the history of the West's colonial encounter with non-Western communities and the role played by Christian missions and missionaries in that process. Primary attention is given not only to the origins of, and complex inter-relationship between, the colonial encounter and the evangelical enterprise, but to the redefinition and reconstruction of Western and non-Western identities which emerged as a result of such interactions.

Prerequisite(s): 6 sem. hrs. of history including HIST 108. (3-0; 3-0)

HIST 482 Historical Perspectives on Reformation and Post-Reformation Thought (3 sem. hrs.)

A re-evaluation of the issues involved in the origin of the 16th century Protestant Reformation and the subsequent development of Calvinist thought: justification by faith, covenant theology, and election. An analysis of why Calvinists and Arminians were unable to overcome their differences, and how Reformed scholasticism went beyond John Calvin's insights in some significant respects.

Cross-listed: RELS 482.

Prerequisite(s): 9 sem. hrs. of history including HIST 264, 308, or 362. (3-0 or 3-0)

HIST 490 Special Topics in History (3 sem. hrs.)

An examination of special topics or issues in history that are not considered in depth in other courses.

NB: Not offered every year. See department chair.

Prerequisite(s): 6 sem. hrs. of history, third or fourth year standing, or instructor's consent. (3-0 or 3-0)

HIST 497, 498 Honours Thesis (3, 3 sem. hrs.)

A 12,000-15,000 word thesis based on a review of the secondary literature and research in primary sources in archival, published, microform, microfiche, or electronic form, on an approved topic. An oral defence and a library-acceptable copy are required. Taken in fourth year by all honours students in history.

Prerequisite(s): Application and acceptance into honours program in history. See department chair. (3-0; 3-0)

History, Graduate Courses

HIST 503 Engendered History (3 sem. hrs.)

Examines specific topics in the history of gender throughout the period known loosely as the modern world and is designed to clarify the process through which ideas of gender evolved and the ways in which masculinity and femininity have been constructed and experienced in a global context. Also examines group interactions across lines of race, class, ethnicity, region, and religion and the influence of groups striving to assert their own identities on ideas of gender.

HIST 504 Late Medieval Europe (3 sem. hrs.)

An inquiry into a period of Europe's past in which beliefs, attitudes and institutions, moulded in the previous centuries, were consolidated into shapes that mark modern European (and North 236 American) culture. The outlines of the modern state and of the modern family are examined. It is also an examination of late medieval civilization for indications of decline and rebirth. The course looks for signs of struggle between forces of tradition and of innovation, and between idealism and material or corporeal realities.

HIST 506 War, Peace, and Society (3 sem. hrs.)

Surveys the changing nature of and approaches to war and its effect on society from the Middle Ages to the present including an examination of various visions and proposals for peace. Includes an assessment of relatively recent armed conflict in Africa, Central Europe, and the Middle East, exploring the causes of contemporary conflict and some of its distinctive characteristics. Also evaluates the effectiveness of various strategies for preventing, abating, and terminating current forms of conflict. Some of the questions discussed are: Why do states go to war? How do they create a lasting peace? What role does morality play in foreign policy? What is our obligation to just peace or just war?

HIST 508 Reformation Europe (3 sem. hrs.)

Examines the nature of religious reform in the 16th century. Religious ideas are the starting point for an examination of economic conditions, the existing social structure, the family, and the state. Examines how ideas were communicated to and received by the common people. It also examines displays of intolerance and tolerance, coercion and power, and relations between government and society and between women and men.

HIST 509 Early Modern Europe: 1600-1789 (3 sem. hrs.)

An examination of developments and events from 1600 to 1800 including religious wars, the witch craze, growth of absolutism and political rights, enlightened despots, movements within the church and the culture of the enlightenment. In addition, wealth and poverty, social hierarchies, popular customs and culture, marriage, the family, and gender are examined.

HIST 510 History in Practice (3 sem. hrs.)

An analysis of the practice of history in the public sphere including the ways in which communities, regions, nations, and others entities collect, manage, create, present, and understand their histories and stories. How forms of historical consciousness show themselves in archives, museums, films, monuments, anniversaries, government policies, genealogy, etc. Practical application of historical skills and tools through communication with public historians, visits to local historic sites, and relevant assignments and experiential learning. Students gain valuable experiences and knowledge related to a variety of areas where public history is practised and are exposed to career opportunities in history.

HIST 515 History of Science and Religion from Copernicus to Creation Science (3 sem. hrs.)

Examines the engagement of science and religion in western culture over the past five centuries. In 1896, Andrew Dickson White published his famous History of the Warfare of Science with Theology in Christendom, a work that helped establish the belief that science and religion were irreconcilable domains. This course examines the validity of that claim from the Copernican revolution in the 16th century to the rise of the modern Creation Science movement, and aims to place the relationship between science and faith in a mature historical, scientific and theological context.

HIST 521 Family, Gender, and Power (3 sem. hrs.)

Examines the historical development of the family beginning with the ancient world up to 1600. A central inquiry is the formation of families and households, as well as the impact of religion on gender and family roles. The course also explores the use of power and coercion in the organization of family and includes an inquiry into contemporary gender theory but concentrates on the lives and ideas of actual persons insofar as the historical record reveals them.

HIST 522 History of the Family after 1600 (3 sem. hrs.)

Examines the historical development of the family from 1600 to the present day. A central inquiry is the formation of families and households, as well as the impact of religion on gender and family roles. The course also explores the use of power and coercion in the organization of family and includes an inquiry into contemporary gender theory but concentrates on the lives and ideas of actual persons insofar as the historical record reveals them.

HIST 523 Tudor-Stuart England

This course is designed to survey a historical period in greater depth while introducing students to related primary and secondary sources. Students are familiarized with major themes, events, and issues of interpretation in the history of early modern England. Particular attention is paid to two developments that transformed English life: the religious reformations of the 16th century, and the civil war and political revolutions of the 17th century. These and other topics are explored through close readings of primary sources. Students also consider various methodological and theoretical approaches that have influenced the way that modern historians have analyzed and explained this period in English history.

HIST 532 Issues in B.C. History (3 sem. hrs.)

Explores issues in the history of British Columbia from its earliest beginnings to the early 2000s. In particular, the province's move from regionalism, to provincialism, to internationalism is explored by examining many of the social, cultural, political, and economic forces of change that shape the "West Beyond the West" in Canada. The lectures, readings, and discussions focus on specific aspects of BC's history that particularly enlighten us about the character of the region, its unique place in Canadian history, and how these events have shaped the province today.

HIST 533 Development of the Canadian Constitution

A historical and political analysis of the major steps leading to the present constitution, including landmark court cases, attempted and successful amendments (Constitution Act 1981, the Meech Lake Accord, the Charlottetown Accord, etc) and various historical Acts both prior to and post-Confederation.

HIST 534 Canadian Political Thought: An Intellectual History

This course examines selected Canadian authors (George Grant, Will Kymlicka, and Charles Taylor most prominently) who have contributed significantly to the development of Canadian political discourse. Topics include federalism, multiculturalism, and national identity. The systematic study of these particular authors aids in understanding the development of Canadian political thought. The first part of the course provides the intellectual history to enable an effective study of George P. Grant, Will Kymlicka, and Charles Taylor through a careful reading of Fierlbeck, Political Thought in Canada: An Intellectual History.

HIST 535 Social History of Canada

This seminar course examines major developments in the society and culture of Canada with a particular spotlight on the diverse experience of the people who made Canada. The course highlights aspects of the evolution of Canadian identity as seen through the various lenses of gender, race, class, ethnicity, religion, and region. The focus is on the interaction between migrant groups and the host society (and the shift from an indigenous to Euro-Canadian to multicultural host society), rural and urban societies, education and social reforms, labour and capital in the industrialization of Canada, and changing gender roles (of women and men) in Canadian society.²³⁸

HIST 537 Canada and War in the 20th Century (3 sem. hrs.)

Surveys the changing social, political, and cultural impact of war on Canada in the 20th century. The course is divided into four sections—World War I, World War II, the Cold War, and Post-Cold War. In each section students examine Canadian responses to war and warfare and the impact of those responses in shaping Canadian politics (both domestic and foreign policy), society, and culture. Topics include defence, security, and Canadian nationalism; the role of imperialism and continentalism in influencing Canadian identity and Canadian foreign policy; Canada as a middle power and the shift to Canada as a no power; war and the changing role of women in Canadian society; and, the creation of Canadian military myths.

HIST 540 Issues in First Nations – Canadian Relations (3 sem. hrs.)

Examines the history of First Nations in Canada from pre-contact with newcomers through to the present time. Broad economic, social, and political themes that intersect with the history of its original peoples is covered including early encounters, fur trade economy, governmental policy, Christianity and culture, education, reservations and land claims. It surveys the major eras—assimilation, protection, civilization, marginalization, and integration—by specifically highlighting the observations and experiences of First Nations.

HIST 542 Evolution of Canadian Foreign Policy (3 sem. hrs.)

This course provides an overview of the formulation and trends of Canadian foreign policy from confederation to the present. The domestic and external determinants of Canadian foreign policy, the nature of the foreign policy-making process, and the evolution of key themes in Canadian foreign policy are its major themes.

Cross-listed: POLS 440/HIST 440.

HIST 543 Medieval Europe 500-1250 (3 sem. hrs.)

An inquiry into the origins of European civilization. It examines what features from the ancient world survived the fall of Roman culture and the nature of the native Germanic and Slavic traditions. It looks at the way Christianity was received and altered. It looks at political, social, gender, and economic relationships and at the struggle between spiritual ideals on the one hand and traditional attitudes and material realities on the other.

HIST 547 History of Religion in the US (3 sem. hrs.)

Writing in the 1830s, Alex de Tocqueville noted the profound influence religion had upon the American populace, arguing that “there are some who profess Christian dogmas because they believe them and others who do so because they are afraid to look as though they did not believe in them. So Christianity reigns without obstacles, by universal consent.” At times, his comments continue to ring true, particularly with regard to the centrality of religious faith to the American experience. While not intended to be exhaustive, this course examines representative episodes in the history of religion in the United States, albeit largely in its Christian (and Protestant) form.

HIST 548 History of Religion in Canada (3 sem. hrs.)

Canada is sometimes regarded as a more secular version of its American neighbour. Henry Alline, the late 18th-century Nova Scotian revivalist, would not have agreed, for he believed that while Old and New England were engaged in a “most inhuman war,” a great redeemer nation was emerging in his corner of British North America. This course examines Canada’s rich Christian heritage from the first European encounters with aboriginal peoples to contemporary times, with particular emphasis on the relationship between Christianity and the broad socio-political and intellectual history of the nation.

HIST 561 History of Christianity I (3 sem.hrs.)

A study of the history of the Christian Church from the turn of the first century to the eve of the 16th century Reformation with attention to the persons, events, and issues involved in the major developments of Christianity.

HIST 562 History of Christianity II (3 sem.hrs.)

Surveys the development of the Christian Church from the late medieval period through to the early 21st century. Key topics include: the Protestant and Catholic Reformations; the Great Awakenings and the rise of modern Evangelicalism, Fundamentalism, and the growth of modern missionary movements, along with a consideration of significant individuals, changes in theology, institutions, devotional practices, gender roles, and attempts to engage and shape culture.

HIST 581 The Politics of Identity: The Arab Middle East in the 20th Century (3 sem. hrs.)

This course examines some the major themes in the history of the Arab Middle East since the breakup of the Ottoman Empire following World War I. Primary emphasis is on the role played by issues of identity in the development of national structures in the Arab East (Egypt, Syria, Lebanon, Iraq, Saudi Arabia, and the Gulf States). Major themes include the nature of Islamic community, the structure and legacy of Ottoman rule, the post- Ottoman settlement and the impact of colonial rule, the emergence of nationalist politics and the growth of the contemporary Arab state system, oil and the politics of family rule in the Gulf States, and the relationship between religion and politics.

HIST 590 Special Topics in History (3 sem. hrs.)

Topics may vary. Courses offered to date include: Canada and War in the 20th Century.

HIST 592 Sugar, Slaves, Silver: The Atlantic World, 1450-1850 (3 sem. hrs.)

Examines the Atlantic world during an era of immense global change. Since the navigations of the fifteenth century, the Atlantic has been a corridor for fundamental exchanges of peoples, crops, technology and ideas. Topics include early maritime explorations, the destruction and reconfiguration of indigenous societies, the labour migrations of Europeans, Native Americans, and Africans, slavery and the trans-Atlantic slave trade, the establishment of an Atlantic economy, and the maturation of Euro-American colonial societies and their struggles for autonomy and national independence.

HIST 600 CORE SEMINAR – History, Culture and Interpretation (3 sem. hrs.)

Designed to explore history as a discipline and a form of knowledge. It examines the process and the structure of how human societies have interpreted, ordered and used historical inquiry. Major theoretical/philosophical traditions and their historians are analyzed. Special attention is paid to modern rational history with its focus on the notion of progress and the challenges brought about by the claims of postmodern interpretation-based history with its emphasis on language, race, ethnicity, gender, and environment. Furthermore, it explores history's impact on other disciplines including philosophy, literary criticism, biology, physics, and religious studies. Combines weekly readings with selected guest lectures that explore the ways in which history is understood in History and in other disciplines.

HIST 606 History of the Family (3 sem. hrs.)

Examines the historical development of the family beginning with the ancient world up to 1600. A central inquiry is the formation of families and households, as well the impact of religion on gender and family roles. Also explores the use of power and coercion in the organization of family, and an inquiry into contemporary gender theory, but concentrates on the lives and ideas of actual persons insofar as the historical record reveals them.

HIST 607 Special Topics in History (3 sem. hrs.)

Topics may vary. Courses offered to date include:

- De-colonizing Gender in African History 240
- First Nations-Canadians in B.C.
- History of Arian Theology
- History of the Celtic Church
- History of the Metis in Canada
- Introduction to Patristics Study
- Medieval Warfare
- Arian Theology
- Sacred Women in the Ancient World
- War, Peace, and International Law
- Gender and the Charter
- Transatlantic British Empire
- Christian Perspective on Israel

HIST 610 Research Design/Bibliography Seminar (3 sem. hrs.)

Under the direction of the student's approved thesis advisor, a course of reading and study which leads to the development of both a significant bibliographical essay (or annotated bibliography) and a thesis proposal. The latter includes at least the following: major question(s) to be addressed; significance of the issue(s); methodologies to be used; theories to be addressed and primary sources to be examined.

HIST 611, 612 Thesis (3 sem. hrs.)

HIST 613 Major Essay (3 sem. hrs.)

Under the direction of a supervisor, students who do not do a thesis research and write a major paper of approximately 10,000–15,000 words in length.

HIST 618 Popular Religion in Europe

Students examine, through readings, discussion, and student presentations, the way that men and women in Europe circa 1300 to 1700 embraced alternative religious beliefs, some of which were accepted and domesticated by the Catholic or protestant institutional churches, while others were rejected and persecuted as heresy and/or witchcraft by both. Students also evaluate different historiographical and methodological approaches to the study of heterodoxy.

HIST 619 The Renaissance Mind

This course examines the period of transition and turmoil in European history, from approximately 1360 to 1550, known as the Renaissance. As the cultural synthesis of the high middle ages was crumbling, poets, philosophers, artists, architects, theologians, and statesmen in search of a fresh model for society rejected the late medieval scholastic worldview and embraced a new educational program, the studia humanitatis, based on a re-evaluation and revival of classical culture. This transition affected not only literature, the arts, the sciences, religion, and government, but virtually every other sphere of human activity. Therefore, this course, while providing an in-depth, interdisciplinary introduction to the key topics of humanism, religion, political theory, and changes in high culture, also investigates the issues of gender, economic development, and social history during this period. It also assesses different methodological approaches to the study of the Renaissance.

HIST 661 History of non-Western Christianity (3 sem. hrs.)

During the 20th century, it became clear that the majority of Christians world wide were not Europeans or North Americans but Latin Americans, Africans, and Asians. Some observers interpret this as a major shift in the very nature of Christianity but others view it as the renewal of what is essentially a non-Western religion. Instead of representing an entirely new development, they see the 20th century growth of Christianity as a return to the history of Christianity before 1200-1400 AD when Europe developed as its dominant heartland. By means of readings, guest lectures, and student seminar presentations, this course examines aspects of non-Western Christianity including early origins, struggles with Islam, the impact of European imperialism and missions, and factors involved in the accelerated growth in many parts of the world since the mid-20th century.

HIST 670 Pre-Nicene Christianity (3 sem. hrs.)

This course examines in detail the background and development of Christian thought and life in the period spanning the Apostolic Fathers through to the Council of Nicaea (325). Particular attention is paid to how the early Christians understood themselves, how they interpreted their religious tradition and related it to their religious experience, and how they defined their own purposes. This course seeks to contextualize pre-Christianity in its diverse expressions. Thus, the course analyzes the complex formulation of Pre-Nicene Christianity through the writings of some of its most influential thinkers, leaders, and movements (both orthodox and heretical) with an eye toward identifying major developments in early Christian theology and practice.

HIST 692 Villians and Wenches: (Re)Conceiving the Atlantic World (3 sem. hrs.)

This course uses reading, discussion, and student presentations to examine the ways that historians have conceptualized the Atlantic World and those who people it. It considers the very idea of the Atlantic system as a framework for historical study and the ways in which various historiographical and methodological approaches have affected the way we understand the people and events of the Atlantic basin.

Human Kinetics

Core Human Kinetics Courses

NB: Core human kinetics courses are open to all students. Each 1 sem. hr. physical activity course consists of 20 hours of instruction and laboratory practice. HKIN 190 is a graduation requirement for all students except those entering the University with third year standing, and human kinetics degree, majors, concentrations, and minors who take HKIN 191 instead.

A. Compulsory Course For All Students Except Human Kinetics Professional Degree, Majors, Concentrations, or Minors

HKIN 190 Concepts of Physical Fitness (2 sem. hrs.)

An introduction to your physical self, physical activity, and exercise. Topics discussed include: specific areas of health, wellness, physical fitness, skills, and body mechanisms. Students take part in laboratory sessions dealing with fitness assessment and personal application of scientific principles.

Prerequisite(s): None. (2-1 or 2-1)

B. Activity Courses

These introductory courses emphasize physical activity, recreation, and sport skills necessary to maintain an active lifestyle.

- HKIN 100 Special Program (1 sem. hr.) (0-2 or 0-2)
- HKIN 101 Physical Conditioning (1 sem. hr.) (0-2 or 0-2)
- HKIN 102 Run for Fun (1 sem. hr.) (0-2 or 0-2)
- HKIN 103 Weight Training (1 sem. hr.) (0-2 or 0-2)
- HKIN 104 Fitness for Living (1 sem. hr.) (0-2 or 0-2)
- HKIN 105 Self-Defence (1 sem. hr.) (0-2 or 0-2)
- HKIN 107 Advanced Weight Training (1 sem. hr.) (0-2 or 0-2)242
- HKIN 108 Martial Arts (1 sem. hr.) (0-2 or 0-2)
- HKIN 120 Rock Climbing (1 sem. hr.) (0-2 or 0-2)
- HKIN 121 Hiking (1 sem. hr.) (0-2 or 0-2)
- HKIN 124 Downhill Skiing (1 sem. hr.) (0-0; 0-2)
- HKIN 125 Snowboarding (1 sem. hr.) (0-0; 0-2)
- HKIN 135 Ropes Course (1 sem. hr.) (0-2 or 0-2)
- HKIN 136 Outdoor Pursuits I (1 sem. hr.) (0-2; 0-0)
- HKIN 137 Outdoor Pursuits II (1 sem. hr.) (0-0; 0-2)
- HKIN 143 Badminton (1 sem. hr.) (0-2; 0-2)
- HKIN 144 Tennis (1 sem. hr.) (0-2 or 0-2)
- HKIN 145 Golf (1 sem. hr.)

- (0-2 or 0-2)
- HKIN 161 Basketball (1 sem. hr.)
- (0-2 or 0-2)
- HKIN 162 Volleyball (1 sem. hr.)
- (0-2 or 0-2)
- HKIN 163 Soccer (1 sem. hr.)
- (0-2; 0-0)

Professional Courses for Human Kinetics Specialists

A. Human Kinetics Professional Activity Courses

Overviews of the particular activity stressing psychomotor skill development, skill analysis techniques, rules and strategies, and teaching techniques. Two sem. hr. courses consist of 38 hours of instruction and laboratory practice. One sem. hr. courses consist of 20 hours of instruction and laboratory practice.

Professional activity courses are open with instructor's consent to students not completing a human kinetics professional degree, major, concentration, or minor.

NB: Students seeking to fulfill the University core activity requirement are still required to have representation from two different activities.

HKIN 330 Aquatics — Swimming and Water Activities (2 sem. hrs.)

Practical physical principles of stroke mechanics, basic aquatic first aid and emergency procedures, and life-saving fitness.

NB: Offered every other year.

Prerequisite(s): None. (0-0; 1-2)

HKIN 332 Gymnastics (2 sem. hrs.)

Personal skill improvement in gymnastics; teaching and coaching this sport.

NB: Offered every other year.

Prerequisite(s): None. (0-0; 1-2)

HKIN 342 Creative Movement (2 sem. hrs.)

An introduction to the vocabulary, theory, and practical application of creative dance through modern and ballet techniques; improvisation; and choreographic principles. Students study the choreographic process through principles of design, space dynamics, and relationship of form to content.

Prerequisite(s): Third year standing. (1-2; 0-0)

B. Human Kinetics Specialist Theory Courses

HKIN 191 Introduction to Exercise Physiology (3 sem. hrs.)

Applied study of exercise factors: the cardiovascular system, anthropometry, nutrition, and environmental conditions. Emphasis on assessment and prescription in laboratory sessions.

Prerequisite(s): None. (3-1; 0-0)

HKIN 192 Upgrade to HKIN 191 (1 sem. hr.)

Used to upgrade HKIN 190 to HKIN 191 equivalency.

NB: See Dean of School of Human Kinetics.

Prerequisite(s): HKIN 190.

HKIN 195 Foundation of Human Kinetics (3 sem. hrs.)

An introductory overview of the fields of human kinetics and sport with an emphasis on the basic knowledge necessary for leadership positions or careers in these fields. Current issues and future developments. Integration of biblical perspectives in human kinetics and sport.

Prerequisite(s): None. (3-0; 0-0)

HKIN 260 Physical Growth and Development (3 sem. hrs.)

A study of developmental principles and theoretical approaches and issues related to the study of human growth and development and motor behaviour across the life span.

NB: Offered every other year.

Prerequisite(s): HKIN 191, 195. (0-0; 3-0)

HKIN 276 Psycho-Motor Learning (3 sem. hrs.)

An examination of concepts and the practice of learning motor skills and a theoretical basis for developing effective motor skill learning and teaching strategies.

Prerequisite(s): None. (3-1; 0-0)

HKIN 277 Technological Applications in Human Kinetics and Recreation (3 sem. hrs.)

A study of computers, technology, information systems, electronic research, communication, distance education, video conferencing, and specific software packages related to the sport and recreation domain.

Prerequisite(s): None. (0-0; 3-1)

HKIN 280 Foundations of Coaching (3 sem. hrs.)

An introduction to the field of coaching, including the role of the coach, responsibilities from planning through evaluation, and relationships with the team and other groups. An analysis of problems and issues in coaching. NCCP theory certification is available.

Prerequisite(s): None. (0-0; 3-0)

HKIN 295 Contemporary Issues In Health (3 sem. hrs.)

An introduction to health education: stress management, nutrition, weight control, medicines and drugs, substance abuse, reproduction, pregnancy, infectious diseases, cancer, and health care systems.

Prerequisite(s): Any human kinetics theory course. (0-0; 3-0)

HKIN 298 Introduction to Biomechanics (3 sem. hrs.)

An applied study of the mechanical, anatomical and biological components of human movement including sport and active daily living activities.

Prerequisite(s): HKIN 191 (0-0; 3-0)

HKIN 303 Advanced Principles of Strength Training (3 sem. hrs.)

Students experience an in-depth study of the theoretical foundations and practical applications of strength training and program development. This course focuses on the neuromuscular/biomechanical basis of strength training; adaptations to resistance training; systems of strength development; and program design variables.

NB: HKIN 103 or 107 can be taken simultaneously.

Prerequisite(s): HKIN 103 or 107, 191, 198; BIOL 241, and third year standing. (0-0; 3-1)

HKIN 320 Management and Facilities (3 sem. hrs.)

This course is designed to give the student a broad understanding of recreational management and facilities management. Topics include: personnel management, fund raising, budgeting, public relations, promotion, use of volunteers, administration practices, legal requirements, facility planning, and parks management.

NB: Offered every other year.

Prerequisite(s): Instructor's permission. (0-0; 3-0)

HKIN 325 Sociocultural and Philosophical Aspects of Sport and Leisure (3 sem. hrs.)

An examination of the sociological, cultural, and philosophical dynamics of sport and the way that sport has become a significant socializing agent of society and culture. Sport issues and controversies are explored in depth to assist the human kinetics practitioner in applying critical thinking and critical decision-making in the realm of sport and physical activity.

Prerequisite(s): Third year standing. (3-0; 0-0)

HKIN 340 Psychology of Sport and Exercise (3 sem. hrs.)

The need for and purpose of psychology in sport and physical activity. An examination of the research focusing on psychological and social psychological factors influencing athletic and motor performance.

Cross-listed: PSYC 360.

Prerequisite(s): Third year standing. (0-0; 3-0)

HKIN 350 Teaching Physical Education (3 sem. hrs.)

Teaching methodology and curriculum for physical education instruction. An introduction to lesson planning, active living, movement skills, and safety, fair play, and leadership as it applies to students in a school physical education program.

Cross-listed: EDUC 350.

Prerequisite(s): Third year standing. (3-0; 3-0)

HKIN 351 Leadership and Management in Human Kinetics (3 sem. hrs.)

An applied study of leadership, including planning, supervisory skills, and responsibilities related to instructional/intramural-recreational and intercollegiate human kinetics and sport programs.

Prerequisite(s): Third year standing. (0-0; 3-0)

HKIN 365 Research Methods (3 sem. hrs.)

An introduction to research and measurement in sport and human kinetics. Emphasis is placed on practical application of research techniques and designs as well as measurement techniques related to a variety of sport and human kinetics settings.

Prerequisite(s): MATH 102 or PSYC 207. (3-0; 0-0)

HKIN 370 Biomechanics (3 sem. hrs.)

An applied study of the mechanical and anatomical components of human movement with special attention to the analysis of movement problems.

Prerequisite(s): HKIN 298, BIOL 241, and third year standing. (3-1; 0-0)

HKIN 372 Athletic Injuries (3 sem. hrs.)

The theory and practice of the prevention, assessment, management, and rehabilitation of athletic injuries. Emergency care, nutrition, and taping skills.

Prerequisite(s): BIOL 241 or instructor's consent; third year standing. (0-0; 3-1)

HKIN 396 The Olympic Games Movement (3 sem. hrs.)

NB: Not offered every year. Usually offered in conjunction with attendance at Summer Olympic Games. See Dean for details.

Prerequisite(s): HKIN 195 and second year standing or instructor's approval. (3-0 or 3-0)

HKIN 420 Sports Nutrition (3 sem. hrs.)

The analysis and application of sport nutrition. Emphasis is placed on nutrition, supplementation, and ergogenics most appropriate to sport and exercise performance.

Prerequisite(s): HKIN 191 and third year standing. (3-0; 0-0)

HKIN 440 Applied Mental Skills in Sport and Fitness (3 sem. hrs.)

The direct application of select mental skills to sport and physical activity. A strong emphasis is placed on how to apply mental skills in a variety of settings.

NB: Offered every other year.

Prerequisite(s): HKIN 340. (0-0; 3-1)

HKIN 446 Advanced Human Anatomy (3 sem. hrs.)

An in depth study of human anatomy with a focus on the appendicular and axial skeleton and upper and lower body muscle: identification, origin, insertion and function, vascular and neural supply, surface anatomy and joint structure.

Prerequisite(s): BIOL 241 and third year standing.

HKIN 453 Adapted Physical Activity (3 sem. hrs.)

Characteristics of the mentally or physically disabled as related to their participation in human kinetics, recreation, and sports education. Special interests, needs, limitations, and potentials in relation to the types of activity, programs, and approaches to teaching. Strategies for helping the gifted.

Prerequisite(s): Third year standing or instructor's consent. (3-0; 0-0)

HKIN 465 Physical Activity and Aging (3 sem. hrs.)

Students will examine the theories of aging and the topics and issues associated with physical activity and recreation for older adults.

NB: Offered every other year.

Prerequisite(s): Third or fourth year standing or instructor permission. (3-0 or 3-0)

HKIN 470 Exercise Physiology (3 sem. hrs.)

An applied study of the effects of exercise on body systems as related to the functional capacity of individual systems to maximal human performance. Principles and methods of conducting and developing physical exercise and training programs.

NB: Offered every other year.

Prerequisite(s): HKIN 191, 198; BIOL 241, or instructor's consent; third year standing. (3-1; 0-0)

HKIN 472 Athletic Therapy Practical Experience (3 sem. hrs.)

A Certified Athletic Therapist is defined as a health care professional that provides effective solutions to recovery from physical injury and the promotion of healthy, active living. The scope of practice of a Certified Athletic Therapist includes the prevention, immediate care, and reconditioning of musculoskeletal injuries. This course is a supervised practicum which enables students to practise the skills and competencies learned in the athletic therapy theory courses taken at Mount Royal University. Students are introduced to injury prevention strategies, common sport injury rehabilitation, and unique injury situations relevant to the specific therapy clinic.

Prerequisite(s): HKIN 372, acceptance into the HKIN Athletic Therapy stream and completion of the Athletic Therapy courses at Mount Royal University.

HKIN 495 Senior Seminar (3 sem. hrs.)

A course offered on topics of current interest in sport performance and human kinetics. Under supervision of faculty, students conduct a careful review of the literature on a topic of their choice and prepare a substantial paper. Final student papers are presented in the form of an oral presentation.

Prerequisite(s): Fourth year standing plus 12 sem. hrs. of HKIN theory. (0-0; 3-0)

C. Supervised Leadership Experience

Supervised practical teaching, coaching, or administrative experiences conducted on and off campus for the purpose of on-the-job training and experience. B.H.K. students, human kinetics majors, concentrations, and minors must complete a number of sem. hrs. for graduation (check with specific programs for exact number).

Prerequisite(s): 12 sem. hrs. of human kinetics theory courses and third year standing.

- HKIN 355A Core Teaching Experience I (1 sem. hr.) (0-3 or 0-3)
- HKIN 355B Core Teaching Experience I (2 sem. hrs.) (0-6 or 0-6)
- HKIN 455A Core Teaching Experience II (1 sem. hr.) (0-3 or 0-3)
- HKIN 455B Core Teaching Experience II (2 sem. hrs.) (0-6 or 0-6)
- HKIN 456A Core Teaching Experience III (1 sem. hr.) (0-3 or 0-3)

- HKIN 456B Core Teaching Experience III (2 sem. hrs.) (0-6 or 0-6)
- HKIN 457A Coaching Experience I (1 sem. hr.) (0-3 or 0-3)
- HKIN 457B Coaching Experience II (2 sem. hrs.) (0-6 or 0-6)
- HKIN 458A Approved Leadership Experience I (1 sem. hr.) (0-3 or 0-3)
- HKIN 458B Approved Leadership Experience II (2 sem. hr.) (0-6 or 0-6)
- HKIN 459 Sport and Leisure Management Experience (3 sem. hr.) (0-6 or 0-6)
- HKIN 460 Sport and Leisure Management Experience (3 sem. hrs.) (0-6 or 0-6)

Humanities

HUMA 607 Special Topics in the Humanities (3 sem. hrs.)

Topics may vary.

Prerequisites: Admission to Masters in Interdisciplinary Humanities program and instructor's consent.

Information Systems

Courses cross-listed as CMPT may be taken to satisfy Natural Sciences but not lab science requirements.

NB: Students studying programming must master very large amounts of technical material and demonstrate their mastery in written form. For this reason, a high level of English reading and writing skills is required before taking these courses. Students who lack such skills should take courses to develop them before considering enrolment in any programming course.

ISYS 113 Introduction to Information Systems and Web Technologies (3 sem. hrs.)

An introductory level of understanding of information systems with an emphasis on web technologies. Authoring static and client-sided dynamic web pages and sites. Information systems and web technology studies including the development of database aware server-sided web pages and sites in later courses.

NB: Not offered every year. See department chair.

Cross-listed: CMPT 113.

Prerequisite(s): None. (3-0 or 3-0)

ISYS 123 Data Analysis for Information Systems (3 sem. hrs.)

An introduction to spreadsheets and databases. Cell formulas, charts, macro programming. Database design, decomposition; basic SQL. Tools such as Excel, Access, and MS-SQL may be used, but the focus is on concepts and design rather than skills with specific tools.

Cross-listed: CMPT 123.

Prerequisite(s): ISYS/CMPT 113 or CMPT 140, or equivalent. (3-1-3 or 3-1-3)

ISYS 140 Introduction to Computing Science and Programming I (3 sem. hrs.)

An elementary introduction to computing science and programming as a problem-solving tool. Fundamental concepts and terminology of computing science will be introduced. Programming skill will be obtained by using a high-level language. Topics will include: abstraction, data types and control structures, fundamental algorithms and pseudocode, computability and complexity, and computer architecture.

Cross-listed: CMPT 140.

Prerequisite(s): None. (3-1-3 or 3-1-3)

ISYS 166 Introduction to Computing Science and Programming II (3 sem. hrs.)

A rigorous introduction to computing science and computer programming. Students will learn in-depth programming concepts by seeing how object oriented (OO) concepts are employed in the design and writing of code in a variety of notations. The emphasis is on the theory of OO programming and design of solutions, as well as implementation using an OO language such as Java or C++.

Cross-listed: CMPT 166.

Prerequisite(s): CMPT 141 or 145 or equivalent with a minimum grade of C+. (2-3; 0-0)

ISYS 237 Introduction to Database Management Systems (3 sem. hrs.)

Introduction to the common methods of structuring files for a variety of applications and to methods of using data organization techniques in the design and management of databases.

NB: Not offered every year. See department chair.

Cross-listed: CMPT 237.

Prerequisite(s): ISYS 140. (3-2 or 3-2)248

ISYS 325 Computer Networking (3 sem. hrs.)

Network protocols, physical networks, and the construction and maintenance of server sites.

NB: Not offered every year. See department chair.

Cross-listed: CMPT 325.

Prerequisite(s): ISYS 166 and third year standing in computing science or information systems. (3-0-3 or 3-0-3)

ISYS 370 Business Information Systems (3 sem. hrs.)

The impact of information technology and the ways in which organizations can achieve competitive advantage and support of key business functions through the strategic design, deployment, and use of information technology. The course also examines the utilization of spreadsheet, database management, and project management software to manage the design, deployment and use of information technology within an organizational setting.

Cross-listed: BUSI 370.

Prerequisite(s): Knowledge of Microsoft Office suite, third year standing. (3-0 or 3-0)

ISYS 371 Systems Development (3 sem. hrs.)

Current principles, concepts and techniques related to the design, development, and deployment of business computer information systems. Focus on the use of various systems analysis and design models, for example, uniform modeling language (UML), and various software tools, e.g., computer aided design system environment (CASE).

NB: May not be offered every year.

Cross-listed: BUSI 371.

Prerequisite(s): Third year standing; BUSI/ISYS 370; and knowledge of Microsoft Office Suite. (3-0 or 3-0)

ISYS 372 Enterprise Resource Planning Software (3 sem. hrs.)

The design principles of enterprise-wide information systems such as customer relationship management, supply chain management, decision support systems, executive support systems, and data mining techniques.

NB: May not be offered every year.

Cross-listed: BUSI 372.

Prerequisite(s): Third year standing, Microsoft Office suite; and BUSI 276, 342; BUSI/ISYS 370. (3-0 or 3-0)

ISYS 377 Operations Management (3 sem. hrs.)

This course considers the various operative models by which firms attempt to create value. Topics include: quality theory, quality measurement, production/supply chain planning and execution, process design, and project management, information tools necessary for effective operations, and management of the service content of the firm's products.

NB: Not offered every year. See department chair.

Cross-listed: BUSI 377.

Prerequisite(s): BUSI 176 and 275.(3-0 or 3-0)

ISYS 385 Software Engineering (3 sem. hrs.)

An introduction to the theory of designing and carrying out large software projects. All stages of the software engineering cycle are examined and experienced, and planning for at least one project is undertaken.

NB: Not offered every year. See department chair.

Cross-listed: CMPT 385.

Prerequisite(s): Proficiency in C, C++, Java, Pascal, Modula-2, or Ada; CMPT 140; CMPT 231 and 237. (3-3; 0-0)

ISYS 386 Software Engineering Project (3 sem. hrs.)

The project designed in ISYS 385 is carried through to completion and tested.

NB: Not offered every year. See department chair.

Cross-listed: CMPT 386.

Prerequisite(s): Grade of B- in CMPT/ISYS 385 and the ability to work on a team. (0-0; 1-6)

ISYS 387 Software Engineering Project II (3 sem. hrs.)

The project designed in ISYS 385/386 is carried through to completion and tested. This course permits students to do a second project.

NB: Not offered every year. See department chair.

Cross-listed: CMPT 387.

Prerequisite(s): Grade of B- in CMPT/ISYS 385 and 386 and the ability to work on a team. (0-0; 1-6)

ISYS 390 Introduction to Geographic Information Systems (3 sem. hrs.)

This course introduces the basic principles of Geographic Information Systems (GIS). It focuses on the theory and practice of GIS including how to store, analyze, and display geographic information; how to use GIS as tool in the social and environmental sciences; and the development of skills in the operation of GIS software.

Cross-listed: GENV 282.

Prerequisite(s): 9 sem. hrs. of geography and environment including GENV 282, or GEOGAS 301 (Au Sable Institute), or instructor's consent. (0-0; 3-2)

ISYS 400 Directed Studies in Computing Science (1-3 sem. hrs.)

Students are required to produce an outline of the topic to be studied, in consultation with the instructor. A course of reading and/ or experimentation is pursued according to the approved outline. Assessment may be via examination and/or a final written report.

NB: This course with the appropriate choice of topics can be used as a preparation for the senior thesis (CMPT 410). This course can only be taken with the consent of the academic computing coordinator.

Cross-listed: CMPT 400.

Prerequisite(s): Advanced standing in computing science or information systems.

ISYS 409 Thesis Preparation (1 sem. hr.)

Students are required to choose a topic for their senior thesis (ISYS 410 or 411) in consultation with an instructor. Selected readings and references pertinent to the topic are assigned. A final written report is presented, consisting of a detailed thesis proposal and a review of the literature.

NB: A student is allowed credit for only one of either ISYS 409 or CMPT 419.

Cross-listed: CMPT 409.

Prerequisite(s): Advanced standing in computing science or instructor's consent.

ISYS 410 Senior Thesis (2 sem. hrs.)

Research in a chosen area of computing science with a final written report.

Cross-listed: CMPT 410.

Prerequisite(s): ISYS 409, a related directed study in preparation, or instructor's consent.

ISYS 411 Senior Thesis (3 sem. hrs.)

Research in a chosen area of Computing Science with a final written report.

Cross-listed: CMPT 411.

Prerequisite(s): ISYS 409, a related directed study in preparation, or instructor's consent.250

ISYS 419 Project Preparation (1 sem. hr.)

Students are required to choose a topic for their senior group project (CMPT 420 or 421) in consultation with the instructor. Selected readings and references pertinent to the topic are assigned. A final written report (software requirements document) is produced giving a detailed specification of the proposed software project.

NB: A student is allowed credit for only one of CMPT/ISYS 409 or 419.

Cross-listed: CMPT 419.

Prerequisite(s): Advanced standing in computing science or instructor's consent.

ISYS 420 Special Topics - Senior Collaborative Project (1-6 sem. hrs.)

A major collaborative software project in a chosen area of computing science with a final report and presentation. At least two, and normally not more than five people work as a team to design, code, debug, test, and document the software.

Cross-listed: CMPT 420.

Prerequisite(s): ISYS 419, a related directed study, or instructor's consent.

ISYS 421 Special Topics - Senior Collaborative Project (1-6 sem. hrs.)

A major collaborative software project in a chosen area of computing science with a final report and presentation. At least two, and normally not more than five people work as a team to design, code, debug, test, and document the software.

NB: The choice of CMPT 420 or both 420 and 421 depends on the instructor's assessment of the proposed project's size and complexity.

Cross-listed: CMPT 421.

Prerequisite(s): ISYS 420, a related directed study, or instructor's consent.

ISYS 470 Information systems project/ internship (3 or 4 sem. hrs.)

Application of several business disciplines and information systems concepts, principles, and practice in an actual business information system.

Students are expected to develop a complex business information systems project. Students work closely with both the professor and individuals in the information systems profession. Students may also take the course as an internship while actually working for an enterprise in an information systems position.

Cross-listed: BUSI 470.

Prerequisite(s): Fourth year standing and Microsoft Office suite and BUSI 222, 280; 342, 370, 371, 372. (0-0; 3/4-0)

ISYS 480 Ethical and Social Issues in High Technology (3 sem. hrs.)

A study from a Christian context of some historical, social, and ethical issues relating to the development and use of scientific ideas and techniques. Science and technology are examined in their total social, historical, and intellectual contexts, with a view to tracing, in possible new developments, what the key issues are today. Students are challenged to think through the issues from more than one point of view and to learn how to determine appropriate Christian responses to them.

NB: Not offered every year. Offered only in fall semester. See department chair.

Cross-listed: CMPT 480. This course may be substituted for IDIS 400 or NATS 487.

Prerequisite(s): Third year standing overall and at least one previous computing science or lab science course at the university level. (3-0; 0-0)

ISYS 490 Integrative Group Project (3 sem. hrs.)

The course requires students to apply several business disciplines, in an actual business setting, to the development of a complex business project. Students work closely with both the professor and individuals in the business community.

NB: Not offered every year.

Cross-listed: BUSI 490.

Prerequisite(s): Fourth year standing in business or information systems.

Interdisciplinary Studies

IDIS 393 Law, Public Policy, and Cultural Change (3 sem. hrs.)

The historical and contemporary debate in Canada on what constitutes culture and our contemporary cultural challenges; how Christians interface with that culture and the role of organized religion; Christian critique of culture and the methodologies and perspectives of various entities that seek to influence culture. Observe firsthand how Canadian culture is formed within the Ottawa setting in their discipline.

NB: This course is an approved alternative to IDIS 400.

Cross-listed: POLS 393.

Prerequisite(s): Admission into Laurentian Leadership Centre. (3-0 or 3-0)

IDIS 400 Developing a Christian World view (3 sem. hrs.)

This is an interdisciplinary studies course that addresses a topic of significance and contemporary concern. Faculty from several disciplines participate, as well as others who have expertise in the topic but who are not faculty members at TWU.

NB: This course is a University core requirement for all degrees, although approved alternatives may be taken. Offered in the fall semester every year.

Prerequisite(s): Third or fourth year standing and completion of at least 70 sem. hrs. of study by end of preceding semester. (3-0; 0-0)

IDIS 410 Influencing the Changing Workplace: An Interdisciplinary Christian Perspective (3 sem. hrs.)

This course motivates students to explore ways in which they can have an impact for God's kingdom in a rapidly changing world economic environment. It gives students the opportunity to integrate disciplines in the liberal arts and religious studies, as well as business administration and economics, so as to provide them with a biblically-based world view and set of strategies for influencing the workplace in which they are called by God to serve.

NB: This is an approved alternative to IDIS 400.

Prerequisite(s): Completion of at least 84 sem. hrs. of study by end of preceding semester. The course is required for business majors; non-business students with the minimum prerequisite are welcome. (3-0 or 3-0)

IDIS 420 Arts, Media and Culture London Travel Study

A three-week interdisciplinary fine arts study trip to London, England, in which students critically engage culture and the fine arts. Visits to galleries, performances, and cultural sites accompany lectures and readings to encourage students to develop and deepen their biblically-informed view of the role of fine arts. While most course activities take place in London proper, several day trips to surrounding locations are included.

NB: Summer travel study course. This course is for students wishing to take this course for credit. It meets both the Fine Arts and IDIS 400 equivalent core requirements (provided students choose this as their "double-counted" core requirement) although the total credits for the course is 3 sem. hrs. No prior courses in art, theatre, or music are necessary. Another course, often Music 310, is offered on the travel study.

Cross-listed: SAMC 420.

Prerequisite(s): 70 sem. hrs. of study and permission of the instructor.252

IDIS 430 Christian Values in a Global Community (3 sem. hrs.)

This course explores the nature and scope of a Christian world view by means of a three-week interdisciplinary study trip to Geneva and Rome. Specifically, the course explores historical and contemporary religious and international issues—such as ecumenical dialogue, human rights, world hunger and refugees—through the perspective of church and governmental agencies based in these two cities.

NB: Summer travel study course. This is an approved alternative to IDIS 400.

Prerequisite(s): 70 sem. hrs. of study and permission of the instructor.

IDIS 440 Perspectives within the Global Sport Community (3 sem. hrs.)

This course explores the nature and scope of world view perspectives by means of an interdisciplinary study trip. Specifically, the course explores historical and contemporary sport and international issues such as elite training, sportsmanship, drugs and sport, coaching, etc. The course seeks to establish some of the historical, religious, philosophical, and art ties between the relative culture and sports and to relate these values and practices to our Western culture. By exposing students to theory and practical experience related to major global sporting events, the course attempts to assist students to understand the importance of thinking about an issue from an interdisciplinary viewpoint and integrating knowledge into a comprehensive world view. This is an approved alternative to IDIS 400.

NB: Summer travel study course. This is an approved alternative to IDIS 400.

IDIS 450 Transformational Development and Leadership (3 sem. hrs.)

The course provides opportunity for the articulation of transformational leadership (both cultural and personal). Students become wise to effective leadership communication as they examine world view, history, and economic challenges in various global regions.

This course explores underlying cultural and faith-based world views by means of an interdisciplinary travel study. Specifically, the course explores social and humanitarian responses to critical social issues. Through readings, lectures (including field practitioners and experts), and field experiences, students are exposed to the complex nature of human problems and societal responses. Students seek to understand critical social issues in light of cultural, environmental, economic, political, and historical frameworks. Of particular interest is the manner in which religious world view shapes one's response to the disadvantaged, and how the transformational model informs leadership behaviour and the development process.

NB: This course functions as an alternative to IDIS 400. For the Kenya travel study, students may take this alone or as a second course.

Cross-listed: MCOM 491.

Prerequisite(s): Upper level standing (minimum of 70 sem. hrs.) and instructor's consent.

IDIS 495 Critical Issues in Education and Culture (3 sem. hrs.)

A consideration and analysis of selected critical concerns in education that link and interact with broad issues in culture and society. The course emphasizes how world view thinking across various disciplines affects societal approaches to questions such as religion and ethics in the schools, the influence of technology and media on education, and plurality and choice in schooling.

NB: Approved alternative to IDIS 400; required for all education students.

Cross-listed: EDUC 495.

Prerequisite(s): EDUC 203; fourth year standing; minimum cumulative GPA of 2.5. (3-0; 0-0)

Japanese

JAPA 101, 102 Introduction to Japanese (3, 3 sem. hrs.)

An introduction to modern Japanese language and culture for students with no knowledge of Japanese. Basic listening, speaking, reading, and writing skills are taught, along with cultural components. Includes instruction on using computer software to produce Japanese scripts on an English keyboard.

NB: Native Japanese speakers or students who have studied Japanese at this level may not take these courses for credit. Higher levels may be offered by directed study. For more information, contact the instructor.

Prerequisite(s): None for 101; JAPA 101 is a prerequisite for 102. (3-1; 3-1)

JAPA 201, 202 Intermediate Japanese I & II (3, 3 sem. hrs.)

In this course, students study modern Japanese, both oral and written, at the intermediate level. They continue to learn basic grammar principles through the study of increasingly complex sentence patterns and memorize Chinese characters, called “Kanji” in Japanese. Classes include reading, conversational activities, and listening practice in the lab. Cultural components are also included.

NB: Presently offered as a directed study.

Prerequisite(s): JAPA 102 or instructor’s permission; JAPA 201 for 202.

JAPA 301, 302 Intermediate Japanese III & IV (3, 3 sem. hrs.)

In these courses, students study modern Japanese, both oral and written, at the high intermediate level. They continue to learn essential grammar principles through the study of increasingly complex sentence patterns. They also memorize Chinese characters, called “Kanji” in Japanese. Classes include reading, conversational activities, and listening practice in the lab. Cultural components are included.

NB: Presently offered as a directed study.

Prerequisite(s): JAPA 202 for JAPA 301; JAPA 301 for 302.

Latin

LATIN 211, 212 Medieval Ecclesiastical Latin CP (3, 3 sem. hrs.)

An introduction to Latin grammar and the basic vocabulary of medieval ecclesiastical Latin. The one-or two-semester program of study is designed to prepare the student for independent reading in Jerome’s Latin Vulgate, the Summa Theologiae of Thomas Aquinas, and other medieval texts of 254 moderate difficulty.

NB: taught at Catholic Pacific College, an approved TWU learning centre.

Prerequisite(s): None, but completion of 211 is normally required for LATIN 212. (3-0; 3-0)

LATIN 311, 312 Advanced Readings in Latin CP (3, 3 sem. hrs.)

This course illustrates advanced topics in Latin grammar by allowing the student to study and translate advanced Latin texts. Some of the texts are chosen by the student in consultation with the instructor in order to become familiar with specialized study in a Latin author of choice.

NB: Course taught at Catholic Pacific College, an approved TWU learning centre.

Prerequisite(s): Latin 211 CP and 212 CP. Completion of 311 is required for 312. (3-0; 3-0)

Leadership LDRS 110 Christian Leadership Foundations (3 sem. hrs.)

An introduction to historical, biblical and contemporary concepts and practices of leadership, and how they are understood and applied within Christian organizations.

Prerequisite(s): Must be enrolled in Certificate in Leadership for Christian Organizations.

LDRS 205 Leading Spiritual Growth (3 sem. hrs.)

An exploration of major historic movements of Christian spirituality, the different ways people relate to God, and the leadership principles and practices of encouraging people to grow in spiritual maturity.

Prerequisite(s): LDRS 110 or permission of instructor and must be enrolled in Certificate in Leadership for Christian Organizations.

LDRS 210 Growing Healthy Organizations (3 sem. hrs.)

An exploration of the developmental aspects of leading organizational growth, including theories of organization and change, principles of governance, and approaches to organizing work.

Prerequisite(s): LDRS 110 or permission of instructor and must be enrolled in Certificate in Leadership for Christian Organizations.

LDRS 220 Leading with Numbers: A Primer for Non-Mathematicians (3 sem. hrs.)

This course is a practical study of the leadership application of quantitative reasoning ideas and methods. Emphasis is placed on how leaders use and interpret numbers to make a diverse set of informed decisions.

Prerequisite(s): None. (3-0 or 3-0)

LDRS 230 Leading Teams and Groups (3 sem. hrs.)

A practical study of how leaders guide, influence, and respond to group dynamics and the best practices utilized in leading and developing teams and groups in organizations.

Prerequisite(s): LDRS 110 or permission of instructor and must be enrolled in Certificate in Leadership for Christian Organizations.

LDRS 255 Leading and Coaching (3 sem. hrs.)

An exploration of whole person development in the practice of coaching and mentoring individuals toward self-understanding, strong character, high performance, and well-being within organizational contexts.

Prerequisite(s): LDRS 110 or permission of instructor and must be enrolled in Certificate in Leadership for Christian Organizations.

LDRS 300 Leadership Theory and Practice (3 sem. hrs.)

This course is designed for students who wish to advance their understanding of leadership and enhance their personal leadership skills, attitudes, and behaviours in keeping with the mission of TWU. It introduces students to the literature of leadership, helps them design tools for assessing their own leadership abilities, and enables them to develop a Christian servant leadership model within the context of a Christian worldview. Team building and self-assessment exercises, leadership presentations, case studies, and field research are included.

Prerequisite(s): Second year standing or above. (0-0; 3-0)

LDRS 301 Lifelong Learning Strategies in Leadership (2 sem. hrs.)

Developing good leadership skills is a lifelong pursuit requiring continuous learning. This required introductory course is designed to provide the adult learner with an introduction to both learning and leading that ensures academic and personal learning success for a lifetime of leadership development and application. Foundational to leadership concepts is: (1) a thorough understanding of self; (2) an understanding of what leadership refers to: the definition, the differences between leadership and good leadership, what it means to distinguish leadership from management, and why leadership is necessary in organizations; and (3) the role and importance of learning within an organization. The course includes assessment tools to assist the students in understanding themselves, and measures their progress in leadership comprehension and application.

Prerequisite(s): None.

LDRS 302 Historical Concepts and Theories in Leadership (3 sem. hrs.)

This course is an introduction to historical organizational concepts and theories that have influenced current leadership and management trends. The course highlights early societal and philosophical influences that led to the development and implementation of classical management theories and subsequent emerging theories through the 1980s. Students examine influences on current marketplace applications in interpreting actions and prerequisites of individuals and organizations.

Prerequisite(s): Third year standing or permission of instructor.

LDRS 303 Contemporary and Popular Approaches in Leadership (3 sem. hrs.)

This course provides an overview of contemporary and popular approaches that have influenced current movements in leadership and management trends from the 1990s to present day. Students are exposed to a variety of contemporary leadership approaches that focus on psychodynamics, individual and organizational values, ethical relational orientations, emotional intelligence, and other aspects that have helped define current interpretations of leadership. Because understanding oneself is the foundation of contemporary leadership, experiential learning techniques are used to expose students to concepts that assist them in building a knowledge bank of contemporary approaches and practical tools for leadership and management application.

Prerequisite(s): Third year standing or permission of instructor.

LDRS 310 The Learning Organization (3 sem. hrs.)

In the knowledge age, leaders must influence the nature, direction, and quality of organizational knowledge and competence. This course exposes students to the importance of expanding people's ability to understand and cope with the challenges organizational situations generate. Organizational theory is defined and analyzed. Practical methods of managing knowledge assets and facilitating learning are discussed as students grapple with how to integrate all aspects of organizational presence into a comprehensive and iterative learning organization.

Prerequisite(s): Third year standing or permission of instructor.256

LDRS 320 Ethical Decision-Making (3 sem. hrs.)

The course explores ethical decision-making in a business environment. It examines individual, organizational, and macro-level issues in ethics. The course does not determine correct ethical action; it is designed to promote the understanding of the role of values and ethics as leaders formulate strategies for motivating, communicating, utilizing power, and developing followers.

Prerequisite(s): Third year standing or permission of instructor.

LDRS 330 Leadership in Organizations and Small Groups (3 sem. hrs.)

Comprehensive understanding of leadership. Theories, models, facets of leadership, and characteristics of effective leaders. Leadership development and current issues.

NB: Not offered every year. See department chair.

Cross-listed: PSYC 330.

Prerequisite(s): PSYC 105, 106 or instructor's consent. (3-0 or 3-0)

LDRS 375 Culture and Christianity (3 sem. hrs.)

This course examines important aspects of Christianity's involvement in global culture. Alternative models and historical examples of this involvement are considered as well as the engagement of Christianity with specific current social and cultural issues.

Prerequisite(s): LDRS 301 or permission of instructor.

LDRS 391, 392, 393, 394 Supervised Leadership Experience (3, 3, 3, 3 sem. hrs.)

These courses are designed to provide a critical examination of a leadership topic or area through one's personal involvement in leadership practice. Readings emphasize leadership theory, personal reflection, and the application of leadership principles. These courses involves both a critical examination of leadership and an investigation of one's personal strengths. Leadership practice is structured to provide a context to apply leadership theory, personally reflect on the theory and application, and learn how to be a more effective leader through interaction with a leadership facilitator.

Prerequisite(s): Permission of instructor.

LDRS 400 Interpersonal Leadership: Negotiation and Conflict Resolution (3 sem. hrs.)

Students learn to identify conflict sources within and outside organizations related to personal differences, real and imagined levels of power, and stakeholder interests. Forms of dispute resolution are discussed including professional arbitration and alternative methods of mediation, with recognition that conflicts can be beneficial.

Prerequisite(s): Third year standing or permission of instructor.

LDRS 410 Communication: Methods and Mediums of Persuasion and Positive Influence (3 sem. hrs.)

Communication within an organization impacts directly/indirectly and internally/externally in four directions: colleagues, subordinates, superiors, and current and potential customers. All successful leaders are competent communicators and seek ways to develop their skills. This course provides a broad overview of communications and offers learners practical tools to improve their rapport with various audiences.

Prerequisite(s): Third year standing or permission of instructor.

LDRS 420 Leading Change (3 sem. hrs.)

Leaders need to understand change in order to lead change. This course enables students to understand the impact of change, develop a better sense of leading complex change, and learn about various change process models, frameworks, and engagement principles to gain commitment and involvement. Students also develop an understanding of how to coach in the midst of change. Using a nine-phase change process model, students apply their learning to a change project or initiative.

Prerequisite(s): Third year standing or permission of instructor.

LDRS 431 Building Leaders I: Building Intergenerational Leaders (1 sem. hr.)

An examination of the universal process of human development from a psycho-social perspective in order to understand personal responses to leadership and the perspective-taking requirements of the leader in leading others. This course provides an overview of different generations (Baby Boomers, Gen Xers, Millennials) and both their approach and responses to leadership challenges with a view to increasing the emotional intelligence of emerging leaders.

Prerequisite(s): Third year standing or permission of instructor.

LDRS 432 Building Leaders II: Vocation and Career Planning (1 sem. hr.)

An examination of leaders' vocation discernment and career planning in the context of both modeling and mentoring. Emphasis is given to the leaders' identification of personal calling and the creation of their career development plans and how they use their self-development knowledge as life mentors to those they lead, bringing others toward personal and professional clarity and growth.

Prerequisite(s): Third year standing or permission of instructor.

LDRS 433 Building Leaders III:
Resilience in Leadership (1 sem. hr.)

An examination of everyday challenges and weaknesses leaders face, and how to cope effectively. This course focuses on approaches and attitudes related to leadership aspects such as criticism, failures, successes, personal attacks, weaknesses, and persistence.

Prerequisite(s): Third year standing or permission of instructor.

LDRS 440 Developing Administrative Competence (3 sem. hrs.)

Students learn key principles and methods beyond general strategies of leadership, which lead to successful administration of private and public organizations. This course provides the student with an opportunity to apply learned leadership principles of the program in the context of a management application, thus demonstrating an understanding of both management and leadership, and acknowledging that a good leader is also a good manager. Topics include preparing strategic plans, modifying strategies, designing the organization to fit objectives, organizational governance, staffing the organization, budget building and defending, risk management and due diligence, and effective implementation of plans.

Prerequisite(s): None.

LDRS 491, 492 Leadership Practicum
(2, 2 sem. hrs.)

This course provides students with a practical setting in which to apply what they have learned in the BA in leadership program. The practicum must be with a supervised business, non-profit agency, social service agency, or institution related to the student's personal interests and future plans. The course includes readings, written assignments, and group meetings.

Prerequisite(s): Third year standing or permission of instructor.

LDRS 493, 494 (3, 3 sem. hrs.)

This course provides students with a practical setting in which to apply what they have learned in the BA in leadership program. Practicums must be with a supervised business, non-profit agency, social service agency, or institution related to the student's personal interests and future plans. The course includes readings, written assignments, and group meetings.

Prerequisite(s): Third year standing or permission of instructor and the completion of at least 3 leadership courses.

LDRS 499 Applied Leadership Project (3 sem. hrs.)

The applied leadership project provides students with an opportunity in which to test and apply the skills learned in their practicum placement as well as to reflect on their own personal development as professionals. Students conduct their applied leadership project in a supervised business, non-profit agency, social service agency, or institution related to their personal interests and future plans (preferably in the same setting as they completed their practicum). This self-directed, but practicum-facilitated project helps the students reflect on and integrate their knowledge with practical experience.

Prerequisite(s): Completion of at least 75 percent of the major course work and practica.

Leadership, Graduate Courses

Foundational Courses

LDRS 500 Leadership Foundations (3 sem. hrs.)

This introductory course provides an understanding of the philosophical and theoretical basis for leadership, including the participant's stage of development. Major historical models for leadership are examined with special attention to servant leadership. Participants also examine ways of improving their own leadership skills through practical interactive group exercises.

LDRS 501 Strategic Leadership (3 sem. hrs.)

The student gains an appreciation of practical visioning and strategic leadership with an emphasis on understanding a strategic leadership framework, integrating new leadership knowledge, using different strategic perspectives, appreciating strategy-making process factors, developing workplace application skills, and acquiring development tools.

LDRS 502 Team Leadership and Conflict Resolution (3 sem. hrs.)

This course prepares those currently in leadership positions to assess and develop their abilities to coach and develop teams, manage conflict by building relationship, and turn confrontation into cooperation, as well as explore and experience teamwork. Participants understand conflict theory teamwork development, motivation, and management strategies. As leaders and agents of change, candidates analyze and formulate key knowledge and skill areas that enable them to construct the competencies of self-renewal, communication, and understand how they interact in a team. Development of these competencies increase participants' abilities to value people, and thereby, increase the effectiveness of their negotiation, intervention, and impact in a team environment. The course is facilitative, participatory, and experiential. Candidates complete this course having experienced personal change, and having the confidence and competence to influence others through building relationship, cooperative negotiation, and a greater trust in a team environment.

LDRS 503 Results Based Leadership (3 sem. hrs.)

An analysis of organizational development and operation in a leadership-based system for performance results measurement and reporting: terminology, concepts, and skill needs; the role of a Christian perspective on financial accountability; concepts and principles underlying effective computer-assisted financial accountability systems; specific stakeholder interests in defining data/information needs; key elements and factors for quality business plans and budgets; governance and financial leadership interface; and performance results measurement and reporting strategy.

LDRS 504 Leadership, Values, and Ethics (3 sem. hrs.)

This course focuses on enhancing ethical awareness and practicing ethical leadership from a Christian worldview perspective. Students critically evaluate ethical frameworks and apply dilemmas and cases to leadership. Participants assess personal values, purpose and vision in relation to leadership and construct a personal decision-making framework.

LDRS 590 Scholarly Inquiry and Research Methods (2 sem. hrs.)

This course provides an overview of the process, critical analysis, and associated skills required for scholarship and research. Students are introduced to the complexities of scholarly inquiry and various research approaches being used in the field of leadership. The course is a pre-requisite for the major project (LDRS 690, 691). The aim of this online course is to provide students with the knowledge and skills necessary for the completion of an applied major project. Students learn how to frame their major project focus or question, how to answer that question, and how to present their work.

LDRS 591 Scholarly Inquiry (3 sem. hrs.)

This course provides an overview of the process, critical analysis, and associated skills required for scholarship and research. This course is designed for learners who may have little experience in the area of research, and provides introduction to scholarly inquiry and various research approaches being used in the field of leadership to the end that learners may become discriminating consumers of research.

NB: This course is a prerequisite for LDRS 696. The aim of this online course is to provide students with the knowledge and skills necessary for the completion of an ePortfolio, which serves to integrate practical MA in leadership program curriculum content.

Specialization Online Courses

Business Stream

LDRS 611 Organizational Behaviour (3 sem. hrs.)

This is a graduate-level introduction to the social theory and analysis of organizations. Process of individual behaviour in organizations is examined, including attitudes, motivation, satisfaction, stress, perception, and attribution. Social behaviour studies include group formation and structure, socialization, organizational culture, and gender dynamics. Attention is given to the evolution of organizations along with the scaling or organizational processes during growth, and the consequent demands upon leaders as organizations change.

LDRS 612 Leading Change and Innovation (3 sem. hrs.)

This course is designed to deepen student's understanding of how transformational servant leaders can and must survive and thrive while leading change initiatives, leading for innovation, and promoting new "ways of being" in 21st century organizations. This is a time of uncertainty and opportunity. Change and innovation is about understanding and predicting reality; it is about new strategic and operational paradigms. Leading innovation requires different ways of engaging people around issues, and new personal, team and organizational responses to today's world.

LDRS 614 Mission, Marketing, and Quality (3 sem. hrs.)

An examination of marketing models and frameworks that includes an initial exploration of Christian worldview perspectives. The course explores marketing as it is practised by North American organizations (tools, techniques, and frameworks that are used in market analysis and planning); and engages in the marketing discipline through the eyes of faith.

LDRS 617 Employee Engagement and Stewardship (3 sem. hrs)

This course examines the concept of employee engagement within an organization in relation to effective employee stewardship by the leadership of that organization. It further considers effective tools for the measurement and assessment of an organization's employee engagement and stewardship practice, and methods for creating and managing organizational culture characterized by meaningful participation, loyalty, and affirmation.

Education Stream

LDRS 620 World View Foundations of Educational Leadership (3 sem. hrs.)

This course examines the complex issue of the Christian believer's mandate to "indwell" the Biblical story in the context of contemporary western culture, paying particular attention to ways in which this issue impacts the task of educational leadership. Students will discuss the potential of transformational servant leadership and values-based leadership for building personal and shared vision in educational settings. They will develop and discuss strategies through which the school leader can work reflectively with faculty, parents, students and others in establishing and sustaining a vision-shaped educational community. Students will also participate in a school leadership self-assessment exercise.

NB: May not be taken for credit for students who have credit for EDUC 621.

Cross-listed: EDUC 620.

LDRS 623 Developing and Assessing Educational Programs (3 sem. hrs.)

This course reviews the foundations and practises of both macro- and micro-level program development for schools and school systems. Students will consider the underlying assumptions and effects of alternative approaches to program planning. They will explore how worldviews shape curriculum theory and analyze how they affect curriculum development. They will also examine contemporary issues and research problems related to planned curriculum change and development. The participants will develop a framework and criteria for developing programs, resources, and curriculum practice based on a Christian worldview.

Cross-listed: EDUC 623.

LDRS 624 School Leadership and Supervision (3 sem. hrs.)

In this course participants will review the role of principals and other educational leaders in nurturing a healthy professional climate and sustaining teacher growth. They will develop an integrated model for continuous staff development. On the basis of the principles of Christian servant leadership and current supervision paradigms, they will consider how to supervise and evaluate school personnel. They will also scrutinize methods of staff selection, induction, and dismissal. Throughout, the focus will be on strategies for building positive school cultures.

Cross-listed: EDUC 624.

LDRS 625 Educational Leadership and Change (3 sem. hrs.)

This course involves an examination of the characteristics of schools and classrooms that provide an environment for productive instruction and successful student learning within the contours of a defined vision for education. Included is an exploration of theories, current research, and examples of constructive and dynamic educational leadership. Learners will analyze models, practices, and investigate how to implement effective educational programs and bring about related changes at the classroom and institutional levels while overcoming barriers to change.

Cross-listed: EDUC 625.

LDRS 626 Leadership for Contemporary Issues in Education (3 sem. hrs.)

The school is a community for learning within a larger community. This course explores the links between schools and the social, political, and legal forces that impinge on them. Students will examine the relationship of the school with its social context, and how school leaders interact with external influences and affect them.

Cross-listed: EDUC 626.

Health Care Stream

LDRS 631 Health Care Leadership Issues (3 sem. hrs.)

This course provides a foundation for students in the health care stream and a comprehensive application of servant leadership principles to the health sector. As emerging leaders, students develop their leadership skills in inspiring, stewarding, and problem solving. The course facilitates integrated learning on the needed leadership competencies to support health systems and organizations. The leadership competencies include leading change, leading people, being results driven, ensuring business acumen, and building coalitions and communication.

Leadership issues in the course include values, ideologies, leadership imperatives, cultural change, population health, reform, vision, financial and human resource considerations, education, professional regulation, technology, and health system integration.

LDRS 632 Leadership and Change (3 sem. hrs.)

This course explores how effective leaders use creativity and innovation to address emerging global needs. Necessary skills of cognitive load management, cross-cultural collaboration, interpersonal and communications skills, and adaptability and resilience will be explored as tools for leaders facing the need to promote new ways of being for 21st century organizations.

LDRS 634 Accountability and Performance (3 sem. hrs.)

When health service executives and professionals are asked to explain what outcomes are being achieved by the provincial and territorial health systems across Canada, the reply is usually rhetoric and platitudes, but with little evidence. The reality is we do not have the ability to define what we accomplish that costs approximately 44 per cent of the provincial and territorial budgets. This course explores the concepts of accountability and governance in detail. The collective goal is to better explain what the health systems are producing as tangible outcomes. Servant leaders are called to communicate with the communities and populations they serve with integrity and honesty and to serve their patient/client/resident needs as best they can, based on the organization's values and strategy, as well as the customer's expectations.

Pre-requisite(s): LDRS 500.

LDRS 637 Employee Engagement and Stewardship (3 sem. hrs)

This course examines the concept of employee engagement within an organization in relation to effective employee stewardship by the leadership of that organization. It further considers effective tools for the measurement and assessment of an organization's employee engagement and stewardship practice, and methods for creating and managing organizational culture characterized by meaningful participation, loyalty, and affirmation.

Christian Ministries Stream

LDRS 641 Theology of Christian Leadership (3 sem. hrs.)

Explores key theological and biblical leadership concepts and identifies points of harmony and incompatibility with secular leadership paradigms: personalized philosophy of biblical leadership; comparison of biblical leadership to other perspectives; application of leadership principles to ministry issues; and best practice considerations.

LDRS 646 Empowering Leadership: Mentoring, Spiritual Directing, Coaching (3 sem. hrs.)

This course is a study that reflects on the character, heart, hope, and practices of relational leadership which focuses on empowering others—especially the next generation of leaders. Mentoring is a primary strategy that is examined in depth. A historical perspective exposes the challenges used throughout the history of mentoring. A best practices model is constructed that offers principles of relational leadership that can be used in organizations and churches or with individuals. The coaching model for leadership development is given consideration in this course. Students have an opportunity to reflect on those women and men who have played a significant role in their own leadership development and then anticipate what they may need in present or future contexts by way of mentoring and/or coaching.

LDRS 647 Sustainability in Transformational Servant Leadership (3 sem. hrs.)

This course promotes sustainable transformational servant leadership (TSL). Effective TSL demonstrates care for, and promotes the sustainability of, three interdependent dimensions: self, team organization, and client.

The TSL strengthens the capacity of those in this system to achieve excellence over time: resilience in action. Participants will develop a personal holistic and sustainable approach to leadership and life, emphasizing creation of a caring community across all three system dimensions. On completion, participants will model behaviours and priorities that enhance both caring TSL and performance, in their personal plans.

Non-profit Stream

LDRS 651 Theory and Practice of Volunteerism (3 sem. hrs.)

This course examines the issues relevant to how the NGO organization establishes a secure relationship with external stakeholders through effective leadership practice. The NGO sector is the second largest sector within the Canadian political economy, and requires special attention as the sector becomes increasingly reliant on volunteers. Specific issues relate to connecting with, gaining interest, and keeping volunteer support at the policy, program, and operations level, including how the effective leader's conduct affects this challenging process. Of particular interest is the challenge of generating volunteer funds to support the operation of the organization.

LDRS 654 NGOs as Social Enterprise (3 sem. hrs.)

This course addresses practical issues and opportunities to the servant-centered leader that wishes to develop as a social entrepreneur. The concept carries with it elements of the traditional business, non-governmental, and political arenas we are so accustomed to working and living with. This course provides the practical, entrepreneurially-focused leadership knowledge and skills needed to have an impact in this arena. This course focuses on student development as servant-centered leaders of social enterprise.

Pre-requisite(s): LDRS 500

Capstone Courses

LDRS 697/698 Leadership Integration Project 1/2

LDRS 697 is a two semester hour course that together with LDRS 698 comprises the four semester hour Leadership integration project capstone. All learners must complete the LDRS 697/698 capstone. The process of designing and completing LDRS/MAEL 697/698 is the practical exercise of higher order learning processes. LDRS/MAEL 697/698 is focused on integrating the learning from various program courses into a comprehensive understanding and personal practice of leadership. The learnings of program courses will be collectively analyzed and re-evaluated to determine meta-themes to inform a deeper level of scholarly inquiry in the field of leadership. LDRS/MAEL 697/698 represents the capstone demonstration of a learner's ability to integrate practical program curriculum content and to demonstrate achievement in the programs defined leadership competencies. The course requires competent use of evidence-based scholarly knowledge, ability to analyze an issue, discipline in the problem-solving process, and scholarly documentation and presentation of information.

Linguistics

NB: Canada Institute of Linguistics courses are a part of the linguistics program at Trinity Western University. Students may pursue a major, concentration, or minor in linguistics.

LING 101 Introduction to Linguistics (3 sem. hrs.)

An introduction to the primary elements of linguistics, including an introduction to morphology and semantics (words and meaning), phonetics (the sounds of language), phonology (the sound systems of language), syntax (grammatical systems), sociolinguistics, psycholinguistics, language acquisition theory, and current issues in linguistics. No previous knowledge of linguistics is required.

Prerequisite(s): None. (3-0; 3-0)

LING 210 Language and Society (3 sem. hrs.)

This course focuses on the interaction between language and the social context within which it is used. Topics include: regional and social dialects; multilingualism; language attitudes and their impact on national and personal identity; linguistic politeness; the maintenance, shift, loss, and spread of languages; and the impact of modern technology. Applications to gender and education are explored in depth.

Prerequisite(s): None. (Summer or 3-0; 3-0)

LING 268 Introduction to TESOL (3 sem. hrs.)

This introductory course investigates the English language itself (what we teach), the various ELT methodologies and classroom techniques (how we teach), and the participants in the teaching/learning process (the who of ELT). LING 268 is a foundational course for further studies in the TESOL certificate program.

Cross-listed: EDUC 268.

Prerequisite(s): None. (3-0; 3-0)

LING 301 TESOL Volunteer Practicum (1 sem. hr.)

This semester of classroom experience provides opportunities for students to link their TESOL courses to school settings. Students volunteer in an ESL classroom in order to become more confident in the classroom, interacting with students and teachers, and carrying out activities that prepare them for the 400 level practicum.

Prerequisite(s): LING 268.

LING 302 Cross-cultural Communication (3 sem. hrs.)

The nature of cross-cultural interaction, drawing attention both to the unexpected variations in other cultures as well as to the presuppositions from one's own culture that inhibit cross-cultural communication. The need to take into account the dynamic of constant cultural change will also be emphasized.

Cross-listed: ANTH 302/MCOM 372.

Prerequisite(s): None. (3-0; 3-0)

LING 304 Tutoring English Language Learners (2 sem. hrs)

This course highlights the unique aspects of tutoring English language learners. Students use needs-assessments to design individualized programs and lessons, as well as explore the business side of tutoring.

Prerequisite(s): LING 268 or TESOL certificate director's consent. (2-0; 2-0)

LING 305 The Grammar of English for TESOL (3 sem. hrs.)

This course examines the structure, function, and usage of English grammar within the context of language teaching. LING 305 is a foundational course for further studies in the TESOL certificate program.

Prerequisite(s): LING/EDUC 268 or TESOL certificate director's consent. (3-0; 3-0)

LING 306 The Sound System of English (3 sem. hrs.)

In this course, students explore the sounds of English, transcribing them with phonetic symbols, and discover how these sounds function within English to encode meaning. These findings are then applied to assist language learners with their pronunciation.

NB: Linguistics majors should take LING 310 and 330 rather than LING 306.

Prerequisite(s): LING 268 or TESOL certificate director's consent. (3-0; 3-0)

LING 307 The Lexical System of English (1 sem. hr.)

This course explores how words are formed (morphology) and used to create meaning and identifies common problems students encounter with vocabulary development in order to provide practical application for the classroom context.

Prerequisite(s): EDUC/LING 268 or TESOL certificate director's consent.

LING 308 Benchmarks (3 sem. hrs.)

This course introduces the Canadian Language Benchmarks (CLBs) and their application to language assessment and lesson planning.

LING 310 Articulatory Phonetics (3 sem. hrs.)

Theoretical and practical introduction to the broad range of human speech sounds including tone, intonation, stress, and duration; extensive drill in producing and recognizing these sounds and recording them with phonetic symbols; and practice in recording and reproducing the sounds of selected languages.

NB: Students taking a minor in Applied Linguistics with TESOL and students taking the TESOL track TESOL Certificate should take LING 306 rather than LING 310.

Prerequisite(s): None. (summer or 3-0; 3-0)

LING 312 Testing in TESOL (1 sem. hr.)

Students are introduced to various methods of testing in TESOL for all four skill areas: reading, writing, listening, and speaking. Based on this knowledge, students create a variety of test materials for English language learners.

Prerequisite(s): EDUC/LING 268 or instructor's consent. (1-0; 1-0)

LING 313 Teaching English Pronunciation (1 sem. hr.)

An exploration of principles and resources for the teaching of pronunciation and application of these to the language learning classroom.

Prerequisite(s): LING 268, and LING 306 or 310. (1-0; 1-0)

LING 314 Teaching Beginners ESL (1 sem. hr.)
Practical demonstrations of various methods for teaching beginning students with an emphasis on communicative theory and activities. Resource materials appropriate for classroom activities.

Prerequisite(s): LING 268 or EDUC 268 or instructor's consent. (1-0; 1-0)

LING 315 Computer Assisted Language Learning in TESOL (1 sem. hr.)

An exploration of the history and theory underlying computer assisted ESL instruction, as well as the evaluation of online resources and the application of new technologies to both individual and classroom learning.

Prerequisite(s): EDUC/LING 268 or TESOL certificate director's consent. This course is offered as an online course. (1-0; 1-0)

LING 316 ESL Classroom Management in TESOL (1 sem. hr.)

Students explore principles of classroom management, especially as they apply to TESOL. They become familiar with current sources of information on classroom management, and begin to develop a personal classroom management system that is appropriate to the varied TESOL audiences.

Prerequisite(s): EDUC/LING 268 or TESOL certificate director's consent. (1-0; 1-0)

LING 317 Materials Creation in TESOL (1 sem. hr.)

This course highlights the foundational principles of materials design and evaluation in English-language teaching. Students evaluate published and teacher-made materials, and apply the principles to their own created materials in a practical workshop setting.

Prerequisite(s): EDUC/LING 268 or TESOL certificate director's consent. (1-0; 1-0)

LING 318 Using Drama in TESOL (1 sem. hr.)

This hands-on course provides an introduction to using drama techniques in TESOL. Students critically examine and reflect on how drama activities can be used to contribute to the TESOL classroom.

Prerequisite(s): EDUC/LING 268 or TESOL certificate director consent. (1-0; 1-0)

LING 319 Issues in TESOL and Missions (1 sem. hr.)

This course examines the role English language teaching has played within the modern foreign missions movement. Criticisms of this approach are examined, issues clarified, assumptions articulated, and principles of a biblical, ethical approach are suggested.

Prerequisite(s): EDUC/LING 268 or TESOL certificate director's consent. (1-0; 1-0)

LING 330 Phonological Analysis (3 sem. hrs.)

The study of sound systems of human language, including initial principles of phonological analysis. Application of these principles to a wide range of natural language data.

Co-requisites: LING 310. (summer; 3-0; 3-0)

LING 360 Morphosyntax I (3 sem. hrs.)

Theories of grammar and principles of language analysis. Topics include: morphology, syntax, stems, words, phrases, sentences, and categories of meaning. Problem solving with data from a variety of languages is a major part of the course.

Co-requisites: LING 310. (summer; 3-1; 0-0)

LING 399 Linguistics Practicum (3 sem. hrs.)

The linguistics practicum course is designed to give students a short-term practical experience in a language development program. Students work with a faculty member at TWU and a mentor on location to develop their ability as field linguists through making a contribution to language development work. The location, length of assignment, and work commitments are determined by the faculty member in consultation with the student and field mentor. 120 hours of work are required.

Prerequisite(s): 14 sem. hrs. of linguistics (not including TESOL courses). Ideally, these courses are 210, 310, 330, 361 and 362. 480 and 481 are highly recommended prior to the practicum.

LING 401 TESOL Teaching Practicum (1 sem. hr.)

In this final course in the TESOL certificate, students spend a minimum of 25 hours in an approved ESL/ EFL program. Students utilize knowledge and skills learned in TESOL courses, learn to reflect on their classroom practices, and begin to articulate how their faith influences their classroom presence.

NB: Pass/Fail course.

Prerequisite(s): 20 sem. hrs. in TESOL certificate (including LING 301 and LING 410 or 420).266

LING 410 Teaching Listening and Speaking in TESOL (3 sem. hrs.)

This course helps students acquire the practical knowledge and skills necessary to effectively teach listening and speaking to English language learners. The course provides an orientation to the theoretical perspectives of teaching listening and speaking, to a variety of classroom strategies and assessment methods, and to printed and online resources.

Prerequisite(s): 10 sem. hrs. in TESOL certificate (including LING 268, 301, 305, and either 306 or 310).

LING 420 Teaching Reading and Writing in TESOL (3 sem. hrs.)

This course is designed to help students acquire the practical knowledge and skills to effectively teach reading and writing to English language learners. The course provides an orientation to the theoretical perspectives of teaching reading and writing, to a variety of classroom strategies and assessment methods, and to printed and online resources.

Prerequisite(s): 10 sem. hrs. in TESOL certificate (including LING 268, 301, and 305). (3-0; 3-0)

LING 460 Morphosyntax II (3 sem. hrs.)

This course explores the rich variety of morphological and syntactic constructions and processes found in human language, deepening the students' understanding of morphosyntactic phenomena from a typological perspective. The topics are examined within the framework of a current theory of syntax.

Prerequisite(s): LING 210; 310, 330, 360 (3-0; 0-0)

LING 470 Language and Culture Acquisition (3 sem. hrs.)

This course introduces students to theories of second language and second culture acquisition. Students develop and evaluate self-directed strategies based on personal learning styles. Practical experience in the above topics is gained by working with a speaker of a non-Indo-European language.

NB: LING 460 and 480 are recommended in same semester

Cross-listed: ANTH 470.

Prerequisite(s): LING 210; 310, 330, 360. (3-2; 0-0)

LING 471 First Language Acquisition (3 sem. hrs.)

Covers typical first language acquisition in children. Major topics include phonology, vocabulary, grammar, syntax, pragmatics, as well as literacy development. Application to fields of speech-language pathology and audiology are developed through sections on language impairment and hearing loss.

Prerequisite(s): LING 310, LING 330 and LING 360 (3-0; 0-0)

LING 476 Acoustic Phonetics (3 sem. hrs.)

This course introduces students to fundamental principles of acoustics that are relevant to the study of human speech sounds. Students gain a basic understanding of the properties of speech sound waves and learn to investigate these properties instrumentally using acoustic analysis software. Students gain extensive practice interpreting acoustic displays such as waveform graphs, fundamental frequency graphs, and spectrograms. A major focus of the course is the effective use of these displays as an aid to correctly transcribing speech sounds and understanding their phonetic properties in the context of descriptive phonetic and/or phonological fieldwork. Significant attention is also given to the complex interrelationships among acoustic, articulatory, and perceptual correlates of speech sounds.

Prerequisite(s): LING 310. (3-0; 0-0)

LING 480 Field Methods: Data Management and Analysis (3 sem. hrs.)

Practical methodology for managing, analyzing, and describing language data. Working with a native speaker of a non-Indo-European language, students gain experience in the ethics of fieldwork, techniques of data collection and recording, analysis using the scientific method and the use of linguistic software

NB: LING 460 is recommended in same semester.

Prerequisite(s): LING 310, 330, 360. (3-0; 0-0)

LING 481 Anthropological Linguistics: Ethnography (3 sem. hrs.)

This course introduces crucial concepts in anthropology and ethnography to linguists. It focuses on cross-cultural communication with an emphasis on participant observation as an effective methodology for such research. Students collect and analyze data related to topics such as oral traditions, kinship, and social structure. They are introduced to various tools for ethno-semantic analysis, including analysis of cultural themes and worldview, semantic domain analysis, and taxonomic analysis.

Prerequisite(s): LING 210, or equivalent introduction to sociolinguistics or instructor's consent. (3-0; 3-0)

LING 482 Issues in Community Literacy (3 sem. hrs.)

This course focuses on issues relating to literacy programs in a community of speakers of a minority language. It deals with various program issues, including: bridging the gap to oral communities and introducing change in a community, motivation and mobilization, capacity-building and sustainability, training and evaluation, the challenges of working in multilingual societies and with those in stressed situations, and using participatory approaches in all aspects of the program.

Co-requisite: LING 484. (0-0; 3-0)

LING 483 Language Program Design and Management (3 sem. hrs.)

This course investigates the sociolinguistic and background factors upon which a language development program for speakers of vernacular languages may be based. Students learn to work with local people and agencies in designing and implementing a program to effectively meet the needs of specific language groups.

Prerequisite(s): LING 210 or instructor's consent. (0-0; 3-0)

LING 484 Principles of Literacy (3 sem. hrs.)

As an introductory course in principles for literacy work in ethnolinguistic minority groups, this course includes an introduction to what a literacy program involves, including orthography design, pre and post- literacy considerations, learning and reading theory, and instructional methodologies. Requires a background knowledge of phonology.

Prerequisite(s): LING 310, 330, or instructor's consent. (3-0; 3-0)

LING 485 Principles of Translation (3 sem. hrs.)

This course covers the process of translating from a source language to a target language. Students will develop skill in understanding a message as originally communicated in one language and cultural setting and in communicating essentially that message in a very different language and culture. Discussion includes: source language, target language, and cross-language transfer, with particular attention to the translation of Scripture.

Prerequisite(s): LING 460, 470, 480, or instructor's consent. (0-0; 3-0)

LING 486 Advanced Phonological Analysis (3 sem. hrs.)

This course introduces students to advanced concepts of phonological theory. Employing the theoretical models they are learning, students develop a clearer understanding of the typological behavior of phonological systems by analyzing data 268 from a variety of languages. Students are also taught to integrate insights from phonological theory into the development of practical orthographies.

Prerequisite(s): LING 310, 330; minimum grade of B-. (0-0; 3-0)

LING 488 Literacy Materials Development (3 sem. hrs.)

This course teaches students how to prepare basic pedagogical materials and early readers in languages that may not have a long written tradition. Special emphasis is given to teaching techniques for involving the local language community in the production of these materials.

LING 490 Special Topics in Linguistics (3 sem. hrs.)

An examination of special topics or issues in linguistics that are not covered in depth in other courses.

NB: Offered on a case by case basis as needed. See department chair.

Prerequisite(s): LING 310, 330, 360, or equivalent courses, third year standing, and instructor's consent. (3-0 or 3-0)

LING 491 Discourse Analysis (3 sem. hrs.)

This course teaches students to analyze the discourse structure and pragmatic functions of texts. Students learn to identify different discourse genre, chart texts for analysis, identify macrostructure and hierarchical units of texts, describe features of cohesion and participant reference, and identify strategies in language for achieving prominence (differentiating thematic or mainline information from background or collateral information). Emphasis is given to the interface between syntactic forms and their pragmatic functions, with special attention given to "normative discourse" (how language is used for evaluation, prescription, influence and persuasion).

Prerequisite(s): LING 310, 330, 360 or equivalent courses, third year standing and instructor's consent. (0,0; 3-0)

LING 493 Semantics and Pragmatics (3 sem. hrs.)

This course provides students with the theoretical tools with which to study meaning at the word and sentence levels, and to explain how people interpret utterances in context. Students will study various models of semantics and pragmatics, and learn how to apply different approaches to the study of meaning in natural language.

Prerequisite(s): LING 360 (3-0; 3-0)

LING 499 Philosophical Perspectives in Linguistics (3 sem. hrs.)

This course examines the philosophical bases of human language and communication, with special attention to issues relating to semantics, discourse, lexicon, metaphor, and translation, etc.; all the areas that deal with meaning creation. There is a critical review of some major schools of thought within philosophy of language and hermeneutics. These are examined in light of current insights in text linguistics, cognitive linguistics, and integrational linguistics.

Prerequisite(s): LING 310, 330, and 360. (3-0; 0-0)

Linguistics, Graduate Courses

NB: The following courses are part of the Linguistics Graduate Program. For further information about courses see the School of Graduate Studies section or contact the MA LING Graduate Program director.

LING 513 Sociolinguistics (3 sem. hrs.)

This course examines language within its social context through dealing with topics such as dialect and language definition, the role of the mother tongue in defining self-identity, language attitudes, the maintenance, loss, shift or spread of language domains, multilingualism, and sociolinguistic survey. Also, a means of helping students develop realistic expectations and appropriate approaches for linguistic issues in cross-cultural field work, attention is given to an overview of language study within a worldview context, to sociolinguistic factors affecting literacy programs, and to methods of second language acquisition. (3-0; 0-0)

LING 555 Historical and Comparative Linguistics (3 sem. hrs.)

This course introduces students to language change. It considers how and why languages change and the role of language contact. It also presents different theories and methodologies useful for historical and comparative linguistic investigation. Students will investigate a number of related existing languages from language families around the world, and seek to reconstruct substantial elements of earlier proto-language stages in terms of phonology, morphology, lexicon, and historical dialectology. (3-0; 0-0)

LING 560 Morphosyntax II (3 sem. hrs.)

This course explores the rich variety of morphological and syntactic constructions and processes found in human language, deepening the students' understanding of morphosyntactic phenomena from a typological perspective. The topics are examined within the framework of a current theory of Syntax. (3-0; 0-0)

LING 566 Principles of Sociolinguistic Survey (3 sem. hrs.)

This course introduces the students to the rudiments of linguistic and sociolinguistic survey. The focus is on purpose-driven language survey design and appropriate subsequent reporting of the findings. Consideration is given to current issues in social science research such as the ethics of sampling, and statistical significance of sample populations. (3-0; 0-0)

Co-requisite(s): LING 210, or equivalent introduction to sociolinguistics (summer).

LING 570 Language and Culture Acquisition: Theory and Praxis (3 sem. hrs.)

This course introduces students to theories of second language and second culture acquisition. Students develop and evaluate self-directed strategies based on personal learning styles. Practical experience in the above topics is gained by working with a speaker of a non-Indo-European language. (3-0; 0-0)

NB: LING 560 and 580 are recommended in the same semester. (3-0; 0-0)

LING 576 Acoustic Phonetics (3 sem. hrs.)

This course introduces students to fundamental principles of acoustics that are relevant to the study of human speech sounds. Students gain a basic understanding of properties of speech sound waves and learn to investigate these properties instrumentally using acoustic analysis software. Students gain extensive practice interpreting acoustic displays such as waveform graphs, fundamental frequency graphs, and spectrograms. A major focus of the course is the effective use of these displays as an aid to correctly transcribing speech sounds and understanding their phonetic properties in the context of descriptive phonetic and/or phonological fieldwork. Significant attention is also given to the complex interrelationships among acoustic, articulatory, and perceptual correlates of speech sounds. (3-0; 0-0)

LING 580 Field Method: Data Management and Analysis (3 sem. hrs.)
Practical methodology for managing, analyzing, and describing language data. Working with a native speaker of a non-Indo-European language, students gain experience in the ethics of fieldwork, techniques of data collection and recording, analysis using the scientific method, and the use of linguistic software.

NB: LING 560 is recommended in the same semester. (3-0; 0-0)270

LING 581 Anthropological Linguistics: Ethnography (3 sem. hrs.)
This course introduces crucial concepts in anthropology and ethnography to linguists. It focuses on cross-cultural communication with an emphasis on participant observation as an effective methodology for such research. Students collect and analyze data related to topics such as oral traditions, kinship, and social structure. They are introduced to various tools for ethno-semantic analysis, including analysis of cultural themes and worldview, semantic domain analysis, and taxonomic analysis.

Prerequisite(s): LING 210, or equivalent introduction to sociolinguistics. (3-0 or 3-0)

LING 582 Issues in Community Literacy (3 sem. hrs.)
The issues in community literacy work that are covered in this course include various program issues such as introducing literacy in an oral community, motivation for literacy, capacity-building and sustainability, training of personnel and evaluation of the program, and using participatory approaches in all aspects of the program.

Co-requisite(s): LING 584. (0-0; 3-0)

LING 583 Language Programs Design and Management (3 sem. hrs.)
This course investigates the sociolinguistic and background factors upon which a language development program for speakers of vernacular languages may be based. Students learn to work with local people and agencies in designing and implementing a program to effectively meet the needs of specific language groups (0-0; 3-0)

Prerequisite: LING 210, or equivalent introduction to sociolinguistics. (3-0 or 3-0)

LING 584 Principles of Literacy (3 sem. hrs.)
This course covers methods used in the introduction of literacy to ethno-linguistic minority groups. It includes orthography design, consideration of socio-historical issues, strategies for literacy programs, stimulation of local authorship, reading theory, and instructional methodologies. (3-0; 3-0)

LING 585 Principles of Translation (3 sem. hrs.)
This course covers the process of translating from a source language to a target language. Students will develop skill in understanding a message as originally communicated in one language and cultural setting, and in communicating essentially that message in a very different language and culture. Discussion includes: source language, target language, and cross-language transfer, with particular attention to the translation of Scripture.

Prerequisite(s): 560, 570, 580, or instructor's consent. (0-0; 3-0)

LING 586 Advanced Phonology (3 sem. hrs.)
This course introduces students to advanced concepts of phonological theory. Employing the theoretical models they are learning, students develop a clearer understanding of the typological behavior of phonological systems by analyzing data from a variety of languages. Students are also taught how to integrate insights from phonological theory into the development of practical orthographies. (0-0; 3-0)

LING 588 Literacy Materials Development (3 sem. hrs.)

This course teaches students how to prepare basic pedagogical materials and early readers in languages that may not have a long written tradition. Special emphasis is given to teaching techniques for involving the local language community in the production of these materials. (3-0; 0-0)

LING 593 Semantics and Pragmatics (3 sem. hrs.)

This course provides students with the theoretical tools with which to study meaning at the word and sentence levels, and to explain how people interpret utterances in context. Students will study various models of semantics and pragmatics, and learn how to apply different approaches to the study of meaning in natural language. (3-0; 3-0)

LING 599 Philosophical Perspectives in Linguistics (3 sem. hrs.)

This course examines the philosophical basis of human language and communication, with special attention to issues relating to semantics, discourse, lexicon, metaphor, and translation— all the areas that deal with meaning creation. There is a critical review of some major schools of thought within philosophy of language and hermeneutics. These are examined in light of current insights in text linguistics, cognitive linguistics, and integrational linguistics. (0-0; 3-0)

LING 611 Applied Phonology for TESOL (3 sem. hrs.)

This course examines a wide range of more advanced applications for phonological and phonetic frameworks. In addition to methods for teaching and integrating pronunciation in language teaching for several learner populations, from basic articulation training to discourse-level pronunciation instruction, students study relevant techniques from a number of academic disciplines which deal with relationships between speech, voice, body movement, and emotion. (summer)

LING 612 Research Methods in Applied Linguistics (3 sem. hrs.)

This course develops student understanding of quantitative and qualitative research methods and familiarize them with research issues and statistics related to applied linguistics. In addition, students are guided through the methodology of action research and the process of topic choice for the major project (to be done in the internship). (summer)

LING 650 Survey of Linguistic Theories (3 sem. hrs.)

This course introduces students to a wide range of linguistic theories. Students read and discuss original works written from various perspectives and gain in the process a clearer appreciation for the range of views that exist concerning the nature of human language and its syntactic, semantic, phonological, and discourse properties.

Prerequisite(s): LING 560, LING 586. (0-0; 3-0)

LING 660 Topics in Morphology & Syntax (3 sem. hrs.)

This course provides an in-depth exploration of current issues in the linguistic subfields of morphology and syntax, expanding on the knowledge acquired in the prerequisite course (560). The topics are explored via published articles and book chapters written from a variety of theoretical positions.

Prerequisite(s): LING 560. (0-0; 3-0)

LING 680 Advanced Field Methods: Analysis and Writing (3 sem. hrs.)

In this course, students transcribe, organize, and analyze data from a non-Indo-European language and prepare a written description of phonological, morphosyntactic, or discourse features of the language. The course focuses on applying effective fieldwork methodologies and on developing the ability to write good linguistic descriptions that conform to established practices in the field of linguistics.

Prerequisite(s): LING 560, LING 580, LING 586. (3-0; 0-0)

LING 688 Tone Analysis (3 sem. hrs.)
This course introduces students to a methodology of tone analysis, incorporating the insights of current theoretical approaches. Students also learn to apply insights from the analysis of a tone system to developing practical orthographies.

Co-requisite(s): LING 586 (0-0; 3-0)272

LING 691 Discourse Analysis (3 sem. hrs.)
This course focuses on the question of how speakers of a given language effectively accomplish their communicative goals through the strategic use and shaping of language in both written and oral discourse. Students learn to identify different discourse genres, to chart texts for analysis, to discern hierarchical units within the macrostructure of a text, and to describe features of cohesion and participant reference; as well as identifying strategies in language for establishing the relative prominence of various streams of information. Special attention is paid to the interaction between alternate syntactic forms and their varying pragmatic functions in context.

Prerequisite(s): LING 560. (0-0; 3-0)

LING 695 Topics in Linguistics (3 sem. hrs.)
This course exposes students to a wide variety of literature in the field of tone theory. There is a strong emphasis on reading and understanding foundational material in the discipline as well as becoming acquainted with some of the more recent literature. (3-0; 3-0)

LING 697 Linguistics Thesis I (3 sem. hrs.)
The student, in frequent consultation with his/her advisor, selects a thesis topic and writes a thesis proposal. Once the proposal has been accepted by the student's thesis advisory committee, he/ she begins writing the thesis. There are no formal classes.

Prerequisite(s) or Co-requisite: LING 680. (3-0; 3-0)

LING 698 Linguistics Thesis II (3 sem. hrs.)
The student, in consultation with his/her advisor, works towards completion of the thesis. Upon completion, the thesis must be defended orally before an examining committee. There are no formal classes.)

Prerequisite(s): LING 697. (3-0; 3-0)

LING 699 Linguistics Continuing Registration (0 sem. hrs.)
Continuing Registration maintains the student's enrolment in the program and is taken only when all required courses are complete and only as a continuation of an incomplete thesis or graduating essay. Enrolment in Continuing Registration is automatic, and although no credit is given for it, a fee is charged for each semester of enrolment. (3-0; 3-0)

NB: Additional 500-level linguistics courses are part of the TESOL Graduate Program. See the TESOL, graduate courses section of this calendar for course descriptions.

Mathematics

MATH 101 Mathematics for Business (3 sem. hrs.)

Basic concepts in mathematics with applications in business. Topics include elementary counting and probability, variables, equations and functions, interest rates, annuities, and loan calculations. The course is aimed at business students and serves to enhance a student's understanding of mathematics and its usefulness in a business environment.

Prerequisite(s): At least a C in BC Principles of Mathematics 11, Foundations of Math 11, Pre-Calculus 11 or equivalent. (3-0 or 3-0)

MATH 102 Introduction to Probability and Statistics (3 sem. hrs.)

This course provides an introduction to probability theory, descriptive and inferential statistics; applications are taken from a wide range of disciplines. Topics include descriptive analysis, scientific visualization, sets, permutations and combinations, probability, discrete and continuous distributions (e.g. binomial, normal, t), confidence intervals and hypothesis testing. Not for credit towards a major, concentration, or minor in Mathematics.

NB: Credit is granted for only one of MATH 102 or MATH 108.

Prerequisite(s): At least a C in BC Principles of Mathematics 11, Foundations of Math 11, Pre-Calculus 11 or equivalent. (3-0; 3-0)

MATH 105 Pre-Calculus Mathematics (3 sem. hrs.)

An introduction to the tools essential for the study of calculus. Topics include algebra, trigonometry, exponents, logarithms, functions, graphs, conics, and plane analytic geometry. This course is taken by Science majors whose screening test during registration indicates they are not ready to take MATH 123.

Prerequisite(s): At least a B in MATH 101 or BC Principles of Mathematics 11, Foundations of Math 11, Pre-Calculus 11 or equivalent. (4-0; 0,0)

MATH 108 Statistics for Health Students (3 sem. hrs.)

This course is an introduction to applied statistics addressed, in particular, to students specializing in the field of nursing. The focus is on developing the conceptual aspects of the subject rather than the mathematical foundations and assumes no prerequisite except elementary algebra. Topics include descriptive statistics, probability, the normal, t-, chi-square and F-distributions, confidence intervals, hypothesis testing, correlation, and regression. Applications are directed towards health and biological studies.

NB: Credit may be received for only one of MATH 102 or MATH 108.

NB: Only open to nursing students.

Prerequisite(s): At least a C in BC Principles of Mathematics 11, Foundations of Math 11, Pre-Calculus 11 or equivalent. (3-0 or 3-0)

MATH 120 Calculus for Social Sciences (3 sem. hrs.)

An introduction to the basic elements of calculus and its application to problems encountered particularly in economics and the social sciences. Topics include limits, derivatives and their applications, and integration and its applications.

NB: Credit is granted for only one of MATH 120 or MATH 123.

NB: Not offered every year. See Department Chair.

Prerequisite(s): At least a B in BC Principles of Mathematics 12, or Pre-Calculus 12 or equivalent, or MATH 101. (4-0 or 4-0)

MATH 123 Calculus I (3 sem. hrs.)

This course addresses functions, limits and continuity, derivatives and applications, and integrals and applications.

NB: Credit is granted for only one of MATH 120 or MATH 123.

Prerequisite(s): At least a B in BC Principles of Mathematics 12, or Pre-Calculus 12 or equivalent, or MATH 105. (4-0; 4-0)

MATH 124 Calculus II (3 sem. hrs.)

Transcendental functions, integration techniques, polar co-ordinates, sequences, series, and Taylor series.

Prerequisite(s): MATH 123 or an A in MATH 120 and the instructor's permission. (0-0; 4-0)

MATH 150 Introduction to Discrete Math (3 sem. hrs.)

This course introduces students to those branches of pure mathematics that are most commonly used in the study of Computing Science and/or have other practical applications. Topics include logic, proofs, switching circuits, set theory, induction, functions, languages, finite automata, combinatorics, and algebraic structures. This course may be taken by non-majors for non-lab science credit.

NB: Not offered every year. See department chair.

Cross-listed: CMPT 150.274

Prerequisite(s): BC high school Mathematics 12, or Pre-Calculus 12, or MATH 101, or the equivalent. (3-1-0; 0-0-0)

MATH 190 Mathematics for Elementary Teachers (3 sem. hrs.)

Mathematical concepts and topics that undergird the elementary school mathematics curriculum. Topics include principles and applications of number systems, sets, equations, linear programming, geometry, and mathematical proof within a historical and societal context. It may not be used to meet a mathematics requirement in any other program.

NB: Credit is granted for only one of MATH 101, 102, 108, or 190. Open to declared Elementary Education majors only. Education students may meet their requirement for a Mathematics course by substituting another course for MATH 190 unless transferring for their professional year to a school requiring this specific course. Students planning to transfer to University of Victoria (and some other universities) for their professional year are required to take two Mathematics courses rather than one.

Prerequisite(s): At least a C in BC Principles of Mathematics 11, Foundations of Math 11, Pre-Calculus 11 or equivalent. (4-0 or 4-0)

MATH 223 Calculus III (3 sem. hrs.)

Multivariate calculus. Topics include vectors, vector functions and derivatives; curves; partial and directional derivatives; Lagrange multipliers; double and triple integrals; spherical and cylindrical co-ordinates; vector integrals, Green's Theorem, and surface integrals.

Prerequisite(s): MATH 124. (3-0; 0-0)

MATH 250 Linear Algebra (3 sem. hrs.)

Systems of linear equations, matrices, determinants, vector spaces, linear transformations, eigenvalues and eigenvectors, diagonalization applications, and linear programming.

Prerequisite(s): MATH 123 and preferably MATH 150. (3-0 or 3-0)

MATH 310 Probability and Statistics (3 sem. hrs.)

A study of the fundamental principles of mathematical statistics. Topics include probability distributions and densities, expectation and moment-generating functions, functions of random variable, sampling distributions, estimation, hypothesis testing, regression and correlation, analysis of variance, nonparametric tests.

NB: With the instructor's permission, may be taken concurrently with MATH 223. Not offered every year. See Department chair.

Prerequisite(s): MATH 223. (3-0 or 3-0)

MATH 320 Complex Analysis (3 sem. hrs.)

Functions of a complex variable, differentiation, analytic and elementary functions, Cauchy's theorem and contour integration, Taylor and Laurent series, residues and poles, and conformal mapping. Emphasis is placed on physical applications.

NB: Not offered every year. See department chair.

Prerequisite(s): MATH 223. (3-0 or 3-0)

MATH 321 Differential Equations (4 sem. hrs.)

First-order differential equations, linear differential equations, Laplace transforms, systems of differential equations, non-linear systems, series solutions, introduction to partial differential equations. Special emphasis is placed on applications to physics and engineering.

NB: Not offered every year. See department chair.

Cross-listed: PHYS 321.

Pre- or Co-requisite(s): MATH 223, 250. (4-0 or 4-0)

MATH 323 Analysis (4 sem. hrs.)

Sequences and induction; convergence of sequences and series; limits, continuity, and differentiability; Riemann integrals; sequences of functions and an introduction to topology.

NB: Not offered every year. See department chair.

Pre- or Co-requisite(s): MATH 223 (4-0 or 4-0)

MATH 330 Numerical Analysis (4 sem. hrs.)

This course covers numerical techniques for solving problems in applied mathematics, including error analysis, roots of equations, interpolation, numerical differentiation and integration, ordinary differential equations, matrix methods and selected topics from among: eigenvalues, approximation theory, non-linear systems, boundary-value problems, numerical solution of partial differential equations.

NB: Not offered every year. See department chair.

Cross-listed: CMPT 330.

Pre- or Co-requisite(s): MATH 223, 250; CMPT 140 or equivalent. (4-0 or 4-0)

MATH 340 Discrete Structures and Computing (3 sem. hrs.)

This is a second course in the topics of pure mathematics, particularly those most commonly used in the study of Computing Science and related applications. It includes proof techniques, models of computation, formal languages, analysis of algorithms, trees and advanced general graph theory with applications, finite state and automata theory, encryption, and an elementary introduction to mathematical structures such as groups, rings, and fields.

NB: Not offered every year. See department chair.

Cross-listed: CMPT 340.

Prerequisite(s): CMPT 150 or MATH 150. (0-0; 3-0)

MATH 350 Operations Research (3 sem. hrs.)
Linear programming, duality, network analysis, queuing theory, inventory theory, dynamic programming, non-linear programming.

NB: Not offered every year. See department chair.

Prerequisite(s): MATH 223, 250. (3-0 or 3-0)

MATH 370 Geometry (3 sem. hrs.)

Finite geometries, transformations, Euclidean geometry, constructions, inverse geometry, projective geometry, non-Euclidean geometry.

NB: Not offered every year. See department chair.

Prerequisite(s): MATH 223, 250. (3-0 or 3-0)

MATH 390 Topics in Arithmetic (3 sem. hrs.)

This course includes a study of the ideas of classical number theory from the early Greek mathematicians through the European contributions of the 17th century to modern times. Topics include divisibility and primes, modular arithmetic, primality tests, primitive roots, quadratic reciprocity, Diophantine equations, and continued fractions.

NB: Not offered every year. See department chair.

Prerequisite(s): Third year standing and an understanding of mathematical proof techniques, or instructor's consent. (3-0 or 3-0)

MATH 400 Directed Studies in Mathematics (3 sem. hrs.)

Students are required to produce an outline of the topic to be studied in consultation with the instructor. A course of reading and/or research is pursued according to the approved outline. Assessment may be via examination and/or a final written report.

NB: This course with the appropriate choice of topics can be used as a preparation for the senior thesis (MATH 410).

Prerequisite(s): Advanced standing in mathematics or instructor's consent.

MATH 409 Thesis Preparation (1 sem. hr.)

Students are required to choose a topic for their senior thesis (MATH 410) in consultation with an instructor. Selected readings and references pertinent to the topic are assigned. A final written report, consisting of a detailed thesis proposal and a review of the literature, is presented.²⁷⁶

Prerequisite(s): Advanced standing in mathematics or instructor's consent.

MATH 410 Senior Thesis (2 sem. hrs.)

Research in a chosen area of mathematics with a final written report.

NB: Normally 2 sem. hrs. are assigned unless arrangements are made with the department chair. If 3 sem. hrs. are required, MATH 411 is taken.

Prerequisite(s): MATH 409, a related directed study in preparation, or instructor's consent.

MATH 411 Senior Thesis (3 sem. hrs.)

Research in a chosen area of mathematics with a final written report.

Prerequisite(s): MATH 409, a related directed study in preparation, or instructor's consent.

MATH 420 Topics in Applied Mathematics (3 sem. hrs.)

Possible topics could include mathematical models of social and natural phenomena, linear programming, applied mathematics in physics and astronomy, etc.

NB: Not offered every year. See department chair. Entry restricted to third and fourth year students who meet the prerequisites for the topic to be offered. (3-0 or 3-0)

MATH 450 Modern Algebra (3 sem. hrs.)

Abstract algebra including group, field, and ring theory; algebraic systems, polynomial theory and additional topics in modern and abstract algebra as time permits.

NB: Not offered every year. See Department chair.

Prerequisite(s): MATH 150 and 250, third year standing or better (a 300 level Mathematics course such as 323, 340, 370 or 390 is recommended), and a very good understanding of mathematical proof techniques, or instructor's consent. (0-0; 3-0)

MATH 480 Foundation of Mathematical Sciences (3 sem. hrs.)

A study of basic issues in the history and philosophy of mathematics and physics. Topics include logic, infinity, Godel's theorems, time, space, determinism, the nature of mathematical and scientific truth, the ontological status of theoretical entities, implications of relativity, quantum mechanics, and modern cosmology. Particular attention is paid to philosophical/theological presuppositions, implications, and applications in the mathematical sciences.

NB: This course meets the University's upper level IDIS core requirement. In combination with NATS 490, it meets the Faculty of Natural and Applied Sciences Interdisciplinary Studies core requirement. Not offered every year. See department chair.

Prerequisite(s): Third year standing, including 9 sem. hrs. in mathematics, physics, or philosophy. (3-0 or 3-0)

Media and Communication

MCOM 111 Introduction to Mass Communication (3 sem. hrs.)

An introduction to communication media and technology as they affect and are affected by the underlying cultural values of western society. Technological, political, social, and economic factors are surveyed as components affecting development of communication media.

NB: Fulfills departmental media studies competency requirement. Required of all media studies stream majors.

Prerequisite(s): None. (0-0; 3-0)

MCOM 171 Introduction to Communication (3 sem. hrs.)

The course is designed to provide a framework of foundational knowledge about the nature of human interaction. The course surveys theories and research of communication in various contexts to foster understanding and analysis of communication competency requirement.

NB: Fulfills departmental human communication competency requirement.

MCOM 172 Introduction to Interpersonal Communication CP (3 sem. hrs.)

An introduction to basic self-awareness and interpersonal communication skills. Students learn about the nature of the communication process. The emphasis is on developing and practising the ability to communicate effectively with others. As part of the course requirements, students are expected to share personal (but not necessarily private) experiences with others.

NB: Course taught at Catholic Pacific College, an approved TWU learning centre. Fulfills departmental human communication competency requirement.

Prerequisite(s): None. (3-0 or 3-0)

MCOM 190 Communication Colloquium (0 sem. hrs.)

This course gathers the entire department together on a weekly basis to talk about important issues facing communication students and professionals, and to help prepare students for finding and building their careers after graduating, which is accomplished by bringing in guest speakers from a variety of professions. These sessions also give an opportunity for students to consider the integration of faith and career. Another goal is to build connections and community within the department and the School of the Arts, Media and Culture.

Prerequisite(s): None.

MCOM 191 Research and Writing in Communication (3 sem. hrs.)

This writing-intensive course orients students to the demands of academic research and writing within the media and communication major. By course completion, the diligent student should be able to write lucid, academic, and researched prose in the genres of cultural critique, scientific reporting, and term papers. Central to the course are the twin emphases of critical thinking strategies and research methods in the information age.

Prerequisite(s): None. (0-0; 3-0)

MCOM 211: Introduction to Film Studies (3 sem. hrs.)

This course covers the art of cinema as it explores issues related to film history, theory, criticism and practice. A central component of the course is the focus on experimental, alternative, and transgressive cinema and how it compares and contrasts with mainstream narrative cinema. Students gain experience in making short experimental films. Additionally, emphasis is placed upon ethical and spiritual considerations from a Christian perspective.

NB: Lab fee. Fulfills departmental media studies competency requirement.

Prerequisite(s): None. (3-0; 3-0)

MCOM 221 Digital Filmmaking I (3 sem. hrs.)

This introductory course in the art and craft of digital video production familiarizes students with the “classical” approach to cinematic aesthetics and techniques. Students work individually and collaboratively as they produce, shoot, and edit short films. Emphasis is placed on analyzing films from a filmmaker’s perspective.

NB: Lab fee. Fulfills departmental visual creativity competency requirement.

MCOM 222 Acting for Camera (3 sem. hrs.)

This course introduces students to the theory and craft of acting for camera. Topics include script interpretation, character development, auditioning, casting secrets, performance criticism, actor psychology, working with mise en scene and 278 camera angles, continuity, physicalization, and the differences between television, film, and theatre acting. A key component of this course is working with film directors and shooting digital video scenes.

NB: Lab fee.

Prerequisite(s): Instructor’s consent. (3-0 or 3-0)

MCOM 231 Fundamentals of Digital Design (3 sem. hrs.)

This course offers a practical study of graphic design essentials specifically related to the elements of graphic style (image, type, and colour), conceptual ideation, and the visualization of ideas.

Emphasis is given to investigating digital production practices, developing a visual communication vocabulary, and sharpening creative, analytical, and perceptual skills.

NB: Fulfills departmental visual creativity competency requirement. Priority given to media and communication students.

Cross-listed: ART 250

Prerequisite(s): None. (3-0; 3-0)

MCOM 251 Introduction to Journalism (3 sem. hrs.)

An introduction to the field of print journalism. Students examine Canadian media, evaluate the news process, consider the role of reporters in this process, and learn basic news writing.

NB: Fulfills departmental writing competency requirement.

Prerequisite(s): MCOM 191. (3-0; 0-0)

MCOM 252 Introduction to Public Relations (3 sem. hrs.)

In this course, students examine the role of public relations within and among various sectors of society including business, government, and non-profit organizations. Case studies are used to illustrate the profession and practice of public relations where possible, and ethical standards in public relations are emphasized. Media, consumer, employee, and community relations, as well as ethical standards in the public relations industry are examined.

Prerequisite(s): None. (3-0; 0-0)

MCOM 261 Fundamentals of Writing for Publication (3 sem. hrs.)

A seminar/tutorial approach to the rudiments of writing non-fiction. Principles of producing effective feature material, along with general editorial requirements, are outlined.

NB: Fulfills departmental writing competency requirement; required of all professional writing stream majors.

Prerequisite(s): MCOM 191. (3-0 or 3-0)

MCOM 271 Introduction to Leadership Communication (3 sem. hrs.)

Leadership Communication introduces students to art, science, and practice of influencing and being influenced by others in diverse contexts. The course explores the role of communication in building credibility, exercising power, motivating, and expressing one's leadership style. It also considers the topics of followership, the ethics of leadership, leadership development, and leading in times of crisis. The course serves as a foundation for future studies in the leadership communication stream within the Department of Media and Communication.

NB: Required of all leadership stream majors.

Prerequisite(s): None.

MCOM 272 Organizational Communication (3 sem. hrs.)

This course introduces students to the importance of communication within organizations.

Organizational communication theory is discussed as it relates to climate, dyads, small group, public, and mediated communication. Students apply theory in several business writing and speaking assignments.

NB: Fulfills departmental human communication competency requirement.

Prerequisite(s): None. (0-0; 3-0)

MCOM 281 Public Speaking (3 sem. hrs.)

This course covers the principles and skills of effective public speaking. It fosters an appreciation of the nature and uses of public speech-making including: surveys of the communication processes, ethical obligations, audience analysis, and principles of informative and persuasive speech-making. Participants develop and deliver several short speeches.

NB: Fulfills departmental public speaking competency requirement.

Prerequisite(s): None. (3-0 or 3-0)

MCOM 290 Introductory Special Topics in Media and Communication (3 sem. hrs.)

Topics vary from year to year.

MCOM 291 Communication Theory in Everyday Life (3 sem. hrs.)

A survey of contemporary theories in communication with an eye to their applicability for observation, explanation, and evaluation of everyday communication. Serves as a gateway course to advanced theoretical studies.

NB: Fulfills departmental theory and criticism competency requirement; required for media and communication minors and concentrations.

Prerequisite(s): None. (3-0; 3-0)

MCOM 311 Television and Culture (3 sem. hrs.)

This course provides an in-depth look at television as a mass medium with particular financial and cultural constraints. Students examine the decision-making process behind television programming, learn criteria for viewing television critically, and ask how Christians may respond to television responsibly.

NB: Fulfills departmental media studies competency requirement.

Prerequisite(s): Third or fourth year standing. (3-0; 0-0)

MCOM 312 Video Games and Culture (3 sem. hrs.)

This course considers the social and cultural impact of video games in contemporary culture from a Christian perspective. Students play, read about, write about, and critically engage a wide variety of computer and video games.

Prerequisite(s): MCOM 111 or instructor's consent; third year standing. (0-0; 3-0)

MCOM 315 Film History II (3 sem. hrs.)

This historical-critical course helps students understand the role cinematic stories play in both impacting culture and reflecting their historical milieu, especially as they relate to the events and traumas of World War II and the Cold War. Students explore key post-World War II film movements including neo-realism, the French New Wave, the New German Cinema, the rise of art house cinema, auteur theory, and the moral rebellions of the 1960s and 70s.

NB: Not offered every year. See department chair. Fulfills departmental media studies competency requirement.

Prerequisite(s): None. (3-0 or 3-0)

MCOM 316 Film Genre and Criticism (3 sem. hrs.)

The history and art of film criticism. Theoretical, historical, and applied or practical critical components. The special language of film, the history of key cinematic techniques and story types, film genre analysis, and types of film criticism. Emphasis is placed upon the role of the film critic as social historian. Addresses the ethical and spiritual challenges related to contemporary films, from a 280 Christian perspective.

NB: Viewing fee; Fulfills departmental theory and criticism competency requirement.

Prerequisite(s): None.

MCOM 317 Ethics, Morals, and Media (3 sem. hrs.)

This course focuses on understanding the nature of ethics and morals in the media. Through reading, on-going discussion, case studies, guest lecturers, on-site observation and media analysis, students develop their own framework for moral and ethical decision-making.

NB: offered every year. See department chair.

Prerequisite(s): At least third year standing or instructor's consent. (3-0 or 3- 0)

MCOM 321 Digital Filmmaking II (3 sem. hrs.)

This advanced production course focuses on the key components necessary for making creative and compelling narrative and non-narrative short films. Topics include concept and script development, cinematography techniques, effective mise-en-scene integration, and production workflow. A key component also includes writing, producing, shooting, and editing short films.

NB: Lab fee.

MCOM 322 Digital Film Post-Production (3 sem. hrs.)

This course examines the art and theory of digital film editing and the post-production process. The goal is to help students understand the role editing plays in the filmic and television viewing experience, especially the way shot selection, pacing, rhythm, sound, etc., impact a scene's development and how various editing techniques and aesthetics relate to dramatic and narrative storytelling. Historical, theoretical, and critical dimensions are addressed as students research seminal examples of film and video editing. This intense workshop offers a real world simulation component as students work under strict deadlines to edit and complete digital film projects.

NB: Lab fee. Not offered every year. See department chair.

Prerequisite(s): MCOM 221 or instructor's consent. (0-0; 3-0)

MCOM 323 Introduction to Digital Recording (3 sem. hrs.)

An introduction to various aspects of the recording arts with emphasis on working within the digital (virtual) studio environment with Cubase and other Virtual Instrument software.

Cross-listed: MUSI 340.

Prerequisite(s): MUSI 226 or third year standing. (1-3 or 1-3)

MCOM 331 Imaging and Illustration Design (3 sem. hrs.)

This course explores the conception, production, and analysis of imagery in graphic communication design, including photos, illustrations, and graphic marks. Imagery-based problems are investigated in multiple design contexts and formats. Specialized rendering techniques, digital studio practices, and iconographic style development are considered.

Cross-listed: ART 361.

Prerequisite(s): ART 250 or MCOM 231, and one of the following: MCOM 111; 171; ART 181, 182, or instructor's consent. (0-0; 3-0)

MCOM 332 Symbol and Typography Design (3 sem. hrs.)

An exploration of integrated conceptual thinking and formal experimentation with type and related symbol systems in graphic communications. Emphasis is placed on type as image, principles of typesetting, hierarchy and structure. The complex interaction of type in relation to other graphic elements in multiple design contexts and formats is considered.

Cross-listed: ART 362.

Prerequisite(s): ART 250 or MCOM 231, and one of the following: MCOM 112; 171; ART 181, 182, or instructor's consent. (0-3 or 0-3)

MCOM 333 Format and Layout Design (3 sem. hrs.)

An exploration of integrated conceptual thinking and formal experimentation with the structural and organizing systems at work in graphic communications. Emphasis is given to the development of unified graphic systems spanning multiple design contexts and formats.

Cross-listed: ART 363.

Prerequisite(s): ART 250 or MCOM 231, and one of the following: MCOM 111; 171; ART 181, 182, or instructor's consent. (3-0 or 3-0)

MCOM 351 Business and Technical Writing (3 sem. hrs.)

This workshop course offers students effective techniques for written and oral communication within the fields of business and industry, including key aspects of technical correspondence, report writing, oral communication, and the job-seeking process.

Prerequisite(s): ENGL 103, 104, and third or fourth year standing or instructor's consent; fulfills departmental writing competency requirement. (3-0 or 3-0)

MCOM 352 Online Journalism and Writing (3 sem. hrs.)

A hands-on seminar that explores the style, format, technique and design of web writing — specifically related to online journalism. The course explores historical aspects, storytelling structures, design concepts, ethical issues, writing styles, and media concerns that affect online news websites. A course project creates and develops editions of an online news magazine that incorporates student-written articles and feature stories.

Prerequisite(s): MCOM 231 and 251, or instructor's consent. (0-0; 3-0)

MCOM 361 Screenwriting (3 sem. hrs.)

This course introduces students to the history, art, and craft of cogent short-form film and television writing. It involves theoretical and applied components. Topics include: concept, conflict, and character development, writing treatments, structure and plot point crafting, genre considerations, theme and character dynamics, mood and stylistic concerns, etc. Selective scripts from the course may be used in advanced production courses.

NB: Lab fee.

Prerequisite(s): MCOM 261 or instructor's consent. (3-0 or 3-0)

MCOM 362 Playwriting (3 sem. hrs.)

A course in the art of structuring action and dialogue for the stage. Students study dramatic theory and “workshop,” an original one-act play that is submitted in an approved format by the end of term. Plays from the class may be selected for staged readings.

Cross-listed: THTR 325.

Prerequisite(s): Upper level standing. (0-0; 3-0)

MCOM 371 Relational Communication (3 sem. hrs.)

This course provides an in-depth look at communication in close relationships. The course begins with models of relational communication and proceeds with self- and other perceptions, verbal and nonverbal strategies and rituals, then the larger processes of communication in developing, sustaining, struggling, and ending relationships. Three featured topics include the role of conflict, verbal abuse, and personal style as factors in close relationships.

NB: Fulfils departmental human communication competency requirement.

MCOM 372 Cross-cultural Communications (3 sem. hrs.)

This course is about the nature of cross-cultural interaction, drawing attention both to the unexpected variations in other cultures as well as to the presuppositions from one's own culture that inhibit cross-cultural communication. The need to take into account the dynamic of constant cultural change is also emphasized, and so the course addresses being an agent of change in linguistic, business, educational, and religious endeavours.

NB: Offered also in Kenya and Guatemala as travel study course. Counts as a Society and Culture course in the University core. Fulfils departmental human communication competency requirement.

Cross-listed: ANTH 302, LING 302.

Prerequisite(s): Registration preference given to media and communication majors, concentrations, or minors, as well as corporate communication majors, TESL certificate, Inter-cultural religious studies, and international studies programs. (3-0 or 3-0)

MCOM 373 Classical and Contemporary Rhetoric (3 sem. hrs.)

The rhetoric of classical Greece and Rome, the medieval era, and modern and postmodern approaches to rhetorical practice are surveyed in relation to political, social, and mass media contexts and practices.

NB: Fulfils departmental theory and criticism competency requirement.

Prerequisite(s): Third or fourth year standing. (3-0 or 3-0)

MCOM 381 Debate and Argumentation (3 sem. hrs.)

The study of argumentation theory as applied in the practice of debate for the careful analysis and advancement of propositions regarding important contemporary issues. Students participate in two one-on-one debates and one two-on-two debate.

NB: Fulfils departmental public speaking competency requirement.

Prerequisite(s): MCOM 281 or instructor's consent. (3-0 or 3-0)

MCOM 390 Selected Topics in Media and Communication (3 sem. hrs.)

Topics vary from year to year.

NB: Not offered every year. See Department chair.

Prerequisite(s): Varies with topic.

MCOM 391 Communication Practicum (1 sem. hr.)

This practicum provides students with a work-and-learn experience in the field of communication, on or off campus. In addition to their work experience, practica students meet regularly as a class to discuss workplace issues, communication challenges, and assignments.

NB: Open only to media and communication majors, concentrations, and minors; corporate communication majors; and students working with student media (i.e., student newspaper, student yearbook, student video yearbook). Only 3 sem. hrs. apply toward the major; others go to electives for a maximum total of 8 sem. hrs. Communication Practicum courses are pass/fail courses.

Prerequisite(s): Second year standing or above.

MCOM 392 Communication Practicum (2 sem. hrs.)

This practicum provides students with a work-and-learn experience in the field of communication, on or off campus. In addition to their work experience, practica students meet regularly as a class to discuss workplace issues, communication challenges, and assignments.

NB: Open only to media and communication majors, concentrations, and minors; corporate communication majors; and students working with student media (i.e., student newspaper, student yearbook, student video yearbook). Only 3 sem. hrs. apply toward the major; others go to electives for a maximum total of 8 sem. hrs. Communication Practicum courses are pass/fail courses.

Prerequisite(s): Second year standing or above.

MCOM 393 Communication Practicum (3 sem. hrs.)

This practicum provides students with a work-and-learn experience in the field of communication, on or off campus. In addition to their work experience, practica students meet regularly as a class to discuss workplace issues, communication challenges, and assignments.

NB: Open only to media and communication majors, concentrations, and minors; corporate communication majors; and students working with student media (i.e., student newspaper, student yearbook, student video yearbook). Only 3 sem. hrs. apply toward the major; others go to electives for a maximum total of 8 sem. hrs. Communication Practicum courses are pass/fail courses.

Prerequisite(s): Second year standing or above.

MCOM 395 Central America Field Study (3 sem. hrs.)

This experiential and interdisciplinary course fosters interaction with diverse physical and human environments. It provides exposure to the region's history, religions, politics, and socio-economic realities that shape the communication and cultures of Central America, and introduces students to cross-cultural communication.

Prerequisite(s): Third year standing or instructor permission. (3-0 or 3-0)

MCOM 396 East Africa Field Study (3 sem. hrs.)

This experiential and interdisciplinary course fosters interaction with diverse physical and human environments. It provides exposure to the region's history, religions, politics, and socio-economic realities that shape the communication and cultures of East Africa and introduces students to cross-cultural communication.

Prerequisite(s): Third year standing or instructor permission. (3-0 or 3-0)

MCOM 411 Media, Culture, and Criticism (3 sem. hrs.)

A seminar investigating the cultural environment in which we live as the context of all communication. Selected media within contemporary culture are explored in terms of their contribution to the postmodern age.

NB: Fulfills departmental theory and criticism competency requirement.

Prerequisite(s): Third or fourth year standing. (0-0; 3-0)

MCOM 412 Masters of Cinema (3 sem. hrs.)

This seminar focuses on key filmmakers who have been highly influential in the development and expression of thought-provoking narrative and non-narrative cinema, including documentary and animation. As such, it focuses on a broad array of filmmakers, styles, and genres as students explore the way cinematic structure, stylistics, aesthetics, and techniques creates a deeper understanding of life. Filmmakers studied include masters from Hollywood, Europe, Asia, Africa, and the Middle East.

NB: Summer sessions only.

Prerequisite(s): None.

MCOM 413 Religious Themes in Cinema (3 sem. hrs.)

This course explores key films and representative filmmakers that have presented traditional and controversial religious messages in their work including filmic symbolic creations regarding God, the Church, sin, redemption, and grace. Filmmakers include Krzysztof Kieslowski, Carl Dreyer, Andrei Tarkovsky, Robert Bresson, Ingmar Bergman, Martin Scorsese, and Horton Foote. The course discusses rhetorical ways film conveys spiritual and emotional messages. Of note is the role Christ and Christ-figures play in selected films.

NB: Not offered every year. See department chair.

Prerequisite(s): None. (3-0 or 3-0)284

MCOM 421 Advanced Digital Recording (3 sem. hrs.)

Advanced study and practice of the technologies pertaining to professional digital recording.

Cross-listed: MUSI 341.

Prerequisite(s): MCOM 323/MUSI 340, or instructor's consent. (3-0 or 3-0)

MCOM 422 Digital Film Directing (3 sem. hrs.)

This course introduces students to the history, theory, and craft of digital film directing. As a workshop, it involves critical, and applied components. Topics include the multiple roles of the director, scene, and script analysis, creating potent production concepts, creative cinematography and techniques, auditioning, and working with actors. Key components of the course include shooting monologues, scenes, and making a short film.

NB: Not offered every year. See department chair.

Prerequisite(s): MCOM 221 or instructor's consent. (0-0; 3-0)

MCOM 451 Public Relations Writing (3 sem. hrs.)

An advanced course that focuses on the style and technique of writing for public relations and corporate communication. Students discover the dynamics of strategic and persuasive writing while creating key pieces such as brochures, ads, newsletters, and press releases. Opportunity is given to create a communications package for a public relations client.

Prerequisite(s): MCOM 252, or 261, or instructor's consent. (0-0; 3-0) MCOM 452

Feature Writing for Newspapers and Magazines (3 sem. hrs.)

Building on skills developed in MCOM 251 or 261, students study the best in magazine and newspaper feature writing and produce several pieces of their own with the intent of publishing their work.

Prerequisite(s): MCOM 251 or 261; ENGL 103, 104, and third or fourth year standing. (3-0; 0-0)

MCOM 453 Editing for Newspapers and Magazines (3 sem. hrs.)

Building on skills introduced in MCOM 251, 261, or 452, students learn the art of editing for magazines and newspapers. Students study examples of published magazines and newspapers (both print and online), write and edit a piece of their own with the intent to publish their work, and apply their knowledge to pieces submitted for publication to a student publication to be created around this course.

Prerequisite(s): MCOM 251 or 261 or 452; or ENGL 207 or 208; or instructor's consent (writing samples may be required). (3-0 or 3-0)

MCOM 461 Narrative Non-Fiction (3 sem. hrs.)

Current magazine and newspaper writing employs narrative non-fiction's creative tools to bring true stories to life. In this advanced workshop-style course, students study examples of the best published memoir, personal narrative, travel writing, and immersion journalism and write several pieces of publishable quality in a variety of non-fiction genres.

Prerequisite(s): MCOM 251 or 261; or ENGL 207 or 208; or instructor's consent (writing samples may be required). (3-0 or 3-0)

MCOM 471 Persuasive Communication (3 sem. hrs.)

This course investigates the art, science, and practice of persuasive communication in its many forms and contexts. It examines theories and research in human influence and how language, images, and non-verbal cues can mould people's attitudes and actions. There is opportunity to carry out a social science project in interpersonal or mediated persuasion, and to seriously consider the ethical implications of one's persuasive efforts. Fulfills departmental theory and criticism requirement.

Prerequisite(s): MCOM 171 and at least third year standing. (0-0; 3-0)

MCOM 472 Leadership Communication in Multi-cultural Contexts (3 sem. hrs.)

Students explore the complexities of leadership communication in multi-cultural, non-western contexts through topics such as gender and social structures, motivation, decision-making, negotiating conflict, and managing projects and change. The course draws on leadership theories, metaphors, and global leadership research to define culturally preferred leadership attributes and behaviours, and effective cross-cultural communication in comparative global settings.

NB: Also offered as summer travel study to Guatemala or Kenya.

Cross-listed: ANTH 452.

Prerequisite(s): MCOM 372. (0-0; 3-0)

MCOM 473 Women, Communication, and Leadership (3 sem. hrs.)

This course focuses on central current themes in the study of women in positions of power and leadership in Western society. Students focus on gendered communication patterns and tendencies, specifically concerning women in positions of influence in politics and media.

Prerequisite(s): LING 210 or PSYC 315, third year standing, and/or permission of instructor. (0-0; 3-0)

MCOM 474 Language and Gender (3 sem. hrs.)
A survey course of the central themes in the study of gender-differentiated language use, such as differences in conversational practice, conversational differences in mixed talk and single-sex talk, as well as the complexity in intimate talk between men and women.

NB: Summer sessions only.

Prerequisite(s): LING 210 or PSYC 315 or third or fourth year media and communication standing.

MCOM 490 Directed Studies in Media and Communication (3 sem. hrs.)

Students are required to produce an outline of the topics to be studied in consultation with the instructor. A course of reading and writing is pursued according to the approved outline.

NB: In keeping with University policy, students are not allowed to do a directed study in a course currently offered by the Media and Communication Department.

Prerequisite(s): 12 sem. hrs. lower level Media and Communication courses and instructor's consent.

MCOM 491 Transformational Development and Leadership (3 sem. hrs.)

This course provides opportunity for the articulation of transformational leadership (both cultural and personal). Students become wise to effective leadership communication as they examine worldview, history, and economic challenges in various global regions.

This course explores underlying cultural and faith-based worldviews by means of an interdisciplinary travel study. Specifically, the course explores social and humanitarian responses to critical social issues. Through readings, lectures (including field practitioners and experts), and field experiences, students are exposed to the complex nature of human problems and societal responses.

Students seek to understand critical social issues in light of cultural, environmental, economic, political, and historical frameworks. Of particular interest is the manner in which religious worldview shapes one's response to the disadvantaged, and how the transformational model informs leadership behavior and the development process.

NB: This course functions as an alternative to IDIS 400. For the Kenya travel study, students may take this alone or as a second course.

Cross-listed: IDIS 450.

Prerequisite(s): Upper level standing (minimum of 70 sem. hrs.) and instructor's consent. 286

This course builds on knowledge and laboratory practice of clinical skills related to the basic nursing care of individuals. It focuses on knowledge, clinical and health assessment skills, including biological, psychological, social and spiritual dimensions of health. It emphasizes techniques to gather health related data, including taking a health history and performing a physical examination, with the purpose of identifying patient care needs and formulating a plan of care.

Prerequisite(s): successful completion of 1st semester of nursing program. (0-0; 0-4)

NURS 124 Communication and Covenantal Caring (2 sem. hrs.)

Concepts of communication are explored with an emphasis on the skills and competencies nurses require to build strong interpersonal relationships in the workplace. Nurse-patient relationships, inter-personal communication in the patient care settings, and communication skills with inter-professional patient care teams are examined, including how these relate to Christian values and beliefs. The focus of this course is safe patient communication.

Prerequisite(s): NURS 113, 114, 117. (0-0; 2-0)

NURS 127 Health Promotion and Primary Health Care (3 sem. hrs.)

This course introduces broad concepts of health promotion as a process of enabling people to increase control over, and to improve, their health. It introduces a range of social and environmental interventions used in promotion and protection of health, harm reduction, and prevention of disease. It introduces experiential learning and health teaching related to wellness and healthy living.

Prerequisite(s): 100 level nursing courses and other non-nursing prerequisites designated on curricular pattern. (0-0; 2-4)

NURS 200 Nursing Therapeutics I (3 sem. hrs.)

Introduction to nursing therapeutics as single or multiple interventions by the nurse in the care of well and ill clients and patients. Emphasis is on nutritional and pharmacological interventions and related education in the context of care of adults and older adults.

Prerequisite(s): 100 level nursing courses and other non-nursing prerequisites designated on curricular pattern. (3-0; 0-0)

NURS 212 Nursing Care of Older Adults (3 sem. hrs.)

This course focuses on knowledge and skills essential for the care of older adults, including physiological, psychological, social, and spiritual dimensions of health and well-being. The class provides an overview of chronic disease challenges from a positive aging perspective and explores gerontological nursing in light of gender, socio-economic, cultural, and developmental determinants.

Prerequisite(s): 100 level nursing courses and other non-nursing prerequisites designated on curricular pattern. (0-0, 3-0)

Co-requisite(s): NURS 213

NURS 213 Clinical Practice: Adult Health I (3 sem. hrs.)

This course focuses on experiential learning in the provision of nursing care for older adults. Emphasis is on the delivery of safe, client-centred and evidence-informed healthcare in a variety of settings. Clinical reasoning is emphasized in assessment, planning, implementation and evaluation of nursing care.

Prerequisite(s): 100 level nursing courses and other non-nursing prerequisites designated on curricular pattern. (0-0, 0-8)

Co-requisites: NURS 212

NURS 224 Evidence Informed Practice (3 sem. hrs.)

Introduction to concepts of evidence-informed nursing practice, including the use of research and research findings in nursing practice.

Prerequisite(s): Math 108; 100 level nursing courses and other non-nursing prerequisites designated on curricular pattern. (0-0; 3-0)

NURS 227 Global Health, Humanitarian and Christian Missions (3 sem. hrs.)

This course focuses on global health, humanitarianism and Christian missions. Emphasis is on broad determinants of health of diverse populations, comparative health care systems and the role of the health care provider in mission and resource-constrained environments. Concepts of cultural context, sensitivity, awareness, knowledge, competence, and safety are emphasized with a focus on critical approaches to humanitarianism and Christian missions.

Prerequisite(s): NURS 100 level courses and other non-nursing prerequisites designated on curricular pattern. Permission to participate in this course may be granted on an individual basis for students from other disciplines or educational institutions. (0-0; 0-3)

NURS 230 History of Nursing (3 sem. hrs.)

This course examines the development of Canadian nursing over the past four centuries, with an emphasis on the 20th century. Based on an understanding of nursing as rooted in a Christian ethos of caring for strangers, this course critically explores the ways in which religion, politics, gender, race, economics, technology, culture, war, and epidemics have influenced the development of nursing both nationally and globally.

NB: This course is an elective and is not offered every year.

Cross-listed: HIST 230

Prerequisite(s): None (3-0; 3-0)

NURS 232 Nursing Care of Adults (3 sem. hrs.)

Concepts of nursing care are applied to the care of adults experiencing acute, chronic, and palliative conditions. Human physiological, psychological, social, and spiritual responses to illness and health are emphasized together with concepts of adult health promotion. Students apply the nursing process in planning and providing care in acute care and community-based settings.

Co-requisite(s): NURS 233

Prerequisite(s): 100 level nursing courses and other non-Nursing prerequisites designated on curricular pattern. (3-0; 0-0)

NURS 233 Clinical Practice: Adult Health II (4 sem. hrs.)

This course focuses on experiential learning in the provision of nursing care for adults with common acute and chronic illnesses. Emphasis is on the delivery of safe, client-centered and evidence informed healthcare to adult clients in diverse settings. Clinical reasoning is emphasized in assessment, planning, implementation and evaluation of nursing care.

Co-requisite(s): NURS 232

Pre-requisite(s): 100 level nursing courses and other non-nursing prerequisites designated on curricular pattern (0-0; 3-0)

NURS 300 Nursing Therapeutics II (3 sem. hrs.)

This course builds on NURS 223: Nursing Therapeutics I. It evaluates, applies and integrates principles of nursing therapeutics as single or multiple interventions by the nurse in the care of well and ill clients and patients. Emphasis is on nutritional and pharmacological interventions and related education in the context of care of mental health, childbearing families, and children.

Prerequisite(s): 100 and 200 level nursing courses and other non-nursing prerequisites designated on curricular pattern. (3-0; 0-0)

NURS 312 Nursing Care and Mental Health (3 sem. hrs.)

Concepts of nursing care as related to mental health throughout the life cycle. Physiological, psychological, emotional, social, and spiritual responses to mental illness and the promotion and restoration of mental health are the emphasis of this course. Students apply the nursing process in planning and providing care in institutional and community-based settings.

Co-requisite(s): NURS 313

Prerequisite(s): 100 and 200 level nursing courses and other non-nursing prerequisites designated on curricular pattern. (3-0; 0-0)

NURS 313 Clinical Practice: Mental Health (3 sem. hrs.)

This course focuses on experiential learning in the provision of nursing care for clients with common acute and chronic mental health conditions. Emphasis is on the delivery of safe, client-centered and evidence-informed healthcare to clients in diverse settings. Clinical reasoning is emphasized in assessment, planning, implementation and evaluation of nursing care.

Co-requisite(s): NURS 312

Prerequisite(s): 100 and 200 level nursing courses and other non-nursing prerequisites designated on curricular pattern. (0-9; 0-0)

NURS 317 Community Health (3 sem. hrs.)

Concepts of community as partner, social cultural diversity, and social justice are applied to nursing care in communities. Health promotion and restoration of health are the focus of nursing care for communities and vulnerable populations.

Prerequisite(s): NURS 100, 200 level courses and other non-nursing prerequisites designated on curricular pattern. (3-0; 0-0)

Co-requisite(s): NURS 318

NURS 318 Clinical Practice: Community Health (3 sem. hrs.)

This course focuses on experiential learning in community. Emphasis is on collaborative assessment, planning, implementation and evaluation of health care within diverse community settings.

Co-requisite(s): NURS 317

Prerequisite(s): NURS 100, 200 level courses and other non-nursing prerequisites designated on curricular pattern (0-9; 0-0)

NURS 322 Nursing Care of Childbearing Families (3 sem. hrs.)

Concepts of nursing care are related to the health care of women, newborns, children, and families during the childbearing years.

Co-requisite(s): NURS 323

Prerequisite(s): 100, 200 level courses and other non-nursing prerequisites designated on curricular pattern. (0-0; 3-0)

NURS 323 Clinical Practice: Family Health I (3 sem. hrs.)

This course focusses on experiential learning in the provision of nursing care for childbearing families. Emphasis is on the delivery of safe, client-centered and evidence-informed healthcare to women, newborns, and their families during the childbearing years. Clinical reasoning is emphasized in assessment, planning and implementation and evaluation of nursing care.

Co-requisite(s): NURS 322

Prerequisite(s): 100, 200 level nursing courses; and other non-nursing prerequisites designated on curricular pattern (0-0; 0-9)

NURS 342 Nursing Care of Children and Families (3 sem. hrs.)

Concepts of nursing care are related to families managing acute and chronic conditions in home and hospital settings. Nursing process, family theory, child health, family health, and family-centred care principles are related to care to emphasize health promotion and health maintenance activities.

Co-requisite(s): NURS 343

Prerequisite(s): 100, 200 level nursing courses; and other non-nursing prerequisites designated on curricular pattern. (0-0; 3-0)

NURS 343 Clinical Practice: Family Health II (3 sem. hrs.)

This course focuses on experiential learning in the provision of nursing care of children and their families. Emphasis is on the delivery of safe, client-centered and evidence-informed healthcare to children and their families in diverse settings. Clinical reasoning is emphasized in assessment, planning, implementation and evaluation of nursing care.

Co-requisite(s): NURS 342

Prerequisite(s): NURS 100 and 200 level courses, and other non-nursing prerequisites designated on curricular pattern. (0-0; 0-9).

NURS 400, 401 Directed Studies in Nursing (1-3 sem. hrs.)

Admission to a directed studies course is at the sole discretion of the Dean. These courses may be used for remediation or to develop a specific area of student interest.

NURS 412 Nursing Care of Adults with Complex Illness (3 sem. hrs.)

Concepts of nursing care are examined as they relate to the complex care needs of adults recovering from surgical procedures, as well as the needs of their families. Complex care refers to consideration of factors that influence wellness in the midst of illness, facilitate an understanding of related pathophysiology, and promote an awareness of cultural and other influences in health care.

Co-requisite(s): NURS 413

Prerequisite(s): NURS 100, 200, 300 level courses and other non-nursing prerequisites designated on curricular pattern. (3-0; 0-0)

NURS 413 Clinical Practice: Adult III (4 sem. hrs.)

This course focuses on experiential learning in the provision of nursing care for adults with complex acute and chronic illnesses who are recovering from surgical procedures. Emphasis is on the delivery of safe, client-centered and evidence-informed healthcare to adult clients. Clinical reasoning is emphasized in assessment, planning, implementation and evaluation of nursing care.

Co-requisite(s): NURS 412

Prerequisite(s): NURS 100, 200, 300 level courses and other non-nursing prerequisites designated on curricular pattern. (0-12; 0-0)

NURS 424 Professional Ethics (3 sem. hrs.)

Key elements of professional nursing practice are explored through reading and discussion and applied in the development of a personal professional practice model. These key elements include theoretical and theological foundations of nursing, application of relevant theory to practice, critical analysis of pertinent nursing issues, ethical thinking and decision making, therapeutic relational aspects of client care, and responsible communication with clients, colleagues, and the public.

Prerequisite(s): NURS 100, 200, 300 level courses and other non-nursing prerequisites designated on curricular pattern. (0-0; 3-0)

NURS 434 Leadership in Nursing Care (3 sem. hrs.)

Key concepts and processes of leadership are explored as they apply to nursing and health care. Students have the opportunity to examine and develop leadership skills required in contemporary nursing practice. Exercises promote the development and application of values and philosophies of nursing leaders within a Christian world view.

Prerequisite(s): 100, 200, 300 level nursing courses and other non-nursing prerequisites designated on curricular pattern. (0-0; 3-0)

NURS 443 Clinical Practice: Consolidation (6 sem. hrs.)

Concepts of nursing care are applied to the provision of acute, rehabilitative, or palliative nursing care and health promotion in acute or community placements.

NB: Pass/Fail course.

Prerequisite(s): NURS 100, 200, 300 level courses and other non-nursing prerequisites designated on curricular pattern. (0-0; 0-30)

Nursing, Graduate Courses

NB: The following courses are part of the Master of Science in Nursing Graduate Program. For further information about courses see the School of Graduate Studies section or contact the M.S.N. Graduate Program director.

Core Courses

NURS 510 Foundations of Nursing Knowledge (3 sem. hrs.)

An exploration of the historical and current trends in nursing theory and philosophy. Students explore the role of models, meta-paradigms, concept analyses and middle range theories in relation to traditional and emerging views of science. Issues and controversies within nursing philosophy are introduced with emphasis on understanding the relevance of these debates for both the health care system and the discipline of nursing.

Prerequisite(s): Undergraduate nursing research course or equivalent. Summer.

NURS 520 Knowledge Synthesis (3 sem. hrs.)

This course addresses the principles of knowledge synthesis as the basis for informing nursing theory and practice. Students broaden their understanding of different kinds of evidence while learning the skills of locating, coding, synthesizing, and applying evidence from research studies. Students learn to draw on Christian values and principles to critically reflect on the implications of evidence-based knowledge for theory and practice.

Prerequisite(s): Undergraduate nursing research course (or equivalent). Summer.

NURS 530 Nursing Inquiry I (3 sem. hrs.)

An entry-level course in understanding the philosophical foundations of nursing inquiry and evidence with a focus on qualitative methods. Students explore the inquiry process in the context of the following methods: phenomenology, grounded theory, ethnography, critical inquiry, narrative analysis, historical and philosophic inquiry. The processes of data collection, analysis, and interpretation are examined. Attention is given to Christian values and principles in relation to research ethics and the applicability of research findings to the various contexts of nursing practice.

NURS 540 Statistical Literacy and Quantitative Research (4 sem. hrs.)

This course addresses principles of nursing inquiry and evidence with a focus on quantitative design and statistical literacy. Students will broaden their understanding of quantitative research methods and enhance their ability to analyze quantitative data and interpret statistical results for answering research questions of relevance to nursing theory and practice.

Prerequisite(s): Undergraduate nursing research course (or equivalent); introductory course on statistics; first year M.S.N. courses as designated on curricular plan. (0-0; 4-0)

NURS 550 Health Care Policy (3 sem. hrs.)

A broad overview of the policy process and its application to health care. Reflecting on Canadian priorities, concerns, and obligations, health care issues are analyzed with a specific focus on policy, politics and influence. The roles of nursing and nurse leaders in health policy development, implementation, and advocacy for the health and social needs of the public are critically evaluated. A required on-site residency at the Laurentian Leadership Centre in Ottawa exposes students to the key people and process of health care policy at federal and international levels. International policy, through WHO and other agencies, is examined for its relationship to federal policy and for global perspectives on health and nursing.

Prerequisite(s): NURS 510. (0-0; 3-0)

NURS 607 Nursing Topics (3 sem. hrs.)

This graduate course critically examines issues related to nursing knowledge and advanced professional practice. Topics may vary, depending on student interest and professor availability. Sample topics include: Issues in Nursing History and Issues in International Nursing.

Prerequisite(s): Eligible for admission to Master of Science in Nursing program.

NURS 631: ANP I: Perspectives on Advanced Nursing Practice (Gerontology) (3 sem. hrs.)

This course presents an overview of advanced nursing practice in Canada and the international community, with a population focus of gerontology. Starting with an exploration of the evolution of advanced nursing practice, the course examines professional and socio-political contexts of care and delivery, leading to a study of current and future issues affecting advanced nursing practice. The interrelated roles of advanced nursing practice—clinician, consultant, educator, researcher, and leader—frame our discussion. A clinical project is central to the course and students will require access to a gerontology practice site.

Prerequisite(s): Completion of first year M.S.N. core courses

NURS 632: ANP II: Themes in Care (Gerontology) (3 sem. hrs.)

Building on ANP I (Gerontology), this course focuses on applying advanced nursing practice competencies (practice, education, collaboration/consultation, research, leadership) to the spectrum of health and illness from a positive aging perspective. Themes in care frame our discussion of health and illness patterns:

health promotion, risk mitigation, illness management, and disease prevention. Discussions include consideration of vulnerable populations for care coordination by the advanced practice nurse within specific context of care delivery. A clinical project is central to the course and students will require access to a gerontology practice site.

Prerequisite(s): NURS 631

NURS 633 Health Care Ethics and Decision Making (3 sem. hrs.)

This course provides students with a solid framework for addressing ethical issues and ethical decision making. Through a contextualized approach that draws on a variety of ethical theories, learners in this course critically analyze a range of issues facing leaders in health care settings, including micro or individual level decisions (e.g., treatment withdrawal) to meso or organizational level questions (e.g., resource allocation pertaining to organ donation or restructuring decisions), to macro or social level issues (e.g., public health policy that focuses on prevention rather than treatment, or the challenge of conflicting worldviews in a pluralistic society). Exploration of moral leadership and the processes of ethical decision-making includes Christian principles, personal values, and professional obligations. Resources such as the profession's code of ethics and moral policy-making statements are utilized in addition to ethical theories.

Prerequisite(s): NURS 510.

Cross-listed: LDRS 633. (3-0; 0-0)300

Electives

NURS 611 Perspectives on Nursing Education (3 sem. hrs.)

An overview to the history, theory, research, ethics, and issues shaping nursing leadership in Canada and international health communities. Utilizing thoughtful Christian perspectives, students critically explore the history of leadership in health care, and the sociopolitical context in which it operates, and the attributes of morally good leaders, analyze current and future issues affecting health care leadership, and apply the role of nursing leadership to that context.

Prerequisite(s): First year M.S.N. courses as per curricular plan. (3-0; 0-0)

NURS 612 Learning/Teaching in Nurse Education (3 sem. hrs.)

A practical focus on the competencies required to facilitate learning in nursing education. Students explore pedagogical concepts and techniques in classroom and clinical contexts including constructing syllabi, lesson plans, clinical learning experiences and evaluative measures, with attention to Christian perspectives.

Prerequisite(s): First year M.S.N. courses as per curricular plan; NURS 611. (3-0; 0-0)

NURS 621 Perspectives on Nursing Leadership (3 sem. hrs.)

An overview to the theory, research, and issues shaping nursing leadership in Canada and international health communities. Students will explore the history of leadership in health care, and the sociopolitical context in which it operates; analyze current and future issues affecting health care leadership, and apply the role of nursing leadership to that context. Nurses who bring disciplinary nursing knowledge about health promotion, patient responses to illness, inter-personal and inter-professional communication, population health, and the social contexts of health and illness together with emerging knowledge regarding health care organizations and leadership theory are in a unique position to provide highly effective leadership to today's changing, complex health care environments.

Prerequisite(s): First year M.S.N. courses as per curricular plan. (3-0; 0-0)

NURS 622 The Skills of Nursing Leadership (3 sem. hrs.)

A practical focus on the competencies required for nursing leadership. Students have the opportunity to develop leadership skills necessary for today's complex health care environments, which take into account Christian values and principles. Building on their existing practice expertise, students explore ways to innovatively incorporate emerging research, theory and practice concepts into a particular field of health care leadership practice, including (but not limited to) health care administration and operational management. Emphasis is placed on concepts such as values clarification, engagement and relationship building, patient advocacy, inter-professional communication and team building, quality improvement, and the ethics of leadership.

Prerequisite(s): First year M.S.N. courses as per curricular plan; NURS 621. (3-0; 0-0)

NURS 631: ANP I: Perspectives on Advanced Nursing Practice (Gerontology) (3 sem. hrs.)

An overview to the history, research, ethics, and issues affecting advanced nursing practice in Canada and internationally. Attention is paid to Christian values and principles as students explore the history of advanced nursing practice and the inter-professional and sociopolitical contexts in which it operates. The interrelated domains of advanced nursing practice (ANP) practice, consultation, education, research, and leadership are explored in the context of older adult care, as well as ANP practice roles such as clinical nurse specialist, clinician, and professional practice leader. Attention is given to the moral issues surrounding aging, including end-of-life issues.

Prerequisite(s): First year M.S.N. courses as per curricular plan. (3-0; 0-0)

NURS 632: ANP II: Themes in Care (Gerontology) (3 sem. hrs.)

An advanced practice course with a specialty focus on older adult nursing care across the spectrum of health and illness. Students develop expertise about role of nurses in the contexts of primary care, home care, parish nursing, long-term care, and palliative-hospice care. Utilizing faith-based perspectives, fundamental concepts pertaining to primary health care, chronic disease management, and the supportive needs of older adults and their families are emphasized.

Prerequisite(s): First year M.S.N. courses as per curricular plan; NURS 631. (3-0; 0-0)

Capstone Project

NURS 690 MSN Thesis 1 (3 sem. hrs.)

The thesis provides an opportunity for the student to conduct independent nursing research in an area of interest. The process of research—from identification of problem for investigation, research design, data collection and analysis, to written report of findings—is the focus.

Prerequisite(s): All first year M.S.N. courses as per curricular plan.

NURS 691 MSN Thesis II (3 sem. hrs.)

The thesis provides an opportunity for the student to conduct independent nursing research in an area of interest. The process of research—from identification of problem for investigation, research design, data collection and analysis, to written report of findings—is the focus.

Prerequisite(s): All first year M.S.N. courses as per curricular plan.

NURS 692 Knowledge Translation Project I (3 sem. hrs.)

A synthesis of research, theory, and practice within the student's stream, substantive area of focus, and particular practice setting. Students work alongside a mentor in practice (e.g., education, administration, or advanced practice with the older adult) to design, implement, and evaluate a knowledge translation project that will be of service to the health care community (either practice or education).

Prerequisite(s): All first year M.S.N. courses as per curricular plan.

NURS 693 Knowledge Translation Project II (3 sem. hrs.)

A synthesis of research, theory, and practice within the students' stream, substantive area of focus, and particular practice setting. Students work alongside a mentor in practice (e.g., education, administration, or advanced practice with the older adult) to design, implement and evaluate a knowledge translation project that will be of service to the health care community (either practice or education).

Prerequisite(s): All first year M.S.N. courses as per curricular plan.

NURS 695 M.S.N. Thesis Continuation Status (0 sem. hrs.)

Philosophy

PHIL 103 Introduction to Logic (3 sem. hrs.)

An analysis of the use of reasoning in ordinary language. Students are introduced to deductive logic by learning how to recognize arguments by identifying some common fallacies and by learning several methods of assessing the quality of arguments. Both traditional and modern methods of determining deductive validity, including a formal theory of inference, are studied.

Prerequisite(s): None. (3-0 or 3-0)

PHIL 105, 106 Introduction to Philosophy (3, 3 sem. hrs.)

An introduction to questions addressed by philosophers: the relationship between perception and knowledge (appearance and reality); the 302 existence and nature of God; human freedom and determinism; the meaning of human existence; the nature of moral judgments; the mind/body problem; artificial intelligence; feminist philosophy; the problem of suffering; and whether humans are capable of selfless motivation.

Prerequisite(s): None. (3-0; 3-0)

PHIL 108 Philosophy of Society and Law (3 sem. hrs.)

An introduction to the philosophy of society and law. In this exploration of the relation between society and the law, the first half of the course begins with an historic survey of the debates over the meaning of the law from antiquity to the present. The second half of the course reviews legal cases which have provoked, or are still provoking, debates over the meaning of law and society.

Prerequisite(s): None. (3-0 or 3-0)

PHIL 109 Critical Thinking: Informal Logic (3 sem. hrs.)

An introduction to critical thinking/writing and informal logic in practical settings. This course examines the value of rational thinking in the face of everyday challenges, e.g., problem solving, making informed decisions, and evaluating whether a statement is true. Students dissect examples of good and poor reasoning, analyze informal fallacies, detect hidden assumptions and irrelevant premises in arguments, determine where an argument's burden of proof lies, and practice transferring critical thinking skills to their writing skills.

Prerequisite(s): None. (3-0 or 3-0)

PHIL 111 History of Western Philosophy: Ancient and Medieval Period CP (3 sem. hrs.)

A survey of the teachings of the great philosophers of the West, from the discovery of physics by the Pre-Socratics, to the culmination of medieval Scholasticism (i.e. in John of St. Thomas), with a special emphasis on developments in the philosophy of religion.

NB: Course taught at Catholic Pacific College, an approved TWU learning centre.

Prerequisite(s): None. (3-0; 0-0)

PHIL 203 Ancient Greek Wisdom (3 sem. hrs.)

An examination of key contributions to Greek philosophy, especially the writings of Plato and Aristotle.

Prerequisite(s): None. (3-0 or 3-0)

PHIL 210 Contemporary Ethical Issues (3 sem. hrs.)

An examination of some basic ethical theory and a critical focus on some current moral issues such as consumerism, technoculture, environmental ethics, responsibility to distant peoples, genetic engineering and cloning, and the promise and peril of nanotechnology. The emphasis is on clarifying the issues, exploring various views on these and relevant supporting arguments, and exposing important underlying assumptions.

Prerequisite(s): Second year standing or instructor's consent. (3-0 or 3-0)

PHIL 220 Philosophy of Sex and Gender (3 sem. hrs.)

This course explores the central commitments characteristic of feminist and masculinist thought and praxis, seeking to identify and critically engage the various ways these highly diverse, academically entrenched, and socially influential movements have constructed the politically and theologically charged categories of sex and gender. Topics include sexism, historical overviews of feminist and masculinist movements, competing definitions of sex and gender, the body and subjectivity, language and power, and religion and the politics of identity.

NB: Not offered every year. See department chair.

Prerequisite(s): Second year standing.

PHIL 303 Medieval Philosophy CP (3 sem. hrs.)

This course explores philosophical issues in the West from the second to the 14th century, in particular the impact of Greek philosophy on the development of Christian thought. There are three natural stages of this interaction: 1) Defensive philosophy (apologetics): responses to rational objections brought to bear against Christianity; 2) Methodology: reflection on the interaction between faith and reason, and, in particular, the nature of theology as a science; and 3) Constructive philosophy: struggles from within over a systematic metaphysics and ethics. A central theme of the course is the role of the doctrine of creation in the image of God.

NB: May not be offered every year. Course taught at Catholic Pacific College, an approved TWU learning centre.

Prerequisite(s): 3 sem. hrs. of philosophy. (3-0; 0-0)

PHIL 304 Philosophy of St. Thomas Aquinas CP (3 sem. hrs.)

This course studies key texts from Thomas Aquinas. The focus is on the Summa Theologiae of Thomas Aquinas, but special attention is paid to his commentaries on Aristotle and on his Christian interpretation of ancient philosophy. The challenge that modern science and modern philosophy presents to Thomistic metaphysics is also discussed, with special attention paid to the highly influential critique made by Immanuel Kant.

NB: Course taught at Catholic Pacific College, an approved TWU learning centre.

Prerequisite(s): 3 sem. hrs. of philosophy. (3-0; 0-0)

PHIL 305 Philosophy of the Human Person CP (3 sem. hrs.)

This course addresses what it means to say that human beings are persons having freedom and subjectivity; examines the different powers of the human person, including the powers of understanding, willing, feeling, and loving; studies the difference between body and soul, as well as the unity of the two in humans; and explores the question of the immortality of the soul. Some classic texts from the tradition of Western philosophy are read.

NB: Course taught at Catholic Pacific College, an approved TWU learning centre.

Prerequisite(s): 3 sem. hrs. of philosophy. (3-0; 0-0)

PHIL 310 Issues in Social Justice (3 sem. hrs.)

An examination of ethical issues that pertain to social justice, addressing such topics as the distribution of wealth, affirmative action and quotas, sexual equality, gay rights, the morality of war, punishment, and responsibility.

Cross-listed: POLS 310; PHIL 510.

Prerequisite(s): 3 sem. hrs. of philosophy or political studies or third year standing. (3-0 or 3-0)

PHIL 313 British Empiricism (3 sem. hrs.)

A study of empiricist philosophy in the 16th and 17th centuries. Selected writings of Hobbes, Locke, Berkeley, and Hume are analyzed and interpreted. As we discuss each author's ideas, we will evaluate their positions on: the limits of knowledge and experience, the intelligibility of revelatory truth, the existence of God, the divisibility of reality, the role of nature, and the ethics and politics of human life.

NB: Not offered every year. See department chair.

Prerequisite(s): 6 sem. hrs. of philosophy. (3-0 or 3-0)

PHIL 314 Reason and the Enlightenment (3 sem. hrs.)

A study of rationalist philosophy in the European Enlightenment period of the 17th and 18th centuries. Selected writings of Descartes, Spinoza, and Leibniz are analyzed and interpreted. As we discuss each author's ideas, we will evaluate their positions on: the limits of reason, the intelligibility of revelatory truth, the existence of God, the divisibility of reality, the role of nature, and the ethics and politics of human life.

NB: Not offered every year. See department chair.

Prerequisite(s): 6 sem. hrs. of philosophy. (3-0 or 3-0)304

PHIL 315 Kant (3 sem. hrs.)

A study of the philosophy of Immanuel Kant, focusing primarily on Kant's seminal work, Critique of Pure Reason.

NB: Not offered every year. See department chair.

Prerequisite(s): 9 sem. hrs. of philosophy. (3-0 or 3-0)

PHIL 320 Social and Political Philosophy (3 sem. hrs.)

An examination of foundational ideas and problems in political life and thought. Both classical and contemporary texts are used. Concepts treated include the state, the citizen, democracy, liberty, equality, authority, obligation, and disobedience.

Cross-listed: POLS 320.

Prerequisite(s): 3 sem. hrs. of philosophy or political studies or third year standing. (3-0 or 3-0)

PHIL 333 Philosophy of Literature (3 sem. hrs.)

This course surveys major ancient, medieval, modern, and postmodern approaches that attempt a theory of literature. The course places modern and postmodern theories in historical perspective by reading key ancient and medieval authors. In particular, resources from the Latin Scholastic tradition most relevant to contemporary debates about literary theory are highlighted.

NB: Not offered every year.

Prerequisite(s): 3 sem. hrs. of philosophy.

PHIL 340 Moral Philosophy (3 sem. hrs.)

The problem of determining standards of right and wrong as well as the problem of determining what is of value in itself. The moral theories of prominent philosophers, both ancient and modern, are examined.

NB: Not offered every year. See department chair.

Prerequisite(s): 3 sem. hrs. of philosophy (PHIL 106 or 210 are recommended). (3-0 or 3-0)

PHIL 350 Symbolic Logic (3 sem. hrs.)

A study of the propositional calculus, quantification theory, the theory of definite descriptions, and other topics in modern symbolic logic.

NB: Not offered every year. See department chair.

Prerequisite(s): PHIL 103 or instructor's consent. (3-0 or 3-0)

PHIL 370 Aesthetics (3 sem. hrs.)

An analysis of the aesthetic experience arising from our response to visual art, architecture, music, and literature. Topics discussed include the nature of beauty, theories of art, and the question of objective standards of evaluation of art objects and nature.

NB: Not offered every year. See department chair.

Cross-listed: SAMC 370.

Prerequisite(s): Third or fourth year standing or 3 sem. hrs. of philosophy or instructor's consent. (3-0 or 3-0)

PHIL 380 Philosophy of Science (3 sem. hrs.)

An examination of some of the central philosophical issues raised by science. Topics include scientific method, explanations and laws in science, scientific progress, confirmation, and the structure of scientific theories.

NB: Not offered every year. See department chair.

Prerequisite(s): Third or fourth year standing or PHIL 103 or instructor's consent. (3-0 or 3-0)

PHIL 383 Reason and Belief in God (3 sem. hrs.)

A survey of central issues arising from the question, Is belief in God rational? Topics include arguments concerning the existence of God, religious pluralism, natural science and religious belief, religious language, and critiques of natural theology from Kierkegaard and Reformed Epistemology.

Cross-listed: RELS 383.

Prerequisite(s): 3 sem. hrs. of philosophy or third year standing. (3-0; 3-0)

PHIL 384 Suffering and Belief in God (3 sem. hrs.)

An examination of key issues pertaining to suffering and belief in God. Topics include the problem of evil, arguments from suffering, original sin, everlasting suffering, and providence.

Cross-listed: RELS 385.

Prerequisite(s): 3 sem. hrs. of philosophy or third year standing. (3-0; 3-0)

PHIL 390 Existentialism (3 sem. hrs.)

Questions having to do with the meaning, nature, and predicament of human existence: the problem of truth and values, the meaning of human activity, existential angst (anxiety), freedom and responsibility, God, alienation, interpersonal relationships, death, despair, authentic and inauthentic modes of living, etc. Key figures include Kierkegaard, Nietzsche, Heidegger, and Sartre, as well as some literary works by Dostoevsky, Hemingway, and Kafka.

NB: Not offered every year. See department chair.

Prerequisite(s): Second year standing or 3 sem. hrs. of philosophy. (3-0 or 3-0)

PHIL 412 Issues in Contemporary Philosophy (3 sem. hrs.)

Central issues arising in 20th century philosophy, particularly within the Anglo-American analytic movement. Recent topics have included the rise and demise of logical positivism, the philosophy of Wittgenstein, Rorty's attack on the Mirror of Nature, and issues raised by continental European philosophy.

NB: Not offered every year. See department chair.

Prerequisite(s): 9 sem. hrs. of philosophy and third year standing. 3 sem. hrs. of philosophy and third year standing. (3-0 or 3-0)

PHIL 415 Contemporary Political Philosophy (3 sem. hrs.)

This course examines the political thought of 20th century political philosophers, primarily from the Western political tradition. Attention is given to selected primary and secondary literature of contemporary political theorists. Systematic examination of different theorists encourages a broader understanding of the rich tradition of political philosophy in the 20th century.

Cross-listed: POLS 415.

Prerequisite(s): 6 sem. hrs. of political studies including POLS 101. (3-0 or 3-0)

PHIL 418 Social and Political Concepts of Community in Contemporary Political Theory (3 sem. hrs.)

Provides the student with an in-depth study of the social and political concepts of community. Attention is focused on how recognition of community brings into play the tension between individual and collective/group rights. Course lectures, reading assignments, and in class discussion provide an overview of the following topics: interpretation/hermeneutics of community, roots of community theory, myth of community, quest for community, Christian community, recognition of minority communities in politics, problems associated with the concept of community, recognition of group rights, the liberal-communitarian debate over community, and problems associated with communitarian theory.

Cross-listed: POLS 418.

Prerequisite(s): 6 sem. hrs. of philosophy and third year standing. (3-0 or 3-0)

PHIL 420 Authors (3 sem. hrs.)

A study of a major philosopher or philosophical system. Involving substantial reading and the writing of a major paper, the course is available by special request to students who already have at least a minor in philosophy, on a directed study basis.

NB: Not offered every year. See department chair.306

Prerequisite(s): Philosophy major or instructor's consent. (3-0 or 3-0)

PHIL 421 Postmodern Philosophy (3 sem. hrs.)

An in-depth investigation into major postmodern texts. Authors considered include Nietzsche, Foucault, Derrida, and their critics. The philosophical, political, religious, and cultural implications of both modernism and postmodernism are explored.

NB: Not offered every year. See department chair.

Prerequisite(s): 6 sem. hrs. of philosophy and third year standing. (3-0 or 3-0)

PHIL 430 Honours Thesis (3 sem. hrs.)

A 40-60 page paper on a topic of the student's choosing (subject to departmental approval) on an important philosophic issue or thinker. An oral defence and a library-acceptable copy are required. This course is to be taken in the final year by all Honours students in Philosophy.

Prerequisite(s): 4th year standing; acceptance into the Philosophy Honours program; completion of PHIL 420 in previous semester. (3-0 or 3-0)

PHIL 460 Philosophy of Language (3 sem. hrs.)

This course surveys central issues in philosophy of language, including: theories of truth and reference, the relationship between language, thought, and mind, constructivist and structuralist accounts of language. A sub-theme for the course is the relationship between the philosophy of language and other core areas of philosophy.

Prerequisite(s): 6 sem. hrs. of philosophy, or instructor's consent. (0-0; 3-0)

PHIL 470 Philosophy of Knowledge and Rational Belief (3 sem. hrs.)

A descriptive and critical inquiry into the theory of knowledge, including such topics as foundationalism, relativism, evidence, warrant, cognitive reliability, skepticism, and the relationship of cognitive science and psychology to philosophical accounts of knowledge and rational inquiry.

NB: Not offered every year. See department chair.

Prerequisite(s): 9 sem. hrs. of philosophy and third year standing. (3-0 or 3-0)

PHIL 483 The Evidential Force of Religious Experience (3 sem. hrs.)

Examines the place of evidence in religion and assesses the evidential force of religious experience. Such experiences as near-death experiences, visions, conversions, mystical states of consciousness, and other topics that have garnered ongoing public attention are discussed.

NB: Not offered every year. See department chair.

Cross-listed: RELS 483.

Prerequisite(s): Third year standing and 6 sem. hrs. of philosophy or instructor's consent. (3-0 or 3-0)

PHIL 490 Philosophy of Mind (3 sem. hrs.)

A study of the mind-body problems through consideration of various philosophical theories on the nature of human consciousness. The relevance of mystical and religious experience, of parapsychological phenomena, and of neurophysiological findings to the mind-body problem are examined.

NB: Not offered every year. See department chair.

Prerequisite(s): 6 sem. hrs. of philosophy or third year standing.

Philosophy, Graduate Courses

PHIL 510 Issues in Social Justice (3 sem. hrs.)

An examination of ethical issues that pertain to social justice, addressing such topics as the distribution of wealth, affirmative action and quotas, sexual equality, gay rights, the morality of war, punishment, and responsibility. The course discusses these issues within the larger context of the modern state's power to define what "social justice" is.

PHIL 511 Kant (3 sem. hrs.)

A study of the philosophy of Immanuel Kant, focusing primarily on Kant's seminal work, Critique of Pure Reason.

PHIL 512 20th Century Philosophy

This course acquaints students with important philosophical developments in Western Anglo-

American philosophy during the 20th century. These include analytic philosophy, ordinary language philosophy, and recent developments questioning the traditional value and role of philosophy. The writings of major philosophers are studied throughout, and emphasis is placed upon epistemological, metaphysical, and linguistic issues. Some attention is given to examining the relationships between these philosophical movements and others, e.g., those that characterize postmodernism. Attention is occasionally given to points that carry implications for Christian faith.

PHIL 513 British Empiricism

A study of empiricist philosophy in the 16th and 17th centuries. Selected writings of Hobbes, Locke, Berkeley, and Hume are analyzed and interpreted. As we discuss each author's ideas, we will evaluate their positions on: the limits of knowledge and experience, the intelligibility of revelatory truth, the existence of God, the divisibility of reality, the role of nature, and the ethics and politics of human life.

PHIL 514 Reason and the Enlightenment

A study of rationalist philosophy in the European Enlightenment period of the 17th and 18th centuries. Selected writings of Descartes, Spinoza, and Leibniz are analyzed and interpreted. As we discuss each author's ideas, we will evaluate their positions on: the limits of reason, the intelligibility of revelatory truth, the existence of God, the divisibility of reality, the role of nature, and the ethics and politics of human life.

PHIL 515 Contemporary Political Philosophy (3 sem. hrs.)

An examination of 20th century political philosophy through reading of texts by major contemporary political philosophers.

PHIL 520 Social and Political Philosophy (3 sem. hrs.)

Provides an examination of foundational ideas and problems in the entire Western tradition of political philosophy. While undertaking close readings of major texts of this tradition, the course evaluates classical, medieval, and modern approaches to the state, the citizen, democracy, liberty, equality, authority, obligation, natural right, and disobedience. Also seeks to understand the applicability of these ideas as Christians facing the challenges of the 21st century.

PHIL 521 Postmodern Philosophy (3 sem. hrs.)

An in-depth survey of postmodern thinkers and their philosophy. Authors considered include Nietzsche, Foucault, Derrida, and their critics. The philosophical and religious implications of both modernism and postmodernism are explored.

PHIL 550 Symbolic Logic (3 sem. hrs.)

This course acquaints students with the elements of symbolic logic and its methods of deduction, including: the quantificational calculus, definite descriptions, identity, and the logic of relations. The significance of symbolic logic is examined in relation to logical atomism as advanced early in the 20th century by Ludwig Wittgenstein and Bertrand Russell.

PHIL 560 Philosophy of Language (3 sem. hrs.)

Examines a range of topics within philosophy of language. Includes an overview of several works considered classics in the field (e.g. Wittgenstein, Quine, Searle, Alston, Grice), as well as critical review of major schools of thought in regard to language and criticism. Insights from linguistics and related disciplines, 308 including textlinguistics and sociolinguistics, are considered in evaluating the schools of thought.

PHIL 570 Philosophy of Knowledge and Rational Belief (3 sem. hrs.)

A descriptive and critical inquiry into the theory of knowledge, including such topics as foundationalism, relativism, evidence, warrant, cognitive reliability, skepticism, and the relationship of cognitive science and psychology to philosophical accounts of knowledge and rational inquiry.

PHIL 571 Aesthetics (3 sem. hrs.)

Sensitizes students to the value, pleasures, and risks of the human imagination and explores different views on the nature, value, and meaning of artworks and of aesthetic experience. Surveys various notions of beauty and explores some of the reasons why beauty has become incidental to the arts and aesthetics in general. Examines some of the central philosophical notions and theories that are essential to an informed grasp of the field of aesthetics and a brief history of views of the nature, value, and role of imagination in artistic creation.

PHIL 573 Reason and Belief in God (3 sem. hrs.)

A survey of central issues arising from the question, “Is belief in God rational?” Topics include arguments concerning the existence of God, religious pluralism, natural science and religious belief, religious language, and critiques of natural theology from Kierkegaard and Reformed Epistemology.

PHIL 583 Religious Experience Seminar (3 sem. hrs.)

Examines the place of evidence in religion and assesses the evidential force of religious experience and related phenomena. The main body of the course addresses the evidential force of such experiences as near-death experiences, visions, mystical states of consciousness, as well as the Shroud of Turin as a unique religious artifact. Surveys some major contributors to the critical study of religious experience, e.g.: William James, Rudolf Otto, and R.C. Zaehner, and examines competing theories for religious phenomena, e.g., psychological and neurophysiological explanations for near-death and visionary experiences.

PHIL 584 Suffering and Belief in God (3 sem. hrs.)

Examines some key issues pertaining to suffering and belief in God. Topics include the problem of evil, arguments from suffering original sin, everlasting suffering, and providence.

PHIL 590 Philosophy of Mind (3 sem. hrs.)

Deals with questions such as: What are we referring to when we speak of mind? What is the nature of the human mind? Does it have a nature? Does it exist as something separate from the human brain? Is it a property of the human brain? Is it identical to the human brain? Or is it merely an abbreviated way of talking about bodily behaviours? More particularly, how is our phenomenologically rich and existentially weighted point of view on the world related to the neurophysiological conditions that underwrite it (or as one writer put it, “how is the water of the brain transubstantiated into the wine of consciousness?”)? How does the way we understand the answers to these questions inform Christian belief that humans bear God’s image? And how does theology bear on our understanding of our bodies’ relationship to our minds?

PHIL 591 Existentialism

Explore primary source material from five major (atheist and theist) existentialist philosophers, excerpts of existentialist fiction, a book that offers an overview of the common themes of existentialism, and another rife with existentialist themes that helps readers assess their own degree of existential alienation. Students engage in daily discussions and lectures on the material read.

Students write two papers: a book review and a research paper, and keep a journal tracking their intellectual, emotional, and spiritual journey through class readings and lectures. In small groups, students discuss and share their insights and struggles with existentialism.

PHIL 600 CORE SEMINAR on Human Nature: Competing Philosophical Views (3 sem. hrs.)

This course examines some of the most influential views of human nature advanced by philosophers in the history of Western civilization, and explores the implications of these views for ethics, epistemology, political philosophy, and metaphysics.

PHIL 603 Social Ethics Seminar (3 sem. hrs.)

Examines ethical questions concerning life and death. Special emphasis is placed on understanding and evaluating moral and legal perspectives on these questions, within the larger tradition of Western philosophy, and in the face of the current technological revolution. Issues include: the moral status of humans, the meaning of personhood, sanctity of life versus quality of life, genetic engineering, reproductive technologies, euthanasia and physician-assisted suicide, abortion.

PHIL 607 Special Topics in Philosophy (3 sem. hrs.)

Topics may vary. Courses offered to date:

- Existence, Truth, and Possibility
- Medieval Cosmology
- Empiricism
- Neoplatonism and Early Christianity
- Foundations of Ethics

PHIL 610 Research Design/Seminar (3 sem. hrs.)

Under the direction of the student's approved thesis advisor, a course of reading and study which leads to the development of both a significant bibliographical essay (or annotated bibliography) and a thesis proposal. The latter includes at least the following: major question(s) to be addressed; significance of the issue(s); methodologies to be used; theories to be addressed and primary sources to be examined.

PHIL 611/612 Thesis (3 sem. hrs.; 3 sem. hrs.)

PHIL 613 Major Essay (3 sem. hrs.)

Under the direction of a supervisor, students not pursuing thesis research will write a major paper of approximately 10-15,000 words in length.

PHIL 621 Philosophical Perspectives on Religious Pluralism

This course surveys and engages central philosophical issues relevant to assessing normative religious pluralism.

PHIL 635 20th Century Analytic Philosophy (3 sem. hrs.)

Since philosophy's roots in ancient Greece, philosophers have traditionally utilized critical analysis and the tools of reason and logic in pursuing answers to philosophical questions. However, the analytic focus of contemporary philosophy has been shaped most significantly by the philosophical tradition launched by Bertrand Russell, G.E. Moor, and Gottlob Frege at the dawn of the 20th century.

Pre-requisite(s): Admission to the MAIH program. (3-0 or 3-0)

PHIL 645 Philosophy and Religion (3 sem. hrs.)

Explores the foundations of religious belief and faith, particularly the issue of the rationality of religion. The role of methodology is examined, including the value of deductive, inductive, and abductive reasoning; also the question whether the method applicable to religious belief is unique to it. The work of recent philosophical theologians and their critics is examined and evaluated.

PHIL 665 Philosophy of Competing Paradigms (3 sem. hrs.)

This course examines the triumph of secular naturalism in academic/educated culture, and proposes rational grounds for advancing historic Christian theism. Trinitarian faith is viewed here as having the structure of theories that postulate the existence of unobservable objects. These theories adopt a unique method of “defining” the entities or beings postulated to exist; this 310 method is shown to be compatible with historic theism. Moreover, the Resurrection of Jesus is identified as the central tenet for which evidence additional to that found Holy Scripture is needed in our secular context. The Shroud of Turin and contemporary visions of Jesus are shown to offer such evidence. While no objection is registered to allowing science to explore any features of the Universe, Christian theism is presented as supplementing such scientific knowledge.

PHIL 675 Metaphilosophy (3 sem. hrs.)

This course examines the character of Philosophy as an academic discipline, with particular attention to the kinds of claims that are central to its inquiry, such as Logic, Metaphysics, Epistemology, Ethics, and Aesthetics. The feasibility of the claim that Philosophy is an “objective” discipline, and that its contributions are as significant as the “factual” matters handled in any social or natural science, are examined. Various subfields within Philosophy are given special attention, including Ethics, Logic, Epistemology, and Metaphysics.
Physics

PHYS 111 Fundamentals of Physics I (3 sem. hrs.)

The basic principles of Newtonian mechanics: three-dimensional kinematics, dynamics of particles and rigid bodies including work, energy, momentum, and rotational motion, simple harmonic motion and fluids.

Co-requisite: MATH 123.

Prerequisite(s): Physics 12. (Students without Physics 12 may take this course with instructor’s consent.) (3-3; 0-0)

PHYS 112 Fundamentals of Physics II (3 sem. hrs.)

The basic principles of classical electromagnetism and waves: mechanical waves, Coulomb’s law, electric fields, Gauss’s law, Faraday’s law, AC circuits, electromagnetic waves, geometrical optics.

Prerequisite(s): PHYS 111, MATH 123. (0-0; 3-3)

PHYS 210 Conceptual Modern Physics (3 sem. hrs.)

A survey of the development of scientific theories, emphasizing the ideas that emerged in physics in the 20th century. The course is designed so that general audience students become engaged with the conceptual aspects of topics in relativity and quantum mechanics.

NB: Not offered every year. See Department chair.

Prerequisite(s): Second year standing. (3-0; 0-0)

PHYS 215 Stellar and Galactic Astronomy (3 sem. hrs.)

An introduction to stellar and galactic astronomy, and to the tools and techniques of astronomy. Discussion of the types of stars and their formation, energy production, and end states; the nature of nebulae, star clusters, black holes, galaxies, and quasars; modern cosmology; astrobiology. Several daytime and night-time observation sessions are undertaken. Historical, philosophical, and Christian theological perspectives are considered.

NB: Not offered every year. See department chair.

Prerequisite(s): Second year standing. (3-0; 0-0)

PHYS 220 Mechanics (3 sem. hrs.)

Topics in classical mechanics, including particle motion in three dimensions, noninertial reference frames, central forces, rigid body motion, Lagrange's equation of motion, and Hamilton's variational principle.

NB: Not offered every year. See department chair.

Prerequisite(s): PHYS 111; MATH 223. (0-0; 3-0)

PHYS 230 Electricity and Magnetism (3 sem. hrs.)

Electric fields and potentials of static charge distributions, currents, magnetic fields and the vector potential, electromagnetic induction, electric and magnetic energy, electromagnetic properties of matter.

NB: Not offered every year. See department chair.

Prerequisite(s): PHYS 112; MATH 223. (0-0; 3-3)

PHYS 240 Physical Chemistry (3 sem. hrs.)

Introduction to thermodynamics as applied to chemical reactions. The First and Second Laws of Thermodynamics, free energy and equilibria, phase equilibria and electro-chemistry.

NB: Not offered every year. See Department chair.

Cross-listed: CHEM 240.

Prerequisite(s): CHEM 111, 112; or CHEM 103, 112; or CHEM 103, 104 with instructor's consent; MATH 123, 124. (3-4 or 3-4)

PHYS 310 Topics in Modern Physics (3 sem. hrs.)

Introduction to the special theory of relativity; the principles of quantum mechanics and its interpretation; aspects of atomic, nuclear and particle physics; and cosmology.

NB: Not offered every year. See department chair.

Prerequisite(s): PHYS 112; MATH 223. (3-0 or 3-0)

PHYS 320 Digital Electronics and Instrumentation (3 sem. hrs.)

To provide students with a working knowledge of basic semiconductor devices and gates and their use for implementing logic devices and simple measurement and control functions, and to provide experience in constructing and using circuit diagrams and test/measurement equipment.

NB: Not offered every year. See department chair.

Prerequisite(s): CMPT 141; MATH 124; PHYS 230; or instructor's consent. (3-3 or 3-3)

PHYS 321 Differential Equations (4 sem. hrs.)

First order differential equations, linear differential equations, Laplace transforms, systems of differential equations, non-linear systems, series solutions, introduction to partial differential equations. Special emphasis is placed on applications to physics and engineering.

NB: Not offered every year. See department chair.

Cross-Listed: MATH 321.

Prerequisite(s): MATH 223, 250. (4-0 or 4-0)

PHYS 341 Advanced Physical Chemistry (3 sem. hrs.)

The fundamental concepts of matter and its structure in relation to energy. Quantum mechanics, statistical thermodynamics, spectroscopy, kinetics, and the solid state.

NB: Not offered every year. See department chair.

Cross-listed: CHEM 341.

Co-requisite: MATH 223.

Prerequisite(s): CHEM 240. (3-4; 0-0)

PHYS 360 Optics (3 sem. hrs.)

Geometrical and physical optics: reflection and refraction, interference, coherence, polarization, diffraction, lasers, and holography.

NB: Not offered every year. See department chair.

Prerequisite(s): PHYS 230. (3-3 or 3-3)

PHYS 400 Directed Studies in Physics (3 sem.

hrs.)

Students are required to produce an outline of one topic to be studied in consultation with the instructor. A course of reading and/ or experimentation is pursued according to the approved outline. Assessment may be via examination and/or a final written report.

NB: This course can only be taken with instructor's consent.

Prerequisite(s): Advanced standing in physics 312

Political Studies

POLS 101 Introduction to Political Thinking (3 sem. hrs.)

An introduction to the basic concepts, institutions, and ruling ideas in political thought and action. Through the study of classic political texts, competing concepts like equality and freedom, justice and power, are introduced within the context of conflicting ideologies like liberalism, socialism, and conservatism. The meaning of citizenship in postmodern contemporary liberal democracies are examined and contrasted with competing visions of the good society.

Prerequisite(s): None. (3-0 or 3-0)

POLS 211 International Politics (3 sem. hrs.)

This course examines the ways in which states and other actors in the international system deal with each other: the evolution of the international system, the nature of foreign policy, the dynamics of international bargaining, and the changing role of force as an instrument of foreign policy. The contribution of international organizations, international law, political integration, and multilateral diplomacy to the creation of a more just international order are also discussed.

Prerequisite(s): None. (3-0 or 3-0)

POLS 234 Canadian Government and Politics in Comparative Perspective (3 sem. hrs.)

Provides the student with an overview of the Canadian system of government in a comparative approach that includes study of British, American, and Canadian political and government institutions and practices. It offers a comparative study of how basic concepts, principles, and institutions associated with different expressions of liberal-democratic governments highlight the diversity of political experience, reveal the interdependence of political systems, and show the uniqueness of Canada's political system. Particular attention is given to the manner in which Canada's Parliament attempts to facilitate and develop public policy that reflects the diverse interests and aspirations of its citizens.

Cross-listed: SOCI 234.

Prerequisite(s): None. (3-0 or 3-0)

POLS 250 Classical Political Philosophy (3 sem. hrs.)

Examines the impact of Christianity on Western thought with respect to politics and political philosophy. It explores the unique encounter between Jerusalem and Athens that has been described as the "secret vitality of the West." Special attention is paid to the disagreement or conflict between a theological and philosophical approach to the study of political life.

Prerequisite(s): POLS 101. (3-0 or 3-0)

POLS 305 Political Analysis (3 sem. hrs.)

This course provides a survey of empirical research methods, especially qualitative and quantitative methods, used in descriptive and explanatory political analysis. The course work is oriented towards the practical use of these methods through such issues as research design in political analysis; the preparation of a literature review; the use of quantitative survey techniques and case studies methods; interviewing techniques; and the ethics of policy research.

Prerequisite(s): POLS 101 and 211 or 234, or instructor's consent. (3-0 or 3-0)

POLS 308 Political Economy of Developing Nations (3 sem. hrs.)

This course provides an analysis of the relationship of government policies and economic development in selected Asian, African, and Latin American countries. Topics include the role of leadership and public policy; challenges of development; obstacles to democratization; and the interaction of domestic and global political/economic structures.

Prerequisite(s): POLS 101 and 211, or instructor's consent. (3-0 or 3-0)

POLS 310 Issues in Social Justice (3 sem. hrs.)

An examination of ethical issues that pertain to social justice, addressing such topics as the distribution of wealth, affirmative action and quotas, sexual equality, gay rights, the morality of war, punishment, and responsibility.

Cross-listed: PHIL 310/510.

Prerequisite(s): 3 sem. hrs. of political studies or philosophy; or third year standing. (3-0 or 3-0)

POLS 312 Globalization and Global Governance (3 sem. hrs.)

Examines the causes and consequences of globalization and the transitional institutions established to cope with this process. The course examines the meaning of global governance and how this differs from governance of domestic societies. It also identifies the significant international institutions involved in global governance and assesses their contribution. The role of various international governmental and non-governmental organizations are studied in relation to such issues as global trade, the environment, human rights, economic development, and international migration.

Prerequisite(s): POLS 101 and 211, or instructor's consent. (3-0 or 3-0)

POLS 314 International Political Economy (3 sem. hrs.)

A study of the globalization of the world economy and the political factors that shape this process. Students become familiar with the recent history of international trade, global economic relations, and the role of various players in foreign economic policy making. Using case studies of representative governments, students explore models of fiscal and monetary policy and types of trade protection. Other topics include: political factors affecting emerging and transitional economies; role of trade groupings; impact of multinational corporations; negotiations in the World Trade Organization; and the problems related to global industries, such as airlines or oil.

Prerequisite(s): POLS 101 and 211, or instructor's consent. (3-0 or 3-0)

POLS 320 Social and Political Philosophy (3 sem. hrs.)

An examination of foundational ideas and problems in political life and thought. Both classical and contemporary texts are used. Concepts treated include the state, the citizen, democracy, liberty, equality, authority, obligation, and disobedience.

Cross-listed: PHIL 320.

Prerequisite(s): 3 sem. hrs. of political studies or philosophy; or third year standing. (3-0 or 3-0)

POLS 330 Law and Canadian Politics (3 sem. hrs.)

This course provides students with an overview of important themes in Canadian law: its sources, theories of jurisprudence, federalism and the courts, and how the legal framework and the Supreme Court decisions shape public discourse in Canada on political issues. Through the examination of milestone court cases, particularly Supreme Court decisions since the Charter of Rights and Freedoms (1981), the symbiotic relationship between the judiciary and the legislative branches of government are established.

Prerequisite(s): POLS 101 and 234. (3-0 or 3-0)

POLS 332 Issues in the History of British Columbia (3 sem. hrs.)

The history of British Columbia from its earliest beginnings to the late 1980s. The province's move from regionalism, to provincialism, to internationalism by examining many of the social, cultural, political, and economic forces of change which shaped the "West Beyond the West" in Canada. Specific aspects of BC's history that particularly enlighten us about the character of the region, its unique place in Canadian history, and how these events have shaped the Province today.

NB: Not offered every year. See department chair.314

Cross-listed: HIST 332.

Prerequisite(s): 6 sem. hrs. of Political Studies including POLS 234, or instructor's consent. (3-0 or 3-0)

POLS 334 Issues in Canadian Government and Politics (3 sem. hrs.)

Provides the student with a detailed examination of the political issues that divide and unite Canadians. Course topics include discussion of alternative theoretical approaches to Canadian politics; regionalism, citizenship, and political participation; the French-English Cleavage; provincialism versus federalism; aboriginal politics; gender and class issues; the United States' and Canada's uneasy relationship; multiculturalism and bilingualism as key indicators of Canadian political culture; the Executive in Parliament dispute; legislative politics and judicial interpretation; and law and constitution.

Cross-listed: HIST 334.

Prerequisite(s): 6 sem. hrs. of political studies including POLS 234, or instructor's consent. (3-0 or 3-0)

POLS 335 Development of the Canadian Constitution (3 sem. hrs.)

A survey of the historical development of the Canadian Constitution from 1867 to the present. The course covers the search for an amending formula and the patriation of the Constitution; the evolving nature of the federation; the Meech Lake Accord; the Charlottetown Accord; the October 26 Referendum; Western demands for major changes to the Senate and other national institutions of the federation; and the unfinished constitutional agenda. It also examines the profound effect on law and public policy development resulting from the Canadian Charter of Rights and Freedoms.

NB: Not offered every year. See department chair.

Cross-listed: HIST 335.

Prerequisite(s): 6 sem. hrs. of political studies including POLS 234, or instructor's consent. (3-0 or 3-0)

POLS 340 Issues in Canadian—First Nations Relations (3 sem. hrs.)

The history of First Nations in Canada from pre-contact to the present time. Broad economic, social, and political themes that intersect with the history of Canada's original peoples, including early encounters, fur trade economy, governmental policy, missionization, education, reservations, and co-sovereignty. It surveys the major eras, highlighting the observations and experiences of First Nations in Canada.

NB: Not offered every year. See department chair.

Cross-listed: HIST 340.

Prerequisite(s): 6 sem. hrs. of political studies including POLS 234, or instructor's consent. (3-0 or 3-0)

POLS 352 Government and Politics of the United States (3 sem. hrs.)

An introduction to American politics, including the major branches of government: the presidency, the Congress, and the Supreme Court. The dynamics of American political institutions and their interaction. The prime emphasis is on national politics, particularly the interaction of the executive and legislative branches, including presidential decision-making.

NB: Not offered every year. See department chair.

Cross-listed: HIST 352.

Prerequisite(s): 6 sem. hrs. of political studies including POLS 234, or instructor's consent. (3-0 or 3-0)

POLS 355 American Foreign Policy (3 sem. hrs.)

A study of principal themes in United States foreign policy with in-depth review of post-Second World War Presidential periods. Students analyze the causes and results of American policy choices in the context of evolving world order. The course explores philosophy and leadership styles.

(Formerly RELS 461)

Prerequisite(s): Two of RELS 101, 102, or 160. (3-0; 0-0)

RELS 382 The Catholic Church: Theology and Practice CP (3 sem. hrs.)

This course focuses on the theological, liturgical, and spiritual traditions that undergird the Catholic Church and which continue to form her self-understanding. Historically, this course explains and evaluates the development of the Catholic doctrine of the Church in terms of its roots in Scripture and Tradition, and with a particular emphasis on the Pauline understanding of the Church as the Body of Christ, and selected readings from the Church Fathers, as well as developments in Catholic understanding of the Church in different historical periods and social contexts. It also examines the Church in terms of her ongoing mission to the contemporary world implied by Catholic doctrine. Spiritually, this course exams the distinctive teaching of the Second Vatican Council's "universal call to holiness" which ultimately serves to integrate doctrine and life in each member of the Church. Analysis of these themes is undertaken in dialogue with the perspectives of other Christian traditions, and in the light of the constructive critique they can offer.

NB: Course taught at Catholic Pacific College, an approved TWU learning centre.

Prerequisite(s): RELS 160

RELS 383 Reason and Belief in God (3 sem. hrs.)

A survey of central issues arising from the question, "Is belief in God rational?" Topics include arguments concerning the existence of God, religious pluralism, natural science and religious belief, religious language, and critiques of natural theology from Kierkegaard and Reformed Epistemology.

Cross-listed: PHIL 383.

Prerequisite(s): 3 sem. hrs. of philosophy or third year standing. (3-0; 3-0)

RELS 384 Religion, Contextualization, and Culture Change (3 sem. hrs.)

A study of the history of contextualization from biblical to modern times, exploring significant models and paradigms of prominent thinkers and evaluating these adaptations and innovations. Also, the social and spiritual dynamics of culture change are examined, with a view to analyzing those processes that help to make the Gospel relevant in the constantly changing world in which we live.

Prerequisite(s): RELS 285. (3-0 or 3-0)

RELS 385 Suffering and Belief in God (3 sem. hrs.)

An examination of key issues pertaining to suffering and belief in God. Topics include the problem of evil, arguments from suffering, original sin, everlasting suffering, and providence.

Cross-listed: PHIL 384.

Prerequisite(s): 3 sem. hrs. of philosophy or third year standing. (3-0; 3-0)

RELS 386 Global Theologies (3 sem. hrs.)

This course seeks to extend the study of theology to the manner in which non-Western communities of Christians endeavour to shape their world by their faith. Special emphasis is given to examining Christology and Soteriology from a cross-cultural perspective and to the manner by which both Western and non-Western traditions may interact to enrich hermeneutics, missiology, and biblical and systematic theology.

Prerequisite(s): RELS 285 or instructor's consent. (0-0; 3-0)

RELS 387 Christian Theology in Ecumenical Dialogue CP (3 sem. hrs.)

A survey and analysis of the main achievements of the ecumenical theological dialogue process among the Christian churches, and the significant challenges still facing that dialogue today. This course utilizes texts from Catholic, Protestant Evangelical, Eastern Orthodox, and Anglican sources, and guest lecturers from Catholic, Evangelical, and Orthodox traditions.

NB: Course taught at Catholic Pacific College, an approved TWU learning centre.

Prerequisite(s): RELS 160. (0-0; 3-0)332

RELS 388 Christian Church and Sacraments CP (3 sem. hrs.)

This course provides an introduction to the Christian understanding of the doctrine of the Church and the Sacraments. This course provides an in-depth look at the origins, development, and theological significance of the doctrine of the Church and studies the classical Christian understanding of the sacraments of Baptism, Confirmation, the Eucharist (Lord's Supper), Penance and Reconciliation, Anointing the Sick, Holy Orders and Matrimony. Given that the Catholic and Protestant traditions understand the fundamental theological sources differently, the course emphasizes their common commitment to Sacred Scripture, while explaining their divergent perspectives with regard to the role of tradition. The course outlines the central importance of the doctrine of the Church to the Christian life, and presents both Catholic and Evangelical perspectives on these issues.

NB: Course taught at Catholic Pacific College, an approved TWU learning centre.

RELS 473: The Theology of Thomas Aquinas and John Paul II RP (3 sem. hrs.)

This course takes an in-depth look at the theological vision of the two most influential Catholic theologians of the second Christian millennium: St. Thomas Aquinas and Pope John Paul II. The main features of St. Thomas's synthesis of Christian thought, especially as found in his great Summa Theologiae, is explored. This is followed by an examination of the "personalist" Thomism of Pope John Paul II, and his program for the renewal of the Catholic Faith, especially as found in selected encyclicals and apostolic letters. The vision and world view of St. Thomas Aquinas and John Paul II are presented as significant and enduring achievements of Christian thought.

NB: Course taught at Catholic Pacific College, an approved TWU learning centre.

Prerequisite(s): RELS 160 or equivalent with permission of instructor. (3-0; 0-0)

RELS 475 Christianity and Culture (3 sem. hrs.)

This course examines important aspects of Christianity's involvement in western culture. Alternative models and historical examples of this involvement are considered as well as some specific current issue related to Christian cultural activity.

RELS 476 Christian World views in Historical and Cultural Context (3 sem. hrs.)

The nature and scope of a Christian world view. Some salient moments in the history of Christian world view thinking, and in particular in the Reformational tradition of the past two centuries. Implications of views of Christ's lordship for various spheres of life, such as politics, art, science, and the environment. Personal responses to the challenges for a Christian world view in today's pluralist society.

NB: This course functions as an alternative to IDIS 400. Students may not take both this course and IDIS 400 for credit.

Prerequisite(s): At least one RELS course with a second number from 6 to 9; also third or fourth year standing and completion of at least 70 sem. hrs. of study by end of preceding semester. (0-0; 3-0)

RELS 477 New Testament Canon: Development and Theology (3 sem. hrs.)

Investigates the theological implications of the historical development of the New Testament canon. Stress is laid upon the contextual reading of primary source evidence and its interpretation in important secondary source literature. New Testament canon development is explored as it relates to the Rule of Faith, the early councils, creeds, and the church fathers. These relationships are then investigated with a view toward how they influence our understanding of Scripture in the 21st century.

Prerequisite(s): RELS 160 or HIST 361 or RELS 362. (0-0; 3-0)

RELS 478 Atonement Theology in Contemporary Context (3 sem. hrs.)

An exploration into the doctrine of the atonement, both in its historical and contemporary settings. This course explores how the cross is God's answer to human sin and oppression and also discusses the advantages and disadvantages of the traditional atonement models and the implications of atonement theology for the Church and contemporary society.

NB: Not offered every year. See department chair.

Prerequisite(s): RELS 101, 102; 160. (0-0; 3-0)

RELS 482 Historical Perspectives on Reformation and Post-Reformation Thought (3 sem. hrs.)

A re-evaluation of the issues involved in the origin of the 16th century Protestant Reformation and the subsequent development of Calvinist thought: justification by faith, covenant theology, and election. An analysis of why Calvinists and Arminians were unable to overcome their differences, and how Reformed scholasticism went beyond John Calvin's insights.

NB: Not offered every year. See department chair.

Cross-listed: HIST 482.

Prerequisite(s): RELS 101, 102; 160; and at least third year standing; or instructor's consent. (3-0; 0-0)

RELS 611 Advanced Old Testament Exegesis (3 sem. hrs.)

The principles of Hebrew exegesis are reviewed and applied to several examples of the genres found within the Old Testament.

Prerequisite(s): A minimum of two years of Hebrew. With the instructor's consent, second year Hebrew Readings may be taken as a co-requisite.

RELS 612 Advanced Old Testament Seminar (3 sem. hrs.)

Old Testament Seminar presupposes RELS 611 (or equivalent) and is offered every spring semester. Seminar topics are selected from the following: Old Testament Textual Criticism, Genesis, Exodus, Major Prophets, Minor Prophets, Daniel, Psalms, Chronicles and the Rewritten Bible, Inner-Biblical Exegesis, History of the Hebrew Bible, the Dead Sea Scrolls and the Hebrew Bible, and Old Testament Theology. Among other things, students are asked to research and report on various aspects of the seminar topic. One of the purposes of the course is to acquaint students with current issues in the field and to encourage the development of critical thinking.

RELS 621 Advanced New Testament Exegesis (3 sem. hrs.)

The principles of Greek exegesis are reviewed and applied to several examples of the genres found within the New Testament.

Prerequisite(s): A minimum of two years of Greek. With the instructor's consent, second year Greek Readings may be taken as a co-requisite.

RELS 622 Advanced New Testament Seminar (3 sem. hrs.)

New Testament Seminar presupposes RELS 621 (or equivalent) and is offered every spring semester. Seminar topics are selected from the following: Matthew, Luke-Acts, Prison Epistles, Hebrews, Old Testament Apocrypha and Pseudepigrapha, Apocryphal Gospels and the New Testament, the Septuagint and the New Testament, the Dead Sea Scrolls and the New Testament, the Targums and the New Testament, Anti-Semitism and the New Testament, and New Testament Theology. Students are asked to research various aspects of the seminar topic and report back to the seminar. One of the purposes of the course is to acquaint students with current issues in the field and to encourage the development of critical thinking.

RELS 631 The Deuteronomistic History (3 sem. hrs.)

This course reviews the emergence, aims, and interpretive techniques of the Deuteronomistic history, including the (re)interpretation of Mosaic, conquest and royal traditions. Of special interest is the presentation of the founding and confirming of the Davidic dynasty.

RELS 632 Historical Jesus (3 sem. hrs.)

This course reviews several of the most promising recent developments in Jesus research. Sources, the criteria of authenticity, Jesus' contemporaries, and Jesus' understanding of the Kingdom receive emphasis. Special attention is given to the Dead Sea Scrolls and their relevance for Jesus research.

RELS 633 Themes of the Pentateuch (3 sem. hrs.)

This course reviews the principal themes of the Pentateuch, emphasizing the presentation of Yahweh as Creator and covenant Maker. Critical interpretation of the Pentateuch, including the classic statement of the Documentary Hypothesis, is assessed.

RELS 634 Mark (3 sem. hrs.)

This course reviews recent research in the Gospel of Mark as it pertains to Mark's community and its interpretation of the Jesus tradition, as well as to the question of the historicity of Mark's presentation of the story of Jesus.³³⁸

RELS 640 Advanced Greek Readings (3 sem. hrs.)

This course exposes students to a variety of Greek texts that are important for understanding the language and literature of the Greek New Testament. These texts include the Septuagint, papyri, inscriptions, and various extra-biblical writings such as the apocryphal gospels. Students are led to appreciate the literary conventions and genres of the Greco-Roman world.

RELS 641 Isaiah (3 sem. hrs.)

This course reviews the historical prophet Isaiah and the political circumstances in which he lived. It also considers the subsequent formation of the Book of Isaiah, including its various components and perspectives, its unified message and various features of inner-interpretation.

RELS 642 Romans (3 sem. hrs.)

This course explores the nature of Paul's argument in his letter to the Roman Christians, with special emphasis on the apostle's scriptural defence of the Christian gospel and his understanding of the relationship of Gentiles to Israel.

RELS 643 Psalms (3 sem. hrs.)

This course examines the Psalms as the primary window into Israel's worship, especially during the pre-exilic period. Features of both corporate and individual faith are brought to light.

RELS 644 John (3 sem. hrs.)

This course reviews the various questions of sources, relationship to the Synoptic Gospels, Christology, use of the Old Testament, religious background, and early Jewish/Christian polemic.

RELS 645 Wisdom Literature (3 sem. hrs.)

This course offers an analysis of the biblical and intertestamental wisdom literature with a special emphasis on the Book of Ecclesiastes, i.e. Qohelet.

Prerequisite(s): Knowledge of Hebrew (RELS 245 and 246)

RELS 647 The Dead Sea Scrolls (3 sem. hrs.)

This course surveys the Dead Sea Scrolls and the light they shed on Second Temple Judaism and early Christianity. Themes of major sectarian scrolls are studied; recently published scrolls and fragments are evaluated.

RELS 648 Advanced Greek Studies (3 sem. hrs.)

This course introduces students to various technical features involved in the study of New Testament Greek. These studies include treatment of aspects of advanced Greek grammar, textual criticism, the influence of the Septuagint on the New Testament, the literary and linguistic influence of literary Greek on the New Testament, and the relevance of Greek study for New Testament exegesis.

RELS 649 Rabbinic Literature (3 sem. hrs.)

This course introduces the student to the most important rabbinic writings (e.g., Mishnah, Talmud, and the Midrashim). Sessions consist of readings and introductory lectures concerned with the origin and editing of this literature, its purposes, and the types of scriptural and logical arguments employed. Selected writings are studied in greater depth; depending on the makeup of the class, some passages are read in Hebrew and others in English.

RELS 650 Introduction to Biblical Archaeology (3 sem. hrs.)

This course is scheduled as the Summer session study tour of Israel (cf. RELS 350). It offers students the opportunity to study important topographical and archaeological sites, including digs in progress, and to view several important finds in the Israel National Museum.

RELS 652 Syriac (3 sem. hrs.)

The course offers students an introduction to Syriac. Although the emphasis falls on the Peshitta, students are exposed to other Syriac writings.

Prerequisite(s): A minimum of 6 sem. hrs. of Hebrew and may, at the instructor's discretion, require a minimum of 3 to 6 sem. hrs. of Aramaic.

RELS 655 Introduction to Aramaic (3 sem. hrs.)

This course, which presupposes a minimum of 6 sem. hrs. of Biblical Hebrew, offers students an introduction to Biblical, Qumranic, and Targumic Aramaic.

RELS 656 Readings in Aramaic (3 sem. hrs.)

This course, which presupposes RELS 655, guides students through selected readings in Biblical, Qumranic, and Targumic Aramaic.

RELS 658 Mishnaic and Qumranic Hebrew (3 sem. hrs.)

This course, which presupposes a minimum of 6 sem. hrs. of Hebrew, offers students an introduction to Mishnaic and Qumranic Hebrew and guides students through selected readings.

RELS 660 Biblical Interpretation in the 16th Century (3 sem. hrs.)

This course introduces students to the principles and practice of Biblical interpretation during the Reformation period. Of special interest are the commentaries and scriptural arguments in support of important doctrines.

RELS 670 Pre-Nicene Christianity (3 sem. hrs.)

A detailed examination of the background and development of Christian thought and life in the period spanning the Apostolic Fathers through to the Council of Nicaea (325). The course analyzes the complex formulation of Pre-Nicene Christianity through the writings of some of its most influential thinkers, leaders, and movements (both orthodox and heretical) with an eye toward identifying major developments in early Christian theology and practice. An attempt is also made to understand the variety of Christianities which contended for dominance as the church strove to define itself and to establish its place in the world.

Cross-listed: HIST 670.

RELS 671 Development of Christian Doctrine

Does Christian doctrine necessarily develop or is it delivered once and for all in the Bible? This question forms the main concern of this course as it exposes students to the idea of doctrinal development in Christian theology. Through a selection of ideas, persons, issues, and institutions that have contributed to the idea of doctrinal development it encourages students to grapple with the inevitable change of history as it relates to Christian doctrine.

Prerequisite(s): Graduate standing.

RELS 690 Research Design (1 sem. hr.)

Research Design introduces students to the principles of topic selection and thesis development. Special instructions regarding either Old Testament or New Testament thesis development are provided.

RELS 691 Thesis I (5 sem. hrs.)

In Thesis I, which presupposes RELS 690, the student, in frequent consultation with his/her advisor, selects a thesis topic and begins research. The completion of an annotated bibliography, a summary of relevant scholarly views, and original translation(s) of relevant primary texts are required.

RELS 692 Thesis II (6 sem. hrs.)

In Thesis II, which presupposes RELS 691, students work toward the completion of their thesis. Minimally, a first draft should be completed. No grade is assigned for RELS 692 until the thesis is finished, accepted, and successfully defended. If the thesis is not completed and defended in the spring semester or the following summer, the student is to continue in the program by registering for RELS 695. RELS 695 Continuous Registration (no credit) Continuous Registration maintains the student's enrolment in the program and is taken only when all required courses are completed and only as a continuation of the incomplete RELS 692. Although no credit is given for RELS 695 there is a fee charged for each semester, including the summer semester, of Continuous Registration.

This course paints a broad picture of society and culture in Latin America. Various aspects of culture are discussed, including topics such as history, art, politics, religion, sports, customs, and current events in the Hispanic world. Cultural readings, videos, and websites are used to stimulate discussion, add insight and knowledge, and develop the capabilities of the oral language. Conducted entirely in Spanish.

Prerequisite(s): SPAN 201, 202, or instructor's consent. (3-0; 3-0)

SPAN 315 Current Issues in South America: Conversational Focus (3 sem. hrs.)

This course has a dual purpose: to increase students' mastery of Spanish by developing their oral and written comprehension, verbal skills, and vocabulary; secondly, to introduce them to the broad spectrum of religious, social, political, and economic issues with which South Americans continuously wrestle. Students are exposed to these issues through readings and classroom discussions, and have the opportunity, through interaction with their homestay families, to discover how Christians deal with or react to the issues. It is expected that, by the end of the course, students will have improved their Spanish considerably and broadened their knowledge of the people and culture through direct interaction with the current issues that weigh upon the South American people.

NB: This course is offered as a travel study and is not available every year. Consult department chair.

Pre-requisite(s): SPAN 201, 202, or instructor's consent.

SPAN 320 Spanish Culture and Civilization (3 sem. hrs.)

Conducted entirely in Spanish, this course uses an historical approach to examine society and culture in Spain. Various aspects of Spanish culture and society are discussed: literary works, art, politics, religion, sports, customs, and current events. Cultural readings, newspaper and magazine articles, videos, and websites are used to stimulate discussion, add insight and knowledge, and develop the capabilities of the oral language.

Prerequisite(s): SPAN 201, 202. (3-0; 3-0)

SPAN 405, 406 Spanish Peninsular Literature (3, 3 sem. hrs.)

Survey courses covering selected major authors in Spanish Peninsular literature from the Middle Ages to the present. The historic and literary context of the works is presented and the influence of Christianity as a significant force shaping both literature and culture is examined. All major genres are included. SPAN 405 covers from the Middle Ages to the 18th century. SPAN 406 includes literature from the early 19th century to the present. Students consolidate their language skills through the critical reading of literary texts and the writing of compositions and essays.

Prerequisite(s): SPAN 302, or instructor's consent. (3-0; 3-0)

SPAN 410, 411 Hispanic Latin American Literature (3, 3 sem. hrs.)

Survey courses covering selected major authors from Spanish speaking Latin America, from pre-

Columbian times to the present. The historic and cultural context of the works is examined. SPAN 410 covers up to the mid-19th century. SPAN 411 covers literature from the end of the 19th century to the present. Students consolidate their skills through the critical reading of literary texts, along with written and oral work.

Prerequisite(s): SPAN 302, or instructor's consent. (3-0; 3-0)

SPAN 497, 498 Special Topics in Spanish Literature and Culture (3, 3 sem. hrs.)

Independent, but guided studies in specialized areas of interest.

Prerequisite(s): SPAN 302, or instructor's consent.

Study Skills

SKLS 001 Study Skills (0 sem. hrs.)

A non-credit course in study skills to assist students in study habits, comprehension, and improved academic achievement. Topics addressed in the Study Skills class are: time management; learning styles; note-taking; effective reading; memory techniques; test taking; procrastination and goal setting; critical thinking; and vocational direction. Study Skills 001 is open to all students and is offered in the fall and spring semesters in 10 one-hour sessions over 5 weeks starting Add/Drop week. This course is required for students on Academic Probation or Academic Accountability as per University policy.

SKLS 003 Academic Coaching (0 sem. hrs.)

A non-credit course that provides organizational assistance and educational coaching designed specifically to help students improve their academic performance based on their specific needs. Academic coaching is particularly recommended for students who are transitioning into the university from high school or from other cultures and want to maximize the first semester at TWU. General topics covered in the academic coaching program are academic planning, organization and time management, learning styles, exam preparation, research and writing, and procrastination. In addition, assessments are available for study strategies or personal / learning styles. Academic Coaching is open to any student and is offered in the fall and spring semesters. The coaching sessions occur weekly either in One-on-One or group coaching sessions. This course is required for students on Academic Accountability as per University Policy.

Teaching English to Speakers of Other Languages (TESOL), Graduate Program

NB: The following courses are part of the TESOL Graduate Program. For further information about course co-requisites, prerequisites, and when courses are offered, see the School of Graduate Studies section or contact the TESOL Graduate Program director.

LING 511 TESOL Methodology (3 sem. hrs.)

This course offers an overview of teaching strategies and methodology in TESOL. The focus is on teacher development, utilizing Christian values, and developing leadership skills in the field.

LING 512 Second Language Acquisition (3 sem. hrs.)

Second language learning and acquisition is an intricate process that involves the dynamic interaction of individual and social variables. This survey course considers a wide range of theories, models, and research that have been proposed to account for this process. Participants are guided to evaluate and consider the implications of different perspectives for second language teaching in a variety of contexts.

LING 513 Sociolinguistics (3 sem. hrs.)

The course examines language within its social context through dealing with topics such as dialect and language definition, the role of the mother tongue in defining self-identity, language attitudes, the maintenance, loss, shift or spread of language domains, multilingualism, and sociolinguistic survey. Also, a means of helping students develop realistic expectations and appropriate approaches for linguistic issues in cross-cultural field work, attention is given to an overview of language study within a worldview context, to sociolinguistic factors affecting literacy programs, and to methods of second language acquisition.

LING 514 Materials Evaluation and Design (3 sem. hrs.)

Students are exposed to a variety of ESL materials, and learn how to evaluate appropriateness and quality prior to implementation. Issues of audience need, philosophy, and application are discussed. Extension of published materials are examined

LING 517 Evaluation and Measurement in TESOL (3 sem. hrs.)

Students examine and evaluate various theories of testing in ESL. Methods of testing grammar, speaking, listening, reading, and writing skills are introduced; criteria for ensuring reliability and validity are explained and then used by students.

LING 518 Curriculum and Program Design (3 sem. hrs.)

This course is designed to enable students to design appropriate programs and course sets for ES/FL programs. In addition to examining general English programs, the course focuses on English for Specific Purposes and, in particular, needs analyses and custom course design.

LING 531 Issues in Applied Linguistics (1 sem. hr.)

This course introduces students to selected issues of contemporary significance in several areas in applied linguistics and second-language teaching. Students are expected to identify and develop knowledge in an area of their own personal interest in applied linguistics and second-language teaching.

LING 532 Teaching Young Children (1 sem. hr.)

Students examine the issues of teaching young children and develop strategies for teaching them.

LING 533 Teaching English Grammar (1 sem. hr.)

The course examines strategies for grammar instruction in ESOL. As well as evaluating techniques for teaching grammar, it includes discussion of the appropriate timing of grammar instruction within a curriculum, a syllabus, and student level.

LING 534 Computer Assisted Language Learning (1 sem. hr.)

The various theories underlying computer assisted ESOL instruction are examined and students find and evaluate net-based ESOL learning tools. Evaluation of the appropriateness of computer assisted learning software to various groups, language abilities, and levels of English ability are discussed. Application of CML to ESL is examined.

Cross-listed: LING 315.

LING 535 Teaching Beginners ESL (1 sem. hr.)

Practical demonstrations of various methods for teaching beginning students with an emphasis on communicative theory and activities. Resource materials appropriate for classroom activities.

Cross-listed: LING 314.

LING 536 Issues in TESOL and Missions (1 sem. hr.)

This course focuses on how teaching English as a second or foreign language can be integrated with the task of world missions. Issues like ethics and professionalism, assumptions about world missions, and implications for strategy are discussed.

Cross-listed: LING 319.

LING 537 Drama and TESOL (1 sem. hr.)

This hands-on, practical course provides an introduction to using theatre techniques in ESL classes. Students experience how effective and stimulating theatrical activities can be in the 348 ESL classroom. The instructor takes participants through a wide variety of drama techniques in language learning as well as various theatre games, improvisation, and mime. The course is intended for future, new, and established ESOL teachers.

Cross-listed: LING 318.

LING 540 Diversity in Language Education (3 sem. hr.)

This course teaches students to examine culture, acculturation, gender, and personal identity issues in the teaching of English. The approach to these issues is generally informed by critical applied linguistics, phenomenology, and integrationalist linguistics.

LING 611 Applied Phonology for TESOL (3 sem. hrs.)

This course examines a wide range of more advanced applications for phonological and phonetic frameworks. In addition to methods for teaching and integrating pronunciation in language teaching for several learner populations, from basic articulation training to discourse-level pronunciation instruction, students study relevant techniques from a number of academic disciplines which deal with relationships between speech, voice, body movement, and emotion.

LING 612 Research Methods in Applied Linguistics (3 sem. hrs.)

This course develops student understanding of quantitative and qualitative research methods and familiarize them with research issues and statistics related to applied linguistics. In addition, students are guided through the methodology of action research and the process of topic choice for the major project (to be done in the internship).

LING 613 Integrating the Four Skills (3 sem. hrs.)

In this course students survey current methods and models for integrating the teaching of speaking, listening, reading, and writing to one specific learner population. (This population should be the type of learner that students have worked with or hope to work with.)

LING 615 Classroom Observations I (1 sem. hrs.)

Guided classroom observation mediated through online discussions.

LING 624 Leadership in TESOL (3 sem. hrs.)

This course examines leadership from several perspectives in the field of TESOL, including program management, professional organizations, and teacher training.

LING 630 English for Academic Purposes (3 sem. hrs.)

This course surveys methods for preparing ESL students to function in academic English and classrooms where English is the language of instruction, especially in EFL (English as a foreign language) settings.

LING 632 Workplace and Vocational English (3 sem. hrs.)

Students examine issues in teaching English for specific purposes in the context of business and workplace English. They study the full range of EBP program implementation, from the principles of needs analysis and curricular design and implementation to developing program proposals for business clientele.

LING 633 Readings in Teacher Training (1 sem. hr.)

In this course, students do selected readings in the methodology of ESL teacher training, tailored to their field of specialization.

LING 640 Internship and Research Project (4 sem. hrs.)

A 100-hour teaching internship, including design of an action research project. With approval, students may elect to do the TESL Canada Level-3 Certificate option or the International Internship option, which is typically conducted outside of Canada.

LING 641 eMentor Consultation (2 sem. hrs.)

Students work with an eMentor, an accomplished professional in the field of ESL/EFL. Each eConsultation focuses on a different aspect of the student's internship, depending on the nature of the class setting of the internship. Likewise, eMentors are chosen based on the specialization of the student.

LING 642 ePortfolio (1 sem. hr.)

Students complete an initial ePortfolio based on their course work in the MA TESOL program and their accumulated professional experience thus far.

Theatre

THTR 101, 102; 301, 302; Production (1, 1 sem. hr.)

Students must fulfil assigned technical crew responsibilities during the semester. (0-1; 0-1)

THTR 161 Acting I: Foundations of Acting (3 sem. hrs.)

An introductory course orienting students toward open and aggressive participation in performance, utilizing theatre games, acting exercises, and improvisational techniques to remove barriers inhibiting free expression. This study includes an introduction to: objectives and actions, relationship and role play, the language of the theatre, relaxation and concentration, teamwork and listening skills, understanding environment and effective use of voice and body.

NB: Attendance at theatre performances is required.

Prerequisite(s): None. (3-0; 0-0)

THTR 162 Acting I: The Actor's Process (3 sem. hrs.)

Introduction to scene study and character development. Students learn the building blocks of effective acting by applying foundational acting theory to improvisation, scenes, and monologues. Students are expected to offer thoughtful critique of others' work, a vital part of the learning process.

NB: Attendance at theatre performances is required.

Prerequisite(s): THTR 161. (0-0; 3-0)

THTR 175 Voice and Movement I (3 sem. hrs.)

This course is designed to help students discover and develop the potential of their instruments—their voices and bodies. Voice work includes breath support, phonation, resonance, articulation and phrasing, seeking to eliminate the tension and inhibition of breath that hampers creativity.

Movement work is designed to encourage relaxation, muscle control, economy of action, strength and flexibility. The goal of both elements is to aid the actor in fully expressing a character through an open, responsive physical instrument.

Prerequisite(s): THTR 161. (3-0 or 3-0)

THTR 180 Integration Forum (0 sem. hrs.)

A seminar for students in all levels of the program, this course is required for all BA in theatre and BFA in acting majors, as well as students involved in productions. The class incorporates analysis and critique of productions viewed, as well as discussion of topical issues in theatre. Particular attention is given to integration of faith and art and preparation for a life in the theatre.

NB: Attendance at theatre performances is required.

Prerequisite(s): None. (0-0 or 0-0)

THTR 210 Technical Theatre (3 sem. hrs.)

An introduction to the theories, techniques, tools, and materials of many of the areas of technical theatre. Areas covered include theatre organization, architecture, shops, stage equipment, scenery, props, lighting, sound, costumes, makeup, technical direction, and stage management.

Practical projects are assigned in many of these technical areas. Students are required to work in a technical capacity for theatre department productions.

NB: This course is for students in the theatre major, concentration, and minor programs; others by permission.

Prerequisite(s): THTR 101 or 102. (0-0; 3-0)

THTR 261 Acting II: Scene Study (3 sem. hrs.)

Students apply principles learned in THTR 161 and THTR 162 to the preparation and presentation of scenes from contemporary plays. Script analysis, character development, subtext, action, and objective are explored through personalized coaching.

NB: Attendance at theatre performances is required.

Prerequisite(s): THTR 161, 162. (3-0; 0-0)

THTR 262 Acting II: Advanced Scene Study (3 sem. hrs.)

A continuation of THTR 261, students work to access and express the emotional lives of characters through natural, truthful behaviour.

NB: Attendance at theatre performances is required.

Prerequisite(s): THTR 161, 162; 261. (0-0; 3-0)

THTR 275 Voice and Movement II (3 sem. hrs.)

A continuation of the work begun in THTR 175, this course encourages students to further develop their physical and vocal instruments, seeking deeper exploration and more creative expression.

NB: Attendance at theatre performances is required.

Prerequisite(s): THTR 161, THTR 175. (3-0 or 3-0)

THTR 290 Introductory Special Topics in Theatre (3 sem. hrs.)

Topics vary from year to year.

Prerequisite(s): Vary depending on topic.

THTR 314 Stage Lighting (3 sem. hrs.)

The study of lighting theory and practice for the stage: fundamentals of light, basics of electricity, lighting equipment and its use, historical overview of lighting for theatre productions, examination of current lighting methodology, introduction to lighting design. This course is two hours of lecture and four hours of lab each week.

NB: Not offered every year. See department chair.

Prerequisite(s): THTR 210, THTR 130, and permission of the instructor. (2-4 or 2-4)

THTR 315 Theatrical Design (3 sem. hrs.)

An introduction to the principles of design and their application for the theatre. Includes: (1) play analysis focusing on visual and spatial design requirements; (2) research into period styles as well as practise in adapting and recreating styles for the stage; and; (3) drawing, mechanical drafting, painting, and model making. Attendance at outside performances may be required.

NB: Not offered every year. See department chair.

Prerequisite(s): THTR 210, 130. (2-4 or 2-4)

THTR 321 Directing (3 sem. hrs.)

A study of the art and practice of directing, this course begins with an understanding of the director's role and an appreciation for the traits of successful directors. Students read basic directing theory, analyze play scripts, direct scenes, and critique the work of other directors. Activities are designed to develop students' communication and conceptualization skills, aesthetic sense, and critical faculties. Students have opportunity to observe directors at work and to attend guest lectures by professional directors.

NB: Attendance at theatre performances is required.

Prerequisite(s): THTR 130, 162, 210 and upper level standing; or instructor's consent. (3-0; 0-0)

THTR 325 Playwriting (3 sem. hrs.)

A course in the art of structuring action and dialogue for the stage. Students study dramatic theory, and workshop an original one-act play to be submitted by the end of term. Plays from the class may be selected for staged readings.

NB: Attendance at theatre performances is required.

Cross-listed: MCOM 362.

Prerequisite(s): ENGL 103, 104.

University Preparation

MYTW 101 Introduction to University: Gateway to University Success (1 sem. hr.)

This course, available to new students each semester, is designed to help first year students transition to university by imparting some of the knowledge, skills, and attitudes requisite for success in university study. About half of the one-hour per week sessions are devoted to large group presentations, while the remainder consists of small group sessions led by third and fourth year students. Topics include: orientation activities, goal setting, personal strength inventories, study skills development, choice of a major, stress management, academic planning, and the sustainment of spiritual vitality in a Christian context.

NB: MYTW 101 is mandatory for all full-time (i.e., 12 sem. hrs. or more) students entering TWU with fewer than 27 sem. hrs. of credit.

Prerequisite(s): None. (1-0 or 1-0)

UNIV 110 Scholarly Inquiry and Research Methods (2 sem. hrs.)

Introduction to the skills and tools of information research in a high tech environment, beginning with topic analysis and ending with a sound, analytical research report. Emphasis is placed on development of critical thinking strategies, within the conventions of scholarly inquiry that are transferable to most information tasks. Skills developed through this course will have marketplace application.

Prerequisite(s): None.

UNIV 302 Recognition of Prior Learning (1 sem. hr.)

This course is the first step in an educational process designed to facilitate the review of prior experiential learning for the purpose of awarding appropriate academic credit. The educational process culminates with the completion of a learning portfolio. The portfolio is the means by which academic assessors determine what has been learned through non-traditional or non-formal education settings, and what credit, if any, should be awarded for the learning demonstrated.

Prerequisite(s): None.

Writing

WRTG 100 Writing in the University Context (3 sem. hrs.)

This course is designed to improve the reading, writing, and critical thinking skills of students whose first language is English. Students are required to read an array of essays, discuss them critically, and write papers analyzing the structure and content of these essays.

Prerequisite(s): None. (3-0; 3-0)

WRTG 101 Writing and Culture (3 sem. hrs.)

A preparatory course in academic writing, focusing on academic conventions, scholarly vocabulary and tone, and the development of cohesive arguments across the disciplines. While the tasks and assignments emphasize writing skills, the course also facilitates the growth of critical thinking skills through the thematic study of North American and Christian culture. This course is designed for students who have come from international contexts.

Prerequisite(s): None. (3-0; 3-0)

Student Life Programs

Trinity Western University provides a wide variety of opportunities to enable students to assume ownership for their success. These learning-focused opportunities are integral to a student's development as "godly Christian leaders: positive, goal-oriented university graduates with thoroughly Christian minds; growing disciples of Jesus Christ who glorify God through fulfilling the Great Commission; serving God and people in the various marketplaces of life" (TWU mission statement).

Students who choose to connect with academic and social support structures at the University early in their academic career are more likely to graduate. Student engagement with peers, professors, course work, programs, services, and activities of interest have been proven to contribute to a more rewarding university experience.

Student Life's educational mandate is to challenge and assist students in exploring and developing all God has created them to be. TWU strives to see its students engaged in all aspects of campus life and beyond. As part of the educational enterprise, Student Life's classroom is diverse and includes the:

- residence hall where uniqueness and differences expand horizons
- study lab where academic exploration is rigorously pursued
- intramural court where sportsmanship and fitness are encouraged
- collegium where a commuter student journeys with fellow peers, staff, and faculty
- service trip to an inner-city mission where poverty can be understood

- counselling office where a healthy picture of one's self emerges
- leadership practicum where skills are honed to influence others towards growth
- Habitat for Humanity trip where one is called to help those in need chapel where one finds solace in praising God with other voices

The Student Life Office

Mission, Role and Process

Mission

In support of TWU's mission, Student Life seeks to "develop unmistakable disciples of Jesus Christ, students with integrity, who are prepared to influence their world as servant leaders, able to model healthy relationships and lifestyle, ready to demonstrate commitment to the Scriptures, and eager to participate in lifelong learning." Role The holistic development of students is an integral component of the TWU educational experience. To this end, the programs and services of Student Life serve an intentional, educational, and remedial mandate defined by the mission of the University. Student Life seeks to have students grow in their experience of what it means from a Christian worldview to be a disciple, a servant leader, a contributing member of community, a well and balanced person, and to have a sense of life calling that finds expression in their career development. To facilitate this growth, Student Life provides educational programs, professional services, and ongoing research and assessment that enhance educational environments and engage students with empowering messages, accessible role models, experiences, and relationships designed to enable students to reflectively consider their experience from a solution-focused perspective.

Process

For Student Life, having a mission is important, but without an understanding of the process involved these noble aspirations remain on paper and unrealized in the lives of students. In “developing godly Christian leaders” who will be “unmistakable disciples of Jesus Christ,” Student Life staff has chosen a process with five elements.

Student Life staff seek to expose every student to:

- Life Opportunities. Involvement in Student Life programs develops valuable skills for the work place and community. Students are challenged to be godly leaders with thoughtful Christian perspectives on what it means to lead through serving others.
- Life Examples. Students encounter genuine role models of the Christian faith in TWU staff, faculty, and guest speakers—people who understand and demonstrate God’s grace.
- Life Emotions. Students are free to explore their emotions, faith, and hopes, sharing who they are with others whether it is in small groups, in the classroom, or one on one.

- Life Messages. Interaction with faculty, chapel speakers, and staff provides students with a better understanding of who God is, what it means to be a disciple, what it means to be a leader, and what it means to have a sense of one’s life calling.
- Life Solutions. Students are encouraged to approach life situations with a solution-focused orientation. They are challenged to understand problems from the perspective of solutions rather than simply analyzing the factors that led to the situation.

To accomplish its mission, Student Life employs this process through several educational functions.

Educational Functions of Student Life

- Student Life actively engages in:
- Discipleship development—pursuing godly character
- Leadership development—making a difference through positive influence
- Life calling and career development—exploring identity, purpose, and direction
- Living in community—preparing to be a responsible global citizen
- Personal wellness—establishing purpose, balance, congruence, and sustainability
- Equity of access—promoting access for all
- Research and evaluation—assessing and improving student experience
- Transition and retention—engaging with and succeeding at TWU

The departments and centres within Student Life are arranged around these educational functions. Some functions are shared equally by all Student Life staff (e.g. leadership development) while others reside in a particular department (e.g. Equity of Access).

Student Success Centre

The Student Success Centre provides intentionally designed programs and resources that enhance the students' ability to set goals, to persist academically, to develop skills and to establish informed decision-making practices based on a Christian worldview.

The Student Success Centre includes the following functions:

- Academic Advising
- Academic Coaching and Learning Resources
- Career Development Office
- Career Experience and Student Campus Employment
- Disabilities and Equity of Access
- Writing Centre

Resources can be accessed online at twu.ca/life/success/.

Career Development Office

Mary Ellen Kuehl, Director, Career Development Office

The purpose of the Career Development Office (CDO) is to assist students and alumni as they make informed educational and career decisions. A variety of assessments are used that focus on values, interests, personality, and skills. Individual appointments and workshops are complimentary for TWU students and alumni. A nominal fee is charged for some of the assessments.

The Career Development Office achieves this purpose through offering the opportunity to discover one's sense of life calling. Research conducted by the CDO has shown that the three pillars around discovering one's life calling are:

- Identity: Who am I?
- Direction: Where am I going?
- Purpose: Why am I here?

Services offered through the Career Development Office are:

- Career advising
- Choosing and/or confirming an academic major
- Career direction
- Grad School

Employment Coaching

- Resume critiques
- Mock interviews
- Job search
- Personal statement editing for grad school applications

Cooperative Education

- Internships
- Volunteering
- Student Campus Employment

The Career Development Office is available to participate in this journey by assisting students through the process of self-discovery.

The Norma Marion Alloway Library

As the university's key gateway to the global information and research environment, the Norma Marion Alloway Library provides services and resources that enable users to achieve their research goals, to navigate knowledge sources effectively and wisely, and to pursue a life-long dedication to learning. The Alloway Library is a 40,000 square foot building located on the main TWU campus. With more than 225,000 print and 250,000 electronic holdings, the Library serves the campus community with 83+ hours of service per week. The Alloway Library has over 400 study spots on 3 floors including 14 study rooms for small group work. Both virtual and face-to-face research assistance are available for TWU faculty, staff, students as well as community at large. The building has wireless internet for laptop users and 29 computer terminals. The Library is a member of a number of provincial and national library consortia (e.g., AskAway, BC ELN, e-Hlbc, COPPUL and CRKN).
